EIGHTH REVISED EDITION

LEIPSIC: KARL BAEDEKER, PUBLISHER. LONDON: DULAU AND CO., 37 SOHO SQUARE, W.

'Go, little book, God send thee good passage, And specially let this be thy prayere, Unto them all that thee will read or hear, Where thou art wrong, after their help to call, Thee to correct in any part or all.'

PREFACE.

The Handbook for Southern Germany, which is now issued for the eighth time, and corresponds with the twenty-fifth German edition, is designed to assist the traveller in planning his tour and disposing of his time to the best advantage, to render him as far as possible independent of the services of hotel-keepers, commissionnaires, and guides, and thus to enable him the more thoroughly to enjoy and appreciate the objects of interest he meets with on his tour.

The Handbook has been compiled almost entirely from the personal observation of the Editor, and most of the country described has been repeatedly explored by him with a view to procure the latest possible information; but, as many of the data in the Handbook relate to matters which are constantly undergoing alteration, he will highly appreciate any corrections or suggestions with which travellers may favour him. Those already received, which in many instances have proved most useful, he gratefully acknowledges.

In previous issues of the Handbook, Southern Germany was combined in one volume with Austria, but the two countries will henceforth appear separately. In the present volume special attention has been devoted to the art-treasures of Munich and other large cities; and it is believed that the introductory article upon South German art, by the late Professor Anton Springer, will be welcome to many travellers. The Alpine tourist will find the mountainous districts more fully described in the Handbook to the Eastern Alps. For Baden, Alsace, Lorraine, and Rhenish Bavaria the traveller is referred to the Handbook to the Rhine.

The MAPS and PLANS, on which special care has been bestowed, will, it is hoped, render material service to the traveller in planning his tour.

TIME TABLES. Information as to the departure of trains, steamboats, and diligences is seldom to be relied upon unless obtained from local sources. Full and accurate time-tables are contained in the 'Reichs-Kursbuch', published at Berlin, and in 'Hendschel's Telegraph', published at Frankfort on the Main, both of which are issued monthly in summer.

DISTANCES by road are given approximately in English miles; but in the case of mountain-excursions they are expressed by the time in which they can be accomplished by average walkers. Heights are given in English feet (1 Engl. ft. = 0,3048 mètre = 0,938 Parisian ft. = 0,971 Prussian ft.), and the POPULATIONS from data furnished by the most recent census.

Hotels. The Editor has endeavoured to enumerate, not only the first-class hotels, but others of a less pretending kind, which may be safely selected by the 'voyageur en garçon', with little sacrifice of comfort, and great saving of expenditure. Hotel-charges, as well as carriage-fares and fees to guides, are liable to frequent variation, and generally have a strong upward tendency; but these items, as stated in the Handbook either from the personal experience of the Editor or from data furnished by numerous correspondents, will at least afford the traveller an approximate idea of his expenditure. Those hotels which the Editor has reason to believe good of their class are distinguished by an asterisk, but he does not doubt that equal excellence may often be found in hotels that are unstarred and even unmentioned.

To hotel-keepers, tradesmen, and others the Editor begs to intimate that a character for fair dealing towards travellers forms the sole passport to his commendation, and that advertisements of every kind are strictly excluded from his Handbooks. Hotel-keepers are also warned against persons representing themselves as agents for Baedeker's Handbooks.

INTRODUCTION.

I. Language. Money.

LANGUAGE. A slight acquaintance with German is very desirable for travellers who purpose exploring the more remote districts of Southern Germany. Those who do not deviate from the beaten track will generally find that English or French is spoken at the principal hotels and the usual resorts of strangers. But those who are entirely ignorant of the language must be prepared frequently to submit to the extortions practised by commissionnaires, waiters, cab-drivers, etc., which even the data furnished by the Handbook will not always enable them to avoid.

Money. The German mark (M), which is nearly equivalent to the English shilling, is divided into 100 pfennigs. Banknotes of 5, 20, and 50 M are issued by the German Imperial Bank ('Deutsche Reichsbank'), and others of 100, 500, and 1000 M by the Imperial Bank and by twelve other banks which possess the privilege. The current gold coins are pieces of 10 ('Krone') and of 20 marks ('Doppelkrone'), the intrinsic value of which is slightly lower than that of the English half-sovereign and sovereign (1 l. being worth about 20 M 43 pf.). The paper currency is of the same value as the precious metals. The silver coins are pieces of 5, 3 (the old thaler or dollar), 2, 1, \(^1/_2\) (50 pf.), and \(^1/_5\) mark (20 pf.). In nickel there are coins of 10 and 5 pfennigs (groschen and half-groschen), and in copper there are pieces of 2 and 1 pfennig.

English sovereigns and banknotes may be exchanged at all the principal towns in Germany, and Napoleons are also favourably received (20 fr. = 16s. = 16 M 20 pf., and often a few pfennigs more). Those who travel with large sums should carry them in the form of circular notes (issued by the chief British and American banks), rather than in banknotes or gold, as the value of circular notes, if lost or stolen, is recoverable.

The expense of a tour in Southern Germany depends, of course, on a great variety of circumstances. It may, however, be stated generally that travelling in this region is less expensive than in most other European countries. The modest pedestrian, who knows something of the language, and avoids the beaten track of ordinary tourists as much as possible, may succeed in limiting his expenditure to 8-10s. per diem. Those, on the other hand, who prefer driving to walking, frequent hotels of the highest class, and employ guides, commissionnaires, etc., must be prepared to expend 25-30s. daily.

II. Passports and Custom Houses.

Passports are now unnecessary in Germany, as in most of the other countries of Europe, but they are frequently serviceable in proving the identity of the traveller, procuring admission to collections, and obtaining delivery of registered letters. The following are the principal passport-agents in London: Lee and Carter, 440 West Strand; E. Stanford, 55 Charing Cross; W. J. Adams, 59 Fleet Street; C. Smith & Son, 63 Charing Cross (charge 2s.; agent's fee 1s. 6d.).

CUSTOM HOUSE formalities are now almost everywhere lenient. As a rule, however, articles purchased during the journey, which are not destined for personal use, should be declared at the frontier.

III. Conveyances.

RAILWAY TRAVELLING in Germany is less expensive than in most other parts of Europe, and the carriages are generally clean and comfortable. The second-class carriages, furnished with spring-seats, are sometimes as good as those of the first class in England. The first-class carriages, lined with velvet, are comparatively little used, but are recommended to the lover of fresh air, as he will be more likely to secure a seat next to the window. The third-class travelling community is generally quiet and respectable, but the carriages are generally very poor. On a few railways there is even a fourth class, unprovided with seats. Smoking is allowed in all the carriages, except those 'Für Nichtraucher' and the coupés for ladies. The average fares for the different classes in S. Germany are 13/5 d., 11/5 d., and 4/5 d. per Engl. M. respectively. The speed seldom exceeds 25 M, per hour, and as the railways are generally well organised and under the immediate supervision of government, accidents are very rare. On many lines 20-50 lbs. of luggage are free, in addition to smaller articles carried in the hand. Over-weight is charged for at moderate rates. In all cases the heavier luggage must be booked, and a ticket procured for it. This being done, the traveller need not look after his luggage till he arrives at his final destination, where it will be kept in safe custody, generally gratis for the first day or two, until he presents his ticket. When a frontier has to be crossed, the traveller is strongly recommended to take his luggage with him, and to superintend the custom-house examination in person. If luggage be sent across a frontier by goods-train or diligence, the keys must be sent along with it, as otherwise it will be detained at the custom-house; but the pecuniary saving effected by such a course is far outweighed by the risk of vexatious delays, pilferage, and damage, for which it is difficult or impossible to obtain redress.

The enormous weight of the trunks used by some travellers not unfrequently inflicts serious injury on the hotel and railway porters who have to handle them. Travellers are therefore urged to place their heavy articles in the smaller packages and thus minimize the evil as far as possible.

DILIGENCES generally carry three passengers only, two in the intérieur, and one in the coupé. As the latter alone affords a tolerable survey of the scenery, it should if possible be secured in good time. In much-frequented districts it is frequently engaged several days beforehand. The guards, who are often retired non-commissioned officers, are generally well-informed and obliging. The usual amount of luggage carried free by the diligence does not exceed 20-30 lbs., over-weight being charged for by tariff. Passengers are required to book their luggage two hours before the time of starting, and sometimes even on the previous evening; but these rules are seldom rigidly enforced. An 'extra-post' conveyance for one or more persons may generally be obtained on application at the post-offices. The average tariff is 50 pf. (6d.) per mile for 1-2, and 1 M (1s.) per mile for 3-4 persons. Private conveyances may be hired at the rate of 10-15 M for a one-horse, 12-25 M for a twohorse carriage per diem.

IV. Excursions on Foot.

The pedestrian is unquestionably the most independent of travellers, and to him alone the beautiful scenery of some of the more remote districts is accessible. For a short tour a couple of flannel shirts, a pair of worsted stockings, slippers, the articles of the toilette, a light waterproof, and a stout umbrella will generally be found a sufficient equipment. Strong and well-tried boots are essential to comfort. Heavy and complicated knapsacks should be avoided; a light pouch or game-bag is far less irksome, and its position may be shifted at pleasure. A more extensive reserve of clothing should not exceed the limits of a small portmanteau, which can be easily wielded, and may be forwarded from town to town by post.

Southern Germany comprises many attractive and picturesque districts, such as the Swabian Alb (R. 11), the Fichtelgebirge (R. 18), Franconian Switzerland (R. 19), and the Bavarian Forest (R. 43). The student of art is strongly recommended to visit Munich, Nuremberg, and Stuttgart. By consulting the Handbook the traveller will discover many other interesting places, whether the object of his tour be amusement or instruction.

V. Hotels.

Little variation occurs in the accommodation and charges of first-class hotels in the principal towns and watering-places throughout Germany; but it frequently happens that in old-fashioned hotels of unassuming exterior the traveller finds as much real comfort as in the modern establishments, while the charges are lower. The best houses of both descriptions are therefore enumerated.

Where the traveller remains for a week or more at a hotel, it is advisable to pay, or at least call for, his account every two or three days, in order that errors may be at once detected. Verbal reckonings are objectionable. A waiter's arithmetic is faulty, and his mistakes are seldom in favour of the traveller. It is also objectionable to delay paying one's bill till the last moment, when errors or wilful impositions must be submitted to for want of time to investigate them. Those who intend starting early in the morning will do well to ask for their bills on the previous evening.

Pedestrians and travellers of moderate requirements will find the country inns in Southern Germany very reasonable, 5-6s. a day being generally sufficient to include every item.

Hotel-keepers who wish to commend their houses to British and American travellers are reminded of the desirability of providing the bedrooms with large basins, foot-baths, plenty of water, and an adequate supply of towels. Great care should be taken to ensure that the sanitary arrangements are in proper order, including a strong flush of water and proper toilette-paper; and no house that is deficient in this respect can rank as first-class or receive a star of commendation, whatever may be its excellencies in other departments.

The word Pension is used in the Handbook as including board, lodging, and attendance.

omn. = omnibus.

English travellers often give trouble by ordering things almost unknown in German usage; and they are apt to become involved in disputes owing to their ignorance of the language. They should therefore endeavour to acquire enough of the language to render them intelligible to the servants, and should try to conform as far as possible to the habits of the country. For this purpose Baedeker's 'Conversation Dictionary' (in four languages; 3 M) and 'Traveller's Manual of Conversation' (3 M) will be found useful.

Valets-de-place generally charge 2-3 $\mathcal M$ for half-a-day, and $3^1/_2$ -5 $\mathcal M$ for a whole day.

South German Art.

A Historical Sketch by Professor Anton Springer.

It is neither the function nor the intention of the following sketch to divert the traveller's attention from the beauties of nature and to direct it instead to the study of art. But the great cities of Southern Germany, whether they be the express object of the traveller's journey or his temporary resting-places on his way elsewhere. cannot fail of themselves to inspire him with some interest in the art both of the present and of the past; while at numerous other points his glance is arrested and his attention excited by ancient or modern monuments of art. Interest in such things has widened and deepened to a surprizing extent within recent times. A few decades ago old-fashioned German furniture was ignored, and German buildings of the 16th and 17th centuries were for the most part passed with a contemptuous shrug. Now the 'German Renaissance' is a theme of admiration and an object for eager imitation. a few mediæval cathedrals received the meed of general admiration or passed muster as true works of artistic genius, while the overwhelming majority of mediæval works remained unknown and unregarded. Now hardly anyone is either wholly indifferent to or wholly ignorant of the development of art in the middle ages. The cultivation of the historic sense has largely affected the æsthetic attitude in this direction, swelling the aggregate of artistic interest and bringing the more remote periods within the limits of intelligent comprehension. It is the object of the following lines to support and extend this historic sense.

The civilization and art of Southern Germany reach back to a very early period; they antedate by a thousand years the entrance of the North German lands into the light of authentic history. Numerous excavations have yielded traces of an early intercourse with Italy, carried on to some extent before the Christian era; and not less numerous traces have been found of the Roman settlements that were established along the great trade-routes and waterways, though these Roman discoveries are far inferior both in extent and importance to those in the valley of the Moselle and elsewhere on the left bank of the Rhine. The Roman remains at Trèves appeal to the imagination of the ordinary traveller, while the Roman remains in Noricum and Rhætia arrest the attention of the archæologist only. Christianity early made its way into Southern Germany (St. Severinus; 5th cent.), and Frank and Irish missionaries reaped a rich harvest. Convent after convent was founded; and there is probably no other district where monastic establishments were so thickly planted about the close of the 10th cent., as the banks of the Danube, at the foot of the Alps. Most of these preserved their celebrity and their wealth almost down to the present century, though their importance as art-monuments has in many instances disappeared with the substitution of new buildings for old ones. No considerable art-monuments have come down to us even from the Carlovingian period, which saw the beginning of Ratisbon's importance, except in the domains of the goldsmith's craft and miniature-painting. The Reiche Capelle at Munich contains the finest specimens of the former, the libraries at Munich and Vienna of the latter.

The unbroken chain of artistic activity begins for us about the 10th century. The art-style which prevailed from the 10th to the 13th cent. is generally known as the ROMANESQUE. Its characteristics find their most distinct expression in ecclesiastical architecture. The plan of the Romanesque church was suggested by the Roman basilica of early-Christian times, the essence of which consisted in an oblong hall, divided into three aisles by two rows of columns. At one end of the basilica was a semicircular vaulted recess. known as the Apsis; at the other end was a fore-court (Atrium), enclosed by a portico. Occasionally a transept was interposed between the three-aisled nave and the apse, and thus the whole building gradually assumed the clearly marked form of a cross. In the course of centuries and in different countries this early-Christian nucleus underwent numerous modifications, some due to the use of new building materials, some to peculiarities of national customs, but most to the at first slowly growing improvement in technical skill. It is apparent from the earliest Romanesque edifices, that their builders had difficulty in rising to the demands of their task, and that they had but scanty . notions of measure and proportion. Romanesque architecture did not attain an artistic perfection until the 12th century.

It is not difficult to identify a Romanesque building and at the same time to decide with some certainty whether it belongs to the earlier or later period (i.e. 11th or 12th cent.). The characteristic forms of the Romanesque style are everywhere essentially the same. The round arch is used to unite the interior pillars or columns, to finish off windows and portals, and to form a continuous frieze on the exterior wall; the columns have either cubical capitals or foliage-capitals modelled on the antique; the ornamentation is predominantly either in the geometric style (lozenges; zigzags; checker-work) or of conventionalized foliage. In the earlier churches vaulting is used only for the crypt, the burial vaults, and the apse, while the nave has a flat roof; but by the 12th cent. we find the vault-principle triumphant, while the supporting pillars are also more richly articulated. At the foot of the columns appears the base-ornament, uniting the plinth with the torus of the base.

Though it is thus easy to recognize the general Romanesque character of a building, there are no sufficiently distinctive peculiarities to differentiate the style prevailing in Southern Germany from that prevailing elsewhere. Even when we confine ourselves to narrowed limits and enquire whether the Romanesque buildings in Southern Germany could be classified into Alemannic, Swabian, Bavarian, and Austrian groups, we arrive at no satisfactory result. All that we can say is that columns are frequently used to support the upper walls (this form being known as the columned basilica) and that there is a frequent tendency towards a richly decorative, and even fantastic arrangement of the interior fittings. No traveller in the neighbourhood of the Lake of Constance should omit to visit the three churches on the island of Reichenau (p. 55); that at Oberzell, a small columned basilica, dates back to the 10th cent.; while the larger church at Mittelzell is probably one of the oldest pillarbasilicas in the district. The church of the former Benedictine abbey of Alpirsbach (p. 39) in the Kinzig-Thal, founded in the 11th cent.. surprizes us by its stately proportions and the perspicuous development of the ground-plan; while another Swabian church, at Maulbronn (p. 15), is an excellent specimen of a large, mediæval conventual edifice. Ratisbon (p. 119) is rich in Romanesque buildings, including the Cathedral, the Obermünster, the Schottenkirche, and the church of St. Emmeram. Several of these have been sadly disfigured by later decorations; and, indeed, the true Romanesque nucleus of many churches can only with difficulty be disentangled from later alterations. The meaning of the chaotic plastic embellishments on the portal of the Schottenkirche will probably excite the curiosity of the ordinary traveller even less than the sculptures in the spacious crypt of Freising Cathedral (p. 136), which are, at any rate, decorative in their general effect.

The churches above mentioned, some of which lie quite off the main lines of communication, appeal on the whole mainly to the professional archæologist or architect. There is, however, at least one Romanesque church in Southern Germany which will excite the warm admiration of the tourist and yield him unqualified delight viz. the Cathedral of Bamberg (p. 77). The plan of this church includes a nave and aisles, an elevated choir at each end with a crypt below, and a transept between the W. choir and the nave. In comparison with other buildings in the same style it takes a preëminent place by its imposing dimensions, by its spacious, airy, and harmonious proportions, by the elaborate ornamentation of its portals (Fürstenthor), and by the number and variety of its towers. The occurrence of the pointed arch must not mislead the visitor into the error of taking it as a sign of the admixture of Gothic elements. The Gothic style is not characterized by the pointed arch, which was also used in earlier times, but by its system of buttresses to counteract the thrust of the vaulting, by its abundant use of articulation, and by the rich ornamentation applied to wall-surfaces and other non-constructive portions of the building.

satisfaction. The greatest activity took place in Southern Germany and Austria, and those who can overcome their dislike on general grounds to the BAROQUE STYLE will find here many and varied proofs of a renewed interest in art. In Italy a decided revolution in architecture had taken place towards the close of the 16th century. While the individual Renaissance forms were retained, a new spirit was apparent in their embodiment and combination. The old and genuine Renaissance style seemed too cold and too simple, and not sufficiently effective. The architectural members were made coarser and more massive, the straight line was replaced by curves, the help of light and shade was appealed to. The façade assumes a curved form: columns are moved towards the front and draw the entire entablature with them; gables and cornices are made to project strongly; the profiles are more accentuated; ornamentation is used to an exaggerated extent, almost obscuring the constructive elements. This baroque style. which is at bottom closely akin to the contemporary mannerism and the increased realism in painting and sculpture, soon found acceptance in Southern Germany. We see it in the numerous churches and convents that were rebuilt with increased magnificence after the close of the Thirty Years' War; and we likewise see it in all its pomp, but also with all its weaknesses, in the numerous palaces built between 1680 and 1740. The Palace of Versailles is imitated in a few cases only (Nymphenburg, Mannheim); the predominant style is the Italian baroque, especially as it had been developed by Borromini. Excellent examples of the baroque style are found in Würzburg, Munich. Vienna, and especially at Prague, where the traveller may go through a complete course in baroque architecture and become familiar with all its peculiarities.

Architecture became practically paralysed about the middle of last century in consequence of the wars between Prussia and Austria. On the other hand an attempt was made, without much success, to revive the art of painting by the foundation of academies at Vienna and Stuttgart (Karlsschule). At the beginning of the present century the young artists of Germany had still to make the pilgrimage to Rome in order to train their eye and taste and to enkindle their imagination before the works of classical and old Italian art. More recent events must be passed over with a word. In the reign of King Lewis I. Munich won a European reputation as a school of art through the creations of Cornelius and his associates; and after a period of stagnation about the middle of the century it has again reached a position of great importance. Vienna has been specially distinguished for its successes in architecture, while Stuttgart enjoys a well-merited renown in the domain of industrial art.

plication of metal to monumental works is of comparatively late introduction; hence in this sphere the deviation from the mediæval style is most striking, while in works of marble, stone, and wood suggestions of Gothic art may be traced even in the 16th century. Sculptures in stone and wood continue to be decidedly the most popular branches of a t. Wood-carving was diligently practised from the earliest times in such Alpine districts as Ammergau, while the woodcarvers of the great towns of Southern Germany also found ample employment in the preparation of large altars, choir-stalls, and the like. The sculptures on the altars were usually painted. This polychrome decoration was rendered necessary, partly by the nature of the material, which possessed no rich colouring of its own. and partly by the immediate neighbourhood of the pictures, which were generally added as wings to the carved centre of the altar. Altars of this kind may be studied either in museums (Bavarian National Museum at Munich, Germanic Museum at Nuremberg), or in their original positions at Rothenburg, Blaubeuren, Gmünd, St. Wolfgang, and many other places. A few of their artists are still known by name. The two most important are Jörg Syrlin, first heard of in 1458 and the creator of the choir-stalls of the Minster of Ulm, and Veit Stoss of Cracow (? 1438-1532), who is known to us by his works in Nuremberg, produced almost wholly towards the close of a long life. Ulm and Nuremberg, and next to them Augsburg, are the chief centres of South German art in the 15th and 16th centuries. But this by no means implies that the other free towns of the empire neglected the pursuit of art. On the contrary, local research is constantly adding new names to the artistic roll of honour. It is, however, only in the three towns named that we find anything like schools of art or an artistic activity of more than local interest. The chief painter at Ulm was Bartholomäus Zeitblom, the son-in-law of the venerable Hans Schuelein. He flourished in 1484-1517, and his works, which may be seen in the galleries of Stuttgart and Augsburg and the Pinakothek of Munich, are distinguished by the clearness and vigour of their colouring, though the drawing is hard and the types of his heads unpleasing and deficient in variety. Of his pictures, as of early-German paintings in general, it may be asserted that the colouring is their strongest point, even though lacking in a delicate graduation of tone. They also succeed better with individual figures and quiet groups than with dramatic situations, the representation of which often led to exaggerated effects and the admixture of coarsely realistic traits.

The Augsburg school is best represented by Hans Burgkmair (1473-1531), a master gifted with a fine sense for landscape beauty, and by Holbein the Elder (1460-1524). The latter in especial, now that a number of works formerly ascribed to his son have been accredited to him, ranks among the most interesting of early-German painters. His professional activity may be traced from the last decade of the 15th century onwards. For a considerable time his personal gifts do not help him to transcend the limits of the prevailing style. Eeven his Madonnas and women are lacking in charm: in emotional scenes, such as the Passion, a tendency to the coarse and common is apparent. [This early manner of the painter is best studied at the Augsburg gallery. It was not till towards the end of his career — and so far we have not material enough to trace the intermediate development — that the elder Holbein produced in the Altar of St. Sebastian (Munich Pinakothek) a work that placed him far above all his contemporaries. He has learned to use the new graces borrowed from Italy. he endues his women's heads with elegance and charm, he models the nude with surprizing accuracy, he exhibits a vigorous realism restrained within due bounds. With the completion of this work in 1516 he disappears from the scene; and the only later information hat we possess about him is the news of his death in Alsace some time before 1526. The works of his son Hans Holbein the Younger (1497-1543) cannot be effectively studied except at Bâle, to which he migrated at an early age, and in England, where he spent the latter part of his life. The South German galleries, however, contain a few fine examples of his talent. Thus, at Darmstadt is the Madonna of Burgomaster Meyer, the original of the celebrated picture at Dresden; and in the Pinakothek of Munich are two fine portraits.

The picture presented by the old, art-loving city of Nuremberg is one that takes by storm the fancy of all. Poets and romance-writers have celebrated the life and activity of the town in trade and industry, science and art, and the spirit of its people, easily moved to love or hate; and they, perhaps, exaggerated its importance as the beau ideal of a mediæval city. As a matter of fact its artistic activity began at the close of the mediæval period, and it was in the 16th century that it reached its zenith. The Nuremberg artists are known far and wide. The names of Michael Wohlgemut, Veit Stoss, Adam Krafft, and Peter Vischer are authoritative even with those who know nothing more of early-German art. Wohlgemut (1434-1519) generally passes as the type of the respectable and conscientious painter, who practises his art with honest simplicity. Later researches have, however, somewhat modified this view and credited Wohlgemut with a more important personality; but this revised judgment applies to him rather in his capacity as engraver than as painter. Adam Krafft, the stone-cutter (ca. 1450-1507), also stands to some extent on the footing of the handicraftsman and follows the tracks of the old tradition. His religious representations (such as the Schreyer Tomb on the outside of St. Sebald's, and the Seven Stations on the way to the Cemetery of St. John) show the regular 15th century mixture of pictorial and plastic elements in the composition, and the usual realistic hardness in the individual figures and in the drapery. A few of the heads only (such as those of the Dead Christ and of the Virgin in the relief of the Seventh Station) are permeated by a finer, personal feeling. He shows himself at his highest degree of freedom from the traditional limitations in the fresh and true relief of the Stadtwage (p. 102) and in the three small and lifelike statuettes that adorn the large late-Gothic ciborium in the church of St. Lawrence. Krafft's works are superior to most of the productions of the other Nuremberg sculptors and their congeners, even to those of the diligent Tilman Riemenschneider (d. 1531) of Würzburg, whose masterpiece is in Bamberg Cathedral (p. 77). The nameless sculptor of the wooden figure of the Praying Virgin (now in the Germanic Museum, p. 106), of whom we know no other work, is, however, superior to Krafft and to all contemporary sculptors. Krafft's art may be thoroughly studied in his native city; and Nuremberg also possesses at least the masterpiece of Peter Vischer (1455-1529), the celebrated bronze-founder (St. Sebald's Monument). The architectural frame-work enshrining the silver coffin of the saint still shows traces of the conflict between Gothic and Renaissance forms. The small figures of children, Prophets, and Apostles, on the other hand, are creations of a free play of fancy, aiming not merely at truth to nature but also at grace and charm or at dignified and measured seriousness. Peter Vischer was afterwards joined in his foundry by his sons; but Nuremberg does not afford adequate examples of his later development or of the ever stronger infusion of the Italian Renaissance in the native style. The Little Goose-Man of Pancraz Labenwolf (1492-1563) is an almost solitary instance of the continued lifelike conception of nature coupled with freshness and naïveté. A visit to Nuremberg is still less satisfactory for a full appreciation of Albrecht Dürer (1471-1528), the greatest of German painters, though the imagination cannot but be pleasantly stimulated by lingering on the spot where he lived and worked. In order to form an adequate judgment of this many-sided master, remarkable alike for the profundity and the richness of his artistic conceptions, we must study not only his wood-cuts and engravings, but also his drawings. The best collection of these last is found in the Albertina at Vienna, a visit to which will intensely interest the serious student of art. The drawings also afford the only means of uninterruptedly tracing Dürer's artistic evolution from his early boyish efforts to the products of his closing years. This cannot be said of his paintings, which are distributed very unequally among the different periods of his life. It is really only twice in his career that his activity in painting is so great as to form the main ground of our judgment of him; the first of these periods was during and immediately after his visit to Venice (1505-09), the second was at the end of his life. From the Venetians he borrowed certain details of composition and learned the secret of his clear, warm, vigorous, and harmonious colouring; in the evening of his days he reached a complete plastic command of the pithy power of characterization visible in all his figures. The South German galleries still contain the most important products of his art. Munich possesses the Paumgärtner Altar, one of his earliest pictures; the portrait of himself, unfortunately retouched, and probably painted somewhat later than the date (1500) on the work itself; and, finally, his masterpiece, the double-panels known as the Four Temperaments (p. 162), with the heads of SS. Peter and John, SS. Paul and Mark. In this work he has, in allusion to the religious disorders of his environment, created four permanent types of Christian character, the corner-stones of the Reform movement; he has given pure and lifelike artistic form to the test and the defence of truth. Of the numerous Dürer treasures once preserved in Nuremberg scarcely one remains. The portrait of Hieronymus Holzschuher (1526), the most perfect portrait we possess from Dürer's hand, formerly in the Germanic Museum, is now at Berlin.

The South German galleries afford abundant opportunity for a study of the painters, who were grouped round Dürer and to some extent influenced by him, such as Hans Schäuffelein (d. 1540), Sebald Beham (ca. 1450), Barthel Beham (d. 1540), Alb. Altdorfer (d. 1538), Hans Baldung Grien (d. 1545), and Christoph Amberger (d. 1562). Numerous specimens of these masters will be found in the Munich Pinakothek and in the galleries of Augsburg, Donaueschingen, and Sigmaringen. Those who have not the leisure or the inclination to study their religious and historical pictures should at least spare a glance for their efforts in portraiture. In this field these masters show to the best advantage their fresh and vigorous observation of nature, unhampered by the prevalent custom of obscuring the main subject by a multiplicity of detail, or by the attempt to create ideal forms without the requisite powers.

A revolution in artistic tendencies is already obvious among the masters last named. The traditional style no longer sufficed. The knowledge of Italian art, fostered by the custom, which grew up towards the end of the 15th century, of the visiting of Italy by northern artists, broke through the old barriers and encouraged the imitation of the new models. This Italian influence, however, did not bring any very desirable fruit to maturity. German masters, like those of the Netherlands, remained essentially Northerners: they studied Italian art but could not assimilate the Italian nature. Though the Italian painters did homage to the ideal in their works, they never disguised their nationality. Even their most idealized creations reveal a direct life which smacks of the soil and the atmosphere. Foreigners could not inspire their paintings with this national trait, and thus, in spite of their personal talents, never advanced beyond the out-works of the Italian style. The race of artists that flourished in the second half of the 16th century stamped the Italian manner still more strongly on their works, aided and abetted in this by the gradual change in the patronage of art. While the earlier form of art was most at home in middle-class circles, various princely patrons of art, such as the Emp. Rudolph II. and the Dukes of Bavaria, now step into the foreground. Wood-cuts still remained popular and were widely circulated in the homes of the people; engravings were chiefly sought as patterns for the metalworker and other artistic handicraftsmen; but painting now solicited the favour of the art-loving courts. In these Italian art, like Italian culture generally, was strongly in the ascendant. Italian artists and Italian works of art began to migrate across the Alps; and thus the native artists, already attracted by the forms of the Renaissance, received a new inducement to perfect themselves in the schools of Rome, Florence, and Venice. It would be unjust to eliminate entirely from the lists of northern artists the names of the Dutch and German masters who followed this course (such as Bartholomäus Spranger, Georg Hufnagel, Christoph Schwarz, Johann van Aken, and Johann Rottenhammer): and some of them have produced works of considerable value, especially as regards technical qualities. But it remains true that, however great may be our desire to make 'historical rescues' by emphasizing their merits, it certainly has not vet gone far enough to induce us to profess unqualified pleasure in the works of these mannerists. Those who take an interest in the subject will find innumerable examples of their art in Vienna and in other Austrian galleries.

The corresponding movement in architecture and the decorative arts has, on the other hand, become of late astonishingly popular. For the last quarter-of-a-century the GERMAN RENAISSANCE has obtained almost universal favour and plays a most important rôle in the national art. Even the layman now shows lively interest in the once unregarded and despised buildings of the German Renaissance, and considers a visitation of them a worthy object for a tour. The name German Renaissance of itself indicates the double root from which the style springs. The German Renaissance could not have come into being without a knowledge of the architecture, which became predominant in Italy through the revived interest in the antique in the 15th century. It borrowed from it the columnar orders, the pilasters, the varieties of cornice, innumerable ornamental motives, and many other details. It seldom, however, sank to a slavish imitation of its Italian models, but remained faithful in many points to its native traditions and tried to combine these harmoniously with the new forms. It is true that the Gothic tracery. mullions, mouldings, and geometrical patterns had to be given up, and that the pointed arch lost its importance. In the constructive parts, however, in the articulation and ground-plan old usages still generally held their ground. The genesis of the German Renaissance is also the best explanation of it. Even in the early years of the 16th century the German painters and engravers had begun to use the graceful schemes of foliage and branches that were characteristic of the Renaissance ornamentation of Italy; and a knowledge of the different orders of architecture, the rules of which were sought in Vitruvius, also quickly penetrated to the N. side of the Alps. The masters of decorative sculpture were the next to adapt themselves to the new Italian style, which we meet on tombstones, screens, fountains, and works in wood and metal. Its latest conquest was in the sphere of architecture, where it at first appears only in the ornamental parts such as doors, windows, and the articulation of wall-surfaces. If the builder wished the work to be erected in a pure Italian style, he had to send for an Italian architect; and many Italians crossed the Alps and made plans, which they left to be executed by native workmen. The traces of this intercourse are distinctly recognizable in the German buildings. It was in the sphere of the handicraftsman that the new movement and the artistic advance found their greatest strength: no wonder that the forms here created attained a universal application and were adopted also by architecture and the monumental arts. As a matter of fact we meet numerous suggestions of metal-work in architectural ornamentation. The lower parts of the shafts of columns appear as if adorned with mountings of metal; in other cases hammered iron-work is imitated or the stone is treated as if it were a soft and elastic material. The lofty gable is a distinct reminiscence of the mediæval house, while the Italian Renaissance is practically destitute of roof-structures: the richly decorated balcony or oriel is also a northern peculiarity. The manner in which the German Renaissance came into existence explains the want of a uniform type or a normal style. It assumes a different character in each different district. The Renaissance in Northern Germany, so brilliantly developed in timber and brick architecture, differs widely from the Renaissance in Southern Germany, where the greater proximity of Italy exercised a stronger influence. This is especially marked in such imposing ecclesiastical edifices as St. Michael's in Munich (p. 190). These buildings, erected under the influence of the order of the Jesuits, bear the stamp impressed by the Jesuits on their buildings in all countries. But the secular buildings also show the influence of the neighbourhood of Italy and of the Italian culture predominant in courts and in aristocratic circles generally. Some buildings are German only through the soil on which they stand. while in style they belong exclusively to the Italian Renaissance; of this number are the so-called Belvedere of Emperor Ferdinand I. at Prague and the Fugger Bath Rooms at Augsburg (p. 116).

The preference for the Italian style is revealed more strongly in the châteaux of the noblesse than in the private buildings of the towns, the free towns of the empire clinging especially to the older traditions. Southern Germany contains a stately series of châteaux, which, in giving up the character of castles and assuming that of palaces, illustrate in the most signal manner the difference between the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. At the head of these stands the Otto-Heinrichs-Bau at Heidelberg, the gem of German castle-architecture, which is remarkable for its harmonious proportions and architectonic articulation and still more for its rich and well thought-out plastic decoration. When the Friedrichsbau was taken in hand a few generations later (1601), the native workmen had already become entirely accustomed to the new style. The ornamentation of the younger building shows clear traces of its Germanic origin. Few of the other princely châteaux can at all compare with that of Heidelberg. The Schloss of Tübingen (p. 37) still suggests the old style of castle-building, while the fresh and somewhat coarse strength of the Renaissance is most strikingly illustrated in the portals. In the Old Palace of Stuttgart (p. 4), the most attractive part is the inner court, with its arcades; but our fancy must lend the colours for a picture of the fitting-up of the now somewhat neglected state-rooms. The constantly increasing power of the Bavarian dukes is mirrore l in the magnificence of their Palace at Munich (p. 145).

It was not always possible to proceed according to a uniform plan. The famous Castle of Landshut (p. 135), for instance, is wholly irregular in plan and shows clear traces of the different periods in which it was built. The decoration of the rooms is mainly entrusted to the painter, - a fact that alone shows the growth of Italian influence. The same tendency is seen more clearly in the New Palace of Landshut (p. 135), the court of which is articulated and decorated exactly in the taste of Italian palaces. A building of great interest is the Old Palace of Munich, erected by Elector Maximilian in 1602-19, planned on an extensive scale, and elaborately adorned with plastic and pictorial ornamentation (the latter now sadly faded). The group of buildings at Prague is, perhaps, the most interesting of the kind on Austrian soil. The new style established itself in the Bohemian capital at an astonishingly early date and maintained itself in comparative purity down to the 17th century. The large loggia on the garden-side of the Wallenstein Palace is the final link of a chain of building activity extending across the whole of the country. In order to give an adequate idea of the German Renaissance, it would be necessary to attempt a full enumeration of the individual buildings, for not only every district, but often each monument in each district, shows peculiarities, the study of which affords genuine pleasure and reveals the wealth of Renaissance art. Now it is a portal, now a balcony, or, again, the arrangement of a court or the fitting-up of a room that especially calls for our admiration.

The lover of the Renaissance is advised not to confine his wanderings to the great cities and the chief lines of communication. The keen eye will discover interesting buildings in almost every parish. Thus the towns and villages of Tyrol contain many, hitherto neglected, examples of the Renaissance. A similar remark may be made about many other buildings, not merely with regard to châteaux and manorhouses but also, and in a still higher degree, with regard to the residences of the ordinary citizen. In most cases, indeed, it will be the bare architecture alone that the connoisseur will have a chance to enjoy; the interior fittings, which add so much to the charm of a Renaissance house and contribute not a little to its comprehension, have invariably disappeared - perhaps to satisfy the recent craving of museums and collectors. The contents of the older industrial museums were mainly drawn from the treasures of the princely collections that came into vogue in the 16th century. The predominant objects were works of the goldsmith and furniture of costly woods, inlaid with ivory and metal. The equipment of the private house of the Renaissance period was, naturally, much more simple. The panelling of the walls found a counterpart in the well-carved cabinets and coffers; the metal utensils were often made of brass, the general appearance of which harmonized admirably with the wooden fittings; the coarse nature of the pottery was disguised by colour, plastic ornamentation, and variety of form. Where the original furnishing is still in place, the eve will easily recognize the perfect harmony subsisting between the interior fittings and the architectural plan, and will see how the house has, as it were, grown from within outwards. A mere sight of the facades is not enough, especially when the Renaissance houses occur sporadically among modern edifices. A better idea is gained from rows of houses, streets, or squares not yet invaded by the modern builder. Nuremberg formerly stood unquestionably at the head of all German Renaissance towns. A number of patrician houses of the 16th and the beginning of the 17th century can, it is true, still be cited; but the general appearance of the town has begun to alter. On the other hand Rothenburg on the Tauber (p. 128), with its Rathhaus, towers, fountains, and well-preserved houses, still presents an almost unimpaired picture of a German town of the Renaissance period. Here, as in most of the free towns of the empire, the details of construction and ornamentation borrowed from the native traditions or directly due to the national spirit are seen in great force, while the Italian influence is much slighter than in the case of palaces and châteaux. It is not till the 17th century that the Italian style becomes predominant in municipal architecture, as in the façade of the Nuremberg Rathhaus and the splendid interior (Goldner Saal) of the Augsburg Rathhaus. Owing, however, to its lively intercourse with Venice, the Italian style found comparatively ready acceptance at Augsburg and had (e.g.) familiarized the Augsburgers with the fashion of painted façades.

The period of the Thirty Years' War sadly interrupted the evolution of German art and broke off many bleeding branches from the tree of German culture. Some departments of art did not recover for two centuries; the once so popular work of the wood-carver was forgotten; painting was but scantily cultivated and sank to a greater dependence on foreign models than ever before. From this calamitous period dates the predominance of the foreigner in all matters of taste. Thus the contemplation of the art-life of Germany in the second half of the 17th and the first half of the 18th century gives but little satisfaction. The greatest activity took place in Southern Germany and Austria, and those who can overcome their dislike on general grounds to the BAROQUE STYLE will find here many and varied proofs of a renewed interest in art. In Italy a decided revolution in architecture had taken place towards the close of the 16th century. While the individual Renaissance forms were retained, a new spirit was apparent in their embodiment and combination. The old and genuine Renaissance style seemed too cold and too simple, and not sufficiently effective. The architectural members were made coarser and more massive, the straight line was replaced by curves, the help of light and shade was appealed to. The facade assumes a curved form; columns are moved towards the front and draw the entire entablature with them; gables and cornices are made to project strongly; the profiles are more accentuated; ornamentation is used to an exaggerated extent, almost obscuring the constructive elements. This baroque style, which is at bottom closely akin to the contemporary mannerism and the increased realism in painting and sculpture, soon found acceptance in Southern Germany. We see it in the numerous churches and convents that were rebuilt with increased magnificence after the close of the Thirty Years' War; and we likewise see it in all its pomp, but also with all its weaknesses, in the numerous palaces built between 1680 and 1740. The Palace of Versailles is imitated in a few cases only (Nymphenburg, Mannheim); the predominant style is the Italian baroque, especially as it had been developed by Borromini. Excellent examples of the baroque style are found in Würzburg, Munich, Vienna, and especially at Prague, where the traveller may go through a complete course in baroque architecture and become familiar with all its peculiarities.

Architecture became practically paralysed about the middle of last century in consequence of the wars between Prussia and Austria. On the other hand an attempt was made, without much success, to revive the art of painting by the foundation of academies at Vienna and Stuttgart (Karlsschule). At the beginning of the present century the young artists of Germany had still to make the pilgrimage to Rome in order to train their eye and taste and to enkindle their imagination before the works of classical and old Italian art. More recent events must be passed over with a word. In the reign of King Lewis I. Munich won a European reputation as a school of art through the creations of Cornelius and his associates; and after a period of stagnation about the middle of the century it has again reached a position of great importance. Vienna has been specially distinguished for its successes in architecture, while Stuttgart enjoys a well-merited renown in the domain of industrial art.

Stuttgart (892 ft.), the capital of Wurtemberg, with 139,660 inhab. (mainly Protestants, and including a garrison of 3200 men), a city of comparatively modern origin, is beautifully situated 2-21/2 M. from the Neckar, and surrounded by picturesque vine-clad and wooded heights. The name first occurs in a charter of 1229; from 1265 to 1325 it was the favourite residence of the counts of Wurtemberg: it became the capital of the country in 1482; and at length, in the reigns of Kings Frederick (1797-1816), William I. (1816-64), and Charles (1864-91), it attained its present dimensions and appearance. In the modern revival of Renaissance forms of art, Stuttgart has taken a prominent part through its numerous talented architects.

The inner town is intersected from S.W. to N.E. by the handsome Königs-Strasse, 3/4 M. in length, formed in part by filling up the old moat. In this street, opposite the Schloss-Platz, rise the Königin-Olga-Bau (Pl. F, 3), erected in 1893-95, and the imposing Königsbau (Pl. E, 3), 440 ft. long and 135 ft. wide, erected by Leins in 1856-60. In front is an Ionic colonnade, broken by two projecting Corinthian porticoes. The lower story contains a café-restaurant (p. 1) and the permanent exhibition of the Kunstgewerbeverein, with the latest achievements of the industrial arts (adm., see p. 2); on the first floor are large concert and ball rooms. - Adjoining the Königsbau is the Palace of the Crown Prince (Pl. E, 4). On the right, farther on, are the Bazaar, the Kanzlei (government-offices), and the 'Ministerium' of the Exterior, or Foreign Office (Pl. E. 4).

The extensive *Schloss-Platz (Pl. E, F, 3, 4) is adorned with a Column, 93 ft. high, erected in 1841 to the memory of King William, and crowned with a Concordia in bronze, 15 ft. high, from a design by Hofer. At the corners of the pedestal are represented the 'Lehrstand', 'Nährstand', 'Wehrstand' (i.e. the teachers, the bread-winners, and the defenders of the country), and Commerce, also by Hofer. The reliefs on the pedestal represent the confirmation of the constitution, the battles of La Fère-Champenoise and Brienne, and the storming of Sens, and are cast in bronze from designs by Wagner. The genii at the base of the two neighbouring fountains, representing the rivers of Wurtemberg, are by Kopp. Opposite rises the Monument of Duke Christopher of Wurtemberg (d. 1568), erected in 1889, adorned with reliefs from his life on the pedestal by Paul Müller. In the grounds to the right is a Marble Bust of Dannecker, by Kurfess (1888), crowned by a genius in bronze. Band on Sunsee. (p. 2).

The new Palace (Pl. E. 3, 4), built in 1746-1807 and unoccupied since the death of the Queen Dowager Olga in 1892, consists of a central building, adorned with a gilded crown, and of two wings, and contains about 360 apartments. The hall, the staircase, and the 'marble', the 'blue', the 'white', and the 'dining' rooms are best worth seeing (adm., see p. 2; entrance in the S.W. wing).

The groundfloor and first floor contain a series of large frescoes by Gegenbaur, executed in 1843-45, chiefly from the history of Count Eberhard im Bart (see below). Among the numerous pictures may be mentioned: Pollak, Oriental woman with carrier-pigeon; E. Stöckler, Lady of the 18th cent. (water-colour). Sculptures: Dannecker, Bacchus, Venus. Few of the others are original works. Then china from the factories of Ludwigsburg and Meissen, Sèvres porcelain presented by Napoleon I., Pompeian antiques, etc. A collection of upwards of 500 Majolica vases of the 16th cent. (from Faenza and Urbino), purchased at Venice in the 18th cent. by Duke Charles Eugene, is not usually shown to visitors.

The N. wing of the palace adjoins the Royal Theatre (Hoftheater; Pl. E, 3). On the E. side of the palace are the Private Royal Stables (Pl. E, 4), and at the end of the Königs-Strasse are the Royal Mews (Pl. F, 3).

The Old Palace (Pl. E, F, 4), on the S. side of the Schloss-Platz, erected by Tretsch in 1553-70, forms an irregular quadrangle, with round towers at the corners and a court surrounded by arcades in the middle. On the S. side is the entrance to the tasteful Gothic Chapel (restored). In the court rises the equestrian Statue of Count Eberhard im Bart (d. 1496), a Count of Wurtemberg who was created a duke by the Emp. Max, by Hofer (1859). This palace contains the office of the Obersthofmeister, or chief intendant of the palace (see p. 2; open on week-days S-9 a.m.). In the E. tower the second floor is reached by an inclined plane instead of a staircase.

In the Schiller-Platz, which adjoins the Old Palace on the W., rises the *Statue of Schiller (Pl. E, 4), designed by Thorwaldsen, and erected in 1839 by subscriptions from all parts of Germany.

On the S. side of the Schiller-Platz is the *Stiftskirche (Pl. E, 4; bell at the S. Portal), Protestant since 1534, in the Gothic style, erected in 1436-95. Towers unfinished. Reliefs on the S. Portal: Christ bearing the Cross, Christ and the Apostles.

The interior, restored by Heideloff in 1839-43. contains *Stained Glass of 1848-51, from drawings by Ncher: in the choir the Nativity, Crucifixion, Resurrection, Pentecost, and the Last Judgment; in the organ-choir King David. By the N. wall of the choir, eleven *Stone Figures of Counts of Wurtemberg, dating from the close of the 16th century. The chapels to the left and right of the choir contain many old monuments, including the painted stone monument of Count Albert von Hohenlohe (d. 1575) in the Urbankapelle (left). Adjacent, at the end of the N. aisle, is an old votive relief in stone, representing Christ as the Judge of the World (above), and the Wise and Foolish Virgins (below). Gothic pulpit in stone, of the beginning of the 16th cent., with reliefs, disfigured by bronzing.

A few paces to the S. lies the Market Place (Pl. E, 4), the centre of old Stuttgart, with a few patrician dwelling-houses of the 16th cent. and the insignificant Town Hall. The latter is to be replaced by a new structure. — The Markt-Strasse leads to the S.E.

to the St. Leonhards-Platz, with the late-Gothic church of St. Leonhard (Pl. F, 5). By the choir is a 'Calvary' of 1501, recently restored by Donndorf.

The Olga-Strasse, which runs hence to the E., and in which is the new English Church (Pl. F, 5), built by Wagner, and the Neckar-Strasse, which begins at the Charlotten-Platz, are among the finest of the new streets.

At the beginning of the Neckar-Strasse (through which runs the tramway to Berg and Cannstatt, p. 12), on the right, is the Palace of King William II. (Pl. F, 4). In the Charlotten-Platz opposite are Marble Busts of Bismarck and Moltke, by Donndorf (1889). To the right, at the other corner of the Charlotten-Str., is the Kriegsministerium or war-office.

No. 4, adjoining the palace, is occupied by the State Archives (Pl. F, 4). On the middle and upper floors and in the N. wing (Neckar-Str. 6) of this building is the extensive and valuable *Cabinet of Natural History (adm., see p. 2).

The collections are divided into two sections, the one general, the other relating to Wurtemberg only. On the groundfloor is the Mineralogical-Geognostic-Palaeontological Collection relating to Wurtemberg: minerals from the old Black Forest mines; specimens of the geological formations from the earliest to the latest periods; and prehistoric antiquities down to the lake-dwelling era. Observe the numerous saurians (labyrinthodon, etc.), the pentacrinites, the group with thirteen mammoth's teeth, and the twenty-four lizards from the white sandstone of Stuttgart. — The second floor contains the Zoological Museum: in the wing to the right are mammalia; in the chief hall to the left are birds (Elliot's collection of Himalaya phensants), fishes, reptiles; also corals and insects, particularly from S. Africa. — The upper floor, in the wing to the right, contains the Zoological and Botanical Collections of Wurtemberg (admirably arranged, chronologically, topographically, etc.). The main hall on the left is devoted to the general Palaeontological, Mineralogical, and Geognostic Collections, an Osteological Collection, and the general Botanical Collection, with herbarium, fruits, woods, etc.

The large building opposite, with four wings and three courts, is the Academy (Pl. F, 4), the seat in 1775-1794 of the Karls-Schule (p. 14), founded by Duke Charles, where Schiller received his education as a student of medicine, and where he surreptitiously wrote his 'Robbers'. The dining-hall contains the King's Private Library. On the groundfloor are guard-rooms.

The royal Library (Pl. F, G, 4), Neckar-Str. 8, a massive building by Landauer (1883), contains 500,000 vols., 3800 MSS., 7200 Bibles in more than 100 different languages, and 2400 specimens of early printing (adm., see p. 2).

The groundfloor of this building is occupied by the Collection of Wurtemberg Antiquities (adm., see p. 2).

To the right of the entrance-hall are objects from Lake Dwellings and Pre-Roman Tumuli, chiefly found in Wurtemberg. The second compartment to the right contains articles of special interest in gold, bronze, and iron from the royal tombs at Hundersingen (on the Danube), Klein-Aspergle, and Belle-Remise (Ludwigsburg), proving a commercial intercourse with Italy in the 4th cent. B. C. — Roman Anticagliae. — Objects from Tumuli of the Pre-Carlovingian and the Carlovingian periode, including many gold ornaments, curious silver damaskeened work, and weapons. — Stove-plates of the 16th cent., in cast and forged iron; objects in tin, bronze, and copper. — Gold and silver ornaments, weapons, and armour, including a curious jousting helmet. The 'Red Room', in the S. wing, contains the Royal Cabinet of Art and Antiquities, founded by the Dukes of Wurtemberg and specially rich in vessels and weapons of the Renaissance. Italian bronzes of the 17th century. In one of the long cases is a pack of cards, painted in the 15th century. On both sides of this room are reproductions of Renaissance apartments.

To the left of the entrance-hall we first reach the Ceramic Collection, including numerous tile-stoves of various periods and styles (late-Gothic stove from Ravensburg). The Murschel Collection of Porcelain contains objects chiefly of Ludwigsburg manufacture. The Roccoc Room is adjoined by one fitted up in the style of the 17th cent., with guild-vessels and household gear. Opposite is the collection of Glass, Articles in Wood and Leather, Instruments, Textile Fabrics, and Costumes. The S. Room contains the collection of ecclesiastical art, including paintings by Zeitblom altar-piece from Hausen of 1488, another from the church of Heerberg of 1497), Schaffner, B. Strigel, Amberger (portraits of Heinrich März and Afra Rehm), and other Swabian masters of the 15-16th centuries. Fine stained glass. Byzantine and Roman vessels. Carpets and embroideries.

Beyond the library are the extensive Law Courts (Pl. G, 4), built by Landauer in 1880, with a fine vestibule and jury court. The colossal groups of Law and Justice on the attic-story are by Kopp.

Farther down the Neckar-Strasse (No. 32), opposite the Mint, s the *Museum of Art (Pl. G, 3), including the Lapidarium (Roman stone monuments), a Cabinet of Engravings, and Collections of Paintings and Sculptures (adm., see p. 2). In the court-yard rises an Equestrian Statue of King William I. (d. 1864), by Hofer, erected in 1884.

On the groundfloor are Casts, the rooms to the left containing those after ancient, the rooms to the right those after modern works. Among the latter are numerous models and casts of Thorwaldsen's works, presented by himself (d. 1844). — Among the Original Works in the principal room to the right are Dannecker's celebrated bust of Schiller in marble (hair partially mutilated by the master himself in a fit of mental aberration; 1st section to the right); marble busts of Uhland by Rau and King Charles by Federlein (1st section, left); Bathsheba by Kopf and Girl bathing (bronze) by Falconnet (2nd sec., left); Venus by Bissen and Boy in danger by Rösch (3rd sec., right); Rape of Proserpine by Hofer (4th sec., right).

Room II contains the collection left to the Museum by Queen Olga (1893), consisting of water-colour copies of celebrated pictures by the old masters and also of a few original works. Among the latter are: to the left, Rizzoni, Polish Tavern; Spitzweg, The Alchemist; Böcklin, Castle on the sea; Giov. Bellini (?), Madonna; Perujino (?), Holy Family with angels; Franc. Francia, Madonna; Buchner, Portrait of Queen Olga; Gabriel Max, Study of a head; Perugino, Madonna; Igler, Singing lesson; Domenichino, St. Sebastian; Vervloet, The Pope washing the feet of twelve poor men.

On a height to the right of the museum is the Kunstschule (Pl. G. 3), adorned externally with frescoes and with statues of Phidias. Polygnotus, Michael Angelo, and Raphael on the eastern façade in the Urban-Str. — Near the Museum, in a niche on a house at the corner of the Eugen-Str. and the Moser-Str. (Pl. G, 3, 4), is a bronze bust of the jurist Joh. Jac. Moser (1701-85), by Kopp, erected in 1885. A flight of steps ascends hence to the Eugen-Platz (Pl. G, II, 4), which is adorned with a handsome fountain (Galatea) by Rieth and affords a fine view of the town. Below is a bronze bust of Duke Eugene of Wurtemberg (d. 1857), by Pelargus. To the Uhlandshöhe, see p. 11. — About ½ M. beyond the Museum the Neckar-Str. expands into the so-called Neckarthor, an open space embellished with a Water Nymph by Dannecker. To the right, above, is the Romanesque Friedenskirche (Pl. II, 2), built by Dollinger in 1893.

On the W. side of the Neckar-Strasse is the *Schloss-Garten or Anlagen (Pl. F. G. 3-1), laid out in the English style in 1808. These charming pleasure-grounds, with their fine groups of trees, flower-beds, and sheets of water, 200 acres in area and extending to a length of 2 M. (nearly to Cannstatt), are adorned with modern sculptures in marble (chiefly copies from the antique), especially in the so-called Botanic Garden to the E. of the upper pond. Above the conduit which feeds the pond, on the side next the palace, is a colossal group by Dannecker, representing water and meadow nymphs. In the 'Rondel' of the main avenue on the front: Count Eberhard and the Shepherd (from Uhland), a colossal group by Paul Müller (1881). On an island at the end of this avenue is the Abduction of Hylas, by Hofer (1850), and a little farther on, at the beginning of the chestnut avenue leading to (11/4 M.) Rosenstein (p. 13), are two Horse-tamers, also by Hofer (1848).

We now enter the N.W. quarter of the town, and note the fine buildings of the Württembergische Vereinsbank and the Reichsbank, both in the Friedrichs-Strasse (Nos. 48, 22). The Kriegsberg-Strasse and the Goethe-Strasse contain, perhaps, the handsomest new buildings in this quarter.

In the Schelling-Str. (No. 5) is the building of the Wurtemberg Art Union (Kunstverein; Pl. E, 3), with a permanent exhibition of modern works of art (adm., see p. 2).

The Polytechnic School (Pl. E, 3), in the Stadtgarten-Platz (Alleen-Platz), erected in the Italian Renaissance style by Egle in 1860-65, and enlarged by Tritschler in 1879, is adorned to the right and left of the door with statues of Dürer and Kepler. Between the Corinthian columns on the upper story are ten allegorical statues representing the professions for which a technical education prepares the student; to the right and left of these are two admirable allegorical representations of Art and Science, by Th. Bechlar of Munich. The N. façade bears medallion-portraits of celebrated architects and mathematicians. The garden in front was adorned in 1889 with marble busts of Friedrich Vischer (1807-87), the writer on æsthetics, by Donndorf, and of Rob. Mayer (1814-78), the physicist. by Kopf.

The *Stadt-Garten (Pl. D, E, 3; adm. 50 pf.; concerts, see p. 2) is a favourite pleasure-resort, with a restaurant.

On the W. side, at the angle of the Kanzlei-Str. and Schelling-Str., is the handsome Architectural School (Baugewerkschule; Pl. D, 3), with a Mansard roof and fine courts, by Egle (1870). In the Kriegsberg-Str. is the Gewerbehalle (Pl. D, 3), the building of the Industrial Exhibition of 1881, now containing the Exchange (business-hour 2-3 p. m.) and an exhibition of Export-Products.

About 1/2 M. to the N.W., in the Herdweg (No. 10 D), is Nill's Thiergarten (Pl. C, 2), with a rest urant (beer) and a large concert-garden. Adm., see p. 2.

In the Linden-Strasse (Pl. D, 2) are the Panorama (p. 2; Crucifixion, with view of Jerusalem, by Frosch, Krüger, and Leigh), the Gymnastic Hall, and the Garrison Church, a brick edifice in the Romanesque style by Dollinger, with a dome and corner-towers. These three are on the right; to the left are the handsome Realgymnasium and the Chemical Laboratory, the latter a Renaissance edifice completed in 1894.

Near this, in the Hoppenlau-Str., is the Hoppenlau Cemetery (Pl. C, D, 3), with the graves of the sculptor Dannecker (d. 1841) and the authors Wilhelm Hauff (d. 1827) and Gustav Schwab (d. 1850). — In the Büchsen-Str. are the large Stuttgart Swimming Baths (Pl. D, 3), crected in the Moorish style in 1888-89 (adm., see p. 2). Adjacent is the Liederhalle (Pl. C, D, 3), the property of a vocal society, with large concert-rooms. The new hall, built by Leins in 1875, is the largest in Germany, having an area of 1600 sq. yds. In the garden-veranda are plaster models of the statues of Schiller at Marbach and Uhland at Tübingen. The garden (restaurant and concerts, see pp. 1, 2) contains a colossal bust of Uhland in bronze, and marble busts of G. Schwab and *Franz Schubert.

To the N.E., between the Linden-Str., Kanzlei-Str., and Schloss-Str., is the handsome new *Landesgewerbe-Museum (Pl. D, E, 3), or Industrial Museum, erected by Neckelmann in an elaborate late-Renaissance style. The principal façade is turned towards the Schloss-Str. The lower story is of rustic masonry; the upper is articulated by six pairs of Corinthian columns. The attic is adorned with figures, and domed turrets rise at the angles. The whole of the building is embellished with medallions of famous Swabians and other plastic decoration. The chief features of the interior are the grand staircase and the King Charles Exhibition Gallery, the latter adorned with a painted frieze by Ferd. Keller and sculptures by Hundrieser and Eberlein. This museum (to be opened in Oct., 1895) will contain the collections previously exhibited in the Legionskaserne (Pl. D, E, 5), including Models, an Educational Exhibition, and an Art Library (adm., see p. 2).

STUTTGART.

In the late-Gothic Spitalkirche (Pl. D, 4), erected in 1471-93, and restored in 1841, is a model of Dannecker's large marble statue of Christ (p. 123). The cloisters contain the tomb of Reuchlin (d.1522), the erudite friend of Melanchthon. - A few hundred paces distant (Hospital-Strasse 38) is the Synagogue (Pl. D, 4), in the Moorish style, with two handsome domes, erected in 1861. Between the Schloss-Strasse, Kasernen-Strasse, and Lange-Strasse (Pl. C, 4) rise the imposing new Municipal School Buildings. Farther to the W., in the Lindenspür-Strasse, is the Ludwig Hospital ('Charlottenhilfe'; Pl. B, 3), founded and admirably fitted up by the late Staatsrath von Ludwig.

On the Feuersee (Pl. C, 5), in the S.W. quarter of the city, is the handsome Gothic *Church of St. John, by Leins (1866-76), finely situated, with richly painted interior. - To the S.E. of this point is the Silberburg-Garten (Pl. C. D. 6), belonging to the Museum-Gesellschaft, the leading club of Stuttgart (tickets for strangers at Kanzlei-Str. 14). In the grounds below the garden, between the Marienthor and the Silberburgthor, is a marble bust of E. Mörike, the poet (d. 1875), by Rösch. — In the Tübinger-Str. is the Roman Catholic *Marienkirche (Pl. D, 6), early-Gothic, with two towers, by Egle (1872-75). — Among the handsome houses of the Reinsburg - Strasse, which connects these two churches, are the *Villa Siegle by Gnauth, and the houses of Hr. Bohnenberger by Beisbarth, and Prof. Rustige by Leins. — The suburb of Heslach has a Romanesque church by Wolff (1881).

In the Fangelsbach Cemetery, to the S.E. of the town, stands the War Memorial, designed by Gnauth, representing Germania dispensing wreaths.

— The Central Cemetery, to the N.W., beyond the Eisenbahndörfchen (cottages of railway employees) and the new Municipal Hospital, contains a Gothic burial-chapel and several handsome mausoleums; it commands a fine view. About 3/4 M. higher up, at the N.E. end of the Feuerbacher Heide, is the Weissenhof, a popular garden-restaurant (view).

Charming walk on the E. side of Stuttgart, from the Neckar-Str. through the Eugen-Str. to the Eugen-Platz (p. 9), and past the Schiesshaus to the (1/2 br.) "Uhlandshöhe (Pl. H. 3), with a series of charming views of Stuttgart and the valley of the Neckar, the finest points being the pavilion at the top and Uhland's Lime-tree. A similar point is the Schillerhöhe, on the Bopser, to the S.E., reached by the Neue Weinsteige (Pl. E, F, 7), commanding varied views during its winding ascent from the Olga-Str. We may return via the Hohenheimer-Str. (Pl. F, G, 6, 5; to the left, below, the Stilzenburg Restaurant, with a good view of the city); or we may continue the excursion through the Bopscraald to Degerloch.

The Mountain Railway (Zahnradbahn, 'rack-and-pinion line') to Degerloch. The Mountain Railway (Zahnradbahn, 'rack-and-pinion line') to Degerloch ('arhaus; Schweizerhaus, by the station; Withelmshöhe Inn, with garden) starts from the Filder-Str. (Pl. D, 7). At least 6 or 8 trains daily each way (12-14 min.; up 30, down 20 pf.); views on the left. Splendid view from the tower (1585 ft.), 5 min. from the station at the top (20 pf.). Tramway from the Schloss-Str. every 36 min.; see p. 1.— From Degerloch a steam-tramway runs in 3/4 hr. to Hohenheim (p. 11), via Mohringen, Echterflagen, and Garbe (Pleiringen). Echterdingen, and Garbe (Plieningen).

An *Excursion to the West Station by the Gau Railway will be found interesting (views to the left). On quitting the station, the line (for Böblingen, Freudenstadt, etc.; see R. 10) describes a sharp curve round the brick-works on the Prag-Aecker, and then runs southward in the direction of the vine-clad Kriegsberg, which juts far into the valley. On the top of the latter (to the right) is the Feuerbacher Heide, with the Weissenhof (see p. 11). The gradient is very steep (1:52). Beyond a tunnel, 500 yds. long, we obtain to the left a striking "VIEW of the town, with the dome of the new garrison-church in the foreground and the picturesque hills opposite. The train continues to ascend the slopes of the valley, through gardens and vineyards, and describes a wide circle round the town. The view increases in attraction. After 20 min. we cross the Vogelsang-Thal by a viaduct 130 ft. in height, and stop at the West Station (the former Hasenberg Station; 1210 ft. above the sea, 394 ft. above the station at Stuttgart), which lies at the corner of the wood. This point, which commands the whole town and the valley of the Neckar, may also be reached by the new and winding Rothebühl-Strasse (Pl. A, 7). Still finer views are obtained from the "Jägerhaus (Restaurant), near which a bust of the novelist Hauff was erected in 1882, and from the (1/4 hr.) stone "Belvedere Tower, 130 ft. in height, erected in 1879 (cross the rails and enter the wood): the view extends as far as the Wartberg at Heilbronn and the Melibocus; to the S. the entire chain of the Swabian Alb, with the Hohenstaufen, Rechberg, Neuffen, Achalm, and Hohenzollern. — From the Jägerhaus to the N.W. through the woods to the Gais-Eiche, 1/4 hr.; to the W. to the deer-park (p. 11), 1/2 hr. — The direct path from the Jägerhaus to Stuttgart descends abruptly in 20-25 min, passing on the right the reservoir of the new aqueduct and the Reinsburg, with the Karls-Linde (Pl. C, 6), a hill affording a fine view, immediately to the S. of Stuttgart. Tramway from the Schwab-Strasse, see p. 1.

FROM STUTTGART TO CANNSTATT, 21/2 M. The RAILWAY (R. 8; 8-11 min.) penetrates the Rosenstein (see below) by a tunnel 450 yds. long, crosses the Neckar, and reaches the station of Cannstatt, on the left bank.

The Tramway (p. 1; $2^{1}/_{2}$ M. from the Palace at Stuttgart, in 20 min.) traverses first the Neckar-Strasse (p. 5), and then the Untere Neckar-Strasse (view of the Royal Villa, see below), which extends to Berg; from Berg it crosses the König-Karl-Brücke (p. 13) direct to Cannstatt (terminus near the rail. station). The old high-road runs from Berg along the E. slope of the Rosenstein, passes the lower entrance of the Wilhelma (p. 13), and sweeps round to Cannstatt on the right bank.

Berg, the N.E. suburb of Stuttgart, sharing its rapid growth, lies on the left bank of the Neckar and, like Cannstatt, is frequented as a health-resort. Neuner's Mineralbad, near the tramway office at the beginning of the town, possesses a swimming-bath (open in winter also), an aquarium, a garden-restaurant, and a favourite open-air theatre (p. 2). On a slight eminence above the town rises the Gothic church, built by Gaab in 1855, with open tower. — The Sprudel, which bursts from the earth like that of Carlsbad, and other mineral springs on the Neckar-Insel, an island which extends from Berg almost to Cannstatt, has given rise to a number of bath-houses (*Leuze's Inselbad, with pension; band plays at 6 a.m.; closed in winter).

The Royal Villa, on the top of the hill to the S. of Berg, a modern Renaissance edifice, built by Leins in 1846-53, and surrounded with gardens and hot-houses, commands a charming view. In the interior are pictures by Nic. de Keyser, Kaminski, Bohn. Karl Müller, etc., and sculptures by Tenerani and other masters. In the garden are statues of the four seasons by Kopf, and busts in bronze of Nicholas, Emperor of Russia, and his consort, by Rauch. The villa belongs to the Duchess Wera (adm., see p. 2).

The Rosenstein, a villa in the Romanesque style on the hill to the N. of Berg, with colonnades, built by Salucci in 1823-29, contains numerous sculptures (by Wagner, Wolf, Hoyer, Tenerani, Hofer, etc.) and an extensive collection of pictures (catalogue from the steward). Admission, see p. 2; the main entrance is on the S.W. side of the park, opposite the chestnut avenue mentioned at p. 9. — From the back of the château walks descend through the grounds to the Wilhelma.

The *Wilhelma, an edifice in the Moorish style, in the midst of well-kept grounds, was erected for King William I. in 1842-51

The Festsaalbau contains a single saloon sumptuously fitted up. It is connected by means of circular colonnades with two Pavilions (that to the right contains a Picture Gallery, of Oriental subjects only) and with the Château itself on the upper terrace. In the centre of the latter is the audience-chamber, on the right a drawing-room, on the left the king's study. There are also bedrooms, dressing-rooms, and a bath-room (with a fine stalactite ceiling). At the back of the château several other terraces rise to the plateau of the hill, on the summit of which is a Belvedere, also in the Moorish style, commanding a charming view. The lower terraces within the colonnades are embellished with flower-beds, fountains, and groups of animals in marble and bronze by Güldenstein.

Cannstatt. - Hotels: Städtisches Logierhaus, at the Cursaal, for patients; Vier Jahreszeiten, Sannwald's Bahnhof Hôtel, Gasthof & Restaurant zum Bahnhof, at the station, second-class; Bar, in the marketplace. *Pension Lieb, König-Str. 13. - Restaurants: Cursaal: Sannwald:

Sanatory Establishments: Dr. Veiel's, for cutaneous diseases; Dr. Bilfinger's, for the 'Kneipp Cure'; Wilhelmsbad, the property of the town, open in winter also. Baths also in the Russischer Hof and the *Neues Cannstatter Mineralbad, Badgasse (also open in winter).

Popular Festival, with exhibitions, races, etc., every alternate year, beginning on 28th Sept. and lasting 3-7 days.

Cannstatt, a town with 20,267 inhab., is connected with Berg by the *König-Karl-Brücke, a railway-bridge with five arches, 1000 ft. long, erected in 1891-93 by K. von Leibbrand. It possesses warm saline and chalybeate springs which attract a number of patients, but is rapidly becoming a manufacturing place. The Cursaal, with the Wilhelmsbrunnen (62-66° Fahr.), the chief mineral spring, lies on the Sulzerain (view), on the N. side of the town. Adjacent are a whey-cure establishment, a restaurant, a readingroom, and a Trinkhalle. In front of the Cursaal is a bronze Equestrian Statue of King William I. (d. 1864), by Halbig, erected in 1875. — In the Uffkirchhof is the grave of Ferdinand Freiligrath, the poet (d. 1876), with a bronze bust by Donndorf.

The *Burgholz (1175 ft.; view-tower), 4 M. from Stuttgart and 2 M. from Cannstatt (refreshments at the Burgholzhof), affords a fine view of Stuttgart and up the valley of the Neckar.

About 6 M. to the S. of Stuttgart (railway via Degerloch and Möhringen in 55 min.) lies Hohenheim, a château built by Duke Charles in 1768, now an agricultural school. Fine view from the top. — Klein-Hohenheim, Scharnhausen, and Weil, with their model-farms and the horse-breeding establishment at Weil, may be visited on the same day as Hohenheim. Permission obtained at the offices of the Hofdomäne, Friedrichs-Str. 26. Weil is 11 '2 M. from Esslingen (p. 29).

Unter- and Ober-Türkheim and the Rothenberg, see p. 29.

The Solitude (1540 ft.), 6 M. to the W. of Stuttgart, built in 1763-67 by Duke Charles, was in 1770-75 the seat of the Karls-Schule, where Schiller received part of his education, before its transference to Stuttgart (p. 5). Schiller's father was inspector of the gardens here. The grounds and park command a fine view (best from the dome of the Schloss). A wheycure establishment here attracts visitors in summer. A little to the S. is a well-stocked deer-park, with the 'Bärenschlösschen' and the Bären-See. Deer fed at 11 a.m., wild boars at 6 p.m. (cards of adm. at the office of the royal chasse, in the Academy, p. 4). From the deer-park to the Jägerhaus, see p. 12.

69 M. RAILWAY in 21/2-41/2 hrs. (fares 9 M 60, 6 M 30, 4 M 10 pf.; express 10 M 95, 7 M 65, 5 M 45 pf.). - Route via Heilbronn, see R. 4.

The line traverses a fertile plain, within a short distance of the mountains. Stations Kirchheim, St. Ilgen, Wiesloch. Nearing (15 M.) Langenbrücken (Ochs; Sonne), a small place with sulphur-baths, we notice Kislau, once a château of the prince-bishops of Speyer, now a penitentiary for women, on the right.

201/2 M. Bruchsal (*Hôtel Keller, near the station; *Railway Restaurant) is the junction of the Bale line (see Baedeker's Rhine). The town (11,900 inhab.) was formerly the residence of the Bishops of Speyer, whose Schloss, a fine rococo edifice, handsomely fitted up, and adorned with frescoes by Zick, is worthy of a visit. The castellated building on the left as the station is approached is a prison, erected in 1845.

Beyond Bruchsal a short tunnel. 241/2 M. Heidelsheim. 27 M. Gondelsheim, with the ruined castle and modern château of Count Langenstein.

30 M. Bretten (540 ft.; *Krone, 1/4 M. from the station; *Rail. Restaurant), a small town commanded by an ancient watch-tower. In the Bahnhof-Strasse is a block of granite with a bronze medallion of Grand-Duke Frederick of Baden, erected to commemorate the jubilee of his reign (1891). In the market-place, opposite the postoffice, is a fountain, surmounted by the figure of a tailless dog. Adjacent is the house in which Philip Melanchthon (1497-1560), the 'Præceptor Germaniæ', was born; a monument was erected to him in 1864 in front of the school-house, at the end of the town. Branch-lines to Durlach and Heilbronn, p. 18. — 36 M. Maulbronn

Maulbronn (2 M. from the station; Post, high charges; Brewery, good beer, also beds; post-omnibus to the village thrice daily in 25 min.) possesses a Protestant theological seminary, which was once a celebrated Cistercian abbey, and afterwards the seat of the 'monastery school' founded by Duke Christopher in 1556. The *Abbey Church, consecrated in 1167, is a fine Romanesque basilica with aisles. The late-Gothic chapels on the S. side were subsequent additions. A Romanesque screen with two doors separates the choir of the monks from the nave; in front of the central niche are a richly-decorated throne and an altar with a colossal crucifix dating from 1473. The choir, adorned with two handsome Gothic windows, contains 92 well-carved stalls in the late-Gothic style. Each of the transepts, on the N. and S. side of the choir respectively, contains three rectangular chapels. At the W. end of the church is a Vestibule ('Paradies') with elegant late-Romanesque arcade-windows and fine vaulting. The *Cloisters on the N. side of the church are interesting. The S. passage, in the transition style (1303), is the richest; the others, in the Gothic style, are simpler. In front of the N. wing of the cloisters is a tastefully-constructed well-house. Beyond it is the summer-refectory ('Rebenthal'), with fine vaulting. Other apartments (chamber of flagellation, chapter-house, audience saloon, residence of the superior) adjoin the E. side of the cloisters. On the W. side is the winter or lay-refectory, divided into two parts by seven double columns. The entire structure, one of the best preserved of the older monasteries of Germany, has been restored under the superintendence of Landauer.— A pleasant road, partly through wood, leads by (3 M.; diligence twice daily in 3/4 hr.) the small town of Knittlingen (Kanne), the traditional birthplace of Dr. Faust, to Bretten (see above).

The train now passes through a tunnel of 357 yds., under the watershed between the Neckar and the Rhine. 40 M. Mühlacker, junction for Pforzheim (p. 17); 44 M. Illingen; 47 M. Vaihingen with a large château, now an asylum; 50 M. Gross-Sachsenheim. On the left rise the Stromberg and the Heuchelberg, two low, wooded chains of hills. The train traverses the old Kraichgau and Salzgau, a fertile, hilly district, and crosses the deep valley of the Enz by a *Viaduct, 115 ft. high, and 357 yds. long, supported by 21 arches, in two series, one above the other (well seen from the Bietigheim station). At (541/2 M.) Bietigheim the line to Heilbronn and Hall diverges to the N. (see R. 4). Beyond Bietigheim the line presents few attractions. 561/2 M. Thamm. Farther on, to the right, near (571/2 M.) Asperg, rises a vine-clad hill (1165 ft.) crowned by the small fortress of Hohenasperg (still a prison), where Duke Charles confined the poet Schubart from 1777 to 1787 for having composed a satirical epigram on him; fine *View from the view-tower (10 pf.).

60 M. Ludwigsburg (*Railway Hotel, opposite the station, with a concert-hall; Kanne, Sonne, in the town), a town with 17,673 inhab., the military depôt of Wurtemberg, contains an arsenal, cannon-foundry, barracks, military schools, &c. It was founded at the beginning of last century by Duke Eberhard Ludwig (d. 1733; whose statue adorns the market-place), as a rival of Stuttgart, and was extended by Duke Charles, who resided here in 1764-85. The streets are broad and regular. The Marble Statue of Schiller in the Wilhelms-Platz, by Hofer, was erected in 1882; the poet lived in 1793-94 in the house at the corner of the Post-Str. (now a wineshop). Ludwigsburg was the birthplace of David Strauss (1808-74), the theologian, Justinus Kerner (1786-1862) and Edw. Mörike (1804-75), the poets, and F. T. Vischer (1807-87), the philosopher.

The Palace (uninhabited), a handsome rococo building, containing 460 rooms and a gallery of the portraits of sovereigns of Wurtemberg, was erected by Duke Eberhard Ludwig in 1710-20 and is surrounded by extensive, well-kept grounds. The balcony of the Emichsburg, an artificial ruin, commands a fine view. A subterranean vault contains a representation in wax of Count Emich. an ancestor of the royal House of Wurtemberg, carousing with a Capuchin. In the cellar is a Cask with a capacity of 20,000 gallons. - At the S.E. extremity of the Schloss-Garten is the Churchyard, containing Dannecker's monument to Count Zeppelin (d. 1801), the minister of King Frederick, erected by order of the latter. — The N. prolongation of the grounds is the Favoriten-Park, with the tasteful little Favorite Château, containing a splendid collection of antlers (tickets of admission at the office of the Royal Chasse, in Stuttgart). An avenue of poplars leads hence to (11/2 M.) Monrepos, a royal chateau with a model farm, pretty grounds, and a lake. We may now return to Ludwigsburg via Eglosheim and the Villa Marienwahl, the summer-residence of King William II.

Among the chief boasts of Ludwigsburg are the magnificent avenues of limes and chestnuts leading from the palace to the Salonwald, a large park commanding admirable views. Adjacent is the Karlshöhe, a refuge and school for children. Near the beginning of the straight road to (12 M.) the Solitude (p. 14) are the Römerhügel and the Kaiserstein (views).

Ludwigsburg is connected by a branch-railway with (3 M.) Beihingen (p. 25), on the railway from Backnang to Bietigheim. — Marbach (p. 25; railway in 25 min., carr. viâ Benningen in 1 hr.) and Hohenasperg (p. 15; railway in 6 min.) are best visited from Ludwigsburg.

Ditzingen. — 9 M. Leonberg (Lamm or Post; Löwel, the birthplace of the philosopher Scheling (p. 152), possesses an early-Gothic church of the 15th cent., and is noted for a fine breed of large dogs resembling the now extinct St. Bernard race. — Then past (12½ M.) Remingen to (16 M.) Weilderstadt (Krone; Löwe), with the late-Gothic Church of St. Peter & St. Paul (end of 15th cent.), the birthplace of the astronomer Kepler (d. 1630), a bronze "Statue of whom, by Kreling, adorns the market-place. — 18½ M. Schafhausen; 21 M. Althengstett. — At (30 M.) Calw (1095 ft.; Waldhorn; Badischer Hof), a town with 4700 inhab. and a considerable timber-trade, the line enters the picturesque Nagold-Thal. — Railway to Pforzheim in ½-3½ hr., see p. 17.

The line then leads through the Nagold-Thal (several tunnels), past Kentheim, to (32 M.) Teinach, at the union of the Teinach and Nagold.

Kentheim, to (32 M.) Teinach, at the union of the Teinach and Nagold. About $1^{1}/2$ M. up the valley of the Teinach (omnibus in 25 min.) are the charmingly-situated baths of Teinach (*Bad-Hôtel zur Krone, with rooms for 300 visitors, D. 2 M 80, S. 1 M 20, B. 70 pf., pension 50-80 M per week; Hirsch; Zum Kühlen Brunnen). On the hill above is Zavelstein ("Lamm), a summer-resort, with a ruined castle, the tower of which is a fine point 34 M. Thalmühle ("Inn); in the woods near it is Burg Waldeck. 361/2 M. Wildberg (Adler; Schwan), a small and ancient town, is prettily situated on a rock washed by the Nagold. 42 M. Nagold (1295 ft.; Post; Hirsch), a busy place, commanded by the ruined castle of Hohennagold, which was destroyed during the Thirty Years' War. Handsome modern Gothic church. — The train quits the Nagold-Thal, which here turns to the W., ascends the Steinach-Thal to Gündringen, and passes through the Hochdorfer Tunnet, 1360 yds. long, to (481/2 M.) Hochdorf (1650 ft.; *Inn, plain), the culminating point of the line, with a fine view of the distant chain of the Swabian Jura. — Beyond (51 M.) Eutingen, the junction for the Gäubahn and the line to Hausach (p. 39), the train descends the narrow valley of Mühlen to the Neckar-Thal and (561/2 M.) Horb (p. 39).

From Stuttgart to (29 M.) Mühlacker, see R. 2. Beyond (31 ½ M.) Enzberg the line enters the Duchy of Baden, and crosses the Enz. 33 M. Niefern; 35 M. Eutingen, near which is a Roman castrum.

371/2 M. Pforzheim (810 ft.; *Hôtel Nusser or Post; Schwarzer Adler; Victoria, Zur Eisenbahn, both at the station; wine at the Rappen. Karl-Friedrich-Str.; Hydropathic, pens. 3-6 M), a busy, manufacturing town (30,000 inhab.), lies at the confluence of the Enz, the Würm, and the Nagold. The staple commodities, gold and silver wares, employ 10,000 workmen.

Near the station is the Romanesque and Gothic *Schlosskirche, erected in the 12-15th centuries.

In the choir are the statues of the Margraves Ernest (d. 1604), James (d. 1590), and Charles II. (d. 1577). Charles II. was the first prince of this line who embraced the Reformed faith. Then the statue of his wife Kunigunde, Margravine of Brandenburg (d. 1558); Countess Palatine Anna (d. 1587); Albert Alcibiades of Brandenburg-Bayreuth, celebrated for his numerous campaigns, who died here (in 1557) under the imperial ban; also Margr. Bernhard (d. 1558). On a large sarcophagus are the recumbent figures of Margr. Ernest (d. 1558) and his wife Ursula (d. 1538). Beneath a Gothic covering is the bust of the Grand-Duke Charles Frederick (d. 1811). A monument on the wall commemorates the supposed death of 400 citizens of Pforzheim in the battle of Wimpffen (1622), but this event lacks historical evidence.

In the market-place rises a Warriors' Monument. In the Leopold-Platz is a fountain with a Statue of Margrave Ernest (d. 1558), founder of the extinct Baden-Durlach-Ernestine family.

About 6 M. to the S.E. of Pforzheim, in the pleasant Würmthal, lies Tiefenbronn (Löwe), with an interesting Abbey Church. This contains a fine high-altar by Hans Schühlein of Ulm (1409), and four other well-preserved altars of the 15-16th cent., the best of which is the Magdalen Altar, with paintings by Lucas Moser (1432).

FROM PFORZHEIM TO CALW, 17 M. (railway in 1/2-3/4 hr.). The train diverges to the left from the Wildbad line at Brötzingen (p. 18), crosses the Enz, penetrates the watershed between the Enz and the Nagold by means of a tunnel, 490 yds. long, and enters the beautiful wooded Nagold-Thal. Beyond another tunnel is (3½ M.) Weissenstein (*Sonne), with a picturesque ruined castle. Then the Zeigenberg Tunnel, 560 yds. in length. At (7 M.) Unter-Reichenbach we cross the Nagold.—12 M. [Liebenzell (Unteres Bad; Oberes Bad; *Ochs), a watering-place with warm springs of old repute, pleasantly situated, and overlooked by a ruined castle.—1½/2 M. Hirsau (Rössle, Schwan, Kloster Hirsau, etc.), with a celebrated ruined monastery (Benedictine, founded in 830, destroyed by Melac in 1692).—17 M. FROM PFORZHEIM TO DURLACH (Carlsruhe), 16 M., railway in 1 hr. The line skirts the N. slopes of the Black Forest Mts. and traverses the fertile valley of the Pfinz. Stations Ispringen, Ersingen, Königsbach, Wilferdingen (Krone), Söllingen, Berghausen, Grötzingen (junction for Bretten and Heilbronn, p. 20). At Durlach (Carlsburg), a town of 7474 inhab., the train reaches the Baden main line; see Baedeker's Rhine.

The railway to Wildbad continues to follow the picturesque green valley of the Enz. 39 M. Brötzingen; 40½ M. Birkenfeld.

431/2 M. Neuenbürg (Post; Bär) is a picturesquely situated town, overlooked by the Schloss, erected on a wooded eminence above the Enz by Duke Christopher in 1658 on the site of an older building (now government offices). Adjacent is the so-called Fruchtspeicher, the ruins of a castle on Roman foundations.

The train crosses the Enz, passes through a tunnel under the Schlossberg, and recrosses the river. 46 M. Röthenbach; 48 M. Höfen (*Ochse), a favourite summer-resort, with pretty villas; 49 M. Calmbach (Sonne, poor), a thriving place, with a neat modern church, and also a summer-resort.

Wildbad (1426 ft.), a celebrated watering-place (3500 inhab.), situated in the narrow, pine-clad ravine of the Enz, possesses warm alkaline springs, used as a cure for gout and rheumatism. The greater part of the town lies on the right bank of the Enz, while the station is at the lower end of it on the left bank. In the Curplatz, at the end of the Haupt-Strasse, are the handsome Curhaus or Bad-Hôtel, with reading and ball rooms and a café (music in the morning and afternoon), and the large Badgebäude, with its admirably equipped baths. The Springs (90-100° Fahr.) rise in the baths themselves, and their efficacy (for gout, rheumatism, etc.) is chiefly ascribed to their being thus used in a fresh and natural condition at the fountain-head. Most of the patients (about 6500 annually) prefer the system of bathing in common, as at Leuk in Switzerland. There are three well-arranged public baths for each sex $(1 \mathcal{M})$, as well as a number of private baths $(2 \mathcal{M})$. The sumptuous Karlsbad, with paintings by Kolb, was opened in 1892. Between the Enz and the Bellevue Hotel stands the Trinkhalle, a tasteful iron structure in the Renaissance style, with a band-pavilion in the centre. Higher up in the grounds is the Theatre. The Katharinenstift, a bath for the poor, is a building in the roundarch style. In the lower part of the town is Herrenhilf, a sanatorium for children. There are pleasant walks and grounds on both sides of the village, on the banks of the Enz: on the S. (upper) side past the new Roman Catholic church as far as the (1 M.) Windhof, a café; on the N. (lower) side to the (1 M.) garden 'Zum kühlen Brunnen', a favourite resort.

118 M. RAILWAY in 5-83/4 hrs. (fares 15 M 50, 11 M 30, 6 M 60 pf.; express 17 M 70, 12 M 50 pf.). This line forms the shortest route from Stuttgart to Berlin (16 hrs.; comp. R. 15).

From Stuttgart to (14 M.) Bietigheim, see R. 2. The line follows the Enz for a short way, and crosses it just before its influx into the Neckar, near (18 M.) Besigheim (*Waldhorn; Bahnhof; Krone), an antiquated little town, probably of Roman origin, very picturesquely situated on a rock between the Enz and the Neckar, with two handsome towers of mediæval castles. On the Michaelsberg (1280 ft.), 6 M. to the N.W., is a very ancient chapel, said to have been once a Roman temple of Luna. The line now follows the Neckar, passes through a tunnel (700 yds.) beyond (22 M.) Kirchheim (to the right of which is Liebenstein, with an interesting church and a Renaissance château), and returns to the river at - 25 M. Lauffen (564 ft.), the old castle and church of which stand picturesquely on two rocks, separated by the river. Beyond (281/2 M.) Kram-Str.; Albrecht, in the Allee.

Heilbronn (518 ft.), formerly a free city of the Empire, now an important industrial town with 29,940 inhab., is charmingly situated on both banks of the Neckar. The Allee, a pleasant avenue on the site of the old fortifications, encircles the old town, beyond which suburbs are springing up in every direction.

On our left, as we leave the station, is the Custom House, with the Wilhelms-Canal; farther on are the Winterhafen and Holzhafen. From the Bahnhof-Str. we enter the town by a broad iron bridge. On the right bank, to our right, is the handsome new Post Office (Pl. B. 3). In the next side-street to the right is the Historical Museum (Pl. 5; B, 3), comprising prehistoric and other antiquities from the environs of Heilbronn.

Going straight on, we come to the Market-Place. On the left rises the late-Gothic Rathhaus (Pl. 13; B, C, 3), with its lofty flight of steps, containing a curious clock constructed by Habrecht in 1580. In the council-chamber Götz von Berlichingen, immortalised by Goethe, is said to have effectually cured 'headache, toothache, and every other human malady', with blows from his 'iron hand'. Letters from him, from Franz von Sickingen, the Reformer, from Schiller, who solicits the protection of the town in 1793, and others are shown in the Archives. The old-fashioned house at the S.W. corner of the Market (Pl. 6; B. 3) is pointed out as that in which 'Käthchen of Heilbronn' was born; but her history is purely traditionary.

The *Church of St. Kilian (Pl. 9; C, 3), originally an early-Gothic edifice founded in 1013, of which the nave, with pointed arcades, is the only remnant, was rebuilt in the late-Gothic style in the 15th cent., and the tower, 217 ft. in height, was completed in 1529 in the Renaissance style. The whole building has just been thoroughly restored. The choir (1480), with richly articulated pillars and network-vaulting, contains an *Altar in carved wood, by Tilmann Riemenschneider (1498), and a fine ciborium. — The adjoining Clara-Strasse contains handsome new buildings.

We descend the Kirchbrunnen-Str. to the right, and enter the Deutschhof-Str. to the left, with the Deutsches Haus (Pl. 2; B, 4), originally an imperial palace, afterwards occupied by the Teutonic Order, and now by the courts of law. The Treaty of Heilbronn was concluded here in 1633. The oldest part of the building is the lowest story, in the Romanesque style, of the tower of the adjacent Roman Catholic church. The court on the N. side is picturesque. Opposite is the old Schönthaler Hof (now Restaurant zum Deutschen Hause, see p. 20), where, as a quaint inscription on the gateway (right side) records, Charles V. once spent four weeks and was cured of an illness by the Heilbronn waters.

Nearly opposite the Deutsches Haus is the Allerheiligen-Str., leading to the square red Diebsthurm or Götzens Thurm (Pl. 3; B, 4), in which Goethe, contrary to the fact, represents Götz von Berlichingen as having died (whereas he was only imprisoned here for one night in 1519; comp. pp. 20, 22). To the E. of the tower we ascend the Rosenberger-Str. to the Allee (p. 20), in which, on the right, rises the Synagogue (Pl. 14; C, 4), in the Moorish-Byzantine style. Farther on is the Harmonie-Gebäude (Pl. C, D, 3), containing the exhibition of the Kunstverein. Near it are the large Prison (Pl. D, 5) and the New Gymnasium (Pl. D, 5).

From the N. end of the Allee the Thurm-Str. leads W. to the Sülmer-Str. Here, on the left, rises the simple Gothic Church of St. Nicholas (Pl. 10), where the first Protestant divine service was held in 1525. The Schiller-Haus opposite was occupied by the poet in 1793-94. Farther on, in the Hafenmarkt, are remains of the Franciscan Church (Pl. 7), destroyed by the French in 1688. The tower and the cloisters of the old monastery (now a school) are well preserved.

The pretty Cemetery contains several interesting tombstones. The Water Works, with steam-pump and reservoir, at the base of the Wartberg, should be seen by engineers.

On the Wartberg (1010 ft., or 492 ft. above the Neckar; an ascent of $^3/_4$ hr.) are an old watch-tower and an inn. Charming view of the Neckar-Thal. Another fine point is the (1 hr.) Jägerhaus (*Tavern). From the Jägerhaus we may walk past the Köp/erquelle and through wood to the tower on the Schweinsberg (1205 ft.; $^{11}/_2$ hr. to the S.E. of Heilbronn), which affords a fine *Panorama, embracing the Alb chain to the S., the Black Forest and Vosges to the S.W., the Haardt Mts. and Donnersberg to the W., the Odenwald and Spessart to the N., and the Löwenstein Mts. to the E. The Cäcilien-Wiese ($^{11}/_2$ M.) presents a lively and picturesque scene at the vintage season. Another favourite point is the Trappensee (*Restaurant), $^{11}/_2$ M. to the E. of the town.

From Heilbronn to Bretten and Carlsruhe, see p. 18; to Schwäbisch-Hall, see p. 23.

The train now crosses the Wilhelms-Canal and the Neckar. To the right is the line to Weinsberg (R. 5); on the hill are the tower and inn on the Wartberg (see above). Near (37 M.) Neckarsulm, a pleasant little town with an old château of the Teutonic Order, the train returns to the Neckar, and beyond (39 M.) Kochendorf (village and château ¹/₂ M. to the E.) it crosses the Kocher.—40 M. Jagstfeld (*Bräuninger's Bad-Hôtel, with terrace on the Neckar), a saline bath at the mouth of the Jagst, with a sanatory institute for children (Bethesda). Near the station are the salt-springs of Friedrichshall.

FROM JAGSTFELD TO OSTERBURKEN, 24 M., railway in 3/4-11/2 hr. The line runs viâ Neudenau and Möckmühl. — 24 M. Osterburken, on the Heidelberg and Würzburg railway, see p. 71.

FROM JAGSTFELD TO HEIDELBERC, 85 M. (railway in 2 hrs.). The train crosses the Neckar. 2 M. Wimpfen, Wimpfen 'im Thal' and above it 'Wimpfen am Berg', both 'enclaves' of Hessen, with the salt-works and saline baths of Ludwigshall (*Bad-Hötel Ritter; Mathildenbad; Sonne; wine at Phil. Schmidt's). The fine Gothic abbey-church in the valley was erected in 1262-78. Wimpfen am Berg, with its picturesque old houses, towers, and walls, affords fine views of the valley of the Neckar, with the Wartberg to the S.E. The remains of the Hohenstaufen residence and chapel (now a stable) are interesting. The parish-church has a Gothic choir of the 13th cent.; the Dominican church was rebuilt at the beginning of the 18th cent. in the Baroque style.

The line now traverses a hilly and partly wooded district. 5½ M. Rappenau (*Gasthof zur Saline) also has salt-springs. Several unimportant stations. Then (14 M.) Sinzheim, where Turenne defeated the Imperial army in 1674. The line traverses the Elsenz-Thal. At (22½ M.) Meckesheim (Zur Eisenbahn; Rail. Restaurant), on the Elsenz, it joins the railway to Neckarelz (p. 74). 24½ M. Mauer; 26 M. Bammenthal; 28½ M. Neckargemind, the junction of the Würzburg line (R. 15); thence to (35 M.) Heidelberg, see p. 72.

The train crosses the Jagst and at (42½ M.) Offenau, with the salt-springs of Clemenshall, enters the charming vine-clad Neckar-Thal, with its numerous castles. The village and château of Heinsheim and the ruined castle of Ehrenberg are passed on the left bank. — 45 M. Gundelsheim (Prinz Karl), a small town with walls, towers, and a picturesque château on an ivy-clad rock. Opposite, on a hill on the left bank, is the ruin of Guttenberg. The train then passes through the Michelsberg by a tunnel 950 yds. long to (46½ M.) Hassmersheim (Anker). To the right, above (47½ M.) Neckarzimmern, rises the picturesque castle of Hornberg, where Götz von Berlichingen died in 1562 (comp. p. 21). — Then through the charming valley to (left) Hochhausen, where we cross the Elz to (50½ M.) Neckarelz (436 ft.; Rail. Restaurant; Kling; Hirsch), the junction of the Würzburg-Heidelberg and Meckesheim railways (p. 71).

The train follows the right bank of the pretty, wooded Neckar-Thal. Beyond $(52^{1}/_{2} \text{ M.})$ Binau a tunnel 850 yds. long penetrates the Rothenberg. — $55^{1}/_{2}$ Neckargerach (Krone), with large quarries; on the hill is the ruined Minneburg, destroyed in the Thirty Years' War. $57^{1}/_{2}$ M. Zwingenberg (Schiff), with a picturesque castle, now restored, property of the Grand-Duke of Baden.

64 M. Eberbach (440 ft.; *Leininger Hof; *Krone), an old town with a brisk trade in timber (4940 inhab.). The Katzenbuckel (2053 ft.), the highest of the Odenwald Mts., commanding an extensive view, may be ascended hence in 2 hrs. — To Heidelberg through the Neckar-Thal, see p. 71.

Our train quits the Neckar-Thal and turns to the right into the grassy and wooded valley of the Itterbach, which it crosses several times. Beyond (671/2 M.) Gaimühle a lofty viaduct. — 711/2 M. Kailbach; 75 M. Schöllenbach. The train penetrates the Krähenberg by a tunnel nearly 2 M. long, descends the Mümling-Thal to (78 M.) Hetzbach-Beerfelden, and crosses the Himbachel Viaduct, 145 ft. high. - 83 M. Erbach (*Zum Odenwald; Adler), a town with 2800 inhab., is the principal place on the estates of Count Erbach. The Schloss contains several interesting *Collections (armour, firearms, antiquities). In the chapel is shown the stone sarcophagus of Eginhard and his wife Emma (early-Gothic, and therefore not genuine), brought from the church of Seligenstadt (see below) in 1810.

841/2 M. Michelstadt (*Löwe; Schwan; Dr. Scharfenberg's Hydropathic), a prettily-situated little town, with a late-Gothic church (15th cent.) and a quaint Rathhaus. Opposite, to the left, is Steinbach, with Eginhard's basilica, one of the most important relics of the Carlovingian epoch and earlier than the church at Seligenstadt (see below). - We pass Schloss Fürstenau (left) and the stations of Zell, König, Mümling-Grumbach, and Höchst-Neustadt. Tunnel. -97 M. Wiebelsbach-Heubach, junction of the Darmstadt line (see Baedeker's Rhine). — 99 M. Gross - Umstadt (*Lamm); 1001/2 M. Klein - Umstadt; 104 M. Langstadt; 1051/2 M. Babenhausen, the junction for Darmstadt and Aschaffenburg (see p. 61).

112 M. Seligenstadt, with 3700 inhab., is famous for the abbey founded here about 827 by Eginhard (or Einhard), the biographer of Charlemagne. — 1141/2 M. Hainstadt; 1161/2 M. Klein-Auheim. — The train then crosses the Main and reaches (118 M.) Hanau (p. 59).

5. From Heilbronn to Schwäbisch-Hall (Nuremberg).

34 M. Railway in 1-2 hrs. (fares 4 \mathcal{M} 40, 2 \mathcal{M} 90, 1 \mathcal{M} 90 pf.; express 5 \mathcal{M} , 3 \mathcal{M} 5 pf.); express to Nuremberg by this route in 4½ hrs. (14 \mathcal{M} 50, 9 M 60, 6 M 20 pf.). This is the shortest route between Nuremberg and Carlsruhe (via Bretten, p. 14).

Heilbronn, see p. 20. The train crosses the Wilhelms-Canal and the Neckar. To the left diverges the line to Eberbach and Hanau

(R. 4). Tunnel (1111 yds.).

41/2 M. Weinsberg (600 ft.; *Traube), an ancient and historically memorable town. The ruined castle of Weibertreu ('women's faithfulness'), on the height, was the scene of the events on which Chamisso founded one of his ballads. Justinus Kerner, the poet (d. 1862), occupied a house at the foot of the hill. Near it is a monument to him. The handsome Romanesque Church, a basilica with pointed arcades, contains a small picture of 1659, representing the women quitting the castle. During the War of the Peasants in 1525 the most savage atrocities were committed here.

We next traverse the fertile and populous Weinsberger-Thal. On a hill to the right, near (8 M.) Willsbach, is the small town of Löwenstein (1260 ft.), commanded by the ruined castle of the Löwenstein-Wertheim family. In a narrow valley at the N.W. foot of the hill lies the Thäusser Bad, with springs containing Epsom salts and sulphate of lime; at the E. base is Lichtenstern, a Protestant reformatory for children, formerly a nunnery. Beyond (10 M.) Eschenau the train descends into the valley of the Brettach, which it crosses near (13 M.) Bretzfeld.

 $16^{1}/_{2}$ M. Oehringen (748 ft.; Württemberger Hof; pop. 3700) is a pleasant town on the Ohrn, with a château of Prince Hohenlohe-Oehringen, below which are vast cellars. The Gothic Stiftskirche, containing monuments of the Hohenlohe family and good stained glass, is interesting. — 21 M. Neuenstein; $24^{1}/_{2}$ M. Waldenburg, both with châteaux of the Hohenlohe family. Beyond (27 M.) Kupfer the train reaches the highest point (1243 ft.) of the line, and then descends rapidly to (30 M.) Gailenkirchen and the valley of the Kocher, passing through two tunnels.

34 M. Hall, or Schwäbisch-Hall (885 ft.; *Lamm; *Adler), on the Kocher (pop. 9100), once a city of the empire, has a picturesque appearance from the station. The Gothic Church of St. Michael (1427-1525) contains as an altar-piece an Entombment, ascribed to Lohkorn (about 1480). On the left bank of the Kocher is the Church of St. Catharine (14th cent.), containing a fine high-altar. Large salt-works with saline baths.

The salt-water is conveyed in pipes from the "Wilhelmsglück mine (7 M.), which is more interesting than those in the Salzkammergut. Descent by a flight of steps (680), or by a slide. The long galleries and spacious halls, glittering with crystals of salt, are imposing. Pure rock-salt is excavated here. Where the salt is less pure, it is obtained by filling portions of the mine with water, which in a few weeks becomes saturated with salt, and is then drawn off and evaporated.

The interesting church (12th cent.) of the old Benedictine abbey of Komburg, at Steinbach (Traube), 11/2 M. to the S. of Hall, now a home for invalid soldiers, possesses an embossed altar-covering (antependium) in gilded copper, of 1130, and a huge candelabrum of the same period. Immediately below it is Klein-Komburg, with the early-Romanesque church of St. Ægidius. In the choir are frescoes of the 12th cent., discovered in 1877, now restored. Komburg and Steinbach are 11/4 M. from Hessenthal (see below).

Beyond Hall the train passes through two tunnels and goes on to (38 M.) Hessenthal, junction of the following line (p. 25).

6. From Stuttgart to Nuremberg viâ Backnang.

120 M. RAILWAY in 4-73,4 hrs. (fares 15 M 40, 10 M 20, 6 M 60 pf.; express 17 M 60, 12 M 40, 8 M 80 pf.). This railway forms the shortest line of communication between Stuttgart and Nuremberg (comp. RR. 5, 7).

To (8 M.) Waiblingen, see p. 27. The MURRTHAL RAILWAY here diverges to the left from the Remsthal Line (R. 7), and crosses the deep Remsthal by a viaduct and an iron bridge. 10¹/₂M. Neustadt, with the favourite watering-place of Neustädtle. Tunnel of 390 yds. 12 M. Schwaikheim; 14 M. Winnenden, a busy little town, with the château of Winnenthal, now a lunatic asylum of high repute. In the background, to the right, rise the spurs of the Welzheimer Wald (Wartturm of Bürg, Buocher Höhe). Pleasant walk viâ Buoch (p. 27) to the Remsthal. — 16 M. Nellmersbach; 17 M. Maubach. We now enter the Murrthal and reach —

19 M. Backnang (Post), a manufacturing town (6763 inhab.) with extensive tanneries. Interesting Gothic-Romanesque church of a canonry founded here about 1116. To the right, in the background, is the Murrhardter Wald (with Schloss Ebersberg); to the left are the Löwenstein Mts. — The small watering-place of Rietenau (Curhaus) lies 31/2 M. to the N. of Backnang.

FROM BACKNANG TO BIETIGHEIM, 16 M. (railway in ³/₄-1¹/₄ hr.). The line follows the Murthal, passing Burgstall and Kirchberg, to (8¹/₂ M.) Marbach (Post), a small town on a height on the right bank of the Neckar, the birthplace of Schiller (b. 10th Nov., 1759; d. 9th May, 1805). The house in which he was born, purchased by subscription in 1859, and restored to its original condition, contains reminiscences of the illustrious poet. Close to the town is the Schillerhöhe, a park with a beautiful view, containing a colossal bronze Statue of Schiller, by Rau, erected in 1876. — The line crosses the Neckar by a viaduct 100 ft. high (fine view). — 12½ M. Beihingen (junction for Ludwigsburg, p. 16). Then (16 M.) Bietigheim (p. 15).

The train crosses the Weissach and descends into the peaceful wooded Murrthal. 22 M. Steinbach; 23 M. Oppenweiler, with the château of Hr. von Sturmfeder, and the hoary Reichenberg. 251/2 M. Sulzbach, where the mediæval Schloss Lautereck is now a tannery. The train crosses the Murr.

29 M. Murrhardt (930 ft.; Sonne or Post; *Stern), an ancient little town (4200 inhab.), once a Benedictine abbey. The Walderichskirche, on the hill, perhaps occupies the site of a Roman fort. The Stadtkirche, formerly the abbey-church, will repay a visit. The *Walderichs-Kapelle, adjoining the N. tower of the Stadtkirche, is in the late-Romanesque style. The Roman castrum lay to the S.E. of the town. The Roman 'limes' (p. 27) from Welzheim to Mainhardt, crossing the Murrthal, passes about 3/4 M. to the E. of Murrhardt.

32 M. Fornsbach.

A pleasant excursion (road) may be made to the S. to the (6 M.) Ebnisee (1555 ft.), a pretty forest-lake. About 1 M. to the S.E., by the Roman 'limes' (p. 27), is Gausmannsweiler (Inn Zum Ebnisee).

The train passes through the 'Schanze', or E. wall of the Murrthal, by a tunnel 578 yds. long, and reaches the Roththal near (35 M.) Fichtenberg. Another tunnel, 590 yds. long, leads to the Kocher-Thal and (381/2 M.) Gaildorf. The Kocher is crossed by a lofty bridge. 40 M. Ottendorf; 431/2 M. Wilhelmsglück, station for the salt-mines of that name (p. 24). Then $(45^{1}/_{2} \text{ M.})$ Hessenthal, junction of the line to Hall (p. 24). The station lies at the foot of the Einkorn (1555 ft.; view), a favourite resort from Hall (31/2 M.), with a ruined church and pleasure-grounds.

Next stations Sulzdorf, where the Bühlerbach is crossed, Grossaltdorf, Eckartshausen, and Maulach, with a chalybeate spring.

From Maulach an excursion may be made to (2'/4 M.) Burgberg (1755'), a gamekeeper's house (rimts.) on a hill-top enclosed by an ancient earthen rampart; extensive view.

62 M. Crailsheim (*Lamm; Hôtel Faber; Deutscher Kaiser), on the Jagst, a town of 5000 inhab., with a handsome Rathhaus and an old château of the Hohenlohe family (now public offices). The Gothic Church of St. John (15th cent.) contains a winged altar with paintings by wonigemut, and a cidorium of 1470.

Niederstetten, an old town with walls and gates, the residence of Prince Hohenlohe-Jagstberg; 28 M. Laudenbach; 30 M. Weitersheim ("Hirsch, Lamm), on the Tauber, with the interesting château of Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg. (Thence to Creglingen and Rothenburg ob der Tauber, see p. 130.) Then Markelsheim (a wine-growing place), Igersheim, and Mergentheim (p. 70).

From Crallsheim to Nördlingen. 40 M. (railway in 2-3 hrs.).

From Crailsheim to Nördlingen, 40 M. (railway in 2-3 hrs.); to Ulm, 68 M. (by Aalen and Heidenheim, in 31/2-6 hrs.). The line ascends the Jagstthal towards the S.; stations Jagstheim, Stimpfach, and Jagstzell, where the Jagst is crossed. Then (13 M.) Ellwangen (1410 ft.; Adler; Post), an old town (pop. 4700) with a castle on a hill, a small ecclesiastical principality down to 1803. The Stiftskirche, founded in 770, rebuilt in 1124, in the Romanesque style, with a crypt under the choir, is in admirable preservation. The interior was tastefully embellished with stucco-ornamentation varion. The interior was tastering embension with state-ornamentation in the 17th century. On the walls are two epitaphs in bronze by Peter Vischer of Nuremberg. On the Schönenberg (1710 ft.), to the N.E., is the handsome Church of Loretto, a resort of pilgrims. — Near Ellwangen (3/4 M to the S.W.) are the favourite mineral baths of Schrezheim. At (181/2 M.) Goldshöfe the train reaches the Remsthal Railway (p. 28).

Beyond (67 M.) Ellrichshausen, with a ruined castle, the train crosses the Bavarian frontier. — 691/2 M. Schnelldorf; 721/2 M. Zumhaus; 76 M. Dombühl (Rail. Restaurant, with rooms), the junction for Dinkelsbühl and Nördlingen (p. 111). - 82½ M. Büchelberg; 85 M. Leutershausen. — 911/2 M. Ansbach (p. 130), the junction of the Frankfort and Munich line (R. 25).

The line runs for a short distance through the Rezat-Thal, and then turns to the N.E. by stations Sachsen and Wicklesgreuth to $(100^{1}/_{2} \text{ M})$ Heilsbronn (1345 ft.; Post), a small town, with remains of a famous Cistercian Abbey, partly in good preservation. The church, a Romanesque basilica with timber roof, begun in 1150, with a Gothic choir (1263-80 and later) and a Gothic aisle (1430-35, afterwards enlarged), and the refectory (now a Roman Catholic church), with fine vaulting and Gothic turrets, are still standing; but the cloisters and other parts of the monastery were destroyed in 1770.

The abbey-church was the burial-place of the Franconian line of the Hohenzollerns from 1297 to 1625 and contains the ashes of the first three Brandenburg Electors of that house, Frederick I., Frederick II., and Albert Achilles. Among the finest monuments are those of the Electress Anna of Brandenburg (d. 1512); of Margrave George Frederick of Ansbach (d. 1603), with eight statuettes of Counts of Zollern; and of the Margrave Joachim Ernest (d. 1625). Observe also three winged altar-pieces with carvings and paintings by Grünewald (altar of St. Ursula) and of Wohlgemut's school (about 1500), and a late-Gothic ciborium (1515). Both the church and its works of art have suffered from the restoration in 1856-60. The spring which gave the abbey its name rises within the church.

1051/2 M. Raitersaich; 109 M. Rossstall, with an old church; 114 M. Stein, with Faber's celebrated lead-pencil factory (shown by special permission only). The train then crosses the Rednitz. and reaches Schweinau and (120 M.) Nuremberg (p. 95).

7. From Stuttgart to Nördlingen and Nuremberg.

(fares 8 M, 5 M 30, 3 M 40 pf.; express 9 M 20, 6 M 50 pf.). Express from Stuttgart to Nuremberg via Nördlingen in 51/3 hrs. (via Crailsheim in 4 hrs.; comp. R. 6).

The Remsthal Railway diverges to the left from the Stuttgart and Ulm line beyond $(2^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Cannstatt (p. 13), and winds up the hill which separates the valleys of the Neckar and the Rems. From the top a fine view of Stuttgart, the Neckar-Thal, and the Rothenberg (p. 29). — 6 M. Fellbach (Traube). The line now descends to —

8 M. Waiblingen (Post; Löwe), a town of great antiquity (4786 inhab.), whence the imperial Salic line and the succeeding House of Hohenstaufen derived theirname of Waiblinger, corrupted by the Italians into Ghibellini, once so celebrated as the name of a faction. The late-Gothic Äussere Kirche, outside the town, erected 1459-88, restored 1866, has a fine tower. (To Murrhardt, see R. 6.)

The populous, fertile, and picturesque REMSTHAL, enclosed by the Schurwald on the right and the spurs of the Welzheimer Wald on the left, begins here. Beyond (11 M.) Endersbach is a handsome viaduct. To the right, in a lateral valley, are Beutelsbach (Löwe) and Schnaith, wine-growing places, the former with a very ancient abbey-church. To the left lies Gross-Heppach (Lamm). On the height to the left of (14 M.) Grunbach is the village of Buoch, affording a fine view of the Swabian Alb (see p. 25); to the right is the Schönbühl, with a reformatory for boys. 17 M. Winterbach.

18½M. Schorndorf (Krone), an old town once fortified (4500 inhab.), has an interesting Gothic church, with very fine portal and choir of 1477. — Near (21 M.) Urbach the train crosses the Rems. 22½M. Plüderhausen (Stern). Above (24½M.) Waldhausen, to the N., is the Elisabethenburg, where Emp. Frederick Barbarossa is said to have been born (p. 42). The vine-culture ceases. — To the N.E. of (27 M.) Lorch (*Harmonia; Sonne; Krone) rises the Benedictine monastery of that name, founded by the Hohenstaufen in 1102, partly destroyed in the War of the Peasants, and recently restored. It contains several tombs and monuments of the Hohenstaufen, but none of the more distinguished members of the family. In the centre of the nave is a late-Gothic cenotaph, erected in 1475 to Duke Frederick of Swabia (d. 1105), the founder of the monastery. The unimportant mural paintings are of the 15th century.

Lorch was the site of a Roman castrum, and there was, perhaps, another on the monastery-hill. Here begins the Rhine Limes (boundary) of the Romans, which took the Hohenstaufen as its objective point; while at Ffahlbronn, 3 M. to the N., is the end of the Danube Limes, stretching towards the E. (comp. p. 127). — From Lorch a road leads to the S. to (3 M.) Wäschenbeuern (Hirsch) and (1½ M.) Hohenstaufen (p. 42).

The Wäscher Schlössle, 3/4 M. to the N.E. of Wäschenbeuern, was the

The Wäscher Schlössle, 3/4 M. to the N.E. of Wäschenbeuern, was the seat of Frederick of Büren (11th cent.), progenitor of the Hohenstaufen. We obtain a glimpse of the Hohenstaufen to the right as the train emerges from a short cutting just beyond Lorch, and afterwards a glimpse of the double-peaked Rechberg (p. 42). In the valley lies Schierenhof, a Roman castrum.

311/2 M. Gmünd, or Schwäbisch-Gmünd (*Rad; Drei Mohren), formerly a free city of the Empire (pop. 16,804), possesses three very old churches, many manufactories of jewellery, and a large industrial museum. The Arlers or Parlers were once celebrated architects here. The Gothic Kreuzkirche was erected by Heinrich Arler in 1351-77 (completed in 1410; towers 1492); the sculptures of the portal date from 1380, and the carved altar from the 15th century. The Romanesque Church of St. John contains an old picture in which the castle of Hohenstuffen is represented. Outside the town is the pilgrimage-church of St. Salvator, with two chapels hewn in the rock. The monastery of Gottes-Zell is now a prison.

1 M 40 pf.). Ascent of the Rechberg, see p. 42.

38 M. Unter-Böbingen, with a Roman castrum; $40^{1}/2$ M. Mögglingen. From either of these stations an excursion may be made via Heubach to the $(4^{1}/2$ M.) Rosenstein (2398 ft.), with some interesting ruins and a superb view of the Alb. — At $(43^{1}/2$ M.) Essingen we cross the watershed (1719 ft.) between the Rems and Kocher, and descend into the Kocher-Thal.

47 M. Aalen (Krone), once a free imperial town (pop. 7150), was the birthplace of the poet C. D. F. Schubart (d. 1791) and contains a monument to him. The Cemetery Church is adjoined by a Roman camp.

FROM AALEN TO ULM, 45 M. (railway in 2 hrs.). 2½ M. Unterkochen; 5 M. Oberkochen (1½ M. above which is the picturesque source of the Kocher); 9 M. Königsbronn, with large iron-works, at the point where the Brenz takes its rise in the picturesque Brenztopf or Königsbrunnen. Then through the smiling Brenzthal. 12 M. Schnaitheim. — 14 M. Heidenheim (*Ochs), a thriving industrial town with 8000 inhab., commanded by the picturesque half-ruined Schloss Hellenstein (view-tower). A road leads to the W. viâ Steinheim into the (6 M.) picturesque Wendthal (p. 32). — 15½ M. Mergelstetten; 17½ M. Herbrechtingen (road to Hürben, see below, 2½ M.); 21 M. Giengen (Post), once an imperial town, with mineral baths. — From (24 M.) Hermaringen a visit may be paid to the recently discovered *Charlotten-Höhle near Hürben, 3 M to the W. The road leads viâ Burgberg, with the picturesquely situated château of Count Carl von Linden, and the ruin of Kaltenburg. The cave (715 yds. long) lies in the Hürbethal, a characteristic Jura valley, ½ M. to the S. of the village of Hürben. It consists of several chambers of different sizes and is specially interesting on account of the beautiful stalactites pendant from the roof (electric lights; admission-fees various). Near the mouth of the cave is a restaurant. — The train follows the Brenzthal to (26 M.) Sontheim, and then turns to the S.W. to Nieder-Stotzingen. Stations Rammingen; Langenau, a thriving little town with 3650 inhab.; Unter-Elchingen, the scene of the battle (14th Oct., 1805) from which Ney acquired his ducal title; and Thalfingen. The train then crosses the Danube to (45 M.) Ulm (p. 32).

At $(48^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Wasseralfingen (*Zum Schlegel, opposite the foundry) are extensive iron-works, with an interesting little rack-and-pinion railway ascending to the shaft on the hillside. Above rises the Braunenberg (view). The train quits the Kocher-Thal and ascends rapidly to $51^{1}/2 \text{ M.}$ Goldshöre (junction for the Ellwangen and Crailsheim line, p. 26), where it turns to the E. On a hill to the right, between (54 M.) Westhausen and (57 M.) Lauchheim, is Schloss Kapfenburg. Beyond Lauchheim the line is carried through the watershed (1905 ft.) between the Rhine and the Danube by means of deep cuttings and a tunnel (710 yds.), and enters the narrow and picturesque Eger-Thal. About 41/2 M. to the N. lies the château of Hohen-Baldern (2060 ft.), belonging to the Prince of Oettingen-Wallerstein, with a new and lofty tower. Above Bopfingen the Flochberg, with a ruined castle, is seen on the right; to the left is the bare cone of the Ipf(2237 ft.; view), on which prehistoric stone implements have been found.

64 M. Bopfingen (1535 ft.; König von Württemberg), once an imperial town. The Gothic Church of St. Blasius contains a winged altarpiece by F. Herlen (1477) and a ciborium by H. Böblinger (1510).

The line quits the E. part of the Alb district and enters the Ries (p. 112). 76 M. Trochtelfingen; 68 M. Pflaumloch.

123 M. RAILWAY to Ulm in 21/4-33/4 hrs. (fares 7 M 60, 5 M, 3 M 20 pf.; express 8 M 20, 5 M 80 pf.); to Friedrichshafen in 41/4-7 hrs. (fares 15 M 90, 10 M 50, 6 M 80 pf.; express 18 M, 12 M 60 pf.).

To (21/2 M.) Cannstatt, see p. 13. Looking back, we obtain a fine view of the Royal Villa, the Rosenstein, and the Wilhelma with its gilded dome. The train ascends on the bank of the Neckar, traversing one of the most beautiful and fertile districts in Swabia.

5 M. Unter-Türkheim (Krone), a village with 3200 inhab., lies at the foot of the Rothenberg (1350 ft.; *Hôtel-Restaurant Luz), where King William (d. 1864) erected a Greek chapel, on the site of the old ancestral castle of the princes of Wurtemberg, as a mausoleum for his consort Queen Catharine (d. 1819), a Russian princess, and himself. In the interior the four Evangelists by Dannecker. Service of the Greek church on Sundays.

Instead of the steep, stony, and shadeless ascent from Unter-Türkheim, we may choose the pleasanter but rather longer route from Ober-Türkheim (see below), either by Uhlbach or direct. A still more extensive prospect is obtained from the Katharinen-Linde, to the S.E., ¹/₂ hr. higher. Charming walk hence to (3 M.) Esslingen (see below).

Barely 1/2 M. to the S.W. of Unter-Türkheim, and on the left bank of the Neckar, lies Wangen (Krone), a favourite point for excursions from Stuttgart. A path leads from Stuttgart through the woods and over the hill direct to Wangen in 11/2 hr.; beautiful views of the city in ascending, and of the Neckar-Thal in descending.

6 M. Ober-Türkheim (*Ochse), another favourite resort.

9 M. Esslingen (757 ft.; *Hôtel Pfähler zur Krone, R. 11/2-2, B. 3/4, D. 2 M; Laich zur Post, R. 1-11/2, D. 1-11/2 M; Kuyel's Beer Saloon), prettily situated on the Neckar, with 22,156 inhab., once a free imperial city and still partly surrounded by walls, which were built by Emperor Frederick II. in 1216. Sparkling Neckar-wine is largely manufactured here. The engineering works founded here by Kessler are the largest in Wurtemberg. Other branches of industry also flourish.

In the market-place is the church of St. Dionysius, a basilica in the transition style, founded in the 11th cent., and partly altered in the 14th and 15th, which possesses a fine screen and ciborium of 1486. St. Paul's Church, also in the market, in the early-Gothic style, completed in 1268, is now used by the Roman Catholics. Opposite the present Rathhaus, which was once the palace of Count Alexander of Wurtemberg, the poet, is the Old Rathhaus, erected in 1430, and formerly known as the 'Steinerne Haus'. It is surmounted by the imperial eagle under a gilded canopy, and another eagle forms the vane on the turret. — Farther on in the same direction is the Wolfsthor, on which are still seen the lions of the Hohenstaufen, hewn in stone.

The conspicuous late-Gothic *Liebfrauenkirche, erected in 1406-1522, was restored in 1862 and again quite recently. Admirable reliefs on the three portals, especially that of the Last Judgment on the S. Portal. The interior, with its slender pillars, contains fine stained-glass windows. Adjoining the organ-loft are the tombstones of Hans and Matthæus Böblinger, two of the architects of the church. Fine perforated tower, 247 ft. in height, completed in 1526; beautiful view from the top. — The once imperial castle of Perfried, above the town, commands another superb view (Restaurant). — The Maille, an island in the Neckar laid out as a promenade, is embellished with bronze busts of Karl Pfaff, the historian, and Theodore Georgii, the gymnastic teacher.

Quitting Esslingen, the train recrosses the Neckar. $12^{1}/_{2}$ M. Altbach. — 14 M. Plochingen (Waldhorn) lies near the confluence of the Fils and Neckar. Upper Neckar Railway to Tübingen, see R. 9. On the hill ($^{1}/_{2}$ hr.) is a tower, affording an extensive panorama of the Alb.

The line now follows the Fils (comp. Map, p. 42). 17 M. Reichenbach; 20 M. Ebersbach. On a wooded height to the right, near (23 M.) Uhingen, rises the château of Filseck; on the river lies Faurndau, formerly a Benedictine monastery, with an old Romanesque church.

26 M. Göppingen (1082 ft.; *Apostel; *Sand), a flourishing town with 14,350 inhab., re-erected after a fire in 1782, contains several weaving mills, factories of metal-wares, machine-shops, and tanneries. Large lunatic asylum of Dr. Landerer. The government-buildings were formerly a ducal castle, erected by Duke Christopher in 1562 with the stones of the castle of Hohenstaufen. At the S.W. corner of the court an artistically-hewn spiral stone staircase ('Traubenstieg', vine-stair) ascends to the tower.

Göppingen is a favourite centre for excursions in the E. Alb. To the N. lies Adelsberg, a former convent, with a fine view. The conical Hohenstaufen (p. 42), the loftiest and most conspicuous spur of the Alb, is ascended in 20 min. from Staufen, which is reached from Göppingen (5 M.) by carr. and pair in 1 hr. (7 \mathcal{M}). — To the S. we may proceed via (7 M.) the sulphur-baths of Boll to the (1½ hr.) Boster or (1½ hr.) Bertaburg-Kornberg (2055 ft.); viâ (11/2 hr.) Eschenbach to the (1 hr.) Fuchseck (1920 ft.); or viâ (11/2 hr.) Schlath to the top of the (1 hr.) Wasserberg (2428 ft.).

281/2 M. Eislingen. — 31 M. Süssen (pp. 28, 42), opposite which (to the N.) rises the round tower of the ruined Staufeneck. In the old cemetery of Gross-Süssen is a curious Mont de Calvaire by Meister Christof of Urach (ca. 1520?).

A pleasant excursion may be made to the E., via (1 hr.) Donzdorf, to the top of the Messelstein (2455 ft.; extensive view). - Proceeding to the S. from the rail stat. of Sussen through the village to (1 hr.) the farm of Grünenburg, we may thence ascend the (1 hr.) Burren ('Glufenkissen'; 2273 ft.), walk along the slope (sign-posts) to the (1/2 hr.) Spitzenberg, ascend to the interesting plateau of the Michelsberg (2463 ft.), and traverse the (3/4 hr.) village of Ober-Böhringen, founded in 1793, to the (20 min.) Hausener Felsen, which affords a fine view of the 'Geissen-Thal'. The return may be made via the reservoir (distant view of the Alps) to (1 hr.) Ueberkingen and (11/4 hr.) Geislingen (see below).

 $33^{1}/_{2}$ M. Gingen. To the right appear the long ranges of the Alb; to the left, on an eminence, are the rugged ruins of Scharfenberg. Farther to the S.E. is the Kuchalb (see below).

From Gingen two routes lead to the (1 hr.) Kuchalb, a hamlet with an inn. Thence we may ascend to the (10 min.) Mairhalde (view) and to the (1/4 hr.) *Hohenstein (2303 ft.), which commands a splendid view to the W. and of the valley. We descend either by a new path to (1/2 hr.) Kuchen (hence to Geislingen 1 hr.) or to (1/2 hr.) Gingen, or via the Kuchalb to (1/4/2 hr.) Geislingen. The Kuchalb may also be reached from Gingen to 1/2 hr. part Scharfenge (100 above) by a good not be leading arther in 11/2 hr. past Scharfenberg (see above) by a good path leading partly through wood.

Near Geislingen, to the left, opens the Eybach-Thal with the village of Eybach and a château of Count Degenfeld; to the right is the Upper Filsthal.

38M. Geislingen (1522ft.; *Sonne; Post, nearest the rail. station, with a good restaurant), a busy town (5722 inhab.) in a narrow ravine at the base of the Alb, where bone and ivory are carved and turned. There are also factories of metal goods and machines. The late-Gothic Marienkirche, founded in 1424, contains choir-stalls carved by Jörg Syrlin the Younger (1512). On a rock above the town rises the Oede Thurm. Opposite, beyond the Pavilion, are the remains of the château of Helfenstein, destroyed in 1552.

Geislingen is a good starting-point for the central part of the SWABIAN ALB (p. 42). We ascend the Filsthal on foot or by diligence (thrice daily, in 23/4 hrs.) to (31/2 M.) Bad Ueberkingen, (31/2 M.) Deggingen, and (5 M.) Wiesensteig (Post). About 3/4 M. beyond Deggingen we pass on the left the chalybeate baths of Ditzenbach. From Wiesensteig we ascend on foot to the (11/4 hr.) *Reussenstein (2500 ft.), a picturesque ruined castle on a precipitous rock, commanding the charming Neidlinger-Thal. We then follow the top of the hill to the (1/2 hr.) Heimenstein, a dark, rocky cavity, a few paces below which we obtain a fine view of the Reussenstein and the valley. Then by Randeck (3/4 M. to the S.W. the Randecker Maar, with peat-diggings) and Ochsenwang (Inn, rustic) to the (1 hr.) *Breitenstein (2660 ft.), a lofty spur of the Alb Mts.. descending precipitously to the plain. Next by the Rauberhof and the ruins of the Rauberburg (Diepoldsburg) to the top of the (1 hr.) Teck, whence we descend to Owen (p. 43). If we omit the Breitenstein, we may proceed from the Reussenstein by Schopfloch to (21/2 hrs.) Gutenberg (p. 43), and thence in 2 hrs. more to Owen. Other excursions may be made from Geislingen to the N. viâ Eybach (p. 31) and through the romantic Roggen-That to (3 hrs.) Weissenstein; to the (2½ hrs.) Messelstein (p. 31); to the E. viâ Söhnstetten to the Wendthat (to Bibersohl, 3½ hrs.).

The line quits the Filsthal and ascends the Geislinger Steige, a wooded limestone hill, rich in fossils, to the table-land of the Swabian Alb (R. 11), the watershed between the Neckar and the Danube. The ascent is very considerable (350 ft. in 3 M.; 1:44); and a second engine is added to the train at Geislingen. The train crosses the Rauhe Alb, as this lofty plain is called (stations Amstetten, Lonsee, Westerstetten, Beimerstetten), and then descends to the valley of the Danube. The fortifications of Ulm soon become visible. The train passes close to the (r.) Wilhelmsburg, the lofty citadel of Ulm, where 30,000 Austrians under General Mack surrendered to the French after the battle of Elchingen (p. 28).

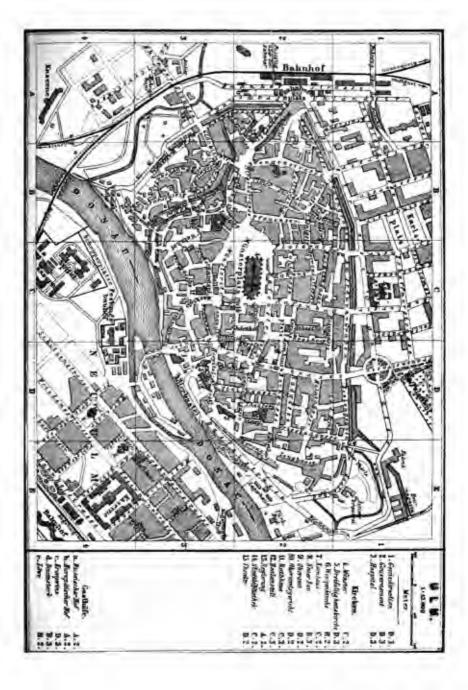

581/2 M. Ulm. — Hotels: Russischer Hof (Pl. a; A, 2), at the station, R. & A. 21/2-3, B. 1, D. 21/2 M; Hôtel de l'Europe (Pl. b; A, 2), to the left of the station, R. 11/2 M; Bahnhof-Hôtel, R. 11/2 M. In the town: *Kronprinz (Pl. c; D, 3), R. from 11/2, D. 21/4 M; *Baumstark (Pl. d; B, 3), R., L., & A. 11/2-21/2, B. 3/4, D. 21/4 M; *Goldener Löwe (Pl. e; B, 2), moderate; Oberpollinger, Hirsch-Str.; *Goldener Hirsch. — Beer at the Württemberger Hof, Platzgasse; at the Kronprinz, Goldner Hirsch, and Bahnhof-Hotel (see above); Rother Ochse (with rooms); Strauss, Oberpollinger, Hirsch-Str.; Beer Saloon near the guard-house. — Wilhelmshöhe Restaurant, a fine point of view.

Military Bands play almost every day in summer on the Wilhelmshöhe and other public gardens. Organ Concert daily in summer, 11-12 (see below).

Ulm (1568 ft.), with 36,200 inhab., formerly an important free imperial city, as its appearance still indicates, and from 1842 to 1866 a fortress of the Germanic Confederation, has belonged to Wurtemberg since 1810. It lies on the left bank of the Danube, which is here joined by the Blau, is augmented by the Iller above the town, and from this point downwards is navigable. The Danube is the boundary between Wurtemberg and Bavaria, to which Neu-Ulm on the opposite bank belongs (7800 inhab.; garrison 5000).

The *Munster (Prot.; Pl. 4), founded in 1377, built at intervals down to the beginning of the 16th cent., and restored and completed in 1843-90, is the largest Gothic church in Germany next to the cathedral of Cologne. The massive and beautifully decorated *Tower in the centre of the W. façade, with the magnificent triple vestibule, was designed and begun by Ulrich Ensinger (1392-95), the third of the cathedral architects, erected by his successors as far as the top of the square portion by the end of the 15th cent., and completed in 1877-90 by Prof. Aug. Beyer by the addition of the octagon and pyramid from a sketch left by Matthäus Böblinger, the last of the original architects. Being 528 ft. in height, it is one of the loftiest stone towers in the world (Cologne 512 ft., Strassburg 466 ft.; Washington Monument 555 ft.; Eiffel Tower, in iron, 985 ft.).

The church is open free, daily 11-12, on Sun. and holidays after divine service, incl. *Performance on the organ in summer (entrance by the 'Brautthür', on the S. side, near the choir). At other times visitors require tickets and enter through the dwelling of the sacristan, adjoining the large W. entrance: for the nave and aisles 20 pf.; choir, chapels, and sacristy, with guide, 1-4 pers. 1 M; extra organ-performance 10 M. The main tower may be ascended from 7 to 6 in summer, 9-3 in winter, and 8-5 in spring and autumn (to the top of the square portion 50 pf., to the octagon 1 M, children half-price).

The Interior originally consisted of a nave with two aisles, all of equal breadth, but in 1507 the latter were divided by slender round pillars and covered with star-vaulting, so as to form four aisles. Length 139 yds., width 55 yds.; nave 141 ft., aisles 72 ft. in height. The sculpturing on the portals is worthy of inspection. On the principal W. portal are the Creation, the Fall, Apostles, etc.; on the S.E. side-portal the Last Judgment; on the S.W. side-portal the history of Mary. The magnificent Organ, the largest in Germany, built in 1856 (100 stops), has lately been restored. By the second pillar of the nave is the Pulpit, executed by Burkhard Engelberger about 1500, the *Cover beautifully carved in by Burkhard Engeloerger about 1900, the "Cover beautifully carved in wood by J. Syrlin in 1510. Farther on, to the left of the entrance to the choir, is the "Ciborium, 93 ft. in height, beautifully sculptured in stone by the 'Master of Weingarten' (1469). Above the choir-arch is a large fresco of the Last Judgment, attributed to Herlin (1470), and till lately concealed by whitewash. The "Choir Stalls, by Jörg Syrlin the Elder, 1469-1474, whose bust adjoins the shrine of the saint, are boldly carved in oak. The busts on the N. side below embody paganism, the relief-busts Judaism, above which is Christianity in the pointed arches. On the S. side are Sibyls below, women of the Old Testament in the middle, and women of the New Testament above. High-altar by M. Schaffner (1521). Fine old stained glass of 1480 in the choir. The S. aisle contains the octagonal Font, with busts of prophets, mottoes, and armorial bearings, by Syrlin the Elder (1470). On the walls and pillars are numerous escutcheons of Swabian families. The octagonal Holy Water Basin round the E. pillar is in the late-Gothic style, by Burkhard Engelberger (1507). The S. (Besserer's) Chapel contains a beautiful portrait of Eitel Besserer by Martin Schaffner (1516). The Sacristy contains an elegant little *Altar of 1484, attributed to M. Schön. In a side-chapel is preserved an old design for

In the market rises the handsome Rathhaus (Pl. 11), erected at the beginning of the 16th cent. in the transition style from late-Gothic to Renaissance, with remains of old frescoes. The Fischkasten, a fine fountain at the S. E. corner, is by Syrlin the Elder (1482).

A little to the W is the Neue Bau (Pl. 8), erected in 1591 on the site of an ancient imperial palace, now containing government-offices. The quadrangle contains a fountain with a figure of St. Elizabeth. — An old patrician dwelling in the Taubengasse contains an *Industrial Museum, with fine wood panelling, ancient sculptures in stone and wood, works in iron, Renaissance furniture, early German and other paintings, etc. — The Stone Bridge at the beginning of the Hirsch-Strasse affords a picturesque survey of the Blau, enclosed by mediæval timber-built houses. Charming walk on the Danube from the Wilhelmshöhe (p. 32) onwards. The Friedrichsau, or public park, also repays a visit.

From ULM to Kempten, 541/2 M. (railway in 3 hrs.). Stations Neu-Ulm, FROM ULM TO KEMPTEN, 04/2 M. (railway in 3 firs.). Stations New Ulm, Senden (junction for Weissenhorn). To the right, on the opposite bank of the Iller, lies Ober-Kirchberg, with a château of Prince Fugger. The line now follows the Iller. Stat. Voehringen; Bellenberg. At (15 M.) Illertissen (Hirsch) is a well-preserved castle, said to be of Roman origin. Near stat. Altenstadt the extensive château of Illereichen. Stations Kellmünz, Fellheim, Heimertingen. Then (33 M.) old town with 9000 inhab., a free city of the Empire down to 1802, and still partly surrounded by walls. Hops are largely cultivated here. The principal church contains 67 *Choir-stalls, carved in the richest late-Gothic style (end of 15th cent.), probably by Jörg Syrlin the Elder. Among the mediæval houses is the Fuggerhaus, in which Wallenstein received the news of his dismissal in 1629. Amidst beautiful woods, 2 M. from Memmingen, lies Dikenreis. (Branch-line to Buchloe, p. 198.) — To the S.E. is the pilgrimage-shrine of Ottobeuren (diligence twice daily in 1½ hr.), once a Benedictine Abbey ranking as a principality, founded in 764. The church, restored in the 18th cent., contains fine choir-stalls, a large organ, and a rich treasury. — Next stations Grönenbach, Dietmannsried, Heising, Kempten (p. 199).

From Ulm to Aalen, see p. 28; to Sigmaringen and Radolfzell, see R. 13.

Our line at first ascends the left bank of the Danube, and passes the influx of the Iller. 63 M. Einsingen; 65 M. Erbach, with a château of Baron Ulm. The as yet insignificant Danube is now crossed, and a flat district traversed. Stations Risstissen (with château and park of Baron Staufenberg), Laupheim, Schemmerberg, Langenschemmern, Warthausen (with château of Herr von König).

811/2 M. Biberach (Württemberg. Hof, at the station; Post; Rad), with 8264 inhab., once a free town of the Empire, is still partly surrounded by walls and towers. Wieland, who was born in 1733 in the neighbouring village of Ober-Holzheim, held a civil appointment here in 1760-69, and is said to have collected materials for his 'Abderiten' from among the townspeople. A marble bust was erected to him in 1881.

About 2 M. to the S.E. of Biberach station (diligence and omnibus several times daily) is the frequented hydropathic of Jordanbad (pens. $4^1/_2$ -6 \mathcal{M}), pleasantly situated in the Rissthal, on the margin of the wood, with a chalybeate spring ('Kneipp Cure').

The country becomes more attractive, and woods begin to appear on both sides. $84^{1}/_{2}$ M. Ummendorf; 86 M. Schweinhausen; 89 M. Essendorf; $93^{1}/_{2}$ M. Schussenried, with the district lunatic asylum. At (97 M.) Aulendorf (*Löwe), junction of the Herbertingen and Memmingen line (p. 54), is the château of Count Königsegg, with a garden commanding a fine view of the distant Alps.

The line now follows the small river Schussen to Friedrichshafen. The churches in Upper Swabia are frequently roofed with zinc. The population is Roman Catholic. 101 M. Durlesbach; 104 M. Mochenwangen. To the left beyond (107 M.) Niederbiegen rises the old Benedictine abbey of Weingarten, with its three towers, founded in 1053 by the Guelphs, now used as barracks. Pilgrimages are still made to the church. Towards the S. the mountains of Appenzell come in view.

1101/2 M. Ravensburg (1456 ft.; Post; Kronprinz), an ancient town with 12,265 inhab., surrounded by vine-clad heights, once subject to the Guelphs, then to the Hohenstaufen, and lastly a free town of the empire, still preserves its mediæval exterior, and is surrounded by pinnacled walls and towers of every variety. The slenderest of the latter is called the Mehlsack ('sack of flour'). The Protestant Church, restored in 1862, is a good Gothic structure, with fine modern stained-glass windows. - Steam Tramway to Weingarten (p. 34).

The Veitsburg (1719 ft.; Restaurant), 1/4 hr. from the town, commands an extensive view of the Lake of Constance, the Alps of Appenzell, and the Vorarlberg. A still finer point is the *Waldburg (2520 ft.), 2 hrs. to the E., the well-preserved ancestral castle of the family of that name ('Truchsess von Waldburg').

Beyond Ravensburg another glimpse of the Alps is obtained. The line traverses parts of the Seewald. 1131/2 M. Oberzell; 116 M. Meckenbeuern. Tettnang, with the large château of the extinct Counts of Montfort, lies to the left. The Lake of Constance at length becomes visible.

123 M. Friedrichshafen. — Hotels. *Deutsches Haus, on the lake, by the station, with garden, R. 2-3, B. 3/4-1, D. 21/2 M; *König von Würt-TEMBERG, 1/4 M. from the station, recommended for a prolonged stay; *Krone, with garden, on the lake, R. 2-21/2, B. 3/4-1, D. 21/2 M; Sonne; *Drei Könige, R. 11/4-2, D. 2 M, B. 80 pf.; Seehof, with garden. Hôtel & Restaurant Müller, on the barbour, with a large terrace.

Friedrichshafen (1320 ft.) lies on the Bodensee or Lake of Constance. The train goes on from the station to the quay, whence steamers ply 4-5 times daily to the chief places on the lake. The busy little town, with 3000 inhab., and a harbour, as its name indicates, was founded by King Frederick of Wurtemberg, who connected Buchhorn, the smallest of 'imperial cities', with the monastery of Hofen, now the palace, and gave the place its modern name. The Schloss contains a few pictures by modern Wurtemberg masters (Gegenbaur, Pflug, etc.), A pavilion in the Riedle Park commands a charming prospect of the lake and the Alps. The historical, prehistorical, and natural history collections of the Bodensee Verein, in the old Hôtel Bellevue, deserve a visit. The lake-baths attract many visitors in summer. Curhaus, with terrace on the lake.

Lake of Constance and steamboats upon it, see pp. 57, 201. - At Langenargen, 6 M. to the S.E. (steamer in 35 min.), is the handsome château 6. Montfort, belonging to Princess Louisa of Prussia (charming view).

D. 2 M; *Kronprinz, at the station; Lamm, in the Karlsplatz, near the station; Falke, near the Marktplatz), once a free city of the empire, is now an industrial town with 18,500 inhab., on the Echaz, the water of which is conducted through the streets. Some of the old houses are picturesque. The ancient ramparts and fosses have been converted into well-built streets. In front of the station is a monument to Frederick List (d. 1846), the political economist, who was born in a house in the Wilhelms-Strasse (indicated by a tablet). In the market-place, in front of the Spitalkirche, rises an old Gothic fountain (1570). The Gothic (Prot.) *Church of St. Mary was erected 1247-1343 and restored in 1844, when some very early frescoes were discovered in the sacristy. The beautiful tower is 240 ft. high. A thorough restoration is now in progress. The octagonal stone *Font of 1499 is admirably and richly sculptured; the reliefs in the niches represent the Baptism of Christ and the Seven Sacraments. The *Holy Sepulchre in the nave (about 1480) is also very interesting. The handsome modern altar was designed by Beisbarth and executed by Lauer (1878). The sacristan's house is opposite the S. side of the church. — *Lucas's Pomological Institution, the Weaving School, the School of Women's Work, and the Refuge of Pastor Werner ('Bruderhaus') merit a visit. The Cemetery contains a tasteful modern chapel in the Gothic style. The little sulphurbath of Heilbrunnen is 3/4 M. from the station. Tübingen (1036 ft.), a town with 13,275 inhab., finely situated on a ridge on the Neckar, possesses a university, founded by Count Eberhard in 1477, of which the theological and medical faculties especially enjoy a high reputation (over 1400 students). Melanchthon was a lecturer here before he was summoned to Wittenberg. Near the station, in the beautiful shady promenades of the 'Wöhrd', is a bronze *Statue of Uhland, by Kietz, erected in 1873. In the plantation at the end of the avenue of planes is a monument to the authoress Ottilie Wildermuth (d. 1877). The house looking down on the Neckar bridge (in the Garten-Strasse) was the residence of the poet Uhland, who died here in 1862. His grave in the cemetery is marked by a monument of granite.

The streets of the old town are narrow and its houses insignificant. The late-Gothic Stiftskirche of St. George (1470-1529) contains fine old stained glass in the *Choir; twelve monuments with recumbent stone figures, chiefly of Wurtemberg princes, including Duke Eberhard im Bart (d. 1496), founder of the university, and Duke Ulrich (d. 1550); and an old German winged picture by a master of Ulm (1520). The organ-loft is adorned with a bust of Luther by Donndorf. — Adjoining the Stiftskirche is the old Aula, containing the Natural History Collections of the University, including a fossil ichthyosaurus 241/2 ft. long. — The Town Hall, a richly coloured timber-built edifice, erected in 1435, was restored in 1877. The Stift, a Protestant seminary with 180 pupils, founded in 1536 by Duke Ulrich, is established in an old Augustinian monastery. The Roman Catholic Wilhelmsstift, with about 150 students, occupies the old Collegium Illustre, founded in 1588 for sons of the nobility. Beyond the Wilhelmsstift is the handsome new Roman Catholic Church, in the early-Gothic style.

In the new E. quarter of the town, in the handsome Wilhelm-Strasse and to the W. of it, are a number of imposing buildings, such as the University, the Women's and the Surgical Clinical Hospitals, the Museum, and the Insane Hospital. The university possesses a picture-gallery (a Correggio, a Murillo, etc., and 125 portraits of professors) and other collections, chief among which is that of Fossils, in the old building next to the Stiftskirche (a fine ichthyosaurus, 24 ft. in length, etc.). At the back of the university rises an obelisk in memory of Silcher, the composer (d. 1860). — The Botanical Garden of the university contains a monument to the poet Hölderlin (d. 1843), presented by the sculptor Andresen in 1881.

By the Town Hall (see above) a path ascends to the left to the spacious Schloss Hohen-Tübingen, situated on a hill commanding the town, erected by Duke Ulrich in the Renaissance style in 1535, with a richly decorated outer portal of 1606 and an inner portal of 1538 (lately restored). It contains the admirably arranged University Library and the Observatory. The cellars, which contain an immense cask (18,700 gallons), a deep well formerly descending to the level of the Neckar, and torture-chambers, are shown to visitors.

Fine *View from the Schänzle, at the back of the Schloss (reached from the court of the Schloss through the low passage beyond the well; then to the left), and from the Lichtenberger Höhe. Another good point of view is the Oesterberg (1436 ft.), opposite the Schloss (Café Sennhütte; Wielandhöhe). On the top of this hill, 20 min. from the town, is the Kaiser-Wilhelms: Thurm, erected in 1893, with portraits of Emp. William I., Emp. Frederick III., and King Charles of Wurtemberg, and a memorial stone to Prince Bismarck. The view extends from the Hohenstaufen to the Plettenberg and the Hornisgrinde. — More distant points of view are the Waldhäuser Höhe, Eberhards-Höhe, Steinenberg (these to the N.), Spitzberg or Oedenburg, and Buss-Thurm (these two to the W., beyond the Schloss).

To the N. of Tübingen, 3 M. on the old Stuttgart road, lies the well-preserved old Cistercian monastery of *Bebenhausen, founded in 1185, one of the finest Gothic structures in Swabia. The building was restored in 1873-75, and is now a royal hunting-residence. The summer-refectory with a collection of ancient arms and armour, the winter-refectory with its Gobelins, and the present dining-hall with its collection of majolica (over 300 pieces) are worthy of inspection. The fine cloisters date from 1471-1496. Adjacent are the Hirsch and Waldhorn Inns.

On a height (1558 ft.), 11/4 hr. to the N.W., rises the Wurmlinger Kapelle, commanding an extensive view. Its praises have been sung by Uhland and other poets. (The chapel may be reached by a pleasant path through the wood from the Schloss at Tübingen, following the top of the hill, viâ the Schänzle, Lichtenberg, and Buss; see above.)

From Tübingen to Hohenzollern and Sigmaringen, see R. 12.

48 M. Kilchberg. — 51½M. Rottenburg (1115 ft.; Bär; Kaiser), an old town (7027 inhab.) picturesquely situated on the Neckar, connected by two bridges with the suburb of Ehingen, is an episcopal see. The late-Gothic Church of St. Martin, with its perforated spire, is interesting. The Bischofshof, formerly a Jesuit convent, contains a collection of Roman antiquities found here in the old Roman station of Sumelocenna. The inmates of the new Prison are employed in agriculture. Hops abound.

At the Altstadt (1394 ft.), 1/4 hr. to the S.E., is a Roman camp; 1/2 hr. farther on, beyond the village of Weiler, is the Weilerburg (1820 ft.; belvedere). — The Sülchenkirche, 20 min. to the N.E. of Rottenburg, once the centre of the Sülich-Gau, is the burial-church of the Roman Catholic bishops of Wurtemberg.

The train crosses the Neckar and follows the left bank. Vineyards gradually give way to pine-forest. $53^{1}/2$ M. Niedernau. The chalybeate and sulphur baths of that name lie in a valley on the opposite bank. The line crosses the Neckar, and near (55 M.) Bieringen the Starzel. To the right, beyond a long tunnel, rises Schloss Weitenburg, with its fine pinnacled tower, commanding a fine view. On a pine-clad hill to the left of $(59^{1}/2$ M.) Eyach is the ruin of Frondeck.

clad hill to the left of (591/2 M.) Eyach is the ruin of Frondeck.

Prettily situated in the Eyach-Thal, 21/2 M. to the S. (omnibus from the station in 20 min.) are the chalybeate baths of Imnau (*Badhaus, R. 1-2 M, board 2 M 10 pf. to 2 M 80 pf.), chiefly visited by ladies. Good baths (mineral, pine-cone. saline, Turkish, and vapour). Pretty walks and excursions. — In the Eyach-Thal, 4 M. to the S., lies the little Prussian town of Haigerloch, picturesquely situated in a deep valley, and commanded by an old Schloss.

62 M. Mühlen; 64 M. Horb. From Horb to Stuttgart viâ Böblingen, and to Schaffhausen viâ Immendingen, see R. 10; to Calw and Pforzheim, see p. 16; to Hausach, see p. 39.

10. From Stuttgart to Böblingen and Schaffhausen.

123 M. RAILWAY in 5-8 hrs. (fares 15 M 90, 10 M 60, 6 M 80 pf.; express 17 M 95, 12 M 65 pf.). This is the direct route from Stuttgart to Central Switzerland (express from Stuttgart to Zürich in 63/4 hrs.; throughcarriages) and to the Baden Oberland (see below).

From Stuttgart (Central Station) to the (5 M.) West Station, see p. 11. Just beyond the station the train penetrates a spur of the Hasenberg, and then ascends (1:100), high above the suburb of Heslach and the gradually contracting valley. Pretty views to the left. The line runs through wood on the Heslacher Wand, and is carried across three deep gorges by lofty embankments. At (9 M.) Vaihingen the train reaches the Filder, the fertile upland plain to the S. of Stuttgart. The Schönbuchwald is now traversed to (151/2 M.) Böblingen (1415 ft.; Waldhorn; Bär), an old town (4300 inhab.), with a castle, prettily situated on two large ponds. The *Waldburg, 10 min. to the N.E. of the town, with a wooded park and extensive view, is a favourite resort.

19 M. Ehningen, where the Würm is crossed; 21 M. Gärtringen; 23 M. Nufringen. — 251/9 M. Herrenberg (Post), an old town in the fertile Gäu; to the left the hills of the Schönbuch and the Rauhe Alb. — 28 M. Nebringen; 31 M. Bondorf; 331/2 M. Ergenzingen. - 35 M. Eutingen (1550 ft.), junction for Pforzheim (p. 17).

From Eutingen to Hausach, 421/2 M., railway in 13/4-41/4 hrs. (from Stuttgart in 31/4-6 hrs.). The line turns to the right, and as far as (21/2 M.) Hochdorf (1653 ft.) coincides with the Nagold railway (p. 17). It then ascends and enters the Black Forest. Stations: Altheim, Bittelbronn, Schopf-loch, Dornstetten. Three lofty viaducts.

181/2 M. Freudenstadt (2362 ft.; *Schwarzwald-Hôtel, at the station, with fine view; *Waldeck, near the wood, in the Strassburger-Str.; Post; Lindel, a loftily-situated Wurtemberg town (6270 inhab.), was founded in 1599 by Protestant refugees from Styria, Carinthia, and Moravia, and is now a summer-resort. At the N.E. corner of the extensive Platz, with its arcaded houses, rises the Rathhaus, and at the S.W. corner is the curious Protestant Church, built in 1601-8. It consists of two naves forming an angle, one set apart for male, the other for female worshippers, while pulpit and altar are placed at the apex of the angle. Observe the carved choir-stalls and the Romanesque font brought from the monastery of Alpirsbach. Near the Roman Catholic church, $\frac{1}{2}$ M. from the town, we obtain a *View of the Swabian Alb, Hohenzollern, etc. — Good roads lead from Freudenstadt to the W. over the Kniebis to Oppenau, and to the N. through the Murgthal to Gernsbach and Wildbad (p. 18).

The train turns to the S. and enters the smiling Kinzig-Thal below (221/2 M.) Lossburg (2148 ft.). - 28 M. Alpirsbach (1432 ft.; *Löwe, Schwan), with a Romanesque church of the 11th cent., has a brisk trade in timber and straw-hats. Near it is the Krähenbad. — 311/2 M. Schenkenzell; 331/2 M. Schiltach (Krone), at the confluence of the Schiltach and the Kinzig; 391/2 M.

Wolfach; 421/2 M. Hausach, see Baedeker's Rhine.

The train descends the narrow valley of Mühlen, with the ruined Staufenberg on the left, and crosses the Neckar. — 42 M. Horb (1262 ft.; Zum Kaiser; Krone; Bär; Zum Bahnhof), with 2200 inhab., has a large church in the transition style. On the hill an ancient watch-tower and a pilgrimage-chapel. — Railway by Tübingen and Plochingen to Stuttgart, see R. 9.

The train for a short way traverses Prussian territory. 46 M.

Neckarhausen. The Danube is crossed. To the E. above Fischingen rises the extensive ruin of Wehrstein. — 50 M. Sulz am Neckar (Waldhorn), a little town with a Gothic church. Then a tunnel. To the left beyond it rises the ruin of Albeck. Near (56 M.) Aistaig pleasant glimpses of the valley are enjoyed. — 58 M. Oberndorf (Post), a thriving village to the right. The old Augustinian monastery is now a gun-factory (director, Herr Mauser). 61 M. Epfendorf; 64 M. Thalhausen. The line is carried over four bridges, through four tunnels, with various ruins to the right and left, and lastly by a long tunnel through the hill on which Rottweil lies. The station, with the extensive railway engine-factory, is 1/2 M. from the town. To the left of the station is the site of a large Roman camp, while the Altstadt, 1/4 hr. to the S., covers the remains of a Roman civil colony. The saline springs and baths of Wilhelmshall lie 1/2 M. farther to the S.

68 M. Rottweil (*Wilder Mann or Post, R. 1 M 40, B. 70 pf., D. 1 M 70, pens. 4 M 50 pf.; *Lamm; Rail. Restaurant, D. with wine 2 M 80 pf.), an ancient town (6912 inhab.) with well-preserved walls and towers, was a free city of the Empire down to 1802. The *Heiligen-Kreuz-Kirche, a fine Gothic structure (1374-1473), has been restored by Heideloff. The Kapellenkirche, with its handsome Gothic tower of 1364, was entirely remodelled at the beginning of last century. Some good carvings on the S. side and on the panels of the doors are the sole relics of the original structure. The interesting Collection of Antiquities contains chiefly Roman relics. The Chapel of St. Lawrence in the old cemetery contains a collection of mediæval carvings, chiefly of the Upper Swabian school. In the centre is a mosaic from a Roman bath (Orpheus). The massive Hochthurm (148 ft.), in the highest part of the town on the W. side, commands an extensive view.

To VILLINGEN, 17 M., railway in 11/4 hr. Stations Deisslingen, Trossingen, Schwenningen (the source of the Neckar is 1/2 M. to the S.). The line traverses a lofty plain, the watershed between the Rhine and Danube, and beyond stat. Marbach descends the Brigach-Thal to Villingen (see Baedeker's Rhine).

The line crosses the Neckar and enters the broad Primthal. To the left, several picturesque glimpses of the Hohenberg, Lemberg, and other spurs of the Alb. 72½M. Neufra. The line ascends, and then traverses a high-lying, well-cultivated plain, forming part of the Baar. 75 M. Aldingen. To the left rises the long Heuberg, with the Dreifaltigkeitskirche on the nearest peak (3225 ft.), adjacent to which is a belvedere tower (ascended from Spaichingen in 1 hr.; splendid *Panorama). To the right in the distance are the flattened cone of the Hohenkarpfen and the coffin-shaped Lupfen. 77½M. Spaichingen (2210 ft.; *Alte Post; Neue Post; Krone), a straggling village; 80½M. Rietheim; 82½M. Wurmlingen (Bellevue), a village; on the Faulenbach; ½M. from the railway. The line describes a long curve, and crosses the Danube (to Sigmaringen and Ulm, see p. 52).

851/2 M. Tuttlingen (2130 ft.; *Post; *Hecht; Bartenbach, at the station, well spoken of), an industrial town (10,092 inhab.), lies on the right bank of the Danube. Above it rise the ruins of the Honburg, destroyed during the Thirty Years' War. A monument, with a medallion-portrait and a figure of *Germania, designed by Jahn, was erected here in 1892 to Max Schneckenburger, author of the 'Wacht am Rhein' (b. at Thalheim near Tuttlingen 1819, d. 1849). The Witthoh (2887 ft.), 11/4 hr. to the S., is a good point of view.

The line traverses the broad valley of the Danube, and crosses the river near (1101/2 M.) Möhringen. 92 M. Immendingen (Falke; Deutscher Kaiser), junction for Donaueschingen and Waldshut (see Baedeker's Rhine).

The train recrosses the Danube, gradually ascends its S. bank, penetrates the watershed between Danube and Rhine by deep cuttings and a tunnel, and descends beyond (95 M.) Hattingen (Hauser). After a long tunnel and several lofty viaducts, the line runs on a high level along the E. slope of the hills. 99 M. Thalmühle. We now descend the wooded Engener-Thal to (102 M.) Engen (*Post), an ancient little town, where the mountains are quitted.

The train now skirts the volcanic peaks of the Hegau, the highest of which, the Hohenhöwen (2854 ft.), rises to the W. of $(103\frac{1}{2} \text{ M.})$ Welschingen; beyond it is the Hohenstoffeln. 106 M. Mühlhausen, with the ruin of Mägdeberg. 107 M. Hohenkrähen lies at the foot of a bold rock (2116 ft.), crowned with fragments of an old castle.

 $110^{1}/_{2}$ M. Singen (*Krone, $^{1}/_{2}$ M. from the station; Adler, at the station, well spoken of; Ekkehard) lies at the base of the Hohentwiel.

The fortress of "Hohentwiel (2273 ft.), a small 'enclave' of Wurtemberg, rises on a lofty isolated rock 3/4 M. to the N.W. of Singen (31/2 M. from the station). It was successfully defended during the Thirty Years' War by the Wurtemberg commandant Widerholt, to whom a monument has been erected. In 1800 it was destroyed by the French. The imposing ruins command a superb view of the Lake of Constance and the Alps. Indicator and telescope at the top. A guide, the key, and a ticket for the tower (20 pf.) are procured at the *Inn halfway up.

114 M. Gottmadingen; 1171/2 M. Thayingen; 120 M. Herblingen. 123 M. Schaffhausen (*Hôtel Müller, R., L., & A. from 21/2, B. 11/4, D. 3 M; Rheinischer Hof, similar charges; Riese, R., L., & A. 2-21/2, D. 21/2, M, these three at the station; Post; Schwanen; Tanne, plain; Railway Restaurant) is a picturesque old Swiss town (12,402 inhab.) on the right bank of the Rhine, formerly a free town of the Empire, and now the capital of the Canton of that name. The Münster, an early-Romanesque basilica of 1052-1101, has recently been restored. The massive tower of Munot dates from the 16th century. The Imthurneum contains a theatre, music-school, and music-rooms. Opposite is the Museum with natural history specimens, antiquities, and the town-library. The Fäsenstaub, a pleasant promenade, commands a fine view of the Rhine and the Alps.

The *FALLS OF THE RHINE are most conveniently visited by rail from Schaffhausen to stat. Neuhausen 21/2 M. distant. See Baedeker's Switzerland.

11. The Swabian Alb.

This district, the central part of Swabia, is a wooded range of limestone mountains, intersected by picturesque valleys, bounded on the W. by the Black Forest, on the N. by the valley of the Neckar, and on the S. by the Danube. The hills on the side towards the Neckar are picturesquely grouped, affording numerous views; the valleys are luxuriantly featiled and provided the side towards the valleys are luxuriantly fertile and partly clothed with fine beech-forest; many of the towns are antiquated and interesting. Pedestrians in particular will find many attractions. Inns generally good and inexpensive.

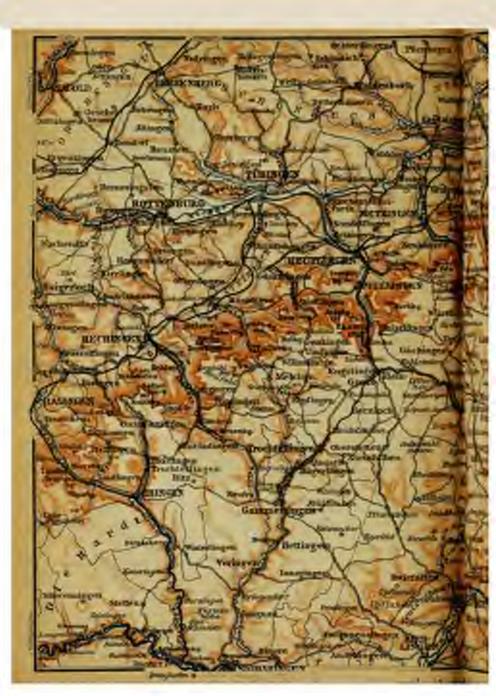

Between Hohenstauten, 1pf, and Ulm stretches the E. part of the Alb, consisting mainly of the Härtfeld, Brenzthal, Mts. of Aalen and Heubach, and the Albuch. The central Alb lies between Hohenstaufen and Hohenzollern on one side, and Ulm and Sigmaringen on the other. The S.W. wing of the Alb is formed of the beautiful range of hills between Hohenzollern and Lupfen, the plateau of the Heuberg, and the valley of the Danube between Tuttlingen and Sigmaringen. — The finest points in the E. Alb are the neighbourhood of Bopsingen with the Ipf, Hohenbaldern, and Kapfenburg (p. 29); the neighbourhood of Aslen, with the Brauneberg, and the Source of the Kocher near Unterkochen (p. 28); the neighbourhood of Heubach, with the Rosenstein (p. 28), Lauterberg, and Bernhardus; the Albuch, with the Wendthal (p. 32); the Brenzthal from Königsbronn to Brenz-Sontheim, the finest part of which, the Buige near Anhausen, is also not far from the Charlotten-Höhle (p. 28); and finally the remarkable Lone-Hürbe-Thal (p. 28). - The S.W. ALB is described in RR. 10, 12, 13.

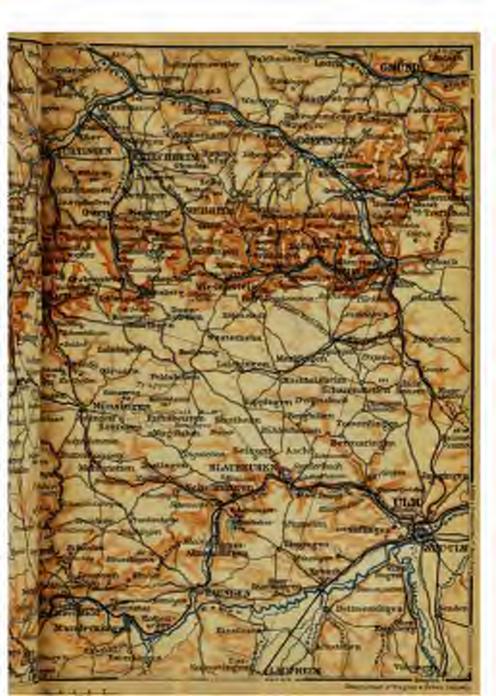

Of the Central Alb, the district about Geislingen is described at pp. 31, 32. The present route embraces the side next the Neckar, the most interesting points, which may be visited in five days, being the Rechberg and Hohenstaufen, the Geislinger-Thal and Upper Filsthal, the Lenninger Thal and the Teck, Hohenneuffen, the Uracher-Thal, Reutlingen with the Achalm, the Honauer-Thal and Lichtenstein, Tübingen and Rossberg, Hohenzollern.

FIRST DAY. By the first train from Stuttgart to Gmünd (p. 28). Thence by a good road (on which the omnibus to Süssen runs, see p. 28) to the (4 M.) upper *Rechberg (2316 ft.), on the broad summit of which stands a much frequented pilgrimage-chapel (refreshments at the parsonage, but no quarters for the night). The view embraces a fertile and undulating landscape, sprinkled with towns and villages, stretching to the N, as far as the Welzheimer Wald and the Waldenburg and Limpurg hills, from the old-fashioned town of Gmund in the foreground to the distant Ellwangen. To the W. rise the Hohenstaufen and the Black Forest Mts.; towards the S.W. extend the ranges of the Swabian Alb; and in clear weather the Tyrolese and Swiss Alps may be descried towards the S.E. and S.

We next visit the ruined castle of Hohenrechberg (burned down in 1865), on the lower peak of the hill. Thence by a distinct path on the crest of the hill in 11/2 hr. to the village of Hohenstaufen (Ochs, Lamm, both moderate), on the slope of the *Hohenstaufen (2237 ft.), to which a path ascends from the village in 20 minutes. Near this path is a small Church, partly restored in 1860 and recently adorned with the armorial bearings of the countries over which the Hohenstaufen once held sway.

On the N. wall is an old fresco, almost obliterated, of Frederick Barbarossa (1152-1190), with inscription, of the 16th cent., recording that the emperor, 'amor bonorum, terror malorum', was in the habit of entering the church by this door (now walled up).

The hill commands a beautiful prospect. From 1080 until the Peasants' War in 1525 it was crowned with the ancestral castle of the illustrious family of Staufen or Hohenstaufen, which occupied the German imperial throne from 1138 to 1254 and became extinct in 1268 by the premature death of the ill-fated Conradin in Italy. A small fragment of wall on the extreme S. verge of the bare plateau is all that is now left of their abode.

A pleasant road, traversing woods for a long way, leads from the village of Hohenstaufen to (51/4 M.) Göppingen (rail, stat., p. 30). Thence by evening-train via Plochingen in 11/2 hr. to Unter-Boihingen (p. 35), and in 14 min. more by Oethlingen to Kirchheim unter Teck (*Post; Löwe; Deutsches Haus), a small town with a handsome château, prettily situated in view of the Alb.

Or we may walk from the village of Hohenstaufen to (11/4 hr.) Eislingen (p. 31), take the train to (3/4 hr.) Geislingen, and walk thence next day by Wiesensteig to Owen (comp. p. 31).

SECOND DAY. Excursion to the *Lenninger-Thal, one of the finest in the Alb, extending 10 M. to Gutenberg, a charming drive. From (41/2 M.) the little town of Owen (ow pron. as in cow; Post or Krone, moderate), with a handsome restored Gothic church, burial-place of the Dukes of Teck, we ascend (in 1 hr.; following the telegraph-posts and then turning to the right) to the ruined castle of *Teck (2542 ft.), the ancestral seat of the Dukes of Teck (belvedere-tower; refreshments; the Sibyllenloch is a lofty grotto on the W. brink of the rock).

From the Teck we reach the Gette Felsen in 10 min. and proceed over the Sattel (2010 ft.) to the (1/2 hr.) ruined Diepoldsburg (p. 31). Thence we may either cross the plateau to the N. to (1/2 hr.) Ochsenvang, etc. (p. 31), or ascend the (3/4 hr.) Wielandstein to the S., viâ the Engelhof, and descend to Ober-Lenningen.

At Unter-Lenningen the ruin of Salzburg lies to the right and the ruined Diepoldsburg or Rauberburg (p. 31) rises high above us on the left. On a steep rock at (1 hr.) Ober-Lenningen (Sonne, Ochs, poor) are the remains of the Wielandstein. At the E. end of the valley lies (1 hr.) Gutenberg (1744 ft.; Löwe, Hirsch, both well spoken of), a little to the S. of which is the ruin of Sperberseck, while to the N. is Krebsstein (see below).

Above Gutenberg, to the left, in the upper slope of the valley, is the (25 min.) *Gutenberg Stalactite Grotto ('Tropfsteinhöhle'), discovered in Dec., 1889, and well worth seeing. (Guide necessary.) We pass through Dec., 1839, and well worth seeing. (Guide necessary.) We pass through the Heppenloch, two chambers discovered earlier, where numerous fossil bones, flint implements, etc., were found, to the 'Gothic Hall', with its splendid ice-like stalactites and stalagmites. Then through a long passage to the 'Moorish Hall' with the 'Waterfall', and past the 'Dwarf's Palace', the 'Spindles', etc., to the 'Klamm', a deep gully to which a flight of stone steps gives access.— About 5 min. from this cavern is the *Gussmanns-Höhle, with the 'Organ Hall' and the 'Tower' (electric light), made accessible in 1891.

A footpath leads to the N. from Gutenberg via the ruin of Hohengutenberg to (1/2 hr.) the farm of Krebsstein. — Another (preferable) leads to the W. vià Schlattstall and the Schröcke to (2 hrs.) Urach (p. 44).

From Gutenberg we may walk by Schlattstall and Grabenstetten (with an ancient 'pagan' moat) to the Beuren Rock and Hohenneuffen (in 3 hrs.), without descending into the valley. Carriages drive by Owen and Beuren (Schlegel) to Neuffen.

The *Beurener Fels ('Rock of Beuren', 2365 ft.; ascended by a good path from Owen or from Beuren in 11/4 hr.), a bold projecting rock, commands a beautiful view (Rechberg, Hohenstaufen, Black Forest, Donnersberg, Vosges). Hence across the plateau by Erkenbrechtsweiler and past the Wilhelmsfelsen in 1 hr. to the —

*Hohenneuffen (2436 ft.), a conical and conspicuous height, projecting far into the valley, and crowned by the imposing ruins of an ancient stronghold, demolished as unsafe in 1802. Fine view with charming foreground. (Refreshments when the flag is hoisted.)

From the Hohenneuffen to stat. Nürtingen, $1^{1}/2$ hr. (see p. 35). Or Urach may be reached hence in 2 hrs. by crossing the table-land and passing the Bürrenhof (with another old moat, comp. p. 43) and the village of Hülben, whence we descend into the valley. But it is pleasanter to descend by a good path through the wood to the $(\frac{1}{2} \text{ hr.})$ pretty little town of Neuffen (Ochs; Hirsch). At the lower end of the place (finger-post) we ascend to the left, take the broad track to the left where the route divides, and follow it across the Sattelbogen, between the view-points of Hörnle and Karlslinde (p. 36), to $(1^{1}/2 \text{ hr.})$ Dettingen (Löwe; Krone); thence by train to Urach in $1^{1}/4$ hr.

THIRD DAY. Urach (1515 ft.; *Post, *Haas 'Zur Krone', both in the market-place; beer at Heinzelmann's and Wenz's; rooms at the latter), an old-fashioned little town, charmingly situated in the Ermsthal, is frequented as a summer-resort (medical boarding-houses of Dr. Camerer and Dr. Klüpfel). The Church of St. Amandus was built in 1472, and the Canonry (now a Prot. school) in 1477 by Count Eberhard im Bart, whose confessional in the church is adorned with good carving (1472). The church also contains an interesting font, executed in 1518 by Christoph of Urach; pulpit probably by the same master. In the Schloss, erected in 1443, partly of timber, is the 'Goldner Saal', containing reminiscences of the Counts, afterwards Dukes of Wurtemberg. Fine Gothic Fountain in the market-place (end of 15th cent.). Railway to Metzingen in 1/2 hr., see p. 36.

The *Uracher-Thal from Dettingen to Seeburg, 6 M. above Urach, surpasses that of Lenningen; the slopes are richly clad with beech-forest. Several quarries of tufa. Near Dettingen rises the conspicuous Rossberg (2572 ft.); farther up, beyond the Uracher Bleiche, the Runderberg, in a side-valley on the right; then Hohen-Urach and the Thiergartenberg; on the opposite side the Hochberg.

Beyond Urach the road ascends by the course of the Erms, which drives numerous mills and a large cotton-factory, into the *Seeburger-Thal, a picturesque, rocky, and wooded valley. Above the Georgenau rises the ruined Hohenwittlingen, under which is the fine stalactite-cavern of Schillingsloch (now called 'Schiller-Höhle').

In the upper and wildest part of the valley, between lofty rocks at the mouth of the romantic Fischburg-Thal, lies the hamlet of Seeburg (Löwe, plain). On a rock high above it is the little château of Uhenfels. The infant Erms, though only 50 yds. from its source, most creditably drives a mill here. The excursion from Urach to Seeburg is best made in an open carriage (with one horse, there and back about $3^{1}/_{2}$ -5 \mathcal{M}). From Seeburg to the S. through the Seethal to Münsingen (p. 47), road in about $1^{1}/_{2}$ hr.

The most attractive excursion from Urach is to Hohen-Urach and to the waterfall. The hill of Hohen-Urach (2300 ft.; 3/4 hr.; easy path; on entering the wood avoid the first path diverging to the right by the large beech) is crowned with extensive ruins and affords a good view, but is inferior in interest to the Hohenneuffen. Below the second gateway of the castle, to the left, is the chamber in which the ill-fated poet Frischlin was imprisoned; in attempting to escape he was dashed to pieces on the rocks below (1590). A path through beautiful beech-wood leads hence to (1/2 hr.) a sequestered grassy terrace, from which the *Waterfall of Urach takes a leap of 80 ft. (To reach it from the ruined castle, we retrace our steps for 10 min., as far as the last finger-post 'auf die Festung', turn to the right, reach another finger-post, and either go straight on to the top of the waterfall or take the path to the right leading to its foot.) The best point of view is the 'Olga-Ruhe', so named since a visit of the late Queen of Wurtemberg. The up-trains stop if desired at the entrance to this valley. Back to Urach, 1/2 hr.

A direct footpath (marked) leads from Urach to Lichtenstein in 4-5 hrs. From Urach we may go by railway in 3/4 hr. viâ Metzingen (to the E. of which is the Floriansberg, p. 36) to Reutlingen (p. 36); but it is far preferable to cross the hills on foot (4 hrs., guide not indispensable). On our return from the waterfall, we turn at the foot of the Runderberg into the other branch of the side-valley, to Güterstein; then a steep ascent by the 'Wasserweg' to a well-house beside the remains of a Carthusian monastery and past the Vordere Fohlenhof to St. Johann (Schmid's Inn, fair); or direct thither from the waterfall by the zigzag path to the right. On leaving the wood at the (1/2 hr.) top of the hill, the path leads straight on past a stone hut called the Rutschenhof. But we first follow the slope to the right as far as the boundary-stone, to obtain a charming view of the peaceful valley, with Hohen-Urach, Hohenneuffen, and Teck, one of the finest prospects in the Swabian Alb. From the Rutschenhof we either continue our route straight on, or we follow the track to the left and then, by the corner of the wood, the road to the right, to the (1/2 hr.) Fohlenhof above mentioned. Here a path diverges to the right (finger-post) from the path to St. Johann, and leads in 25 min. to the *Grüne Felsen ('green rock'; 2640 ft.), a delightful point of view. We then retrace our steps and take the good road to the right leading to (20 min.) St. Johann. From St. Johann a good road (with short-cuts) descends to (1 hr.) Eningen (*Bazlen), a busy market-town at the foot of the Achalm (ascent ³/₄ hr.), whence the railway runs in 6-8 min. to (1³/₄ M.) Reutlingen (p. 36).

FOURTH DAY. From Reutlingen to the summit of the *Achalm (2312 ft.), an isolated mountain, with vineyards and orchards at its base. About halfway up is a royal dairy (rfmts.). The carriageroad to the Achalm, diverging from the Metzingen and Urach road, is much longer than the footpath, by which the summit is easily attained in $1^1/_4$ hr.: from the railway-station we ascend the Garten-Strasse and at the end of it turn to the left; in 10 min. we reach the foot of the Achalm and the path passes under a bridge; after 3 min. we ascend to the left towards the dairy; after 7 min. we go straight on, avoiding the path to the left, and reach the dairy in $1/_4$ hr. more; thence by a winding path to the summit in $1/_2$ hr. On the summit is a lofty tower with a huge vane (key at the dairy; 40 pf.). Admirable *View: Tübingen Castle, Schloss Lichtenstein, the Hohenneuffen, Rechberg, Hohenstaufen, and other peaks of the Alb; picturesque foreground: below us lies Reutlingen. to the S. Eningen.

The most attractive excursion in the neighbourhood of Reutlingen is that to Schloss Lichtenstein. Railway (p. 36) to (6½ M.) Honau in 38 min., to (8 M.) Lichtenstein station in 56 minutes. — 13/4 M. Eningen, 11/4 M. from the village at the foot of the Achalm (see above). — 3 M. Pfullingen (Hirsch; Lamm), a town of 5000 inhab., with Dr. Flamm's lunatic asylum. A number of pleasant excursions may be made hence on the right bank of the Echaz (good paths with numerous guide-posts): to the Ursulaberg (2260 ft.) above Pfullingen; to the Mädchenfels (2540 ft.) and Greifenstein (2083 ft.) near Holzelfingen; and to the rocky ridge extending from the Burgstein (2400 ft.) to the Traifelberg (2607 ft.), above Honau. - 41/2 M. Pfullingen Paper Mill; 51/2 M. Unterhausen Cotton Mill; 6 M. Unterhausen (Adler); 61/2 M. Honau (1722 ft.; Rössle). Hence a rack-and-pinion railway (gradient 1:10; length 2300 yds.) ascends the Honauer Steige to (8 M.) Lichtenstein (2310 ft.). Continuation of the railway to Münsingen, see p. 47.

To reach Schloss Lichtenstein from Honau we retrace our steps for 60 paces, diverge to the left between houses, and ascend a meadow; after 5 min. we enter a beech-wood and then follow a new zigzag path to (1/2 hr.) the castle. — The direct route from Unterhausen (see above) leads viâ (5 min.) Oberhausen (Hirsch; Krone) and ascends to the right by a good road on the wooded W. slope; at the first bifurcation we keep to the left; after 1/2 hr. we leave the road at a cutting in the rock, ascend a few steps to the left, and after 8 min. in a straight direction reach the forester's house (refreshments), adjoining the entrance to the castle. — From Lichtenenstein Station (see above) the route leads past the 'Schanze' (beautiful view) and through the Dobel Tunnel; a footpath to the right at the upper end of the Dobel ravine then leads viâ the Old Lichtenstein to (3/4 hr.) the château and forester's house.

*Schloss Lichtenstein (2985 ft.), or the 'Schlösschen', a château erected in 1842 by Count Wilhelm of Wurtemberg on an isolated rock, 850 ft. above the Honau valley, is one of the most attractive points in Swabia. (Cards of admission obtained at the Duke of Urach's Palace, Neckar-Str. 68, in Stuttgart; the château is closed on Whitsunday and Whitmonday.)

The castle is approached by a draw-bridge, by which a cleft in the rock is crossed. The interior is tastefully fitted up in the medieval style, and adorned with a number of fine old German pictures of the Swabian school, by Wohlgemut, Holbein, Schön, etc. There are also numerous antiquities, weapons, and suits of armour, but the principal attraction is the view obtained from the lofty tower (129 ft.). In fine weather, to the S. beyond the plateau of the Alb, the Swiss and Tyrolese Alps are visible, the Glärnisch, Churfirsten, Sentis, Vorarlberg Mts., and Zugspitze; to the N., far below, the picturesque green Honauer-Thal, through which the Echaz and the railway wind; beyond it the Achalm and the extensive plain. Even the Königsstuhl at Heidelberg is said to be visible. On a projecting rock outside the château the duke has erected a monument to the novelist Hauff (d. 1827), by whose romance the old castle of Lichtenstein has been immortalised. — About 10 min. to the S. is the ruin of Old Lichtenstein.

The Nebelhöhle, a stalactite grotto, 200 yds. long and 75 ft. high, 3 M. to the W. of Lichtenstein, is frequently visited, but the brilliancy of the stalactites has been sullied by the smoke of the torches. Adm. 40 pf. each person, guide 1 M, each torch 40 pf., Bengal fire 50 pf.; key and guides at the Hirsch at Oberhausen (p. 46). A national festival is held here on Whitmonday, when the cavern is illuminated. The cavern is 21/M from Oberhausen, and about as far from Lichtenstein. The path to the latter runs as follows: on the plateau, 5 min. from the cave, bear to the left, due S.; bear to the left again at the cross-roads after 5 min. more; 5 min. farther on, a field, where we skirt the wood to the right; 5 min. more, turn to the left, and cross the moor to a group of trees where the tower comes into view. Descent from Lichtenstein to Honau 20 minutes.

The Olgahöhle at Honau is smaller than the Nebelhöhle, but cleaner and more easily accessible. It is seen to advantage by electric light (40 pf. each person). — About 10 min. distant is the Source of the Echaz, with the

The Railway to Münsingen proceeds from (8 M.) Lichtenstein (see p. 46) across the plateau of the Alb. — 9½ M. Klein-Engstingen is the starting-point for a visit to the Karlshöhle, near Erpfingen, 3¾ M. to the S.W., another and more interesting grotto, the stalactites being still uninjured. Visitors can drive to the entrance. Some of the stalactites here bear a striking resemblance to Gothic architecture, others to human figures, etc. — 11½ M. Nohlstetten. Near (13½ M.) Offenhausen, where there is a stud-farm, is the source of the Grosse Lauter. The railway descends the pretty valley of the Lauter to (15 M.) Gomadingen and (16½ M.) Marbach, with another stud-farm. Pleasant walk hence through the Grosse Lauterthal to (8 hrs.) Untermarchthal, see p. 53. — The line now ascends to the N.E. through the Dolderthal and Baumthal, passing Schloss Grafeneck, to (21 M.) Munsingen (2296 ft.; Inns), a town with 3000 inhab., on the plateau of the Alb, 1½ hr. to the S. of Seeburg (p. 45). Hence to the Schmiechthal, see p. 53.

A pleasant walk may be taken to the W. from the Nebelhöhle viâ Genkingen to the (1½ hr.) top of the *Rossberg (2864 ft.; view-tower), commanding a beautiful view of the Alb, the Black Forest, and the Alps. We may descend on the N. side to Gönningen, at the foot of the Stöffeiberg (2400 ft.), whence a road runs to the N. viâ Bronnweiler and past the Kugelberg (1950 ft.; view) and Alleburghof to (2½ hrs.) Reutlingen; another to the W. to (2 hrs.) Mössingen or Dusslingen (see p. 48).

Evening train from Reutlingen to Tübingen (p. 36), $\frac{1}{2}$ hr. Fifth Day. Visit to the Hohenzollern, etc., see p. 48.

12. From Tübingen to Hechingen and Sigmaringen.

54 M. RAILWAY in 31/4 hrs. (fares 7 M 10, 4 M 70 pf., 3 M). — Comp. Map, p. 42.

Tübingen, see p. 36. The Hohenzollern Railway diverges to the left at the station, describes a wide curve, and enters the Steinlach-Thal, noted for its thriving villages. To the left are the small Bläsibad and the round Bläsiberg, with an old chapel of St. Blasius. The Steinlach is crossed near (5 M.) Dusslingen. The picturesque hills of the Swabian Alb on the left are now approached: the Rossberg (p. 47), the broad-backed Farrenberg, and the precipitous Dreifürstenstein; in the background the Salmendinger Chapel. Near (10 M.) Mössingen the Steinlach is again crossed. On a hill to the left stands the ancient Belsener Chapel; to the right are the sulphur-baths of Sebastiansweiler.

Mössingen is the starting-point for visits to the upper Steinlach-Thal. the Dreifurstenstein (2800 ft.; 11/4 hr.), the Salmendinger Kapelle (2hrs.), the Riedernberg (200 ft.), and the Bolberg (2890 ft.; 21/2 hrs.).

Beyond (13 M.) Bodelshausen the train crosses the Prussian frontier. We then descend to - $15^{1}/_{2}$ M. Hechingen (1640 ft.; *Linde or Post, R. 1-1 $^{1}/_{2}$ M, B. 60 pf., D. 1 M 70 pf., pens. 3-31/2 M, omn. 40 pf.; omnibus at the station; carr. and pair to Hohenzollern Castle 6 M and gratuity; Rad; Löwe, nearest the station, R. 1-11/4 M, B. 60 pf.; beer at the Museum), formerly the residence of the Princes of Hohenzollern-Hechingen, but acquired by Prussia in 1850. It is an old town with 3700 inhab., situated on the abrupt slope of the valley of the Starzel. The Parish Church, erected in 1783, contains a relief by Peter Vischer, representing Count Eitel Friedrich II, of Zollern (d. 1512) and his wife Magdalena of Brandenburg (d. 1495). A footpath to the left at this church leads to (1 hr.) Hohenzollern. The small Protestant Church on the S. side of the town (1 M. from the station) is a tasteful modern structure in the pointed style. Opposite is the Villa Eugenia, with gardens, the property of the Prince. About 1 M. farther on is the Brieflof Inn (see below).

A road passing the Martinsthurm leads to the W. from Hechingen to (3 M.) the little château of Lindich, with a park. — Pleasant walks to (2 hrs.) the Zeller Horn, Steigberg, and Hangende Stein.

The train crosses the Starzel, passes Stetten in the Gnaden-Thal, the ancestral burial-place of the Zollern family, and beyond several cuttings reaches (19 M.) Zollern (1798 ft.; *Brielhof, 1/2 M. from the station; one-horse carr. to the castle 5, two-horse 7 M). A good road (the windings of which are avoided by short-cuts following the telegraph-posts) leads hence to the (21/2 M.) magnificent castle of *Hohenzollern (2887 ft.; adm. 25 pf.), grandly situated on an isolated wooded eminence of the Alb. It was erected by Frederick William IV. in 1850-55 as a royal château, and completed in 1867. The bold and skilful construction is as remarkable as the situation.

The old castle which occupied this site was destroyed in 1423 and repeatedly restored (the last time in 1554), but at the beginning of the present century little of it remained except the chapel. An inscription over the 'Adlerther' (Pl. 1) alludes to the history of the edifice; above it is the Prussian eagle; below it an equestrian figure representing the Elector Frederick I. Passing through the Adlerance, the visitor enters the 'Rampouthurm', within the narrow limits of which three bold and ingeniously contrived curves and a winding tunnel lead to the gate-tower situated 75 ft. higher. The balustrade above the entrance to the tunnel is adorned with two men-at-arms to stone. The summit of the precipitous rock is enclosed, in accordance with the ancient plan of the casile, by walls 45-65 ft. in height, in the form of a heptagon, and provided with bastlons and corner-turrets. Within this enclosure stands the modern castle, a winged edifice with five towers, two of which rise to a height of 120 ft. above the external walls. The two lowest of the five stories of the building are vanited and designed for purposes of defence. The towers are adorned with the arms of the Zollern family. the tower of St. Michael, above the balcony of the apartments of the Empress, is a representation of St. Michael and the Dragon in brouze. The style of the entire structure is that of the latter part of the lath cent., which has been strictly adhered to, notwithstanding the serious difficulties encountered in constructing the approach to the castle and providing it with fortifications. The garrison consists of a company of infantry.

To the left in the upper Burghof is the Burggarten, adorned with a bronze statue of Fred. William IV. beneath a Gothic canopy (Pl. 4). Opposite, to the right, is the Webrhaus, or barrack, containing a restaurant. Adjoining it is the Protestant Chapel (Pl. 3), in the Gothic style. To the left (S.) rises the Michaelsthurm with the relief portraits and armorial hearings of the different lords of the castle. To the E. of it, in the direction of the garden, is the Roman Catholic Chapel of St. Michael (Pt. 14).

In the centre of the quadrangle rises the noble Konigstinde.

A lofty flight of steps (Pl. 5) by the Wehrhaus, adorned with a statue of the Count Zollers who rebuilt the castle in 1504, leads to the spartments of the interior. The Stammbown-Halle (Pl. fl), containing severalogical trees, coats-of-arms, etc., is first entered. Then the sumptuous "Grafensaul (Pl. 7), in the Gothic style, borne by cight columns of red murble, and overladen with gilding and painting. On the right of this saloon is the Reservable (Pl. 8), burne by a central pillar, embellished with eight painted statues of German emperors by the windows; opposite it, on the W. side of the hall, is the Bischnfshulle (Pl. 9), with two statuss and 25 medaillon-portraits of prelates of the house of Zoliera. Adjoining the Grafensaal on the W. is the Library (Pl. 10), a low apartment with carved bookcases and *Frescoes by Peters illustrative of the history of the castle. From the library we proceed to the right to the Markgrafenthurm (Pl. 11), which contains the sitting-room and bedroom of the emperor, while to the left are the apartments of the empress (Pl. 12) in the Michaelsthurm. The Roman Catholic Church of St. Michael is the only part of the earlier structure now in existence. It contains some interesting stained glass from the monastery of Stetten.

Another attraction is the very extensive view from the balcony outside the Bischofshalle. It embraces the green hills of Swabia; W. the towns of Balingen and Rottweil; beyond them the Black Forest, with the Feldberg, its chief mountain; S.W. the Jura; S. and E., in the immediate vicinity, the wooded slopes of the Alb.

A little farther to the E rises the Zellerhörnle, a spur of the Alb plateau, 210 ft. higher than the Hohenzollern. A pleasant path leads to the E. along the Trauf, as the crest of the wooded hill is called, in $2^{1}/_{2}$ hrs. to Jungingen (*Post) or Starzeln (*Höfle), on the high-road to Gamertingen and (22 M.) Sigmaringen. — Another attractive route leads from the Zellerhörnle to (6 hrs.) Laufen on the Eyach (see below), via the Zoller Steighof, Blasenberg, Stich, Hundsruck, Zillhausen, the Böllatfels (3018 ft.), Burgfelden (with an old Romanesque church and mural paintings of the 11th cent.), and Schalksburg (see below).

The Zollern long remains in sight. — 21½ M. Bisingen; 24 M. Engstlatt (interesting painting of the Ulm school in the church), whence the Hundsrück (3054 ft.; sub-alpine flora) may be ascended. - 26 M. Balingen (Schwan; Roller), a manufacturing town on the Eyach, with sulphur-baths.

An attractive excursion may be made hence to the (2 hrs.) Lochenstein (3153 ft.; splendid view), an ancient pagan place of sacrifice; and thence via the Schafberg (with the ruin of Wenzelstein; rock-chasms, etc.) down to the Waldhaushof for the (1½ hr.) ascent of the Plettenberg (3293 ft.).

The line now turns to the S.E. and enters the highest part of the Swabian Alb. To the right rise the Plettenberg, the Schafberg, and the bold Lochenstein (see above). At (29 M.) Frommern begins the hilly part of the railway, the gradients varying from 1:60 to 1:45. To the right of (31 M.) Laufen an der Eyach are the Eyachhörnle (3132 ft.; attractive ascent in 11/4 hr.), Grat, and Gräblensberg, to the left the rock of Schalksburg (with a ruined castle of the Zollern family). The train passes through a cutting in the rock, with the Thierberg on the right and the Heersberg on the left. Beyond (331/2 M.) Lautlingen the line enters another amphitheatre of hills and soon reaches its highest point (2420 ft.), the watershed between the Rhine and the Danube. It then descends gradually to - 37 M. Ebingen (2395 ft.; Schiff; Post; Adler; Stern), an ancient industrial town, prettily situated among hills. The tower on the Schlossfelsen (3122 ft.; good path, 3/4 hr.) commands a superb survey of the Alps from the Zugspitze to the Bernese Oberland. The train descends the winding Schmeien-Thal and crosses the Prussian frontier. 41 M. Strassberg; on a bold rock to the left is the château of that name. Below Strassberg the valley is wild and impracticable. and presented great engineering difficulties (19 bridges and countless cuttings). 43 M. Kaiseringen; 45 M. Storzingen. The train passes through several defiles (the 'Drei Burgen', 'Hexen-Küche', 'Bettel-Küche'). Beyond $(48^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Oberschmeien $(1945 \text{ ft.}; ^{3}/_{4} \text{ M.})$ to the E. is the Fürstenhöhe, with fine view) the line is carried through another defile and two tunnels, and beyond the ruins of Gebrochen-Gutenstein enters the valley of the Danube.

50 M. Inzigkofen (Kreuz; Erbprinz), with a beautiful park on the steep and wooded S. bank of the Danube, rendered accessible by flights of steps, and containing several natural grottoes. The Danube flows so slowly here as to resemble a small lake. The walk by Laiz (Inn) to (3/4 hr.) Sigmaringen (see below) is also interesting.

Sigmaringen now comes in sight. The train runs direct towards the Mühlberg (p. 52), passes through a cutting, crosses the Danube, and reaches — 54 M. Sigmaringen (1860 ft.; *Deutsches Haus, R. $1^{1}/_{2} \mathcal{M}$, B. 60 pf.; *Löwe, R. $1-1^{1}/_{2}$, D. $1^{1}/_{2} \mathcal{M}$, B. 60 pf.; *Kronprinz; Traube, R. 1-2, B. $1^{1}/_{2}$, pens. $2^{1}/_{2}-3\mathcal{M}$; Adler, moderate), a handsome little town with 4200 inhab., the residence of Prince Hohenzollern, and seat of the Prussian administrative authorities, recently embellished with new streets and promenades.

The handsome Schloss, on a rock rising abruptly from the Danube, contains a *Museum, chiefly formed by Prince Karl Auton (d. 1885), and surpassing most collections of the kind both in extent and choiceness. It is admirably arranged in the Kunsthalle, a fine Gothic hall, with frescoes by Müller of Düsseldorf, and in two cabinets. Excellent catalogues by Hofrath Lehner. The Museum is open daily (festivals excepted) from 10 to 12 and 2 to 4; admission 40 pf.

The Collection of Pictures (230 works) chiefly illustrates the early German school, the Swabian masters being particularly well represented. Nos. *81-86. Wings of a large altar-piece: Annunciation, Nativity, Circumcision of Christ, Adoration of the Magi, and the Procession to Calvary, by M. Schaffner: *132-139. Scenes from the life of the Virgin, by Barth. Zeitblom; 158-164. Seven scenes from the history of the Virgin, by Hans Schülein (three masters of Ulm, 15-16th cent.); 3. Altdorfer, Adoration of the Magi; *Amberger(?). Portraits of a man and woman. The Lower Rhenish School, especially that of Cologne, is also numerously represented (e.g. *91. B. Bruyn, Crucifixion, in an appropriate landscape). The best of the early-Flemish works are: *2 and 4. Annunciation, by Gerard David; 5. Herri met de Bles, Adoration of the Magi; 29. Virgin Mary, with a background of tapestry, and *38. Virgin Mary, in a landscape, by Rogier van der Weyden(?); 61. Gerritt van Haarlem, Crucifixion; 129. Lucas van Leyden, Adoration of the Magi. — The other sections of the museum contain specimens of mediæval and Renaissance carved work (statuettes, reliefs, furniture), metal-work, jewelry, textile works, including Gobelins of the 14th and 15th cent., glasses, enamels, and a rich collection of Italian majolica, French porcelain, and Dutch, Rhenish, and Swiss pottery. — In the upper rooms is an extensive Palaeontological Collection (2000 objects).

The Library, with its valuable books, incunabula, and MSS., the Armoury, and the other richly furnished rooms of the palace are also worth seeing.

In front of the Schloss is a *Statue of Prince Karl Anton (d. 1885), by Donndorf. In the Karls-Platz is the Prinzenbau (now the residence of the Prince), in front of which is a colossal bronze bust of Prince Karl (d. 1853), erected in 1869.

On the Brenzkofer Berg (1/2 hr.), on the opposite (N.) bank of the Danube, is the War Monument, in memory of the Hohenzollerns who fell in the campaigns of 1866 and 1870-71. It represents Germania, on a lofty pedestal, holding an oak-wreath. The platform commands a charming view of the town and environs, with the distant Alps. At the foot of the hill, 1/2 M. to the W., is the Zollerhof, a favourite restaurant, with a garden; and near it stands the pretty Villa Leibbrand with beautiful grounds (open to visitors). — The Mühlberg (easy path to the summit) is another fine point of view.

FROM SIGMARINGEN TO TUTTLINGEN, 261/2 M., railway viâ the picturesque winding *Valley of the Danube, which will even repay pedestrians (to Beuron 6 hrs., thence to Tuttlingen 4 hrs.). — 31/2 M. Inzigkofen (p. 51). The line crosses the Schmeie and the Danube, passes the ruin of Dietfurt, situated on a rock, and beyond a short tunnel reaches (6 M.) Gutenstein (Sonne), a picturesque village with a half-ruined château. Above the Danube tower the rocks of Rabenfels and Heidenfels. Traversing another tunnel (300 yds. long) the train halts at (101/2 M.) Thiergarten (Hammer), with disused iron-works; and then, beyond the ruin of Falkenstein (on the right) and the village of Neidingen, at (111/2 M.) Hausen im Thal ("Steinhaus; beer at the Adler), with a lofty ruin near it. In front rises the conspicuous old château of Werenwag, the property of Prince Fürstenberg, a splendid point of view (fine echo; "Inn at the top). At the foot of the castle-rock lies the hamlet of Langenbrunn. The railway leads through a narrow and romantic part of the valley and pierces the Käpfle Tunnel (200 yds.), beyond which, on the left, is seen the handsome castle of Wildenstein (now used as a forester's house), with interesting defensive works, partly hewn in the rock. The line follows the windings of the Danube. To the right, on the high-road, is the pretty Chapel of St. Maurus, erected in 1868-71; and close to it, on the left, lies the dairy-farm of St. Maurus im Fels.

151/2 M. Beuron (2050 ft.; Pelikan; Stern; Sonne), a charmingly situated village, contains an old Benedictine monastery, founded in the 11th cent., suppressed in 1876, and now a school of art. The handsome church (restored 1874-75) contains fine ceiling-paintings by Wegscheider. A footpath to the left in the neighbouring wood leads to the (20 min.) Petershöhle, a spacious grotto entered by wooden steps.

Beyond Beuron the railway ascends the left bank of the Danube, then diverges to the right through a tunnel (750 yds.) to (18 M.) Fridingen, 1 M. to the N. of the little town of that name (Sonne; Bär; Löwe). Rounding a mountain-ridge, whence the ruined pilgrimage-church of Mariahilf looks down, we reach (21 M.) Mühlheim. The town (Krone; Hirsch, etc.) is picturesquely situated on an eminence to the left, with a château of Baron Enzberg. Numerous Roman remains have been discovered near the station.

Bey nd (23 M.) Nendingen, a considerable village with an elegant new church and the ancient chapel of St. Blasius, and the royal foundry of Ludwigsthal, the train passes through a deep cutting and crosses the Danube to (261/2 M.) Tuttlingen (see p. 41). Hence to (6 M.) Immendingen, see R. 10.

From Sigmaringen to Ulm and Radolfzell, see below.

13. From Ulm to Radolfzell and Constance.

RAILWAY from Ulm to (86 M.) Radolfzell in $6^{1/4}$ - 7^{1} 2 hrs. (fares 11 \mathcal{M} 30, 7 \mathcal{M} 50, 4 \mathcal{M} 90 pf.); from Radolfzell to (12 $^{1/2}$ M.) Constance in $^{1/2}$ - $^{3/4}$ hr.

Ulm, see p. 32. The line diverges to the left from the Stutt-gart railway (R. 12) and at $(1^{1}/4 \text{ M.})$ Söflingen enters the smiling valley of the Blau. On the left, near $(4^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Herrlingen, lies Klingenstein, with a château of Dr. Leube. From Herrlingen a pleasant excursion leads vià Schloss Ober-Herrlingen to (1 hr.) Lautern. The weather-beaten rock protrudes at various points in fantastic forms from the wooded sides of the valley. On the right the ruined castle of Hohe-Gerhausen or Rusenschloss; opposite to it the rock of Rucken. The train crosses the Blau.

10 M. Blaubeuren (*Post; Ochs), an old town with 2950 inhab., lying picturesquely in a basin. The *Blautopf, a deep, pale-blue pool, just above the town, is the source of the Blau. Beside it is a monument to King Charles. The late-Gothic church of the old Benedictine Abbey, now a theological seminary, contains choir-stalls, carved by Jörg Syrlin the Younger (1493), a fine and richly carved high-altar, with statues by the same master, and paintings (history of John the Baptist) of the Swabian school.

At Blaubeuren is situated one of the pumping-stations of the Alb Water At Blaubeuren is situated one of the pumping-stations of the Alb Water Works (Albwasserversorgung), constructed under the direction of the late Dr. von Ehmann since 1870, which extend over nearly the whole of the Rauhe Alb and supply drinking-water to the numerous communities situated on its arid plateau. The water is pumped up through cast-iron pipes from springs lying nearly 700 ft. below the level of the plateau, while the motive power is afforded by a few small tributary-brooks of the Neckar and the Danube, assisted only slightly by steam-power. There is another pumping-station at Eybach near Geislingen (p. 31), which may be conveniently visited by tourists.

Tourists who desire to explore the Rauhe Alb may follow the somewhat monotonous route from Blaubeuren to (221/2 M.) Urach, via Suppingen, Feldstätten ("Post), Zainingen, and Böhringen (Hirsch).

The line leads through the valley of the Aach, passing the Hohlefels (on the left), a prehistoric habitation, to (14 M.) Schelklingen, with a ruined castle, 1 M. to the N.W. of which is the prettily situated former numbers of Urspring. At $(14^{1}/_{2} M.)$ Schmiechen the line enters the Schmiechthal.

Pleasant expedition in the upper Schmiechthal via (3/4 hr.) That-steusslingen (with the ruin of Steusslingen above, to the left) to (1/4 hr.) Hütten, at the mouth of the wild Bärenthal; and thence past the ruin of Justingen (on the right) viâ Gundershofen to (3/4 hr.) Springen, at the head of the valley. A road leads hence in 2 hrs. to Münsingen (p. 47), viâ Mehrstetten. Railway from Schmiechen to Münsingen proposed.

17 M. Allmendingen. — 201/2 M. Ehingen (Württemberger Hof, at the station; Kreuz; Kronprinz; Traube), an old town with 4100 inhab., near the confluence of the Schmiech and the Danube. The Church of St. Blasius, in a debased style, has an old Gothic tower. The Kaiser-Wilhelms-Thurm on the Wolfert commands a fine view.

The line traverses the broad valley of the winding Danube. 23 M. Dettingen; 251/2 M. Rottenacker; 28 M. Munderkingen, an ancient little town encircled by the river. The new bridge over the Danube here has the largest stone-arch in Germany (164 ft.). — 30 M. Untermarchthal, below the romantic ravine of the Grosse Lauter.

Near it, on the lake, is the Villa Seehalde, with a monument to its former proprietor, the poet Victor von Scheffel (d. 1886).

The railway from Radolfzell to Constance intersects the neck of land between the Unter-See and the Ueberlinger See (p. 57), and passes stations Markelfingen, Allensbach, and Reichenau. On the island of Reichenau in the Unter-See (visible from the train) are the buildings of a Benedictine abbey, which was suppressed in 1799 (see Baedeker's Switzerland). The island is joined with the mainland on the E. by a dyke. The train crosses the Rhine by an iron bridge, adorned with statues.

Constance (1335 ft.), a free town until 1548, after the Reformation subject to Austria, and since the Peace of Pressburg in 1805 a town of Baden, has now only 17,000 inhab., though it once numbered 40,000. It is situated at the N.W. extremity of the Lake of Constance, or Bodensee, at the point where the Rhine emerges from it. The episcopal see, founded in 781 and held by 87 bishops in succession, was deprived of its temporalities in 1802 and suppressed in 1827.

The *CATHEDRAL (Pl.4; B,3), founded in 1052, was rebuilt in its present form in 1435 and 1600. Gothic tower erected in 1850-57; the perforated spire is of light grey sandstone; on either side is a platform commanding a charming view (adm. 20 pf.).

On the Doors of the principal portal are *Bas-Reliefs, in 20 compartments, representing scenes from the life of Christ, carved in oak by Sim. Haider in 1470. The *Choir Stalls, with grotesque sculptures, are of the same date. The organ-loft, richly ornamented in the Renaissance style, dates from 1680. In the nave (Romanesque), the arches of which are supported by 16 monolithic pillars (28 ft. high, 3 ft. thick), sixteen paces from the principal entrance, is a large stone slab, a white spot on which always remains dry, even when the remaining portion is damp. Huss is said to have stood on this spot when the Council of 6th July, 1415, sentenced him to be burnt at the stake. In the N. chapel, adjoining the choir, is a Death of the Virgin, coloured stone figures life-size, 1460. Adjacent is an elegant spiral staircase. — The Treasury (custodian ½-1 M) contains a missal embellished with miniatures, 1426. On the E. side is a crypt, containing the Chapel of the Holy Sepulchre, with a representation of the sepulchre in stone, 20 ft. high, dating from the 13th century. On the exterior of the N. side stand two aisles of the once handsome *Cloisters, erected about 1480 in the Gothic style.

The Wessenberg Haus (Pl. 15; B, 3) contains books, pictures, and engravings, bequeathed to the town by the proprietor J. H. von Wessenberg (d. 1860), who for many years acted as the chief superintendent of the diocese. A number of pictures, bequeathed by the artist, Marie Ellenrieder (d. 1863), are also exhibited here.

The Church of St. Stephen (Pl. 6; B, 4), a late-Gothic building of the 15th cent., near the cathedral, with a slender tower, contains some interesting wood-carving and sculptures, but the exterior has been disfigured by modern restoration.

The Wessenberg-Strasse leads hence to the S. to the Obere Markt, at the corner of which stands the house 'Zum Hohen Hafen' (Pl. 2; B, 4), where Frederick VI., Burgrave of Nuremberg, was created Elector of Brandenburg by Emp. Sigismund, 18th April, 1417. Adjacent to it is an ancient building with arcades (now the Hôt. Barbarossa), styled by an inscription 'Curia Pacis', in which Emp. Frederick I. concluded peace with the Lombard towns in 1183. — A little to the W. is the new Protestant Church (Pl. 5; A, 4).

The Stadt-Kanzlei, or Town Hall (Pl. 12; B, 4, 5), erected in the Renaissance style in 1593, was decorated in 1864 on the exterior with frescoes illustrative of the history of Constance. The apartments of the groundfloor contain the valuable Municipal Archives, comprising 2800 documents, the most interesting of which date from the period of the Reformation. Fine inner court. — In the Rosgarten (Pl. 8; B, 5), formerly the guild-house of the butchers, is the *Rosgarten Museum, a rich and well-arranged collection of antiquities relating to Constance (from lake-dwellings, etc.) and of objects of natural history (adm. 40 pf.). - In the market-place is a War Monument (figure of Victory), by Bauer (Pl. 10).

The Kaufhaus, or Merchants' Hall (Pl. 1; C, 4), by the lake, erected in 1388, contains the great Council Chamber, supported by massive oaken pillars, where the conclave of cardinals met at the time of the Great Council (1414-18). The hall was restored in 1866 and decorated in 1875 with frescoes illustrative of the history of the town, by Pecht and Schwörer (adm. 20 pf.). The upper floor contains a collection of Indian and Chinese curiosities (30 pf.).

The ancient Dominican Monastery (Pl. a; C, 3), in which Huss was confined, situated on an island in the lake, near the town, has been in part converted into a hotel (Insel-Hôtel, see p. 55). The well-preserved Romanesque cloisters, and the adjoining refectory with its graceful vaulting, repay inspection.

The house in which Huss was arrested, in the Husen-Strasse near the Schnetzthor (Pl. A, 5), bears a memorial tablet with his effigy, put upi n 1878. Adjoining it is an old relief, dated 1415, with satirical verses. Some houses farther on, at the 'Obere Laube', a bronze tablet with an inscription marks the spot where Jerome of Prague was imprisoned in 1415-16. In the suburb of $Br\ddot{u}hl$, 1/2 M. to the W. of the town, is the spot where Huss and Jerome suffered martyrdom, indicated by a huge mass of rock with inscriptions ('Husenstein').

The Stadt-Garten on the lake, between the harbour and the Dominican island, affords a pleasant walk and a charming view of the lake and mountains. A bust of the Emp. William I, has been placed here.

The abbey of Kreuzlingen (*Helvetia; Löwe; *Pens. Besmer), on Swiss territory, 3/4 M. beyond the S. gate, is now a normal school. The church contains a curious piece of wood-carving, with about 1000 small figures, executed in the 18th century.

A fine view of the lake and of the Vorarlberg and Appenzell Alps is obtained from the *Allmannshöhe (3/4 hr.), with belvedere (Restaurant), 5 min. above the village of Allmannsdorf, on the road to the Mainau. - Among above the village of Alimanisary, on the road to the mainat. — Among other pleasant objects for a walk may be mentioned the Loretto-Kapelle (1/2 hr.); the Jacob, a restaurant with a fine view (1/2 hr.); and the Kleine Rigi, above Münsterlingen (Inn; 1 hr.).

In the N.W. arm of the Lake of Constance (Ueberlinger See), 41/2 M.

from Constance, is situated the beautiful island of * Mainau, formerly the seat of a lodge of the Teutonic Order, as a cross on the S. side of the château (1746) indicates. It is $1^{1}/2$ M. in circumference, and is connected with the mainland by a bridge 650 paces in length. Since 1853 it has been the property of the Grand-Duke of Baden, and is now entirely covered with pleasure-grounds, with cypresses and other semi-tropical plants. Plain restausure-grounds, with cypresses and other semi-tropical plants. Plain restaurant near the château. Steamboat from Constance in 55 min.; rowing-boat (in 1 hr., a pleasant trip) 5 M and gratuity; one-horse carr. 5-6, two-horse 8 M. Pedestrians take a shorter route (1 hr.), partly through woods. On the N. bank of the lake, opposite Mainau (steamboat in 40 min.), lies Meersburg (1463 ft.; *Seehof, near the quay, pens. 4 M, well-arranged lake-baths in the neighbourhood; Schiff, Wilder Mann, both on the lake; Löwe; Pens. zum Frieden, 1/3 M. to the E.), a pleasant little town, with many old houses, and good and inexpensive summer-quarters. The Old Castle, with the Dagobert Tower (ca. 800), is said to have once been a seat of the Hohenstaufen. The old mill in the adjacent ravine is highly picturesque. The New Castle, long an episcopal residence, is now a deaf-and-dumb asylum. Fine views from the Känzeli and from the *Edelstein, 2 M. from the harbour. The churchyard contains the tomb of the celebrated Mesmer (d. 1815), the discoverer of mesmerism. The wines of Meersburg are the best on the lake.

From Meersburg the steamer plies in 3/4 hr. more to Ueberlingen (*Bad-Hôtel, with shady garden, pension 5 Al: *Löwe; Schiff; Engel; Krone; Wilder Mann; Adler; Beck, and other restaurants; private lodgings), an ancient town with 4000 inhab, now frequented for its lake-baths and mineral spring. Pleasant grounds have been laid out on the bank of the lake. The town contains several mediæval buildings, prominent among which is the *Town Hall, a richly-decorated Gothic structure. The hall with its carved wood-work is an object of great interest. The 39 statuettes on the walls, representing the various elements of the German Empire (3 spiritual and 4 temporal Electors, 4 Margraves of the Empire, Landgraves, Counts, Barons, Knights, Burghers, and Peasants), are by Jacob Rues (1490). Opposite to them are portraits of the Emperors, beginning with Rudolph II. — The adjacent Minster, of the 14th century. The Stadt-Kanzlei, in the Münster-Platz, has a fine doorway, of the end of the 16th century. Adjacent is an Ethnographical and Industrial Museum. The Steinhaus Museum contains a Historical Collection and a Cabinet of Natural History. Fine views of the lake from various points. The Appenzell Mts. are visible hence; also, to the S.E., the summits of the Rhætikon Mountains. About 1½ M. to the N. of Ueberlingen are the Heidenlücher, mentioned in Scheffel's novel Ekkehard. Excursions may also be made to the (1/2-3/4 hr.) Spezgarder Tobel and the Hödinger Tobel (a picturesque ravine with waterfalls) and to Bodmann, on the W. shore of the lake, with an old imperial residence from which the lake (Bodensee) took its name.

A pleasant excursion may be taken from Ueberlingen or Meersburg to Heiligenberg. A diligence plies twice daily in 33/4 hrs. from Meersburg to Heiligenberg, viâ Salem; carriage and pair, there and back 18 M, from Ueberlingen 12 M. It is best to proceed direct from Ueberlingen to Heiligenberg, visiting Salem on the return journey. Heiligenberg (*Adler, pension 5 M; *Winter's Inn, pension 4-41/2 M), an insignificant place, with the extensive château and park of Prince Fürstenberg, lies picturesquely on a rocky terrace 1000 ft. above the Lake of Constance. The château contains a magnificent Renaissance hall, 110 ft. long and 40 ft. broad, with a beautifully-carved wooden *Ceiling (16th cent.), probably the finest in Germany. The *Chapel (restored) is also noteworthy. The *View from the château is strikingly beautiful: it embraces the Lake of Constance, and the entire chain of the Vorarlberg and Swiss Alps, from the Hochvogel to the Jungfrau; still better from the 'Sieben Linden' (seven limetrees), 3/4 M. from the village. — The same view is enjoyed from several parts of the flower-garden, on the left of the road to the castle; also from the *Freundschafts-Höhlen, a number of grottoes, 1/4 hr. to the N.W. of the inn. — From Heiligenberg to Pfullendorf, see p. 55.

the inn. — From Heiligenberg to Pfullendorf, see p. 55.

Below Heiligenberg, to the S.W., 91/2 M. from Ueberlingen, lies the suppressed Cistercian convent of Salem (Post), now partly occupied by the Margrave William, with large halls (the finest of which is the Kaiser-Saal) in the roccoo style, a collection of paintings, etc. The Gothic *Church of the 14th cent. is lavishly adorned within with sculptures in marble (23 altars), dating from the late-Renaissance period; fine late-Gothic ciborium.

Hanau (*Adler; *Riese; Post, plain), a pleasant town, in the fertile Wetterau, with 25,000 inhab., has two railway-stations, East and West, 11/4 M. apart. The modern part of the town owes its origin to Flemish and Walloon Protestants, who were banished from the Netherlands in 1597 on account of their creed. Their handicrafts, such as weaving, diamond-cutting, and the manufacture of gold and silver trinkets, still flourish. In the Parade-Platz is the house (marked by a marble tablet; now the police-office) in which the brothers Jacob (1785-1863) and Wilhelm Grimm (1786-1859) were born.

Near Hanau, on 30th and 31st Oct., 1813, Napoleon with 80,000 men who had retreated from Leipsic defeated Marshal Wrede with 40,000 Bavarians, Austrians, and Russians. The battle took place near the Lamboiwald, on the Leipsic road, beyond the Kinzig. A small stone in the wall of the Kinzig bridge bears the name of Wrede, who was wounded there. From Hanau to Eberbach and Stuttgart, see R. 4; to Fulda and Bebra

The Romanesque *Stiftskirche (Pl. 14; abbey-church), founded in 980, but frequently altered, has cloisters of the 12th century.

The Interior has been skilfully restored since 1881. In the right aisle is a "Monument in bronze, with a gilded sarcophagus said to contain the relics of St. Margaret, dating from 1540. In the choir is the monument of Albert of Brandenburg (d. 1545), Elector of Mayence, cast in 1525 during his lifetime, by P. Vischer, and opposite to it a Madonna in bronze by Joh. Vischer. To the right of the principal entrance is a large monument in alabaster of the last Elector, Frederick Charles Joseph (d. 1802). The church also possesses three valuable paintings by M. Grünewald, who lived for some time at Aschaffenburg (Resurrection, Pietà, and St. Valentinian, belonging to the distribute of Marialel at Marial). to the altar-piece in the Pinakothek at Munich).

The old abbey-buildings now contain the Municipal Collections (open Sun. 10-12; at other times on application to Hr. Broili, the director): Roman antiquities found at Aschaffenburg (votive tablets, altars. vases, bronzes), prehistoric relics of the stone age, minerals, reminiscences of the electoral period, etc.

The Church of St. Agatha (Pl. 10; B, 2), to the N.E. of the Schloss, built in the Transition style in 1115 and of late judiciously restored, contains many ancient tombstones.

To the W. of the church, on the lofty bank of the Main beyond the Schloss-Garten, stands the *Pompeianum (Pl. A, 2; adm. 8,30-12 and 2-6, 50 pf.; comp. above), a villa erected by King Ludwig I. in 1824-49 in imitation of the 'House of Castor and Pollux' at Pompeii, and adorned with mural paintings. The mosaic (Juno and Jupiter) on the wall of the summer dining-room was presented by Pope Gregory XVI. View from the platform.

Pleasant walk through the Schönthal (Pl. D, 3) and the (1/4 hr.) Fasanerie to the Schmerlenbacher Wald. — On the left bank of the Main, 2 M. to the W., where the river is crossed by a bridge constructed in 1430, is the Schöne Busch (comp. the Plan), a royal park with a château, orangery, and inn. — Another pleasant walk is by $(4^1/2 \text{ M.})$ Johannesberg, with its new belvedere, to the Ludwigsthurm on the Hahnenkamm (p. 60). Then down by Alzenau (p. 60).

From Aschaffenburg to Mayence, 461/2 M. (direct railway in 11/2-31/2 hrs.). The through-trains from Mayence (and Cologne) to Munich and Vienna travel over this line. 9 M. Babenhausen is the junction for Hanau and Eberbach (p. 23). 26 M. Darmstadt, and (461/2 M.) Mayence, see Baedeker's Rhine.

From Aschaffenburg to Amorbach, 28 M. (railway in 13/4-2 hrs.). Soon after quitting the station the line sweeps round towards the S., passing the Fasanerie (see above) on the left, and follows the right bank of the Main, rich in vines and fruit-trees. 4M. Obernau; 51/2 M. Sulzbach, 31/2 M. to the E. of which lie the picturesque baths (*Curhaus) of Sodenthal, with springs containing salt and bromine; 9 M. Kleinwallstadt; 11 M. Obernburg (Kunig), opposite which, on the other side of the river, is the little town of that name, with a busy trade in timber and wine. At (15 M.) Wörth, a small town with an old château, the train crosses the Main. 16 M. Klingenberg (Hirsch; Krone); the small town, noted for its excellent red wine and its fire-proof clay, lies on the opposite bank. 181/2 M. Laudenbach. 201/2 M. Kleinheubach (Adler), with Schloss and park of Prince Löwenstein-Wertheim-Rosenberg (chapel with "Frescoes by E. Steinle). On the opposite bank lies Grossheubach, 1 M. to the S.E. of which is the Franciscan monastery of Engelsberg, with a pilgrimage-church (view), where Dom Miguel of Braganza (d. 1866), pretender to the throne of Portugal, is buried. In a wood near this (1½ M. from the village) are the so-called Hain- or Heunen-Säulen, twelve huge columns of sandstone, remains of an ancient quarry of the Roman period, which seems to have been suddenly abandoned.

221/2 M. Miltenberg (395 ft.; Engel; Riese), a thriving little town of 3500 inhab., in a charming situation, stretches for a considerable distance between the river and the wooded height on its bank. Its quarries of variegated sandstone were known in the time of the Romans. The old Schloss of the Electors of Mayence, built in the 15th cent. and destroyed in 1552, contains Hr. Conrady's valuable collection of antiquities and objects of art (admission free). The Municipal Collection of Antiquities is in the old hospital. Several interesting timber-built houses. — Then Weitbach and (28 M.) Amorbach (*Badischer Hof; Post), a small town with 2500 inhab, and mineral baths, seat of the Prince of Leiningen, whose handsome English-Gothic château of Wald-Leiningen lies 6 M. to the S. The old abbey-church, with two early-Romanesque towers and a nave rebuilt in the rococo style in the 18th cent., is now used for Protestant services. The abbey-mill and other Gothic edifices in the town, and the rococo library-hall in the former chapter-house should be noticed. — Hence to the Odenwald, see Baedeker's Rhine.

FROM MILTENEERG TO WERTHEIM, 18 M. (diligence twice daily in 33/4 hrs.). The picturesque road, which will repay even walkers, runs on the left bank of the Main through the fertile and well-wooded valley, dotted here and there with ruined castles, viâ Bürgstadt (near which, on the Wannenberg, are an ancient Germanic rampart and a deserted Roman quarry), to (5 M.) Freudenberg (Rose), a picturesque little place, with the ruins of a castle of the 12th cent. destroyed in the Thirty Years' War. Farther on, to the left, are the extensive quarries of Reistenhausen; then Fechenbach with the ruined Kollenberg, Dorfprozetten, and Stadtprozetten (Post; Adler), with a castle of the now extinct Schenks of Klingenberg, destroyed by the French in 1688. Thence by Mondfeld and Grünenwörth to Wertheim (see p. 63).

The line passes a monument (r.) to the Austrians who fell in 1866, and ascends by (30 M.) Hösbach and (32 M.) Laufach to the long tunnel of (36½ M.) Heigenbrücken (Fleckenstein's Inn, at the station). About 3½ M. to the N., above Jakobsthal, is the Steigkoppe (p. 60). The line here enters the higher regions of the Spessart (p. 63), winds through the wooded and grassy Lohrbach-Thal, and runs across numerous bridges and through many cutings in the red sandstone to (45 M.) Partenstein and (49 M.) Lohr, on the Main. About 1 M. to the S. is Lohr (*Kessler; Hirsch; Krone; Röder), an industrial little town, prettily situated. The Rathhaus and the Parish Church are interesting.

From Lohr to Wertheim, 23 M. (railway in 2 hrs.). The train ascends the pleasant valley of the Main, following the right bank of the winding river. I M. Stadt Lohr (see above); $2^1/2$ M. Rodenbach; $5^1/2$ M. Neustadt am Main, with a well-restored church (Romanesque basilica), dating from a Benedictine monastery founded in the 8th century. $9^1/2$ M. Rothenfels (Anker, good wine), with large quarries and a château of Prince Löwenstein-Wertheim-Rosenberg. 11 M. Hafenlohr; $12^1/2$ M. Trenfeld, we observe on the right *Schloss Triefenstein, once an Augustinian provostry, now the property of Prince Löwenstein-Wertheim-Freudenberg, very handsomely fitted up (tapestry, collection of arms); beautiful park and charming view. On the left bank are Homburg, with an old castle, and the Burkardus-Höhle, the cavetin which St. Burkhard, first bishop of Würzburg, died in 752. A tunnel, 550 yds. long, below the Bettinger Berg, brings us to (21 M.) Kreuzwertheim. — 23 M. Several quaint houses of the 16th century. The situation of the town, with the imposing red sandstone ruin above it, somewhat resembles that of Heidelberg. The church contains fine monuments of Counts Joh. and Mich. von Wertheim (15th and 16th cent.). The S. part of the Spessart, the finest and most extensive forestdistrict in Germany, noted for its gigantic oaks and beeches, and its game, is washed on three sides by the Main, and is bounded on the N. by the valleys of the Aschaff and the Lohr, through which the railway from Aschaffenburg to Lohr runs. Almost in the centre of this district rises the Geyersberg (1920 ft.), from which long hills radiate to the W., S., and E., on the crests of which we may walk in the delicious leafy shade for hours at a time (as in the Vosges Mts.). On the W. slope of the Geyersberg, 11 M. from Stadtprozelten (p. 62) and as far from Marktheidenfeld (p. 62), Wertheim (see above), and Lohr (p. 62), lies Rohrbrunn (1520 ft.), a summerresort consisting of two forester's houses and a new inn (pens. $3\frac{1}{2}M$), and a good centre for exploring the Spessart. Opposite is (10 min.) a hunting-lodge of Prince Luitpold, behind the forester's house of Diana, where the wild swine are fed at 5 or 6 p.m. To the S. (20 min.) is the Annahôhe or Hohe Warte (1210 ft.), a forester's house, whence we survey the vast leafy ocean of the Spessart. We may also wisit a venerable oak the vast leafy ocean of the Spessart. We may also visit a venerable oak, 1000 years old, 8-10 min. to the S.W. To the N.E. a beautiful forest-path leads past the (11/4 hr.) forester's house of Jägerverein to (1 hr.) Lichtenau (785 ft.; "Inn), prettily situated in the wooded valley of the Hafenlohr (wild swine feeding). [Thence we either descend the valley to (31/2 hrs.) Hafenlohr (p. 62), or go to the N. through fine timber across the Schwarze Rücken to Rechtenbach and (31/2 hrs.) Lohr (p. 62). — A road leads from Rohrbrunn to the S.W. past the forester's house of Diana and through the Dammbach-Thal to (11/2 hr.) Krausenbach (Inn), whence we ascend to the left (guide advisable) to the (1/2 M.) Gaishöhe (1705 ft.), on which a view-tower has recently been built. We descend past the ruined Wildenstein to (11/4 hr.) Eschau (670 ft.; Krone), whence a carriage-road ascends the Elsawa-Thal to Hobbach (Villa Elsawa of Dr. Wehsarg, pension $4\cdot 4^{1/2}M$) and Mespelbrunn (see below), and descends to $(4^{1/2}M)$. Obernburg (p. 61). — Charmingly situated, $1^{3/4}$ hr. to the N. of Rohrbrunn (guide advisable), lies Mespelbrunn, the ancestral castle of the founder of Würzburg University (p. 68; refreshments in the forester's house, to the left). From this point a pleasant route (guideposts) leads by Neudorf and the Hohe Warte (1210 ft.) to (2 hrs.) Bad Sodenthal and (11/4 hr.) Sulzbach (p. 61).

541/2 M. Langenprozelten. Near (58 M.) Gemünden (Kreiser; Rail. Restaurant) we cross the Fränkische Saale, which here falls into the Main. The little town lies picturesquely at the foot of wooded hills, commanded by the ruins of Schorenberg, which was destroyed in 1243.

FROM GEMUNDEN TO ELM, $28^{1}/_{2}$ M. (railway in $1^{1}/_{4} \cdot 2^{3}/_{4}$ hrs.). The line runs through the pleasant Simthal. Stations Rineck, Burgsinn, Mittelsinn, Jossa (to Brückenau, see p. 85), Sterbfritz, Vollmerz (near it, to the E., the ruins of the Steckelburg, once the seat of Ulrich von Hutten); then Elm, a station on the Bebra-Hanau Railway (see Baedeker's Northern Germany).

 $59^{1/2}$ M. Wernfeld (see above). — 66 M. Karlstadt (530 ft.), once the fortified frontier-town of the episcopal see of Würzburg, and still surrounded with walls and towers, is said to have been founded by Charles Martel, and extended by Charlemagne. Professor Bodenstein, the instigator of the Puritanical iconoclasm, was born here, and has thence been surnamed 'Karlstadt'. Würzburg (575 ft.; 61,032 inhab., 10,000 Prot.), the ancient capital of an episcopal principality, and now that of the Bavarian province of Unterfranken or Lower Franconia, is charmingly situated in the vine-clad valley of the Main. The inner and older part of the town, of which churches and ecclesiastical buildings form the chief feature, is encircled with well-kept promenades, nearly 3 M. in length, while the modern quarters, including the new university buildings, present a bright and handsome appearance.

Würzburg is one of the most venerable cities in Germany, having been the seat of a bishop since 741, when Burkardus, the first bishop, was consecrated by St. Boniface. The bishops soon attained to great wealth and power, and were created dukes of Franconia in 1120, a dignity confirmed to them by Emp. Frederick I. in 1168. Down to 1803, when Würzburg was incorporated with Bavaria, the principality was governed by an unbroken line of these bishop-princes, whose sway in the 17th and 18th cent. often included the see of Bamberg also. From 1805 to 1813 Würzburg was the capital of a grand-duchy of the Rhenish Confederation. The fortifications were removed in 1869-74.

From the Bahnhof-Platz (Pl. C, 1), where the Kilian Fountain was erected in 1895, the Kaiser-Strasse and Theater-Strasse (comp. p. 67) lead to the (10 min.) Residenz-Platz (Pl. D, 2, 3), in which rises the Luitpold Fountain, erected in 1894 on the 70th birthday of the Prince Regent Luitpold by the circles of Lower Franconi and Aschaffenburg. The fountain, designed by F. von Miller, is surmounted by a figure of Franconia, with a portrait-medallion of Prince Luitpold below; still lower are lifesize figures of Tilmann Riemenschneider, Matthias Grünewald, and Walther von der Vogelweide.

The extensive royal, formerly episcopal, *Palace (Residenz), one of the grandest and most effective of 18th cent. edifices of the kind, was erected in 1720-44 in the rococo style from Neumann's designs. It is 550 ft. long, 290 ft. deep, and 70 ft. high, and contains 7 courts, 283 rooms, a chapel, and a theatre.

The principal Statecase, in the central structure, to the left, is very imposing; its lofty ceiling is adorned with a fresco by G. B. Tiepolo of Venice, representing Olympus and the four quarters of the globe. The ceiling-painting in the large Kaisersaal, depicting the marriage of Emp. Frederick I. and Beatrix of Burgundy, which took place at Würzburg in 1156, is also by Tiepolo. The Palace Chapel, which contains two altar-pieces by Tiepolo, is sumptuously enriched with marble and bronze. The former episcopal apartments are richly decorated with French tapestry (Battle of Alexander, presented by Louis XIV.), etc. Magnificent "Mirror Saloon. — The Picture Gallery is particularly rich in still-life pieces by G. B. Weenix, J. van Streeck, Elias Vonck, B. van der Meer, C. Luyks, A. van Utrecht, etc. Among other works may be mentioned: "N. Berchem, Juno and Argus (an early work); "M. Stoop, Robbers in a cottage; H. van Balen, Holy Family (lifesize); "J. Livens, Mourning for Christ; J. Verkolje, Party on a harbour. — The huge Cellars, probably the largest in Germany, contain 200 casks of excellent Franconian wine produced by the royal vineyards. — The palace is shown daily at 10, 11, 2, and 3 o'clock (50 pf. each; the visit takes 3/4 hr.). Visitors ring for the castellan in the backcourt of the left wing. Adjacent is the office of the cellarer.

The left (N.) wing of the palace contains the Collection of the Historical Society (open on Sundays in summer, 10-12; at other times 50 pf. each pers.), and in the right wing is the Picture Gallery of the Kunstverein (daily, except Sat., 10-3). - The *Hofgarten, at the back of the palace, laid out in 1729, and afterwards frequently altered, is a favourite promenade. It contains a new Orangery (20 pf.), with figures from Herrenchiemsee, and a café.

In the broad Hofstrasse, leading W from the palace to the cathedral, is the Masschule (Pl. C, 2), containing the commercial and grammar schools and the collections of the polytechnic society.

The Cathedral (Pl. C, 2), in the Parade-Platz, a cruciform basilica in the Romanesque style, begun in 862 and consecrated in 1189, was materially altered in 1240 (to which date the two E. towers and the apselbelong)

The Interior, marred by 18th cent. restoration, contains numerous monuments of bishops: those of Bibra (d. 1519) and *Scherenberg (d. 1495), by the 6th and 7th pillars on the right, were executed by Riemenschneider (p. 77). The left aisle contains several fine brasses with low reliefs, e.g. that of Peter von Aufsess (d. 1522), by the 9th pillar. On the left side of the nave is a font of 1279. Altar-pieces of the 17-18th centuries. In the choir hangs a large crucifix by Riemenschneider.

Adjoining the cathedral on the N. rises the Neumünster Church (Pl.C, 2), of the 11th century. The red rococo façade towards the Kürschnerhof was constructed in 1711-19 by Pezani; the dome was added in 1731. The well-proportioned interior was decorated with stucco and gilding in the 18th century. On the choir of the Neumünster Church, facing the cathedral, is a tablet with a Latin and a German inscription (the latter by King Ludwig I.), erected in 1843 to the memory of Walther von der Vogelweide (d. about 1230), the greatest of the mediæval German poets, who was interred in the old cloisters.

A sum of money was left by the poet for purchasing food for the birds, and a vase was placed on the top of the original tomb for this purpose. The new monument is similarly provided, but the bequest has long since been diverted to the use of the canons themselves.

The Martinsgasse leads hence to the Markt (Pl. B. C. 2), in which rises the elegant Gothic *Marienkapelle, erected in 1377-1441, and restored in 1856, when the perforated spire was added.

The reliefs on the three portals (Annunciation, Last Judgment, Virgin enthroned) are coeval with the church. The "Statues by the S. portal (Adam and Eve) and on the buttresses (four restored) are by Riemenschneider. Observe in the interior the tombstone of a knight (1499) and wooden "Statues (SS. Dorothea and Margaretha) by Riemenschneider.

To the S.W. of the market-place lies the old Rathhaus (Pl. B, C, 2), the oldest part of which, the so-called Grafen-Eckartsthurm, built in 1453-56, faces the Domstrasse. In the same street is the Vierröhren-Brunnen, a fountain erected in 1733. The Domstrasse leads to the Old Main Bridge, see p. 68.

From the Domstrasse the Augustinergasse and the Neubaustrasse lead to the S. to the Julilus Maximilian University, founded in 1582 by Bishop Julius (p. 68), and attended by about 1550 students, of whom about 900 are medical. The University Buildings (Pl. C, 2), designed by Adam Kal in 1587, contain various collections: the Zoological, the Mineralogical and Geological, the ArtHistory Museum (Wagner's collection of antiquities, including Greek monuments, vases, fragments of statues, casts from antique works, tapestry, wood-carvings by Riemenschneider, early Christian lamps, rings, etc.), a somewhat extensive Picture Gallery (open Thurs. 9-1), the Cabinet of Engravings (Mon. and Wed., 9-12), etc. All the collections are closed in vacation, though strangers may obtain admission for a fee.

Spinello Arctino, Altar-piece; Raphael (?), Madonna with the carnation; Bellini (?), Best on the Flight into Egypt; works by Tiepolo, Tintoretto, Pordenone: Poussin, Bacchanalian scene; Millet, Italian landscape; Bourguignon, Battle; Greuze, Girl's head; Velazquez (?), Two portraits; Skreta, Three portraits; Van der Neer, Moonlight scene; Brueghel & Van Balen, Landscape; Hogarth, Street-scene; Hell-fire' Brueghel, Temptation of St. Antony; Sachtleven, River-scene; Hondecoster, Poultry-yard; Snyders (?), Greengrocer; Rubens (?), Roman battle; Van Dyck, St. Jerome; Peters, Flight into Egypt; Fr. The S.W. side of the quadrangle, in the Neubau-Strasse, is occupied by the University Church or Neubau-Kirche, built in 1582-91 in a curiously mixed Gothic and Renaissance style and recently well restored. The tower is used as an Observatory (Sat. 2-4). Adjoining the church on the E. is the University Library, containing over 250,000 vols., and adjacent is the Michaelis-Kirche or Seminar-Kirche (1765). — To the W. of the University is the early-Gothic Franciscan Church, with a monastery of the 13th cent. (Pl. C, 3).

From the Neubau-Strasse the Peter-Strasse leads to the S. to the Peterskirche. On the S. side of the Platz is the old Mint (now a school); on the E. side is the Regierungsgebäude, or government offices, once a Benedictine abbey, the Church of which, now Protestant, was tastefully decorated in the interior in the rococo style in 1782-89.

From this point the Otto-Strasse leads to the S.E., past the (left) new Justizgebäude (Pl. D, 3; law-courts) and the monument of Phil. Franz von Siebold, the naturalist and traveller (1796-1866), to the promenades by the Sander Glacis (p. 68).

From the Residenz-Platz (p. 65) the Theater-Strasse runs to the N.W. On the right we notice the Ludwigshalle (Pl. D, 2), formerly railway-offices, now used for exhibitions, in front of which rises a monument to von Zürn (d. 1884), a public-spirited burgo-master of Würzburg. To the right, farther on, at the corner of the Semmels-Strasse, is the Bürgerspital (Pl. C, 2), with its popular wine-room (p. 64). Opposite to it the Haugerpfaffengasse leads to the right to the Hauger Church (Pl. C, 1), with two towers and a lofty dome, built in 1670-91 by Petrini, in the rococo style. The interior is overladen with gilding.

At the end of the Theater-Strasse the Kaiser-Strasse leads to the right to the railway-station, while the Julius Promenade leads to the left to the Main. To the right in the latter is the extensive and admirably organised Julius Hospital (Pl. C, 1, 2), founded in 1576, and richly endowed, its property being now worth 9,000,000 M. Upwards of 600 persons, of whom 400 are patients, are daily boarded and lodged here. The clinical institutions connected with the hospital since the beginning of the 17th cent. also form a medical school. The Statue of the founder, Bishop Julius Echter von Mespelbrunn (d. 1617), in the lower Julius Promenade, is by Schwanthaler. Behind the hospital is the Botanic Garden.

From the W. end of the Julius Promenade, where the Custom House (Pl. B, 2) is situated, we follow the bank of the Main to the N., past the 'crane-quay' and the municipal Abattoir, to the new Luitpold Bridge (Pl. B, 1), which spans the river with seven arches and affords a fine view of the valley. On the opposite bank are large new barracks. In the Pleicher Ring, leading to the S.E. from the bridge to the Kaiser-Strasse and the railway-station, are the new Zootomical Institute, the 'Anatomie', and the Pathological, Physiological, and Physical Institutes, all belonging to the university. Pleasant grounds on the left. Beyond the Kaiser-Platz (Pl. C, 1) we reach the Hauger and the Rennweger Ring, and beyond the Hofgarten (p. 65) the Sander Ring (Pl. B, 4), which extends to the Main.

The Dom-Strasse (p. 65) leads to the Old Main Bridge (Pl. B, 2, 3), 644 ft. in length, constructed in 1474-1607, and adorned with statues of saints. On the left bank, immediately to the right is the small Hofspital-Kirche, containing the '14 guardian saints carved by T. Riemenschneider. The Gothic Deutschhaus - Kirche (Pl. A, 2), now used for military purposes, was built in 1287-1303. - To the left, 5 min. above the bridge, rise the grey towers of St. Burkard (Pl. B, 2), the only church of Würzburg of intact exterior, erected in 1033-42 in the Romanesque style and restored in 1168, with late-Gothic choir of 1494-97. In the interior (now being restored) it has shared the fate of the other churches. The nave contains a late-Romanesque offertory-box in sandstone, and the S. transept a carved altar of 1590.

Through a vaulted passage below the choir of St. Burkard the Burkardergasse leads to the Burkarder Thor (Pl. B, 3), beyond which runs the Mergentheim road. The first road diverging to the right beyond the gate is the 'Leisten-Strasse', near which the excellent 'Leistenwein' is produced. The second road diverging to the right from the high-road (by the garden-restaurant of Leimsud) leads to a Station Path, which ascends in 10-12 min. to the octagonal Marien-Kapelle ('Käppele'; Pl. A, 4) on the Nicolausberg (1178 ft.), a pilgrimage-chapel, built in 1748-92 and containing good altar-pieces. The terrace in front of it affords fine views of the town and fortress. If we ascend the steps behind the chapel, we may follow the slope to the left (beautiful view) to the (10 min.) Schützenhof Restaurant, and thence regain the town in 1/4 hr.

On the hill opposite Würzburg, 427 ft. above the river, rises the fortress of Marienberg (1016 ft.; Pl. A, 3), constructed since 1650 on the site occupied successively by a Roman fort and an episcopal castle, which was taken by Gustavus Adolphus in 1631. To reach it we cross the bridge, turn to the right, and ascend to the left by the 'Erste Schlossgasse' (12 min.). We apply to the guard above the second covered gateway and are conducted to several fine points of view (cards of admission at the 'Kommandantur'; gratis).

In 1525 the insurgent peasantry lost time and strength in a vain attempt to capture this castle, after which the episcopal troops entered the town and executed 60 of the ringleaders. Near Würzburg the Archduke Charles defeated the French General Jourdan in 1796. In 1866 the campaign of the Prussian army of the Main terminated at Würzburg with the bombardment of the fortress (27th July). An armistice was concluded next day.

In 1525 Margrave Casimir of Ansbach ordered seven of the burghers to be executed in the market-place, and many others to be deprived of sight, as a punishment for their participation in the Peasants' War. On a hill near the station, 1/2 M. to the S.W. of the town, are the Waterworks, supplied from the Main by steam-power. Above the station is the Neue Schiesshaus, which affords a charming view of the vine-clad hills of the Main and of the Steigerwald.

The church, with its two towers, was rebuilt in the rococo style in 1743-72. An altar in the centre of the nave marks the spot, where, according to the legend, the 14 'Nothhelfer' ('helpers in need') appeared to a shepherd-boy in 1446, and gave rise to the foundation of the church. The two W. chapels contain numerous thank-offerings, such as figures in wax, etc. - The traveller who has visited Banz is not recommended to go to Vierzehnheiligen also, unless for the sake of extending his excursion along the top of the hill to the (3 M.) chapel (Restaurant) and the verge of the precipitous Staffelberg (see below).

Bamberg (785 ft.), a town with 35,248 inhab., lies in a very fertile district on both banks of the Regnits, at its junction with the Ludwigs-Canal (connecting the Main and the Danube, little used) and 3 M. above its confluence with the Main. The town already enjoyed municipal privileges in 973, was erected into a bishopric by Emp. Henry II. in 1007, and since 1802 has belonged to Bavaria. About half of the town is built upon a chain of hills, crowned with churches. Busy industries have sprung up here of late years (cotton-spinning, weaving, brewing, etc.).

The Luitpold-Strasse leads from the station to the town. In the St. Gangolph-Platz, on the left, is the church of St. Gangolph (Pl. C, 1, 2), founded in 1063, originally Romanesque, with a Gothic choir, but disfigured by alterations. In the chapel in the N. transept, behind the altar, there is a crucifix with a draped and crowned figure of Christ in repose, over lifesize.

The E. branch of the Regnitz is crossed by three bridges, the Sophienbrücke (Pl. C, 2), the new Peuntbrücke (Pl. D, 3), and the Kettenbrücke (Pl. C, 2). The chief traffic crosses the Kettenbrücke, or chain-bridge, constructed in 1828-29, from which the Hauptwach-Strasse leads to the S. to the Maximilians-Platz and the Grüne Markt.

In the MAXIMILIANS-PLATZ (Pl. B, C, 2), on the right, is the Priester-Seminar (Pl. 3). In the centre rises an imposing Fountain (Pl. 13), executed in 1880 by Miller of Munich, with statues of Maximilian I. of Bavaria, Emp. Henry II., his wife Kunigunde, Bishop Otho the Saint, and Emp. Conrad III.

Farther on is the GRÜNE MARKT (Pl. B, 2, 3), where the well-stocked vegetable-market is held in the forenoon. On the right, at the corner of the Jesuiten-Strasse, is the church of St. Martin (Pl. 1), built by Andr. Pozzo in the Baroque style in 1686-1720, with a dome and massive barrel-vaulting; the tower, 180 ft. high, affords a good survey of the town. Adjoining the church is St. Martin's Pfarrhof, formerly a university and Jesuit college, now the Royal Lyceum (Pl. 4). The entrance, 2 Jesuiten-Strasse, leads into a court, in the arcades at the back of which are the entrances to the Linder Cabinet of Natural History (10-12; on the right) and to the *Library (Pl. 5, B, 2; on the left). The latter, formed by the union of the Jesuits' library with collections from several convents, now contains 300 000 vols. and upwards of 3000 MSS.

The library is open daily (except Sun., holidays, and Sat. afternoons), 8-12 and 2-4; during the summer-holidays visitors are admitted from 9 to 12. Some of its most interesting contents are exhibited under glass in the principal hall: fine parchments from the library bequeathed by the Emp. Henry II. to the chapter of Bamberg; several Gospels and missals of the Carlovingian period, including the so-called 'Bible of Alcuin', probably written at Tours; prayer-books of Henry II. and his wife Kunigunde, with fine Byzantine ivory diptychs of the 11th cent.; also numerous miniatures, rare printed works, interesting drawings, water-colours, etc., including several ascribed to Dürer (?).

The Grüne Markt, in which rises the Neptune Fountain ('Gabelmann'; Pl. 14), erected in 1698, and the Obstmarkt lead to the Obere Brücke (Pl. B, 3), a bridge over the left arm of the Regnitz, completed in 1455, with a stone Crucifix of 1715. On an artificial island halfway across stands the Rathhaus (Pl. 7), rebuilt in 1744-56, and adorned externally with allegorical frescoes in the taste of the period. The old tower covering the entrance to the bridge is adorned with roccoo balconies. — A little lower down is the Untere Brücke, an iron bridge constructed in 1858. Above is another iron bridge crossing from the right bank to the Geiersworth, an island with an old episcopal palace, now a court of justice. The two chief bridges afford fine views of the river and the picturesque houses on its banks. - From the Upper Bridge the Carolinen-Str. ascends to the CAROLINEN - PLATZ, a square enclosed by the cathedral, the old, and the new palace.

The *Cathedral (Pl. B, 3) with its four towers, one of the grandest Romanesque edifices in Germany (312 ft. long, 92 ft. wide, and 86 ft. high), was founded by Emp. Henry II. in 1004, but dates in its present form from the close of the 12th and the beginning of the 13th century. The W. choir, with the transept in front of it, is later, as its pointed style and moulded pillars indicate, perhaps dating from 1274, when an indulgence was granted to the promoters of the building, and the nave covered with its pointed ceiling. The four eight-storied towers are 265 ft. in height; the two at the E. end are in pure Romanesque, but the open-work turrets on the W. towers reveal the influence of the early French-Gothic style. The sculptures are among the best examples of German plastic art between the late-Romanesque and the early-Renaissance periods.

The sculptures on the recessed PRINCIPAL PORTAL (Fürstenthor, N.), which resembles the 'Goldene Pforte' of Freiberg Cathedral, represent the Last Judgment, the Apostles standing on the shoulders of the Prophets, and symbolical figures of Church and Synagogue (the last with its eyes bandaged). The two smaller portals to the right and left of the E. CHOIR, approached by a fine flight of steps, are also embellished with sculptures: approached by a fine flight of steps, are also embellished with sculptures: on the S.E. portal (the 'marriage-door'), the usual entrance to the cathedral, are figures of Adam and Eve, SS. Peter and Stephen, and the Emp. Henry II. and his consort Kunigunde; the N.E. door (the 'Mother of God' or 'Grace' door) has fine columns with elaborate capitals; above the architrave, the Virgin worshipped by saints.

The "Interior (open 5.30-10.30 a. m.; in the afternoon only during service on Sun., Wed., & Sat.) was judiciously restored by King Lewis I. in 1828-37 and purged of disfigurements. (The sacristan, who shows the choirs and treasury, lives at the back of the W. choir; entrance in the Carolinen-Platz; fee 1/2-1 M.)

In the centre of the Nave is the *Sarcophagus of the founder Henry II. (d. 1024) and his consort Kunigunde (d. 1038), executed, in a fine-grained

(d. 1024) and his consort Kunigunde (d. 1038), executed, in a fine-grained limestone resembling marble, by Tilmann Riemenschneider, the famous sculptor of Würzburg, in 1499-1513. On the highly ornate sarcophagus repose the emperor and empress, over lifesize, in the fantastic costumes of the 15th century. The reliefs on the sides represent scenes from their lives: 1. The Empress proves her innocence by walking over red-hot plough-shares; 2. She pays the workmen who erected the church founded by her; 3. The Emperor cured of an illness by St. Benedict; 4. He implores pardon for sin;

To the left of the approach to the St. George's or E. Choir is an Equestrian Figure of Emp. Conrad III., who died at Bamberg in 1153 and was buried in the cathedral (or perhaps of Stephen, King of Hungary, who was baptized here). — The stone screens separating the E. choir from the aisles are adorned with interesting sculptures, representing the Apostles and Prophets (in pairs) and the Annunciation, all of the early 12th cent.; between these, on the N. side, are three fine statues (Madonna, Sibyl, an angel) of the end of the 13th century. Adjacent is the monument of the last princethe end of the 18th century. Adjacent is the monument of the last prince-bishop (d. 1808). — The E. Choir contains, on the right, the monument of the prince-bishop George II. (d. 1505), from Peter Vischer's studio, and the sarcophagi of Bishop Otho II. (d. 1196; Romanesque) and Bishop Günther (d. 1066; 13th century). The figure of Christ, in bronze, over the altar, was designed by Schwanthaler, as were also the 22 reliefs of saints on the altar. The choir-stalls are modern.—The CRYPT, below the E. choir, is severely Romanesque; the vaulting is borne by 14 round and octagonal columns. It contains the simple sandstone sarcophagus of Emp. Conrad III. and a well.

In the St. Peter's or W. Choir is the low marble sarcophagus of Pope Clement II. (d. 1047), once Bishop of Bamberg, with reliefs of the 13th century. On the walls are the monuments of the prince-bishops Schaumburg (d. 1475), Gross-Trockau (d. 1501), Pommersfeiden (d. 1503), the last two being from Peter Vischer's studio, and George III. of Limburg (d. 1522), by Loyen Hering, one of the earliest Renaissance monuments in Germany. The choir-stalls are of the Gothic period.

In the S. Transept, to the left of the W. choir, is an ivory crucifix and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and presented to the chips by France and the form the 4th cent and the 4th cent and said to date from the 4th cent., and presented to the church by Emp. Henry II. in 1008. — The two doors in the S. transept lead to the sacristy and to the Nagel-Capelle (Chapel of the Nail), added in the 15th cent., which contains 64 monumental brasses of canons (1414-1540), a carved reredos of the 15th cent., and an Entombment after Ann. Carracci. The adjacent Antonius - Capelle contains an altar-piece by Lucas Cranach (1513) representing the Madonna in a garland of roses, with saints and portraits of Emp. Max I., the Pope, and other princes of that period. — The Treasury contains, among other curiosities, a nail of the True Cross in a mounting of the 15th cent., the skulls of Emp. Henry II. and Kunigunde, the Emperor's crown, his sword, drinking-horn, and knife, combs of the Empress, a chasuble embroidered by her, and the enamelled head of St. Otho's crozier.

From the cathedral we may cross over to the Oberpfarrkirche in 2 min.

through the 'Obere and Untere Bach'.

The W. side of the Carolinen-Platz is bounded by the picturesque Alte Hofhaltung or Alte Residenz (Pl. A, B, 2), with a lofty gable and handsome jutting window and portal, built in the second half of the 16th cent. on the site of an older palace of the Counts of Babenberg, in which the Lombard King Berengarius died in captivity in 966, and Count Palatine Otho of Wittelsbach slew Emp. Philip of Swabia in 1208. In front of this palace rises a monument (Pl. 15) to the prince-bishop Von Erthal (d. 1797), erected in 1865.

The N. and half of the E. side of the Carolinen-Platz are occupied by the Neue Residenz (adm. 10-11 and 2-4; on Sun. and holidays 10.30 to 12 and 2-3; 50 pf.), or New Palace, erected by Bishop von Schönborn in 1698-1704. Here, in Oct., 1806, Napoleon issued his declaration of war against Prussia. From 1806 to 1837 this palace was the residence of Duke William of Bavaria, fatherin-law of the French Marshal Berthier. On 1st June, 1815, the marshal, whose mind had been unhinged by the return of Napoleon from Elba, threw himself from one of the windows on the E. side and was killed. — The S. wing contains the Archives.

The Obere Carolinen-Strasse, between the two palaces, leads from the Carolinen-Platz to the Jakobsberg and the St. Jakobskirche (Pl. A, 3), a flat-roofed Romanesque church of the 11th cent., with a Gothic W. choir and an E. choir which was transformed in 1771 into a rococo façade, all recently restored. At the back of the W. choir, to the left, is Schmidt's interesting Porcelain Painting Establishment.

A little to the N. of St. Jakob's is the Michaelsberger-Str., by which we ascend to the *Michaelsberg (Pl. A, 2), with its conspicuous church and other buildings of a Benedictine abbey founded by Emp. Henry II. The court, which we enter by the W. gateway, affords a good picture of a mediæval convent on a large scale, though most of the present buildings date only from last century.

The CHURCH OF ST. MICHABL, a Romanesque edifice of the 12th cent., with Gothic additions, tastelessly restored last century, has been entirely renovated in the interior.

The Interior contains many monuments of bishops (16-18th cent.), transferred hither from the cathedral. Behind the high-alter is that of St. Otho (d. 1139), dating from the 14th cent.; at the back is a painted statue of the saint, probably a relic of an earlier monument. The alter contains his pastoral staff, mitre, and chasuble. Handsome rococo choirstalls of the 18th century.

The S. E. wing of the abbey-building now contains the municipal Gallery of Art. Entrance adjoining the church-steps (adm. Sun. 10-12, free; week-days 10-12 and 2-5, in winter 10-12 and 2-3, adm. 50 pf.; catalogue 50 pf.).

Rooms I & II. Early German Masters: 64 paintings by M. Wohlgemut, Hans von Kulmbach, Hans Baldung Grien, M. Striget, H. Schäufelein, Lucas Cranach, and others. — Rooms III & IV. contain (according to the catalogue) 61 pictures by A. del Sarto, C. Dolci, M. Caravaggio, Sassoferrato, C. Maratta, Tiepolo, and other Italian masters, and 11 pictures by Spagnoletto and other Spanish painters. — Rooms V, VI, & VII. Dutch and Flemish Masters of the 16th and 17th cent., including C. de Crayer, Honthorst, Jordaens, Sal. Ruysdael, and Jan van Goyen. — Room VIII. French School. — Room IX. Heller Collection: 319. Corn. Janszoon van Ceulen, Portrait; 322. A. Dürer, Head of St. Paul, a study. — Rooms X, XI, & XII. contain modern works, chiefly by artists of Bamberg and Munich; 489 Head 'al fresco' by Cornelius. — Also water-colours, miniatures, crayon sketches, and small works of art in ivory, alabaster, and wood. — On the first floor a large carpet of the end of the 15th cent. with scenes from the Passion.

On the N. side of the church is the old abbey, now the Bürger-spital or poor-house. To the left are the secular buildings, now a brewery and restaurant. Passing the terrace of the restaurant, we reach the Monastery Garden, laid out in the 18th cent., where an avenue of limes affords charming views of the town.

From the Michaelsberg we may go to the W., past the little church of St. Getreu and the Lunatic Asylum (Pl. 8), to the Villa Remeis, now the property of the town, which commands a fine panorama (restaurant, see p. 75).

To the W. of the Upper Bridge (p. 76) the Lugbank ascends to the left to the Pfahl-Platz and the Kaulberg. On the Untere Kaulberg, to the left, stands the Gothic *Obere Pfarrkirche zu Unserer Lieben Frauen (Pl. 2; B, 3), erected in 1320-87, disfigured in the 18th cent., but of late thoroughly restored. The Gothic choir contains 11 altars. Good wood-carving on the organ-case by Veit Stoss (1523). On the N. side is the Ehethür ('wedding-gate'), with an elegant porch borne by two slender columns and containing figures of the Wise and Foolish Virgins.

From the Pfahl-Platz (see above) we may go to the S. through the Judengasse and ascend the Stephansberg to the new Observatory ('Sternwarte'; Pl. B, 4), built with a bequest of the late Hr. Remeis.

Beautiful walk up the Kaulberg (see blue notice-boards), past the Karmeliter-Kaserne (barracks; Pl. A, 4), then down a little to the right, and lastly straight up the hill to the (40 min.) *Altenburg (1265 ft.; café at the top). The castle, probably founded in the 10th cent. and after 1251 a castle of the bishops, was destroyed in 1553 by Margrave Albert of Bayreuth, but afterwards partly restored. Fine view from the tower (162 steps; afternoon light best). The chapel, restored in 1834, contains monuments of the 16th cent. and stained glass.

The Theresienhain and Luisenhain (Pl. C, 4), with their promenades skirting the Regnitz, afford pleasant walks. They are reached from the new town in 10-15 min. by the Sophien-Brücke, the Schönleins-Platz (with a bust of the famous physician of that name; d. 1864), and the Hain-Str.; and from the old town by the Geierswörth-Str. and the Mühlendamm. Near the centre of the park is a café, and at the end of it, 2 M. from the town, is the little village of Bug (pron. 'book'). — On the right bank of the Regnitz, to the S. of the station, lies the suburb of Wunderburg, with its extensive market-gardens.

Interesting excursion to Banz and Vierzehnheiligen (p. 75). — Franconian Switzerland, see p. 92.

The environs of Bamberg form a vast orchard and market-garden, of which, however, little is seen from the train. Pine-plantations and hop-gardens are traversed. The railway, high-road, Regnitz, and Ludwigs-Canal run parallel. 188 M. Hirschaid; 192 M. Eggolsheim. To the left on the height near Forchheim rises the Jägersburg (1184 ft.), once a hunting-lodge of the bishops of Bamberg.

196 M. Forchheim (870 ft.; Hirsch; Zettelmaier, Zur Eisenbahn, both at the station), once a frontier-fortress of the bishops of Bamberg, was a place of some importance as far back as the time of Charlemagne. Pop. 6000. The Gothic Church contains twelve scenes from the Passion, of Wohlgemut's school and wood-carvings and reliefs by Adam Krafft and Veit Stoss. The spacious Schloss, of the 14th cent., is now occupied by public offices. The rapid Wiesent falls into the Regnitz here. — Excursion to the Franconian Switzerland, see p. 92.

About 11 M. to the N.W. of Forchheim is Count Schönborn's beautiful château of Pommersfelden, built in 1711-17 in the baroque style and sumptuously fitted up in the interior, though the best specimens of the once famous picture-gallery were sold in 1867. Large park. Visitors apply at the steward's office.

To the right, near (201 M.) Baiersdorf, are the ruins of Scharfeneck, destroyed by the Swedes in 1634. Beyond a tunnel of 374 yds. the Regnitz-Thal and Ludwigs-Canal are seen on the left.

 $205^{\overline{1}}/_2$ M. Erlangen (920 ft.; *Schwan; Wallfisch; *Blaue Glocke; beer in the Gute Quelle, etc.; Rail. Restaurant), with 17,565 inhab.

(3800 Rom. Cath.), still partly enclosed by its ancient walls, owes its regular construction to a fire in 1706, which destroyed most of the houses, and its prosperity mainly to French Protestants, exiled by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes (1685), who transferred their industries hither, and also to German Protestants who took refuge here when the French devastated the Palatinate.

The University (1000 students, chiefly of medicine and theology). was founded in 1743 by Margrave Alexander of Brandenburg-Bayreuth. In front of the building, originally the palace of the margraves, is a Statue of the founder by Schwanthaler. In the marketplace opposite rises the modern Pauli Fountain, with Tritons, Nereids, and bronze figures of Erlanga and Alma Mater. The University Library contains several curiosities, including a Bible with miniatures of the 12th cent., and a valuable collection of drawings by Netherlandish and German masters of the 15-16th cent. (some of them damaged), Dürer being represented by about 20 sketches. The university also contains natural history collections and an 'aula' with numerous portraits. The beautiful palace-garden. which now belongs to the university, contains several university institutions, chief of which is the Collegienhaus, completed in 1889, with a façade adorned with figures of the four Faculties. Near it are an unfinished statue of the Great Elector and a large fountain with 45 statuettes, said to be portraits of the first French refugees who settled here. The Luitpold-Platz is adorned with a bronze statue of Prof. Herz. In the Bahnhof-Platz is a tasteful little fountain in bronze.

Pleasant walks on the Rathsberg (belvedere and restaurant) and the Altstädter Berg, a spur of the Jura, at the foot of which a fair is held at Whitsuntide. On the W. slope is the Canal Monument, by Schwanthaler, erected by Ludwig I. in memory of the completion of the Ludwigs-Canal (p. 75), with figures of the Danube and Main, Navigation and Commerce.

Branch Rallway (171/2 M., in 21/4 hrs.) to the E. to Gräfenberg (Post; Stadelmann), a little town with a Schloss, prettily situated at the foot of the Eberhartsberg, a fine point of view. (Entrance to Franconian Switzerland by the charmingly situated.

The handsome Rathhaus of 1570-72 contains the municipal library (over 10,000 vols.) and the Museum of mediæval art and historical relics (adm. 9-12 and 2-5). The Protestant church of St. Johann (recently restored) dates from the 14th century. The Gymnasium, or grammar-school, founded in 1631 by Gustavus Adolphus, was transferred to a handsome new building to the N. of the town in 1881. Engine-works, dye-works, sugar-factories, etc., flourish here, and a large cattle-market is held every fortnight. Pleasant walk to the chief Reservoir of the water-works; also to the Wehrwäldchen (left bank). On the (1/4 hr.) 42 M. Hassfurt (Post), a small town with walls and massive gateway, possesses a fine Gothic chapel, the *Marien-Capelle, or Ritter-Capelle (middle of 15th cent.), restored by Heideloff. On the outside of the choir is a triple row of the armorial bearings of the members of an ecclesiastical brotherhood of nobles, founded in 1413. which contributed to the cost of building the chapel. Others are carved on the pillars and on the vaulting in the interior (in all 248).

Kissingen (660 ft.), the most frequented watering-place in Bavaria (4250 inhab.), lies picturesquely in the valley of the Fränkische Saale, enclosed by wooded hills. The sanatory properties of the waters were known as early as the 16th cent., and the Prince Bishops of Würzburg took the place under their protection; but at the beginning of the present century it was still a mere village. The growing repute of the springs and increasing number of visitors have now converted the place into a handsome and well-built town, which is visited by over 14,000 patients annually, many of whom are English and Russians.

The extensive Curgarten between the Curhaus and Cursaal, the principal promenade, is embellished with a marble *Statue of King Lewis I., by Knoll of Munich, a Hygeia imparting to the Rakoczy and Pandur their healing influence, and a statue of King Maximilian II., both in marble, by Arnold, a native of the place. On the S. side are the chief drinking-springs, the Rakoczy (300,000 bottles of which are annually exported) and the Pandur, which is also used for baths. On the N. side is the Maxbrunnen, resembling Selters water. From 6 to 8 a.m., the hour for drinking the waters, the Curgarten presents a lively scene, and a band plays in fine weather. From 5 to 7 p.m. the band again plays, and the fashionable world reassembles.

Opposite the garden, on the right bank of the Saale, stands the Actien-Badhaus (Pl. 1), a large edifice of red sandstone, with two wings (left, baths for ladies; right, for gentlemen), and an engine-house in the centre. Adjacent is the Casino, with reading-room, restaurant, etc. — A tablet on the house of Dr. Diruf, also on the right bank, commemorates the attempted assassination of Prince Bismarck in 1874 (see below).

Pretty walk, through the Von der-Tann-Strasse and by the Stationsberg, or by the path (Pl. C, 4, 5) to the left, above the Hôtel Zapf, to the ruins of (25 min.) Bodenlaube (1128 ft.), the N. tower of which commands a fine view (Restaurant zur Linde, below the ruin). We may return by the road leading through Unterbodenlaube, with its interesting old lime-tree. Well-kept walks lead to the Lindesmühle, the Altenberg, the Staffelsberg (fine view from the Ludwig Tower), the Wichtelshöhlen, the Kaskaden-Thal and Altenburger Haus, the Klaushof (Hotel, in the wood), the Klaushöhe (omn. five times every afternoon, 1 M, there and back 1½ M), etc.

On 10th July, 1866, Kissingen was the scene of a sharp engagement between the Prussians and Bavarians. The latter were, however, eventually obliged to yield. Near the cemetery, 1/2 M. from the Curgarten, is a handsome monument in memory of the fallen.

The Saline Springs with the extensive evaporating-sheds, situat ed on the Saale, 1½ M. to the N., are reached by walks on both banks. A small steamboat plies on the Saale to the springs every 20 min. (fare 30, return-fare 50 pf.). A handsome bath-house (Salinenbad) has been erected over the *Artesian Well, which is 330 ft. in depth (containing two per cent of salt; temperature 63° Fahr.) and frequently rises to a height of 10 ft. in its covered reservoir. Near it is a Statue of Prince Bismarck, who has frequently visited the Obere Saline, ½ M. farther on.

visited the Obere Saline, 1/2 M. farther on.

At the village of Hausen, 3/4 M. farther on, is the Schönbornsprudel, a shaft upwards of 2000 ft. in depth, by which it was intended to reach an extensive stratum of salt. The work has, however, been given up, as it injured the other mineral springs at Kissingen. A square tower, 100 ft. in height, built over the shaft, is open to visitors from 4 to p.m.

Handsome Cursaal in the Italian style, built in 1827-33, with restaurant and public rooms. The Stahl, Wernarzer, and Sinnberger Springs, impregnated with carbonic acid, are beneficial in cases of poverty of blood, indigestion, kidney disease, etc. About 1400 patients annually. Visitors' tax 5 M; band-subscription 2 M weekly.

Schwarzenfels, with its old castle; to the S. by the Sinnberg to the (2 hrs.) Bayreuth (1180 ft.), with 24,556 inhab. (3300 Rom. Cath.), the capital of Upper Franconia, residence of the Margraves of Brandenburg-Culmbach from 1603 to 1769 and Bavarian since 1810, is mainly indebted for its present appearance to Margrave Christian (d. 1655), who transferred his seat from Kulmbach hither, to George William (d. 1726), and to Frederick (d. 1763), husband of Wilhelmine, the talented sister of Frederick the Great. Under the lastnamed prince many handsome buildings were erected.

At the end of the street ascending to the right as we quit the station, is seen the Richard Wagner Theatre (p. 88). To the left the Bahnhof-Str. leads over the Main to the Luitpold-Platz, in which (to the right) rises the Palace of Duke Alexander of Wurtemberg. Farther on, to the left beyond the Harmonie-Brücke, is the Opern-Strasse, with the Opera House, a sumptuous building erected by Margrave Frederick in 1747, and richly decorated in the interior in the rococo style. At the end of the Opern-Str. is the Maximilian-Platz, whence the Maximilian-Str. diverges to the W., the Ludwig-Str. to the S., the Bad-Str. and the Richard-Wagner-Str. to the E. The House of Richard Wagner, Richard-Wagner-Strasse $283^{1}/_{2}$, built in 1873-74 by Wölfle, bears the inscription: 'Hier wo mein Wähnen Frieden fand, Wahnfried sei dieses Haus von mir benannt'. Above is a sgraffito by Krausse, representing Wotan as a wanderer. In front of the house is a bust of King Lewis II. Wagner (d. 1883) is buried in the garden.

The Ludwig-Str. (see above) leads to the Residenz-Platz, in which is the New Palace (Pl. 2), a long building with wings, now a royal residence, erected in 1753. The left wing now contains the picture-gallery of the Kunst-Verein (open Sun., Tues., & Thurs., 11-1). The Palace Garden and Park are used as public promenades (military band on Sun. and holidays). The large Fountain in front of the Palace bears an equestrian Statue of Margrave Christian Ernest (d. 1712), a marshal in the imperial service, erected in 1700. The four allegorical figures in sandstone at the foot of the pedestal represent the four quarters of the globe.

In front of the Gymnasium rises Schwanthaler's Statue of Jean Paul Friedrich Richter (d. 1825; Pl. 3), whose house in the Friedrich-Strasse (No. 5, to the right) bears an inscription.

From the N. end of the Friedrich-Str. the Kanzlei-Str. leads to the right to the Maximilian-Str. and the old palace. The Gothic Stadtpfarrkirche (Prot.; Pl. 4), built in 1439-46, contains several pictures by Riedel, a native of Bayreuth. Beneath the church is the Fürstengruft, in which most of the princes from the 17th to the 18th cent. are interred.

The Old Palace (Pl. 1), begun in 1454, burned down in 1758, and soon after rebuilt, is now occupied by public offices. The octagonal Tower, erected in 1603, with a remarkably fine double spiral staircase, affords a good survey of the environs (key at the sacristan's, Richard-Wagner-Str. 291; fee 40 pf.). In front of the Palace rises a Statue of Maximilian II. in bronze, by Brugger, erected on the 50th anniversary of the union of the principality with the kingdom of Bavaria.

The Roman Catholic Church beside the palace (formerly the palace-church) contains the tombs of Margrave Frederick and his consort Wilhelmine (p. 86). Close by is the Harmonie, a pretty little Renaissance building. — The Maximilian-Strasse (market-place) is embellished with several fountains. Many of the houses possess handsome oriel windows. In the Schul-Strasse, which diverges to the right, is the handsome school, in front of which is a bronze bust of J. B. Graser (d. 1841), the schoolmaster, by Zumbusch. In the cemetery to the W. of the town (Erlanger Str.) are the graves of Jean Paul Richter (see above) and Franz Liszt (d. 1886), the latter in a small domed chapel.

To the N. of the town, 1 M. from the station, on the hill below the Bürgerreuth, stands the Wagner Theatre, where the Nibelungenring' was first performed in 1876 and 'Parsifal' in 1882. The theatre, built by Brückwald of Leipsic, contains 1650 seats. Higher up is the Bürgerreuth, a restaurant which commands a fine view of Bayreuth and the environs. Above the Bürgerreuth to the N. towers the Hohe Warte (1525 ft.), on which rises the Siegesthurm (55 ft.) in memory of the war of 1870-71, commanding an extensive view.

St. Georgen, commonly called the 'Brandenburger', situated on a hill to the N.E., is a suburb of Bayreuth, founded by Margr. George William (d. 1726) at the beginning of the 18th century. The road to it passes through a tunnel below the railway, beyond which, on the left, is the large Cotton Factory mentioned at p. 86. The road divides here. The branch to the right, a maple and chestnut avenue, flanked with handsome modern houses, leads to St. Georgen. The linden avenue to the left, planted in 1723, leads past a large spinning-mill (left), the new District Prison (right), and the St. Georgen House of Correction (left), to the Military Hospital, once the chapter-house of the knights of an 'Ordre de la Sincérité', instituted in 1712 by George William and changed to the Order of the Red Eagle (Roter Adler-Orden) in 1734 by Margrave George Frederick Charles. The meetings of the order were held in the church of St. Georgen (still called 'Ordenskirche'), built in 1705-18. The balustrade of the gallery is adorned with the arms of the knights down to 1767. - At the other end of the principal street is the Abbey Church of Gravenreuth.

The Bremitage, 3 M. to the E. of Bayreuth, a château with gardens, fountains, artificial ruins, etc., was erected by George William in 1715. It contains a number of family-portraits, including Frederick the Great, as a child, and as king, and his sister the Margravine Wilhelmine, who wrote her memoirs here; among those in the lower part of the Schloss is that of the Countess Orlamunde (the 'White Lady', p. 74). In the vicinity is the 'Grosse Bassin,' an imitation of that at Versailles, surrounded by a temple of the Sun and its two detached wings. The walls of these buildings are fantastically inlaid with coloured stones, rock-crystal, etc. The interior of the temple is sumptuously fitted up, and contains handsome columns of striped marble. Between the château itself and the offices (now a restaurant) is a pretty garden. Adjacent are the Roman theatre and the large water-tower, containing 1000 gallons of water for the fountains. The water-works play on Sundays about 5 p.m. (adm. gratis) and may be seen at other times for a fee of 2 M.

About halfway to the Eremitage, at the point where the road turns at a right angle to the N., is a small inn, called Rollwenzel's Haus, with a room where Jean Paul Richter used to write, containing some memorials of him.

The Fantaisie, a château 31/2 M. to the W. of Bayreuth, built in 1758 and tastefully fitted up, the seat of Duke Alex. of Wurtemberg (d. 1881) from 1828 to 1831, is charmingly situated on a richly wooded hill, near the village of Eckersdorf. The gardens and park, with bath-house, pheasantry, fountains, etc., are kept in excellent order. The grounds attract numerous visitors from Bayreuth (*Hôtel Fantaisie, by the park). — In the vicinity is St. Gilgenberg, a lunatic asylum, prettily situated.

vicinity is St. Gilgenberg, a lunatic asylum, prettily situated.

Eckersdorf lies on the direct route to the Franconian Switzerland diligence daily in 4 hrs. to Waischenfeld, p. 94). A pleasanter route for pedestrians is by Mistelgau, Glashütten, Volsbach, and Kirchahorn to Rabenstein (p. 94) in 4-5 hrs.

To the left, as Bayreuth is quitted, are St. Georgen and the Eremitage, to the right wooded hills. 18 M. Stockau; $20^{1}/_{2}$ M. Seybothenreuth; 25 M. Kirchenlaibach (junction for the Nuremberg and Eger Railway, p. 110). 29 M. Kemnath-Neustadt; on the right the Rauhe Kulm (2240 ft.), on the left the S. spurs of the Fichtelgebirge. We follow the valley of the Heidenab. 32 M. Trabitz; 36 M. Pressath; $39^{1}/_{2}$ M. Schwarzenbach; thence through extensive pine-forests (Parksteiner and Mantler Wald) to (41 $^{1}/_{2}$ M.) Parksteinhütten and (49 M.) Weiden (p. 134).

Diligence once daily from Bayreuth to (9½ M.) Berneck in 2 hrs. From stat. Markt-Schorgast (p. 74) to (3½ M.) Berneck omnibus twice daily in 40 minutes. — From Berneck through the Goldmühl-Thal (valley of the Weisse Main) to Bischofsgrün, diligence daily in 1¾ hr. (carr. 6-8 M, incl. fee). Then on foot over the Ochsenkopf and Schneeberg to Weissenstadt in 6 hrs. — Walk to the top of the Waldstein and back (2½ hrs.); drive from Weissenstadt by Wunsiedel to the Alexandersbad in 2 hrs.; ascend the Luisenburg with guide, and return to Wunsiedel (3 hrs.). From Wunsiedel by train in 10 min. to Holenbrunn, on the Fichtelgebirge Railway, p. 148. — Carriage and pair from Bayreuth to Alexandersbad by Berneck, Seehaus, Tröstau, Schönbrunn, and Wunsiedel in 8-9 hrs., 40-45 M. — Guides (4-5 M per day) are seldom required, as the German Alpine Club and local associations have made paths and provided finger-posts.

Bayreuth, see p. 86. The road leads through St. Georgen (p. 88) to (3 M.) Bindlach (p. 86), where it begins to ascend. Fine view as we look back on Bayreuth. Near Berneck we cross the Weisse Main.

9½ M. Berneck (1273 ft.; *Löwe; *Hirsch, R. 1½-2 M, B. 60 pf.; *Krone or Post, R. 1-1½ M, D. 1 M 40 pf.; Stadt Bayreuth; Bube, with garden-restaurant; Schmidt's Restaurant, in the market-place; Bäreneck Restaurant, with pretty view), picturesquely situated in a narrow valley watered by the Oelsnitz, is a favourite summer-resort (1500 inhab.). In the main street is the Curhaus, with reading-room, garden, and restaurant. On the Oelsnitz, at the foot of the Schlossberg, is the Cur-Colonnade, where a band plays several times a week. (Visitors' tax for a stay of more than five days, 4 M, two pers. 6 M, etc.). On the steep hill above the town are the ruins of two castles and of a chapel. A pleasant path along the Oelsnitz gradually ascends the wooded hill in 20 min. to the Obere Burg (1548 ft.), destroyed by the Hussites in 1430. Fine view hence; still finer from the Engelsburg, 10 min. farther on, and the adjacent Kirchleite (1935 ft.; belvedere).

Another excursion is to ($^{3}/_{4}$ hr.) the ruined castle of Stein, romantically situated in the valley of the Oelsnitz. Thence we may walk through the valleys of the Oelsnitz and the Lübnitz, past the ruin of Grünstein, to ($^{3}/_{4}$ hr.) Gefrees (p. 74). — Pearl-mussels (Unio margaritifer) are found in the Oelsnitz in considerable quantities; the shells are opened and the pearls removed every 6-7 years by a government official.

Omnibus from Berneck to Markt-Schorgast and Bischofsgrün, see above. Carriage and pair 12-15 M a day, or 6-8 M for half a day, incl. gratuity. — Himmelkron, mentioned at p. 74, lies 4 M. to the W.

The New Road from Berneck by Goldmühl (Heisinger; Zapf; Schwarzes Ross) to (9 M.) Bischofsgrün crosses the Oelsnitz. (On the hill-side is the arboretum Blüchersruhe, with its belvedere.) It then leads to the left through the *Goldmühl-Thal, or valley of the Weisse Main, to the Glasenmühle (see below), passing a chalybeate spring 1½ M. before reaching Bischofsgrün. The shorter, but less interesting Footpath, on the E. side of the valley, at first ascends rapidly; then, generally level, leads through wood, passing (¾ hr. Bärnreut (1700 ft.). Thence it partly follows the road to (1¼ hr. Bürnreut (2296 ft.), descends by the Weisse Main to the Glasenmühle (1952 ft.), and lastly ascends again to (1 hr.) Bischofsgrün (2225 ft.; *Schmidt; Puchtler), a village conspicuously situated at the N. base of the Ochsenkopf, almost entirely rebuilt since a great fire in 1887, with large manufactories of beads.

The path to the Ochsenkopf (3363 ft.; ascent 1 hr.; guide not indispensable: Ochsenkopf 2 M, Ochsenkopf and Schneeberg 4 M) leads through wood, and except at one place, the ascent is gradual. At the top it traverses blocks of granite and passes the Schneeloch, a hollow where snow lies till June. At the top is a slab with a very ancient carving of an ox's head (frequently restored). From the View Tower we gain an extensive view of the Fichtelgebirge, Franconian Switzerland, etc., including the Thuringian Forest to the N.W. About 5 min. to the S. of the tower is a spot known as the 'Aussicht' (view), commanding a picturesque glimpse of Warmensteinach.

The route by Warmensteinach to Bischofsgrün and the Ochsenkopf, 2 hrs. longer than the above, is preferable. The road quits the valley of the Main beyond Goldmühl, and ascends to the right in the valley of the Zoppatenbach to (20 min.) Brandholz. The antimony, lead, and silver mines once largely worked here, as numerous heaps of rubbish still testify, are now exhausted. About 1/2 hr. beyond Brandholz we cross a meadow and ascend the road. In a few minutes more, where the path divides, the branch to the left leads to (1/4 hr.) Warmensteinach (2065 ft.; Trasset's Inn), prettily situated. The shingle-roofed houses lie scattered along the slopes of the upper valley of the Steinach. Glass-making and glass-polishing are the chief industries.

of the Steinach. Glass-making and glass-polishing are the chief industries.

A road leads hence through the Löchle-Thal, a romantic wooded ravine (tavern), to (1 hr.) Grassemann (2405 ft.), a former mining settlement, situated on an open plateau. Before the village we pass the Ludwigs-Quelle. Thence either to Bischofsgrün in 1½ hr. by a distinct path (short-cut to the right just beyond the finger-post), or direct to the summit of the Ochsenkopf (see above; path indicated by white marks; guide not necessary).

From the Ochsenkopf we descend the saddle to the E., which connects the Ochsenkopf and Schneeberg; 20 min., Source of the Main (Weissmainquelle; 2910 ft.), an excellent spring, the only one for a long distance (benches; inscription); 10 min., the Weissmainfelsen (2857 ft.), a group of rocks affording a fine view of the Schneeberg and Nusshard, and towards the S. The Bischofsgrün and Fichtelberg road, in the valley which separates the Schneeberg from the Ochsenkopf, is now followed to (3/4 M.) Karches (2410 ft.; beer). We here enter the wood to the left, and ascend to (1 hr.) the *Nusshard (3190 ft.), a group of huge blocks of granite rendered accessible by steps. The nine round hollows on the top of the rock are called 'the Druids' dishes'. The (1/2 hr.) Schneeberg (3454 ft.) is crowned with a group of rocks, 30 ft. high, named the Backöfele ('oven'), rendered accessible by a ladder. On the top is a hut built by the Fichtelgebirge Club. *Panorama uninterrupted, except towards the S.W. by the Ochsenkopf: to the S.E. is the Kösseine, to the left the Luisenburg; N.E. the Erzgebirge in the distance; N. the Rudolfstein, Weissenstadt, and the Waldstein; N.W. the Thuringian Mts. and the Gleichberge.

We now descend in 40 min. to the 'Drei Brüder' (2736 ft.), three lofty groups of granite slabs, that in the middle resembling a wolf; 7 min., the *Rudolfstein (2848 ft.), a huge and imposing group of granite rocks, ascended by steps, commanding a superb view. We next descend through wood, passing the Staff-Reizenstein monument, to the (1/2 hr.) plain and (11/2 M.) Weissenstadt. Before crossing the Eger we observe several rock-cellars on the left.

Weissenstadt (2070 ft.; Adler or Alte Post; Löwe), a small town with 2600 inhab., lies in a somewhat marshy valley, on the Eger, which rises 6 M. to the S.W. Ackermann's stone-polishing works enjoy a high reputation.

The *Grosse Waldstein (2920 ft.) may be ascended from Weissenstadt in 1 hr. (without guide). By the barns on the N. side of Weissenstadt, the path diverges from the Kirchenlamitz road to the left and leads into the path diverges from the kircheniamitz road to the left and leads into the wood to a (3/4 hr.) finger-post on the left, 'zum Waldstein', 1/4 hr. more. This is another group of granite rocks made accessible by paths and steps, and crowned with an iron pavilion; extensive and picturesque *Panorama, with wooded foreground. The castle of Waldstein, of which fragments remain, a robbers' stronghold, was destroyed by the Swabian League in 1523. Adjacent is the finely situated Waldhaus (2897 ft.; Rfmts.).

— We may now descend to the Source of the Saale (2312 ft.), either direct to the Birger four (not) pointed out by the Greenful (1812). by the Bärenfang (path pointed out by the forester) in ½ hr., or by (½ hr.) Zell (2020 ft.), and thence to the S. to the spring in ½ hr. more. Thence 3/4 hr. more to the Gefrees and Weissenstadt road. From Zell or from the Waldstein via Sparneck to Münchberg (rail. stat., p. 73), 2 hrs. A marked path, running first to the N.W. then to the E., and crossing the road from Weissenstadt to Sparneck, leads from the Waldhaus to the (13/4 hr.) Epprechtstein (2600 ft.), with a ruined castle and a beautiful view; thence by Buchhaus (rfmts.), or direct, to (3/4 hr.) Kirchenlamitz (*Löwe), 11/2 M. from the station, p. 134.

The shadeless road from Weissenstadt to (23/4 hrs.) Wunsiedel is unattractive to walkers. (Carr. and pair to Alexandersbad in 11/2 hr., 7-8 \mathcal{M} ; diligence to Röslau, p. 134, twice daily in $1^{1}/_{4}$ hr.)

Wunsiedel (1755 ft.; *Kronprinz, R. 1 M 20 pf.; *Einhorn, R. 1 M. B. 50 pf.; Müller's Restaurant; one-horse carr. to Alexandersbad 3, two-horse 5 M), a pleasant, well-built town with 4000 inhab., on the Rösla or Rösslau, was the birthplace of Jean Paul Friedrich Richter (p. 87), whose bust by Schwanthaler has been placed in front of the house where he was born, adjoining the church.

The Alexandersbad (1915 ft.; *Chalybeate Boths and Hydropathic, the property of a company, D. $2^1/2 M$: *Hôtel Weber, also with pine-cone baths, D. $1^1/2 M$; *Roglermühle Inn, on the Dünkelhammer, 1/4 M. from the Hôt. Weber), 2 M. to the S.E. of Wunsiedel, is named after the last Margrave of Ansbach-Bayreuth. The chalybeate springs and the pine-cone and mud-baths, combined with the pleasant scenery, attract numerous visitors.

The *Luisenburg (2266 ft.), the most striking point in the environs, so named after the visit of Queen Louisa of Prussia in 1805, formerly called Luxburg, with a few traces of an old castle, lies 1½ M. to the W. of the Alexandersbad and 2 M. to the S. of Wunsiedel. (Guide desirable: from Wunsiedel or from Alexandersbad to the Luisenburg 2, to the Luisenburg and Kösseine 3 M.) The Luisenburg is, as it were, a mountain in ruins. Huge masses of granite of fantastic form are piled together in wild confusion, the result of disintegration; they are partly overgrown with thick moss, interspersed with pines and bushes, and are rendered accessible by steps, bridges, etc. At the entrance to the labyrinth is the Gesellschafts-Platz, with a restaurant (2255 ft.). Numerous inscriptions on the rocks. This rocky labyrinth affords a beautiful walk, ascending in ½ hr. to the Bundesstein or Kreuz (2575 ft). The finest point is the *Burgstein (2858 ft.), 20 min. farther on, a group of rocks on the top of the hill, with a railing, affording a panorama towards the E., N., and W.

20 min. farther on, a group of rocks on the top of the hill, with a railing, affording a panorama towards the E., N., and W.

The "Haberstein (2785 ft.), 1/4 hr. farther on, consisting of four lofty rocks, is another good point of view. The "Kösseine (3078 ft.), 3/4 hr. from the Haberstein (11/2 hr. direct from Alexandersbad) commands the finest and most extensive view in the Fichtelgebirge, embracing the greater part of the Upper Palatinate towards the S. (Temple at the top; a little below it is a simple restaurant; good water 10 min. below the summit on the E. side.) — From this point a path leads by the Mätze (2670 ft.) and the Girgelstein (2400 ft.) to the (2 hrs.) Silberhaus (forester's house, with two beds), whence we may ascend by the forester's house of (1 hr.) Seehaus to the Nusshard and the (1 hr.) Schneeberg (p. 91).

RAILWAY in 10 min, from Wunsiedel to (21/4 M.) Holenbrunn on the Fichtelgebirge Railway (p. 134).

19. Franconian Switzerland.

Comp. Map, p. 77.

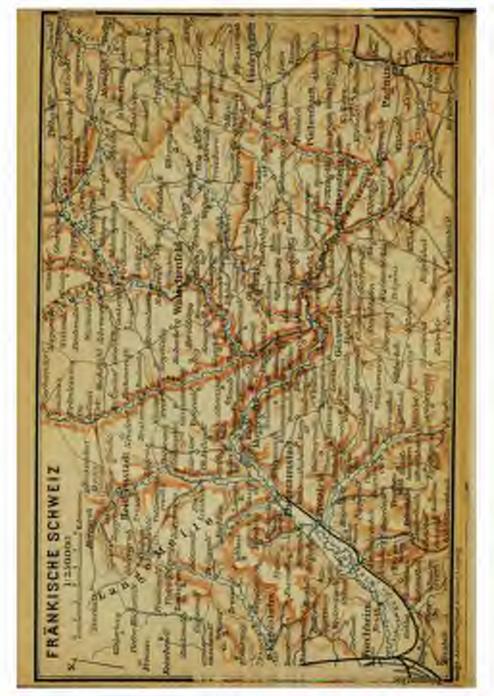

The small hilly district dignified with this title (1600 ft. above the sea-level), with its pretty valleys watered by the Wiesent, its wooded heights, forming the W. spurs of the Fichtelgebirge, and lying nearly in the centre of a triangle formed by Nuremberg, Bamberg, and Bayreuth, owes its reputation chiefly to its Stalaging Caverns, containing remains of antediluvian animals, specimens of which are preserved in almost every museum in Europe. The 'Jura' limestone and dolomite rock-formations are also picturesque, occasionally assuming the most grotesque shapes.

tation chienly to its Stallactiff Caverns, containing remains of antennuian animals, specimens of which are preserved in almost every museum in Europe. The 'Jura' limestone and dolomite rock-formations are also picturesque, occasionally assuming the most grotesque shapes.

The finest points are accessible to walkers only. A guide (seldom necessary) may generally be procured for 2-3 M per day. — Railway from Forchheim to Ebermannstadt, 9½ M., in 3/4 hr. — Post Omnibus from Ebermannstadt viā Streitberg and Behringersmühl to Waischenfeld, 17½ M., in 4½ hrs.; from Pottenstein to Pegnitz (railway-station, see p. 110), twice daily in $1^3/4$ hr.

From Forchheim (see p. 80) the local railway leads in a wide curve to the E. into the pleasant Wiesent-Thal, and passes the stations of Pinzherg (*Terrasse Inn, 1/2 M. from the station, with beautiful view), Gosterg, Wiesenthau, Kirchehrnbach, and Pretzfeld. 91/2 M. Elermannstadt (957 ft.), the terminus, lies at the junction of the Lange-Thal (see below) and the Wiesent-Thal. A road (carr. at the station) leads hence, via Gasseldorf, to (3/4 hr.) -

2 M. Streitberg (1046ft.; *Curanstalt, recommended for some stay, R. $5^{1}/_{2}$ -14 M per week, D. 2 M; *Goldener Löwe, or Post, with garden, R. 1 M 20-2 M, B. 50 pf., D. $1^{1}/_{2}$, pens. 4 M; Adler), a picturesquely situated village, frequented as a summer-resort (visitors' tax 3 M, families 5 M). Pretty walk to the (1/4 hr.) Muschelquelle. Fine views from the (10 min.) ancient Streitburg and the (3/4 hr.) ruin of Neudeck, opposite; still finer from the Hummerstein, 3/4 hr. to the W., on which is a refuge-hut (key at the inn at Gasseldorf), and the Guckhüll, 1 hr. to the N.E. Pleasant excursions through the *Lange-Thal and the 'Felsenschlucht' to the (1 hr.) Schönsteinhöhle, a grotto with fine stalactites (guide for one pers. 1 M, for several 40 pf. each), and through the Leinleiter-Thal to (1 hr.) Unterleinleiter, with a fine park of Baron Seckendorf.

The road goes on from Streitberg, on the right bank of the Wiesent, to (21/2 M.) Muggendorf (1060 ft.; *Curhaus & Hotel zur Fränkischen Schweiz, D. 11/2M; *Stern, R.1, D.11/2 M; Wolfsschlucht, with reading-room; Schwan, Sonne, Türkei, less pretending; restaurants Rosenau and Erholung, with pretty views; Kohlmann), prettily situated, and a good centre for excursions. (Christoph Brendel is a good guide; 2 M per day.) Shady promenades on the opposite bank of the Wiesent.

Below Muggendorf (1/2 hr.) is the Rosenmüller's Höhle, the entrance to which is visible to the left from the road (guide, usually at the cave, and lights for 1-6 pers., 2 M). It contains fine stalactites and fossil remains of animals. The Oswaldshöhle (1/2 hr.) may be visited also, if time permit. Near it are the Wundershöhle and Witzenhöhle. The latter is said to contain a heathen altar (?). The Kuppenburg, near the Rosenmüller's Höble, the Hohenstein, and the Hohe Wacht, above the Oswaldshöhle, are good points of view. The village of Wichsenstein, the highest point (1944 ft.) of the Franconian Switzerland, commanding an extensive panorama, may be reached from Muggendorf in 21/2 hrs., viâ Windisch-Gailenreu h. In the Trubach-Thal, 3 M. to the S., is the picturesque château of Eglogistein (p. 81).

At Muggendorf the road divides. The branch to the right leads to the S.E. through the Wiesent-Thal past (3 M.) the picturesque little château of Burggailenreuth (p. 94; to the right, on the hill), and the (3 M.) Stempfermühle (p. 94), with the Drei Quellen, whence Gössweinstein, on the height to the right, may be reached in 3/4 hr., to (3/4 M.) Behringersmühl (*Post, R. 1 M; *Hartmann), a village much frequented as a summer-resort, charmingly situated at the junction of the Wiesent-Thal, the Ailsbach-Thal, and the Püttlach-Thal. The Pfaffenstein, 1/2 hr. to the W., commands a fine view. — The road to the left crosses the hills towards the E. to (3 M.) Doos (p. 94). From this road another leads to the right, just beyond Muggendorf, to (2 M.) Engelhardsberg (Wunder; key of the Riesenburg, see p. 94), 10 min. from which rise the bold Adlerstein (1740 ft.), a splendid point of view, and the (10 min.)

Quakenschloss, a jagged grauwacke rock (whence we return by Engelhardsberg). To the N. of the village rises the (1/4 hr.) *Riesenburg, a wild group of dolomite rocks rendered accessible by paths and bridges (adm. 50 pf., 2 pers. 35 pf. each, 3-4 pers. 25 pf. each, 5 or more pers. 20 pf. each). Charming view of the *Schotter-Thal or Schauder-Thal, one of the most beautiful valleys in this district. At the S. end, 3/4 hr. from the Riesenburg, lies Behringersmühle (see above). We descend into this valley, turn to the left, and in 1/4 hr. reach the Doos or Toos Inn (1118 ft.; unpretending), where a key of the Riesenburg is also kept.

Here begins the picturesque Rabenecker-That, watered by the Wiesent. We quit the road (which goes on to Waischenfeld, 2 M.) at a mill (13/4 M.), and beyond the Wiesent ascend to the right, on the left side of the partly preserved Burg Rabeneck, to a lofty plain; then take the path to the left by the wood, turning off to the right after a few yards, and passing (25 min.) Schönhof, reach (1/2 hr.) Burg Rabenstein (1456 ft.), a pinnacled castle restored in 1829, looking down upon the Ahorn-That, 160 feet below. In the latter, at the foot of the hill, lies the Neumühle (Restaurant).

The custodian shows the remains of antediluvian animals found in the caves, and conducts the visitor to the ($^{1}/_{4}$ hr.) Sophienhöhle or Rabenstein Cavern, the most interesting in the district owing to the abundance of the fossil bones and the perfection of the stalactites it contains. An hour is required to explore it (fee 3-4 M; full illumination 9 M; magnesium wire 40 pf. extra for each of the three chambers). The Ludwigshöhle on the opposite side of the Ahorn-Thal hardly merits a visit.

We may now cross the hill separating the Ahorn-Thal and Wiesent-Thal to (1 hr.) Waischenfeld (1137 ft.; Görl; Hoffmann), pleasantly situated on the Wiesent, and environed with watch-towers and ruined castles. The Förstershöhle (20 min.; key at Görl's Inn; one pers. 1 M., each additional visitor 50 pf.), a dome-shaped vault, contains fine stalactites. — Post-omnibus hence to Bayreuth (p. 86), daily in 41/4 hrs. (2 M).

Walkers may go from Rabenstein across the table-land direct in 2 hrs. to Pottenstein (see below): by the Neumühle (see above) we cross the bridge and ascend to the left to Zaupenberg: then, leaving the villages of Ailsdorf and Kleinlesau on the right (see finger-posts), we reach, beyond Waidmannsgesess, the road leading from Oberailsdorf to Pottenstein. — To reach (2 hrs.) Behringersmühl we return for a few hundred paces on the Schönhof road, then take the Oberailsdorf footpath to the left (whence a direct path leads to Tüchersfeld, see below), and follow the path through the pretty and sequestered valley of the Ailsbach. From Behringersmühl to Tüchersfeld and Gössweinstein, see below.

The road from Muggendorf to Pottenstein crosses the Wiesent at Behringersmühl and again divides: the road to the right ascends rapidly to (1/2 hr.) Gössweinstein (1617 ft.; Distler, with garden; Amschler 'zur Fränk. Schweiz'; Gold. Adler; Löwe; Rose), where there is a large pilgrimage-church and a Château, completely restored in the Gothic style (visitors admitted). The Burg, the Kreuz behind the church, and the Wagnershöhe, all command a *View of the greater part of the Franconian Switzerland, including the valleys of the Ailsbach, Wiesent, and Pütlach, which converge at Behringersmühl. Through the grounds in the government forest we descend in 1/2 hr. to the Stempfermühle (p. 93), and thence reach Muggendorf in 2 hrs.

Near Burggailenreuth (p. 93), 11/2 hr. to the W. of Gössweinstein, is the Gailenreuther Höhle, or Zoolith Cavern (the forester at Baron Horneck von Weinheim's Schloss dispenses modest refreshments and shows the cavern; 1-3 pers. 1 M each, 4-6 pers. 50 pf. each, larger parties 25 pf. each; light 10 pf. for each pers.), which has attained a European celebrity owing to the investigations of Esper, Rosenmüller, Cuvier, and Goldfuss. It consists of three or four stories, one above the other, each containing chambers filled with numerous remains of bears, lions, wolves, hyænas, etc. These wild beasts probably lived in the caves to which they brought their prey, and where they afterwards themselves died. There are several other caverns here of the same character, such as the Kapps-Höhle (difficult of access), containing beautiful stalactites. Scientific men are recommended to visit these interesting caves; the ordinary traveller will probably be satisfied with the Sophienhöhle (p. 94).

The road leads to the E. from Behringersmühl through the romantic Püttlach-Thal to (11/2 M.) Tüchersfeld (Seiller, rustic), a most picturesque village, commanded by lofty pinnacles of rock. Thence to (3 M.) Pottenstein (1425 ft.; Distler, Schöpff), a beautifully situated little town, with a château. Diligence twice daily in 2 hrs.

to Pegnitz (p. 110).

Pleasant excursion to the S. through the romantic Schutter-Thal or Kühlenfelser-Thal, past the Schutter and Klumper mills (by the first of which are the stalactite caverns called the Grosse and Kleine Teufelsloch), to (41/2 M.) Kühlenfels. Back by Kirchenbirkig to (31/2 M.) Pottenstein.—

A road also leads from Pottenstein on the hill, past a chapel (*View), to $(3^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Gössweinstein (p. 94).

Nuremberg, Germ. Nürnberg (1148 ft.), pop. 142,500, a free city of the Empire down to 1806, has since belonged to Bavaria.

There is probably no town in Germany still so mediæval in appearance, or so suggestive of the wealth, importance, and artistic taste of a 'City of the Empire'.

Nuremberg is first mentioned in history in 1050. The establishment of a market, the miracles wrought by the relics of St. Sebaldus, and the frequent visits of the emperors rapidly attracted new inhabitants, who at first settled between the castle and the river. The city thus sprang up under the Hohenstaufen dynasty, and the castle was frequently occupied by Conrad III. and Frederick Barbarossa, two illustrious members of that family. The progress of the city was greatly promoted by the high privileges accorded to it by these and other emperors. The government was originally vested in the patrician families. These were expelled by the civic guilds in 1349, but only to return and obtain a firmer grasp of power the same year. The office of Burggrave, originally a deputy governing in the name of the emperor, was first held by Frederick I. (d. 1218) of the Zollern family under the Emp. Henry VI. These governors soon acquired in-dependent power, and in 1363 became 'Fürsten', or princes; but after, Frederick VI. was invested by the Emp. Sigismund with the Mark of Brandenburg in 1411, they formally ceded to the town (1427) their castle, which was situated in front of the citadel. The constant dissensions and bitter feuds between the citizens and the margraves Albrecht Achilles (1449) and Frederick (1502) did not interfere with the continuous growth of the town, which at the beginning of the sixteenth century had become, like Augsburg, one of the chief depôts of the trade between Germany, Venice, and the East. At this period, too, it attained its zenith of distinction in the sphere of art as well as of politics.

To this period belongs most of the interesting old Domestic Architecture which renders Nuremberg so quaint and pictures que. The general style of the lofty houses, with their high-peaked gables, is Gothic, but the ornamentation of the façades is usually in the Renaissance style. Specia care has also been bestowed upon the courts in the interior.

The zeal with which the art of Sculpture was cultivated is exemplified by the numerous interesting signs and figures of saints, of the 14-16th cent., with which the houses are embellished. Some of the finest are in the König-Str.; on the Glockengiesserhaus; at the corner of the Albrecht-Dürer-Platz; opposite the Moritzkapelle; in the Obstmarkt, behind the Frauenkirche; at the corner of the Weinmarkt (Rothes Ross); in the Burgstrasse; at the corner of the Bindergasse; and in the Hirschelgasse. The last-named (original now in Berlin), a statue of the Virgin, has often been ascribed to an Italian artist on account of its beauty and delicacy of form. Another similar figure of Mary at the foot of the Cross, now in the Germanic Museum (p. 95), ranks among the finest works of its time, but is also by an unknown master.

Foremost among the Nuremberg workers in stone stands Adam Krafft, who flourished here after 1492, and died at Schwabach in 1507. His principal works are the Stations on the way to St. John's Cemetery, the tasteful tabernacle in St. Lawrence's, and the reliefs at the Frauenkirche, St. Sebalduskirche, and Aegidienkirche. Of wood-carvers the chief is Veit Stoss (d. 1532), who at first exercised his craft at Cracow and is therefore sometimes, though erroneously, described as a Pole. His chef-d'œuvre at Nuremberg is in the church of St. Lawrence (p. 99). Both of these masters are rooted in the traditions of mediæval art, and of conservative tendencies. The brass-founder Peter Vischer (d. 1529), on the other hand, breathes the spirit of the Renaissance, and is endowed with versatile imagination and a delicate sense of form. His sons and Pancraz Labenwolf (d. 1563) also produced much meritorious work. Among the specialities of Nuremberg art in the 16th cent. were the casting of medals and goldsmiths' work, the most celebrated die-cutters being Ludwig Krug (at the beginning of the 16th cent.), Peter Flötner (d. 1546), and Hans Lobsinger; and the most renowned goldsmiths Wenzel Jamnitzer (1508-85), and his son-in-law Valentin Maler.

PAINTING was sedulously cultivated as early as the 14th cent., as is proved by the altar-pieces in the Frauenkirche and Jakobskirche. The NUREMBERG.

Imhoff altar-piece of the Coronation of the Virgin in St. Lawrence's dates from the first half of the 15th cent., and resembles the crude productions of the Cologne school. In the latter half of the same century Hans Pleydenwurff and Michael Wohlgemut (1434-1519) was the most prominent of Nuremberg painters. In order to understand the wide-spread fame of the Nuremberg school we must keep in mind that printing had recently been invented, engendering a taste for illustrated books, engravings, and wood-cuts; for the importance of Nuremberg art lies less in the products of the paintthe importance of Nuremberg art lies less in the products of the paint-brush than in the humorous and thoughtful creations embodied by means of the burin and the chisel. The characteristic tendency to depth of mean-ing shows itself in the pictures of Albrecht Dürer (1473-1528), a pupil of Wohlgemut, and the greatest painter whom Nuremberg has produced. Nuremberg itself, however, now possesses few products of his fertile genius; the only certified examples of his brush in his native town are the 'Hercules' (an early work), portraits of Emp. Charlemagne and Emp. Sigismund, and a Pietà, all in the Germanic Museum. His best works are to be seen at Vienna, Munich, and Berlin. None of Dürer's pupils developed to be seen at Vienna, Munich, and Berlin. None of Dürer's pupils developed their activity to any great extent in Nuremberg itself, where, indeed, painting rapidly declined. On the other hand the artistic handicrafts, such as the engraving of medals and the manufacture of artistic cabinets, flourished here till far on in the 18th century, and are again practised with growing success at the present day.

The principles of the Reformation found favour at Nuremberg as early as 1525, and in the following year Melanchthon founded the Gymnasium. The discovery of the sea-route to India somewhat impaired the prosperity of the town; it suffered still more severely during the Thirty Years' War, and during the 18th cent. its decline was hastened by the feeble rule of the patrician families. Since 1806, however, when Nuremberg became a Bavarian city, it has prospered greatly, and it is now the most important commercial and manufacturing town in Southern Germany.

Hops form one of the most important staple commodities.

The Fortifications, dating from the middle ages, form the most interesting feature of the town, but have unfortunately been removed at places. They consist of a rampart encircling the inner city, provided at intervals with round and square towers, and of a dry moat 35 yds, wide and 33 ft. deep. A walk round the walls will reveal the variety and beauty of their architectural effects. The most picturesque parts are between the Spittlerthor and Maxthor (early morning or late afternoon best light). The four round towers at the Neue, Spittler, Frauen, and Laufer gates received their present form from Georg Unger in 1555-68.

The Pegnitz divides the old town into two nearly equal parts, the Lawrence and the Sebald sides, the latter being the older and more interesting. It is crossed by several Bridges. The single-arched Fleischbrücke (Pl. D, 2), built in 1596-98, is an imitation of the Ponte Rialto at Venice. Two obelisks on the Karlsbrücke (Pl. C, 2), one with a dove and olive-branch, the other with the imperial eagle, are memorials of a visit of Emp. Charles VI., 'the peace-bringer', in 1728. The Suspension Bridge (Pl. C, 2) was one of the first of its kind in Germany (1824). Picturesque views are obtained from it as well as from the Henker (i.e. hangman's) Foot-bridge (Pl. C, 2), near which are a few relics of the earlier fortifications of the 13th century.

From the Railway Station (Pl. D, E, 4) we enter the town by the Frauenthor in a straight direction, and in 5 min. reach the church of St. Lawrence; then cross the Museums-Brücke to the Frauenkirche, and proceed to the left, past the Schöne Brunnen, to the Rathhaus, St. Sebald's, Dürer's statue, Dürer's house, and the Burg. This order is observed in the following description.

The Gothic church of *St. Lawrence (Pl. D, 3; Prot.), the finest in Nuremberg, was erected at the end of the 13th and the beginning of the 14th cent. on the site of a small Romanesque church. In 1403-45 the nave was widened, and in 1439-77 the choir was rebuilt on a larger scale by Konrad Roritzer of Ratisbon. The whole edifice was carefully restored in 1824 under the superintendence of Heideloff. Rich W. *Portal with numerous sculptures (1332); above it a superb rose window, 30 ft. in diameter. To the left of the portal is a modern Gothic fountain by Wanderer. The N. Tower, with its roof of gilded copper, was burned down in 1865, but has since been re-erected in its original form. The sacristan, who lives at No. 7 Lorenz-Platz, is generally in the church in summer. (Knock loudly at the N. door; fee 40 pf.; the printed description obtained in the church is inaccurate.)

INTERIOR. Seven of the beautiful stained-glass "Windows in the choir date from the 15th and 16th cent.; the finest are the 6th to the right ('Volkamer window'), representing the genealogy of Christ with the portrait of the donor, and the 9th or 'Tucher window'. The four Evangelists and Apostles (after Dürer; comp. p. 162) in the 7th window are modern, as also the 8th ('Kaiserfenster'), put up in 1831 in memory of the 84th birthday of Emp. William I. — The finest work of art in the church is the *Ciborium, or receptacle for the host, in the choir, beautifully and elaborately executed in stone, in the form of a tower, 65 ft. in height, and enriched with many sculptures of scenes from the life of Christ. The apex of the tower is bent like a bishop's crozier. It rests upon the three kneeling *Figures of the sculptor Adam Krafft and his two assistants, who were engaged in the work from 1493 to 1500. In front of the altar, suspended from the roof, is a curious *Work in carved wood with numerous figures, by Vett Stoss, representing the Salutation. The Gothic brass candelabrum in the choir is also noteworthy. Handsome modern pulpit and high-altar by Heideloff and Rotermundt (1839). The Krell Altar (end of the 15th century), behind the high-altar, bears the earliest known representation of the town. The various carved wooden altars and altar-pieces of the 15th cent. in the sales repay inspection; especially the Imhoff Altar (ca. 1420) on the gallery over the N. entrance.

The Tugendbrunnen, a fountain on the N.W. side of the church, with numerous figures in bronze, was executed in 1589 by Benedikt Wurzelbauer (covered in winter). To the left of it, at the corner of the Karolinen-Str., is the so-called Nassauer Haus, erected in the Gothic style in the 14th cent. (wine-room, see p. 95). — In the adjoining Adler-Strasse rises the Warriors' Monument, by Wanderer and Rössner, a granite column surmounted by a figure of Victory (1876). — On the Pegnitz is the Museum (Pl. 4; a club; adm. only on the introduction of a member).

The Gothic *Frauenkirche or Marienkirche (Pl. D, 2; Rom. Cath. since 1816), in the market-place, was erected in 1355-61 on the site of a synagogue destroyed in 1349 during the persecutions of the Jews. The church was restored in 1878-81 by Essenwein. Fine façade. Over the portal of the W. *Portico, with its rich sculptur-ing, is a curious old clock, known as the 'Männleinlaufen', constructed in 1506-9 by G. Heuss and Seb. Lindenast, with moving figures of the seven German electors (best seen at noon). The N. aisle (open 7-10 a.m.; sacristan, Vordere Spitalhof 9) contains an *Epitaphium of the Pergenstorfer family of 1498, by A. Krafft, with a relief of the Madonna as Mother of Mercy. Adjacent is the Tuchersche Altar, with a winged picture on a gold ground, one of the finest works of the Nuremberg school in the first half of the 15th century. Old stained glass in the choir, with the armorial bearings of many Nuremberg families.

In the Gänsemarkt, behind the Frauenkirche, is a quaint fountain-figure in bronze, by Pancraz Labenwolf, called the *Gänsemännchen ('little goose-man'; Pl. 2), a peasant carrying a goose under each arm.

The *Schöne Brunnen (Pl. D, 2), opposite the Frauenkirche, erected in 1385-96, by Meister Heinrich, the 'Balier', and restored in 1821-24, is a Gothic pyramid 63 ft. in height, adorned with numerous figures (originally painted). The *Statues below represent seven electors and the nine worthies (viz. Charlemagne, Godfrey de Bouillon, Clovis, the Christian worthies; Judas Maccabæus, Joshua, David, the Jewish worthies; Cæsar, Alexander, Hector, the pagan worthies); those above, Moses and the seven prophets. In the iron railing of the fountain, on the N.W. side, is a small movable iron ring, ingeniously wrought, which the travelling apprentices regard as the cognisance of the city. — No. 19, Hauptmarkt (Pl. D. 2; tablet), opposite the Schöne Brunnen, was the residence of the celebrated humanist Pirkheimer (born at Eichstätt in 1470; died at Nuremberg in 1530). No. 15, adjacent, adorned with frescoes designed by Wanderer (1886), is the house in which Martin Behaim, the cosmographer (1459-1507), was born. Until the introduction of the Reformation the crown-jewels were exhibited annually in front of this house (comp. p. 107).

The Rathhaus (Pl. D, 1, 2; adm., see p. 96; entrance opposite the guard-house; bell for the custodian on the first floor to the right), 290 ft. in length, was erected by Jakob Wolf in 1616-22 in the Italian Renaissance style, incorporating an earlier building of the 14-15th centuries. The late-Gothic part of the building at the back, with a fine façade towards the Theresien-Str. and an interesting court, was added by Essenwein in 1885-89.

The great hall, with its timber roof, belongs to the older part of the building, erected in 1340, and is adorned with badly-preserved frescoes designed by Dürer, representing the triumphal procession of the Emp. Maximilian, Town Musicians, and Calumny (after Apelles); it also contains stained glass by Veit Hirschvogel, etc. On the central buttress is a mural painting, executed in 1613 (restored in 1824), representing an execution by the guillotine, proving that this instrument is not a modern invention.

— On the wall of the staircase to the second floor is a large painting by Paul Ritter (1883): The representatives of Nuremberg entering the town in triumphal procession with the imperial regalia in 1424. — The ceiling of the long corridor in the second floor is adorned with a relief in stucco representing a tournament held at Nuremberg in 1446, executed by Hans and Heinrich Kuhn in 1621 (restored in 1891). On the 3rd floor is the MUNICIPAL PICTURE GALLERY (chiefly modern paintings). Room I. Jäger, Emp. Maximilian I. visiting A. Dürer in 1518; Schuch, Funeral of Gustavus Adolphus; Ans. Feuerbach, Battle of Amazons; Bauer, Body of Emp. Otho III. being brought across the Alps. — R. II. Joachim von Sandrart, Banquet in the Rathhaus in 1649; Maar, The Schöne Brunnen, 1424; Mayer, Interior of St. Sebald's. — R. III. Kreling, Magdeburgers besieged by Tilly receiving the Sacrament; also portraits of distinguished Nurembergers.

The tasteful Fountain in the old court is by Pancraz Labenwolf, 1557. The gallery in the S.E. corner of the court, resting upon curious carved brackets, and with Gothic balustrades, is by Hans Behaim (1425). Under the Rathhaus are subterranean passages, partly fallen in, leading from the old dungeons to the deep well at the Burg (p. 103) and in other directions; these may be inspected by the curious.

The church of *St. Sebaldus (Pl. D, 2; Prot.), originally a Romanesque structure of the 11th cent., restored in the Transition style at the beginning of the 13th cent., was converted into a Gothic church in 1361-77. The W. choir with the Löffelholz Chapel, the lower part of the towers (completed in the 15th cent.), and the nave, date from the 13th cent., while the present E. choir in the pure Gothic style was added during the later alterations. The church is now undergoing restoration under the direction of Hauberrisser. The sacristan (Burg-Str. 6) is generally in the church; visitors knock at the N. side-door; donations go to the building fund. The printed description obtained at the church is worthless.

Exterior. The visitor should inspect the N. Portal, or 'Bride's Door'; the reliefs on the buttresses of the E. choir, representing the Passion; the 'Schreyer Monument' (opposite the Rathhaus), with numerous lifesize figures in stone, representing the Bearing of the Cross, the Entombment, and the Resurrection, executed in 1492 by Adam Kraft, and the richest and most important of his works; the Last Judgment over the S. entrance.

Interior. In the E. ambulatory, to the right, three reliefs by Veit Stoss (1449): Last Supper, Christ on the Mt. of Olives, and the Kiss of Judas. Above these, the 'Markgrafenfenster', a fine stained-glass window executed by Veit Hirschvogel in 1515, representing the Margrave Frederick of Ansheb and Rayrenth with his rife and eight children. of Ansbach and Bayreuth, with his wife and eight children; to the left, a triple fresco (Christ washing the Disciples' feet, Last Supper, Christ on the Mt. of Olives), and a winged picture on the Tucher'sche altar, painted in 1513 by Hans von Kulmbach, from drawings by Dürer, probably the master's finest work. *Crucifix and wooden figures of the Virgin and St. John, over the high-altar, the latest work of Veit Stoss. High-altar in wood (1821) by Rolermundt and Heideloff. — St. Sebald's Monument (eight tons in weight, for which the trustees of the church paid 3145 florins), the masterpiece of Peter Vischer, the celebrated artist in bronze, was completed by him with the aid of his five sons in 1519, after thirteen years' labour. The twelve Apostles in niches around the sarcophagus containing the relics of the saint are admirable; above are twelve smaller figures of church-fathers and prophets; below, about seventy allegorical figures of genii, mermaids, animals, etc. The miracles performed by the saint are pourtrayed in four beautiful reliefs below the sarcophagus. In the niche at the W. end is St. Sebaldus, and in the E. niche is the artist himself with apron and chisel, a beautiful statuette. Near the fine modern wooden pulpit (by Rotermundt; 1859) is a copy of the Pietà by Dürer now in the Germanic Museum. The Löffelholz Chapel, W. choir, contains a Gothic font in bronze, of the beginning, and an altar of the middle, of the 15th century.

The Parsonage of St. Sebald, on the N. side, with its fine Gothic *Oriel-window ('Chörlein'), dating from 1318, was once occupied by Melchior Pfinzing (d. 1535), provost of St. Sebald, and author of the 'Teuerdank', an allegorical narrative of the wooing of Mary of Burgundy by Emp. Maximilian I.

Opposite St. Sebald's, on the N., is the Gothic Chapel of St. Moritz (Pl. D, 1), transferred hither from the Hauptmarkt in 1313, and restored in 1829. Adjoining is the Bratwurst-Glöcklein (p. 95), mentioned as early as 1519. At No. 6 Halbwachsengasse, behind, is the Rotermundt Collection of antiquities, casts of ancient Nuremberg sculptures, etc.

To the S.W. of St. Sebald's, Winkler-Str. 29, is Palm's House (Pl. 5; C, D, 2), with the inscription: 'Here dwelt John Palm, bookseller, who fell a victim to the tyranny of Napoleon in 1806'. The patriotic Palm had published a pamphlet on the 'Degradation of Germany', written in a tone derogatory to France, for which the Emperor caused him to be condemned by a court-martial and shot (p. 234). — At the corner of the adjacent Augustiner-Strasse, on the site of an Augustinian monastery, stand the Courts of Law (Pl. 3; C, D, 2), erected by Solger in 1877. In the hall are marble busts of the jurists Anselm von Feuerbach and Rud. von Holzschuher; the court of the Chamber of Commerce contains a large painting by A. Feuerbach: Emp. Lewis the Bavarian conferring privileges on the merchants of Nuremberg.

Opposite Palm's house, over the gateway of the Stadtwage, is a good relief by Krafft (1497). Near this (Winkler-Strasse 20) is the house in which Durer was born, with inscription.

*Dürer's Statue (Pl. D, 1), erected in 1840 on the Albrecht-Dürer-Platz, was designed by the eminent Rauch, after Dürer's portrait of himself at Vienna. Some hundred paces to the N.W., No. 39 Albrecht-Dürer-Strasse, near the Thiergartner-Thor, is Dürer's House (Pl. 1; C, 1), the property of the city, and marked by a medallion. It contains a collection of antique furniture and utensils, and also copies of Dürer's paintings. Adm., see p. 96.

We return to the Rathhaus (p. 100). Opposite, on the right side of the Burgstrasse, is the old Dominican monastery, containing the Municipal Archives on the groundfloor. The upper floor contains the Town Library (Pl. D, 1; adm., see p. 96), of 70,000 vols. and 2000 MSS., including a missal with fine miniatures by the brothers Glockendon, miniature-painters of Nuremberg; also early specimens of typography, e.g. the Rationale of Durandus (1459), one of the first books printed by Gutenberg; autographs of Luther, Melanchthon, Ulrich von Hutten, Hans Sachs, etc.; and various curiosities.

The Burg-Strasse ascends the Burg Hill (1164 ft.; Pl. C, D, 1) to the N., a sandstone ro k on the N.W. side of the town. At the top the route forks; the left branch leads by the 'Himmelsweg' direct to the Kaiserburg (p. 103); that to the right leads past a Mt. of Olives (1499) to the N. Freiung and the Pentagonal Tower ('Alt-Nürnberg'), the oldest building in the town.

This tower and the Walpurgis or St. Ottmar's Chapel (restored in 1892), situated opposite, are relics of the old Burg of the Hohenzollern burggraves, destroyed in the war of 1420. The tower (adm. 20 pf.) contains a torture-chamber with the 'Iron Virgin', a hollow figure with iron spikes in the interior, into which the victim was thrust, and a collection of antiquities. — Next this tower, on the right, is the old Granary (now a barrack), built by Hans Behaim the Elder in 1494-95 and named 'Kaiser-stallung' ('imperial stables'). To the E. of this lies the Luginsland, with turrets at its four corners said to have been built by the townsfolk in 1367 in order to watch the Hohenzollern-Burg. — We return to the N. Freiung or Landfreiung, commanding a view of the wide moat and the N. suburbs. On the parapet are shown two hoof-shaped impressions, which are said to have been left by the horse of a captive robber-knight (Eppelein von Gailingen) in the 16th cent., who escaped by leaping over the moat. This incident gave rise to a sarcastic proverb: 'The Nurembergers hang no man, unless they have caught him'. — We then pass through a gate to the S.W. to the S. Stadtfreiung, with a view of the city and of the 'Nuremberg Switzerland'. Another gateway brings us to the Vestnerthor-Thurm (view from the top; 10 pf.), and farther on is the Deep Well, the depth of which is shown by lowering candles into it, or by reflecting the daylight upon the surface of the water by means of a mirror (10 pf.). — Straight on is the — *Kaiserburg, founded in the 11th cent. and enlarged by Frederick Barbarossa in the 12th. It was restored in the Gothic style and fitted up as a royal residence in 1854-56, and since 1866 has belonged in common to the Bavarian and Prussian royal families (ring at the gate; fee 1/2-1 \mathcal{M}).

The venerable Line Tree in the court, said to have been planted by the Empress Kunigunde, wife of Emp. Henry II. (1002-24), died in 1893. A niche in the wall contains a statue of the Saxon ambassador Glansdorf, who died at Nuremberg during the Thirty Years' War. The Heidenthurm, by the castle-gate, contains two Romanesque chapels of the 12th cent., one above the other: the lower, St. Margaret's Chapel, is built over the burial-vault of the Burggraves; the upper, the Kaiser-Capelle, with groined vaulting resting on slender marble columns with Romanesque capitals, and pictures by Wohlgemut, Krafft, and Holbein the Elder, was used for divine service. In the Audience Chamber, next the Kaiser-Capelle, are several pictures, chiefly copies of later Italian works. Handsome old stoves and panelled ceilings in this and other rooms. Most of the rooms and particularly the new balcony on the W. side of the castle afford splendid views of the city and environs. — The castle-enclosure (now a royal garden), on the S.W. side of the castle hill, is open to the public.

On the S.W. side of the castle is the Thiergärtner Thor (Pl. C, 1), with its square tower, beyond which, in the Burgschmiet-Str., is the Bronze Foundry of Prof. Lenz, with a collection of models (formerly Burgschmiet; Pl. C, 1). The road leads on past the Stations, consisting of seven sandstone pillars with reliefs of the Passion, and the Kalvarienberg, all by Krafft (now mostly replaced by copies; originals in the Germanic Museum).

The Holeschuher Chapel in St. John's Cemetery (Pl. A, 1) contains a good Entombment with fifteen lifesize figures by A. Kraft (1507) and an altar by Veit Stos. The Gothic Church of St. John (14th cent.) has an altar-piece by Altdorfer.—The graves in the old part of the cemetery are nearly all adorned with good brass-plates. In the 8th row to the S. of the conspicuous Müntzer tomb (1560; 23 ft. in height) is the grave of Albrecht Dürer (d. 1528; No. 649), close to which is that of Wenzel Jamnitzer (d. 1585; No. 66b), with a fine epitaph by Jost Amman. Farther to the W. lie Veit Stoss (d. 1533; No. 268) and the poet Grübel (p. 105; No. 200). A few rows farther on, near St. John's church, is the grave of Paumgärtner (d. 1679) and a few rows still farther, that of Sandrart the painter (d. 1688). Pirkheimer's tomb (No. 1414) is nearer the entrance, in the 6th row to the right of the Holzschuher chapel. The wife of the chief sexton (house to the right of St. John's) affords all information (50 pf.).

The new Central Cemetery, also in the Johannis Suburb, to the N.W., has a fine portal by Hase (1879).

On the way back to the town a visit may be paid to the Gothic Heiligkreuz Capelle (Pl. B, 1; entrance Johannis-Str. 24; fee 30 pf.), built in 1390, which contains a fine altar in carved wood, with an architectural top and double wings painted by Wohlgemut.

We now proceed past the Neuthor and Hallerthor to the Spittlerthor (Pl. B, 3; comp. p. 98). In this neighbourhood is the Ludwig Station (Pl. A, B, 3; for Fürth, see p. 70), in front of which, on the Plärrer, a Monumental Fountain was erected in 1890 in memory of the opening of this, the first railway in Germany (p. 70). — In the Rothenburger-Str., which diverges to the S.W. from the Plärrer, are the Panorama (p. 96), and the Cemetery of St. Rochus (Pl. A, 3), with the grave of the celebrated Peter Vischer (d. 1529; No. 90, ninth stone on the right). The Imhof Chapel (1519) contains an interesting altar and stained-glass windows by Hirschogel. At the end of the street is the Harbour of the Ludwigs-Canal (p. 76), 370 yds. long.

The broad Ludwigs-Str. leads from the Spittler Thor to the St. Jakobskirche (Pl, B, C, 3), founded in 1209, restored in the 14-15th cent., rebuilt in 1692, and restored by Heideloff in 1824.

It contains a Gothic high-altar with winged paintings (14th cent.) and four figures of Apostles (six others of the series being now in the Germanic Museum). On the N. and E. sides of the choir and in the windows are the armorial bearings of Teutonic Knights. Many fine sculptures in wood and stone. At the E. end of the N. aisle is a triptych by Vett Stoss, restored by Burgschmiet. Stained-glass windows with the arms of Nuremberg families. Escutcheons of Teutonic Knights. The Dillherr Chapel contains a Lamentation for Christ by Vett Stoss.

Opposite are the old Deutsche Haus, or Teutonic Lodge, now an infantry-barrack, and the Roman Catholic Church of St. Elizabeth, built in 1785 as the Deutschhaus-Kirche, in the Italian baroque style, with a massive dome. — The Jakob-Str. leads to the E. from the Jakobs-Platz to the Germanic Museum (p. 106). To the N.E. we may pass through the Weisse Thurm ('white tower'), a relic of the 13th cent. fortifications, and thence cross the Häfner-Platz and follow the Karolinen-Str. to the church of St. Lawrence (p. 99).

From St. Lawrence's the Lorenz-Strasse leads to the E. to the Marienthor and the Marien suburb. To the right is the Stadt-Theater (Pl. D, 3). In the Peter-Vischer-Gasse, nearly opposite, are Peter Vischer's House (Pl. 10; No. 23) and the Gothic Church of St. Catharine (Pl. E, 2), long used by the Meistersingers as their school,

In the Nonnengarten, the garden of the former Convent of St. Catharine, rises the — Bavarian Industrial Museum (Pl. E, 2, 3), a handsome building erected in 1893-95 for the collections hitherto exhibited at König-Str. 3 (adm., see p. 96). The museum, founded in 1872, is to be transferred to its new quarters in 1896. — Adjoining, at No. 8 Marienthorgraben, is the Permanent Industrial and Commercial Exhibition (Pl. E, 2; adm., see p. 96).

To the N.W., beyond the island of Schütt, is the Spital-Platz (Pl. D, 2), in the centre of which is a bronze Statue of Hans Sachs, by Krauser (1874). Sachs's House, in which the poet was born in 1494, is in the adjacent Hans-Sachs-Gasse (Pl. 9; No. 17; tablet). — On the E. side of the square is the new Synagogue (Pl. D, 2), built in 1869-74 in the Moorish style, by Wolf. The Heiligegeist-Spital (Pl. D, 2), on the S. side, was founded by Conrad Gross in 1331; in the court are the old Heinzel Fountain and a small chapel built in 1459 on the model of the Holy Sepulchre. The Gothic Spital-Kirche or Heiligegeist-Kirche, built in 1331-41 and modernized in the 17th cent., was from 1424 to 1796 the depository of the imperial regalia (now in Vienna; casket in the Germanic Museum, p. 107).

Not far off, at the corner of the Tucher-Str. and the Neue Gasse (Pl. E,.2), is a tasteful fountain with a bronze figure (by Wanderer) of Konrad Grübel (1736-1809), a popular poet of Nuremberg; the charming bronze reliefs on the pedestal refer to Grübel's poems. — The Rothschmiedsgasse and Judengasse lead hence to the N.W. to the Theresien-Platz (Pl. D, 1, 2), with a monument to the navigator Martin Behaim (p. 100), by Rössner (1890). — The Bindergasse (fine Madonna by Adam Krafft on No. 1, to the right) and the Theresien-Strasse run to the W. to the Rathhaus (p. 100). In the Theresien-Strasse are Paumgärtner's House (No. 23), with a relief of St. George and the dragon above the door, by Krafft; then, at the corner of the Tetzelgasse, the Post and Telegraph Office (1894) of the Sebaldus quarter; and Krafft's House (No. 7; on the right), with a fine court.

To the N.E., above the Theresien-Platz, is the Ægidien-Platz (Pl. D, E, 1), on the N. side of which rises Peller's, now Eysser's, House (No. 23; Pl. 6), with its rich Renaissance façade (1605) and fine court in the interior. It contains a magnificent old timber ceiling, and has been handsomely and tastefully fitted up and furnished by the owner, a furniture-manufacturer of Bayreuth (fee). To the right, in front of the Gymnasium, is a statue of Melanchthon by Burgschmiet. No. 13 Agidien-Platz (tablet) was the house of the famous printer Anton Koberger (1470-1513).

St. Ægidius (Pl. E, 1; key at the gymnasium), originally a Romanesque basilica, erected in 1140, and burned down in 1696, was rebuilt in 1711-18 in the degraded style of that period. It contains a Pieta by Van Dyck, and at the back of the altar two reliefs in bronze by the sons of P. Vischer. Adjacent is the Romanesque Eucharius Chapel (end of the 12th cent.), with two altars by Veit Stoss. In the Gothic Tetzel-Kapelle (1345) a Coronation of the Virgin in stone. by A. Krafft.

To the E., in the old Landauer Kloster, is the Royal School of Industrial Art (Pl. E, 1; adm., see p. 96), which, however, is to be transferred in 1896 to a new building in the Reindel-Strasse (PI. F. 3). The fine vaulting of the Chapel is borne by two spiral columns (1507). For this chapel, in 1511, Dürer painted his celebrated All Saints altar-piece, now at Vienna.

We next cross the Weber-Platz with the Sieben Zeilen, i.e. seven rows of weavers' houses, to the Hirschelgasse (Pl. E, 1), where the Tucher'sche Landhaus (No. 11; 1533-44) and Rupprecht's House (1534) are worth seeing. The latter contains a beautiful early-Ital. Renaissance hall (called 'Hirschvogelsaal' after its builder), of 1534, recently well restored. The figure of the Virgin on the outside is a cast of the original, now in Berlin (comp. p. 97).

Retracing our steps, we cross the Weber-Platz to the Max-Thor, whence the Lange Gasse to the right leads to the Laufer Thor. -To the left is the Paniers-Platz, on the N.W. side of which is Topler's, now Petersen's, House (Pl. 8; D, 1), built in 1590.

Near this, in the house 'Zur Blume', Schildgasse 12, is the Natural History Museum, containing zoological, botanical, ethnographical, and anthropological collections (adm., see p. 96). At No. 23, opposite, the House with the Golden Shield, decorated with mural paintings in 1888, the first twenty-three articles of Charles IV.'s Golden Bull were composed in 1356, providing amongst other points, that every German emperor should hold his first diet in Nuremberg.

The *Germanic National Museum (Pl. C, D, 3; entrance, Karthäusergasse 7), an institution for the illustration of German historical research, founded in 1852, is established in a suppressed Carthusian Monastery, a Gothic building of the 14th cent., with a fine church and extensive cloisters. The museum was enlarged in 1873-75 by the addition of the Augustine monastery (founded about 1450), formerly occupying the site of the Law Courts (p. 102), but removed thence and re-erected here. Since 1866, owing to the energy of the late director Dr. von Essenwein (d. 1892) and the munificence of private donors, the museum has become one of the finest in Germany. The objects of general interest are exhibited in 83 rooms (some badly lighted), while others are reserved for the use of artists and students. Admission, see p. 96. Catalogue at the entrance, 50 pf.; the numbers correspond with the red numbers on the exhibits. (See plans, pp. 96, 97.) Simple refreshments in R. XLII, on the groundfloor.

The extensive Manufactories of Nuremberg chiefly lie outside the old town. The Nuremberg Machine Co's (formerly Cramer-Klett's; Pl. F, 2) works are outside the Wöhrder Thor. On the S. side, beyond the Färber-Thor, near the railway, are the United Ultramarine Factories (formerly Leverkus, Zeltner, & Co.; Pl. B, C, 4); and in the suburb of Steinbühl are Schuckert & Co.'s dynamoelectric machine works. Faber's lead-pencil factory is at Stein (p. 26), 6 M. from Nuremberg. The largest breweries are Henninger's in the Maxfeld (now in the hands of a company), Tucher's in the Waizen-Strasse (Pl. C, 2), and Kurz's (J. G. Reif), Lorenz-Str. 6.

The most popular pleasure-grounds at Nuremberg are the *Stadt-Park or Maxfeld, on the N. side (*Restaurant; music frequently; tramway, see p. 96), and the *Rosenau (Pl. Nuremberg, see p. 95. Soon after leaving the station the train diverges to the left from the lines to Ratisbon and Amberg, and crosses the Pegnitz-Thal by means of a long embankment and several bridges to (2½ M.) Hersbruck (1100 ft.; *Post; *Traube, in the market-place; Rother Hahn), a prosperous little town (3800 inhab.) on the right bank of the Pegnitz, at the foot of the Michelsberg, surrounded by hop-gardens. The station on the right bank of the Pegnitz (*Heissmann's Restaurant) lies on the N. side of the town, 1½ M. from the station on the left bank of the Pegnitz (p. 234).

The Michelsberg (1428 ft.), ascended from the right bank station in 1/4 hr., affords an admirable survey of the town and district. A still finer point of view is the "Hansgörgl-Berg (1979 ft.), 1 hr. from Reichenschwand, or 11/2 hr. from Hersbruck viâ the Galgenberg and the Hagenmühle. On the top is a pavilion.

At $(20^1/2 \text{ M.})$ Hohenstadt the line turns to the N. and enters the narrow and tortuous Upper Pegnitz-Thal; to the right, prettily Immenreuth it crosses the Heidenab, and at Oberwappenöst it passes under the watershed between the Heidenab and the Fichtelnab by a tunnel of 935 yds. The valley of the latter stream is crossed near Riglasreuth by a lofty iron viaduct. 70 M. Neusorg (1827 ft.); branch hence to (9½ M.) Fichtelberg. The buildings of the suppressed Benedictine Abbey of the Holy Cross are now the property of Prince Wallerstein. A chapel adjoining the abbey-church contains the sarcophagus of the ill-fated Mary of Brabant, consort of Duke Lewis of Bavaria, by whose order she was beheaded in 1256 on a groundless suspicion of infidelity. The fortress of Mangoldstein, where the execution took place, to the right near the station, was destroyed by Emp. Albert I. in 1308, and the ruins were removed in 1818. A tablet in the rock, bearing the words 'Castrum Woerth', now marks the site of the castle, and a cross above indicates the scene of the execution. The Schellenberg. above the station, was stormed with severe loss by Lewis of Baden in 1704. Its capture formed a prelude to the disastrous battle of Höchstädt (see next page).

Augsburg (1340 ft.), with 75,523 inhab. (1/3 Prot.), the Roman Augusta Vindelicorum, situated at the confluence of the Wertach and the Lech, is one of the most important towns in S. Germany. Its abundant water-power, utilised by canals traversing the town, has given rise to various industries (weaving, cotton-spinning, etc., chiefly outside the town).

In the middle ages (from 1268) Augsburg was a free imperial city, and the great centre of the traffic between N. Europe, Italy, and the Levant. It reached the height of its prosperity in the 15th and 16th centuries, and several of its citizens enjoyed princely wealth and power. Three daughters of Augsburgers were married to princes: Clara von Detten to Elector Frederick the Victorious of the Palatinate; Agnes Bernauer, the beautiful daughter of a barber, to Duke Albert III. of Bavaria (p. 236); and Philippina Welser to Archduke Ferdinand of Austria. Bartholomew Welser, another citizen, fitted out a squadron to take possession of Venezuela, which had been assigned to him as a pledge by Emp. Charles V. The Fugger family raised themselves within a century from the condition of poor weavers to that of the wealthiest merchants at Augsburg, or perhaps in Europe. They were the Rothschilds of their age, and like them ennobled; and they frequently replenished the exhausted coffers of the emperors Maximilian I. and Charles V. A separate quarter of Augsburg, founded by Joh. Jacob Fugger 'the Rich' in 1519, is still called the Fuggerei (p. 115), closed by its own gates, and consisting of fifty-three small houses, tenanted at a merely nominal rent by indigent Roman Catholic citizens. — At Augsburg Charles V. held his famous diets; that of 1530, at which the Protestant princes presented to the Emperor and the estates the 'Augsburg Confession', a reformed creed framed by Melanchthon; that of 1548, at which the 'Interim' was issued; and that of 1555, by which a religious peace was concluded. The delivery of the Confession took place in a hall of the episcopal palace, which is now a royal residence.

The present appearance of Augsburg still recalls its ancient importance. Most of the houses are in the Renaissance style of the 16th and 17th cent., and several are still adorned with well-preserved frescoes. Those of greatest historical interest are indicated by tablets. The old fortifications have been removed, and handsome new streets erected on their site (comp. p. 118).

The principal street is the handsome, broad Maximilians-Strasse (Pl. C, 4; between the Maximilians-Platz and the Ludwigs-Platz), with its continuation, the busy Karolinen-Strasse (Pl. C, 3). At the N. end of the latter rises the Cathedral (Pl. B, C, 3), an irregular Gothic pile, originally a Romanesque basilica, begun in 995, consecrated in 1006, and altered 1321-1431. It now consists of a nave with low vaulting, borne by square pillars, and double aisles separated by slender round columns with foliage-capitals. The N. and S. portals of the E. choir, with sculptures of the 14th cent., are particularly fine.

The W. choir contains a very ancient episcopal throne and an ancient Gothic altar in bronze. In the nave hangs a fine bronze candelabrum of the 14th century. The richly carved Gothic pulpit and the high-altar in the E. choir are modern. The bronze doors of the S. aisle, dating from about 1050, contain representations of Adam and Eve, the Serpent, Centaurs, etc., in thirty-five sections. Fine stained glass, ancient and modern; the S. Romanesque windows of the nave (11th cent.) are among the oldest in existence. The altar-pieces of the first four side-altars are by Holbein the Elder (1493); the other altar-pieces in the ambulatory of the choir are by Zeitblom, Amberger, Woltgemut, Burgkmair, and others. On the back wall of the N. aisle are portraits of all the bishops from 596 to the present day. The choir-chapels, containing the tombs of many bishops, are separated from the choir by tasteful iron screens. The fine cloisters on the N. side (late-Gothic, 1474-1510) contain tombstones, some of them very old.

To the W. of the cathedral, in the Frohnhof, with its handsome War Monument by Zumbusch, is the Royal Palace (Pl. B, 3), now government-offices; to the E., in the Karolinen-Platz, the Episcopal Palace (Pl. C, 3).

On the right, in the Karolinen-Str., is the Riedinger House, the handsome court of which is fitted up as a winter garden. At the S. end of the street is the Ludwigs-Platz (Pl. C, 4; usually called 'Eiermarkt' or 'Perlach'), the busiest part of the town, in the centre of which rises the Fountain of Augustus, the founder of the city, whose statue was cast by the Dutch master Gerhardt in 1594. On the right is the Exchange; on the left the Perlach-Thurm, a clock-tower, erected in 1063 as a watch-tower, heightened in 1615, with a fine view from the top. — The Barfüsserkirche (Pl. C, 4; Prot.), to the E. of the Perlach-Thurm, contains pictures of the 17th and 18th cent. and an excellent organ. — The Jacober-Strasse, the E. continuation of the Barfüssergasse, is still one of the most medieval streets in existence. Near it is the Fuggerei (p. 114). — In the 'Vordere Lech' is the house, in which Holbein the Elder (p. 117) lived and Holbein the Younger was born.

The *Rathhaus (Pl. A, 4; bell in the vestibule to the right, in the middle; in summer the keeper is usually in the hall upstairs), a handsome Renaissance edifice, was erected in 1615-20 by Elias Holl. On the gable in front is a large pine-cone in bronze, the heraldic emblem of the city. The lower vestibule contains an eagle, with gilded beak and claws (1606), and busts of Roman emperors from Cæsar to Otho; on the back-wall is a bust of Emp. Frederick III., who commanded the Bavarian troops in the war of 1870-71. An antechamber on the first floor, borne by eight columns of red marble, has a fine wooden ceiling and a statue of Chr. von Schmid (d. 1854; see p. 112), the educational writer. On the second floor is the *'Golden Hall', 118 by 62 ft., and 54 ft. in height, one of the finest halls in Germany, with roccco decorations in the Italian style. The adjoining Fürstenzimmer also have fine wooden ceilings, wall-panelling, artistic stoves, and a few pictures, casts, flags, etc.

To the S.W., in the Ludwigs-Platz, opens the Philippine-Welser-Strasse, in which a Statue of Joh. Jac. Fugger (1516-1575) was erected in 1858. To the E. of the monument is the handsome house in which Philippina Welser lived from 1530 to 1550. To the W. is the Maximilians-Museum (Pl. B, C, 4), a Renaissance edifice of the 16th cent., containing the collections of the Historical and Natural History Society (daily, except Sat. afternoon, 10-1 and 2-5-Oct.-March, 10-12 and 2-4; tickets, 50 pf. each). On the ground; floor are Roman antiquities from the neighbourhood of Augsburg; on the first floor the mediaval collections, including sculptures, wood-carvings, seals, coins, drawings, etc. The pictures include portraits by Amberger, and an Adoration of the Magi by Gumpolt Giltlinger, a rare contemporary of Holbein. The natural history department embraces valuable collections of zoological botany, mineralogy, palæontology, ethnography, etc.

In the neighbouring St. Anna-Strasse is the church of St. Anna (Pl. B, 4; Prot.), built in 1472-1510 in the late-Gothic style, with a central part altered to the Renaissance style.

In the interior are an altar-piece (Jesus receiving little children) and portraits of Luther and Elector John Frederick of Saxony, by Cranach; the Wise and Foolish Virgins, by Amberger: Feeding of the four thousand, by Rottenhammer; Portrait of the Patrician von Oestreicher, by Van Dyck (?); Christ in Hell, by Burghmair, etc. To the left of the altar is a fine relief in stone of the Raising of Lazarus (16th cent.). The paintings on the wings of the large organ are by Burghmair, those on the small altar are attributed to Holbein the Younger. At the W. end is the rich Italian Renaissance burial-chapel of the Fugger family, built by Jacob Fugger the Rich (p. 114). Numerous tombstones in the cloisters.

We return hence to the Maximilians-Strasse, where there are two fountains, the Mercury and the Hercules, by Adr. de Vries, erected in 1599 and 1602. — On the right is the long Fuggerhaus (Pl. C, 4), the property of Prince Fugger-Babenhausen, adorned with modern frescoes by F. Wagner, illustrating the history of the town and the Fugger family.

Subjects of these scenes (from left to right): 1. Emp. Rudolph of Hapsburg confirms the municipal privileges of Augsburg (1273); 2. Emp. Lewis the Bavarian takes Augsburg under his protection (1315); 3. Jacob Fugger founds the Fuggerei (1519); 4. Emp. Maximilian I. holding his courat Augsburg (1500); 5. Anthony Fugger interceding for the town with Charles V. (1547). Friezes with allegorical groups of children form a kind of frame to these paintings. Between the windows of the first floor are the armorial bearings of distinguished families of Augsburg. Over the principal portal is a Madonna.

The office of the Fugger estates ('Domänenkanzlei', at the back of the Fuggerhaus, in the Zeugplatz, entered from the Apothekergässchen) contains the so-called *Fugger Bath Rooms, two sumptuous apartments in the Italian style (1570-72), now used for the meetings and exhibitions of the Augsburg Art Union (open Sun., Mon., Tues., 10-4; at other times on application to the keeper). Opposite is the Arsenal (Pl. C, 4), an imposing edifice with a façade by Elias Holl (p. 115; 1602). Above the portal, which bears the inscription 'pacis firmamento, belli instrumento', is a bronze group, by Reichel, of St. Michael smiting Satan (1607).

At the S. end of the Maximilians-Strasse are the two churches of St. Ulrich (Pl. C, 5), one Protestant, the other, the *Church of St. Ulrich and St. Afra, Roman Catholic. The lofty nave of the latter was erected in 1467-99, and in 1500 the foundation of the choir was laid by Emp. Maximilian I. The tasteful pentagonal porch of the N. portal was added in 1881. The tower (305 ft.), completed in 1594, commands a fine view (adm. 20 pf.).

Interior (always open). The nave and aisles are shut off by a highly elaborate iron *Screen, of the 16th cent., which when seen from the choir produces a striking effect of perspective. The Fugger Chapel, between the 2nd and 3rd pillar on the left, with its fine iron railing of 156,8 contains the *Tomb of Hans Fugger (1589), a marble sarcophagus with recumbent figure by A. Colins of Malines; also an altar with fine early German carvings (14th cent.), recently erected. In the chapel of St. Bartholomew (left aisle) is a Roman sarcophagus, said to be that of St. Afra. The three handsome *Renaissance altars date from 1604. Below that to the right is a vault with the marble sarcophagus of Bishop Ulrich (10th cent.), patron of the see of Augsburg. Finely carved confessionals of the beginning of the 17th century. In the nave is a Crucifixion in bronze by Reichel and Neidhardt, cast at the beginning of the 17th century. The 16th cent. paintings above the choir-stalls represent the foundation of the choir and the procession of the emperor and estates.

To the W. of the Hercules Fountain opens the Katharinen-Strasse, in which is situated the *Picture Gallery, in the old monastery of St. Catharine (Pl. C, 4; open daily from 9 to 1, and for strangers at other times; fee $^{1}/_{2}$ -1 M; catalogue $^{1}/_{2}$ M, out of date). The collection, founded in 1836, consists of over 700 paintings from the suppressed churches and convents of Augsburg, the convents of Kaisheim and Schönfeld, the Boisserée and Wallerstein cabinets, and the old galleries of Düsseldorf, Mannheim, and Zweibrücken. It is chiefly interesting for its early German masters, in particular the works of Hans Holbein the Elder and H. Burgkmair, whose names mark the zenith of art in Augsburg (beginning of 16th cent.). Good photographs sold by the attendant. Director, Herr von Huber.

Vestibule. Four paintings representing the legend of St. Nicholas of Cusa and SS. Jerome and Ambrose, by a Tyrolese Master of about 1480 (Michael Hans Pacher?). — Room I. Ratisbon, Germ. Regensburg (1115 ft.), situated at the confluence of the Danube and Regen, with 37,936 inhab. (6000 Prot.), the Castra Regina of the Romans, the Celtic Ratisbona, and since the 8th cent. the seat of an episcopal see founded by St. Boniface, was from the 11th to the 15th cent. one of the most flourishing and populous cities of S. Germany. At an early period it was a free town of the Empire, and from 1663 to 1806 the permanent seat of the Imperial Diet. By the Peace of Luneville it was adjudged to the Primate Dalberg; and in 1810 it became Bavarian, after the disastrous defeat of the Austrians beneath its walls the preceding year, when part of the town had been reduced to ashes.

Some of the numerous mediaval houses still retain the armorial bearings of their ancient owners, and several still possess their towers of defence, a reminiscence of early German civic life now preserved at Ratisbon alone. Of these the Goldene Thurm in the Wahlen-Strasse is the most conspicuous, near which, in the Watmarkt, is a tower with a relief said to be a portrait of Emp. Henry I. Observe also the Goliath, the ancestral seat of the powerful Thundorffer family, opposite the bridge, restored in 1883; the so-called Römerthurm, adjoining the ancient 'Herzogsburg' in the Kornmarkt; and the tower of the 'Golden Cross' hotel. Ratisbon is one of the earliest homes of art in Germany, and so far back as the late Carlovingian period possessed many interesting buildings.

Of Roman Buildings there are still a few relics. Thus the remains of the Porta Practoria in the street 'Unter den Schwibbögen', opposite No. F, 112, on the N. side of the Bischofshof (Pl. D, 2). Parts of the old Roman walls were found during building operations, but have been covered in again. The foundations of a Roman building to the S. of the railway-station were excavated in 1885. During the construction of the railway-station in 1870-74 a large Roman and Merovingian burial-ground was discovered; the objects found there are now in the Roman museum in St. Ulrich's (p. 121).

The *Cathedral (Pl. D, 2) of St. Peter was begun by Bishop Leo Thundorffer on the site of an earlier edifice in 1275, and completed during the following centuries (down to 1534), with the exception of the towers. The symmetrical proportions of the interior recall Strassburg Cathedral. Peculiarities of construction are that the transept does not project beyond the sides of the aisles, and that the choir is destitute of the ambulatory and chapels usual in Gothic churches. The W. façade, with the chief portal and a curious triangular *Porch, is of the 15th century. A gallery, with open stone balustrade, is carried round the roof, and affords a good survey of the town. On the N. side of the transept rises the Eselsthurm, or Asses' Tower, containing a winding inclined plane. The elegant open *Towers were completed in 1859-69 by Denzinger; and a slender wooden spire, coated with zinc, has been raised above the centre of the transept. Length of interior 306 ft., breadth 125 ft.; nave 132 ft. high. (Admission 5-10 a.m.; the sacristan's house is Domgarten, F, 125, at the back of the choir; enter by the gate on the S. side.)

Interior. The nave contains a monument in bronze erected in 1598 to Bishop Philip William, Duke of Bavaria. In a niche in the N. aisle, partly concealed from view, is the monument of the Primate Prince Dalberg (d. 1817), designed by Canova, and executed in white marble. On the N. side of the choir the "Monument of Margaretha Tucher in bronze, by P. Vischer (1521), representing Christ with the sisters of Lazarus. On the opposite wall of the choir is a marble relief in memory of Bishop Herberstein (d. 1663), representing Christ feeding the five thousand. Adjacent, the altar-tomb of Bishop Wittmann (d. 1833). The high-altar, presented in 1785 by the Prince-Bishop Count Fugger, is entirely of silver; adjoining it is the elegant "Ciborium, 56 ft. in height, with numerous statuettes, partly executed by Roritzer in 1493. On the S. side of the choir are two other modern monuments to bishops, by Eberhard; near them a well 66 ft. in depth, with an elegant covering sculptured in stone, executed well 66 ft. in depth, with an elegant covering sculptured in stone, executed in 1501 by the cathedral-architect Wolfgang Roritzer, who was beheaded in 1514, for 'rebellion against the imperial authority'. The aieles contain five altars with handsome Gothic canopies and modern pictures. The finest of these is in the N. aisle, with statues of Emp. Frederick II. and the Empress Cunigunde. Late-Gothic pulpit of 1482. An elegant open gallery runs round the interior of the church below the windows. The treasury contains old and costly crucifixes, reliquaries, and other valuables.

contains old and costly crucifixes, reliquaries, and other valuables.

The Cloisters* on the N. side of the cathedral are shown by the sacristan. The central hall contains beautifully-sculptured windows of the 16th cent.; the pavement is formed by the tombstones of canons and patricians of Ratisbon. Adjoining this hall on the E. is the Romanesque All Saints' Chapel, erected in 1164, with the remains of early frescoes and an interesting antique altar. On the N. side of the cloisters is the Old Cathedral (St. Stephen's), a very early building in the circular style, with four recesses in the sides. The altar in the apse, a block of stone partly hollowed out, with elegant little round-arched windows, in which relics are said once to have been kept, is evidently of great antiquity.

Just beyond the cathedral is St. Ulrich, or the Alte Pfarre, a curious but elegant church in the transition-style of the first half of the 13th century. It now contains the older collections of the Historical Society (see below), prehistoric and Roman, including several sarcophagi and over thirty inscriptions. The gallery contains the bronzes and other smaller antiquities (adm. daily 8-6, 50 pf., Sun. 9-12, 20 pf.; catalogue 30 pf.). — To the N.E., beyond the cathedral-garden, lies the church of Niedermünster, of early foundation but entirely rebuilt in the baroque style. Adjoining is the Bishops' Palace, occupying part of the old convent of St. Erhard. The linteresting little Crypt of St. Erhard, in the Niedermünstergasse, behind the church, dates from the 11th century. In the Kallmünzergasse is the handsome new Roman Catholic Vereinshaus St. Erhard, with a fine Gothic hall ('Dollinger-Saal') On the upper floor are the archives, library, coins, drawings, seals, weapons, pictures, etc., belonging to the Historical Society (adm. on application to the custodian in St. Ulrich's church).

In the OLD KORNMARKT (now the Moltke-Platz; Pl. D, 3), to the S.E. of the cathedral, are the Herzogshof (now the Forestry bureau) and the Römerthurm or Heidenthurm (p. 118). On the S. side is the Alte Kapelle, originally a Romanesque church with a Gothic choir, restored in the 18th cent. in the baroque style. Opposite, to the E., is the little Karmelitenkirche (1641-60), in the Ital. baroque style. On the Minoriten-Platz rises the Gothic Minoritenkirche, built early in the 14th cent., with a fine lofty choir. Part of it is now a military gymnasium, and the adjacent monastery is now a barrack.

From the cathedral we pass through the Kramgasse to the W. to the Rathhaus (Pl. C, 2), a gloomy, irregular pile, partly erected in the 14th cent. and partly after 1660. The Imperial Diet met here from 1663 to 1806. Observe the façade towards the Rathhaus-Platz, with an elegant bow-window and a fine portal. Cards of admission at the police guard-room (50 pf. each).

The great Imperial Hall contains what is groundlessly called the imperial throne, covered with leather and studded with brass nails. The walls are hung with tapestry. The stained-glass-windows exhibit the armorial bearings of Emperors Charles V. and Matthias. In the Fürsten-kollegium is preserved tapestry of the 14-15th cent.: Æneas and Dido, Coronation of Esther, Contest of the virtues and the vices; also embroidery of the same period ('the heart's joys and sorrows'); tapestry of the 15-17th cent. (mythological and hunting scenes). The Nebenzimmer (entrance under the gallery of the Imperial Hall) contains old flags, portraits, views of Ratisbon (1725) and Nuremberg (1637), etc. In the Model Room are eighty-eight models of buildings in Ratisbon, antiquities, etc. Subterranean dungeons and a torture-chamber are also shown.

Farther to the W. is the HAIDPLATZ (Pl. C, 2), in which is the hotel 'Zum Goldnen Kreuz' (Pl. a). The massive tower on the E. side of the hotel bears a medallion-portrait of Don John of Austria (modern).

This celebrated general, a natural son of the Emp. Charles V. and the beautiful Barbara Blumberger, was born at Ratishon on 25th Feb., 1547. The Emperor lodged, during the Diet of 1546, at the 'Golden Cross', then the house of Bernard Kraft auf der Haid, but that Don John was born here is a fiction.

Going hence through the Ludwig-Str. to the Arnulf-Platz, and turning to the left, past the Neue Haus with the Theatre (Pl. B, 2), we reach the church of the old Benedictine Abbey of St. Jakob, usually called the Schottenkirche (Pl. B, 3), the abbey having originally belonged to Scottish or Irish monks. The famous Romanesque portal is adorned with curious sculptured figures of men and animals, perhaps symbolical of the victory of Christianity over paganism. The church, a Romanesque basilica of the latter half of the 12th cent., containing columns with interesting old capitals, has lately been restored. The old monastery is now a seminary for priests. — In the vicinity, outside the Jakobsthor, is a Gothic Column of 1459 with scriptural scenes and statues of saints, restored in 1855.

To the E. of the Jakobskirche is the BISMARCK-PLATZ (Pl. B, 3), with pleasure-grounds, on the S.E. side of which rises the large Gothic Dominikanerkirche. The Gesandten-Str. (Pl. B, C, 3), with its handsome houses, leads straight on to the E. to the Neupfarr-Platz, passing the Prot. Dreieinigkeitskirche. In the adjoining court a number of interesting tombstones are built into the wall. Farther on the house of Herr Schwarz (C, 93) contains the Collections of the Natural History Society (adm. on the 1st and 3rd Sun. of each month, 10-12).

The Bereiterweg leads to the S. from the Bismarck-Platz, passing the Präsidialgebäude (Pl. 4), on the right, and the Old Gymnasium (Pl. 3), on the left, to the ÆGIDIBN-PLATZ (Pl. B, 3), where are situated the Rom. Cath. Krankenhaus and the Gothic Aegidienkirche (13th cent.), recently restored. The Marschall-Str. to the left leads thence past the Regierungsgebäude to the Emmerams-Platz (Pl. C, 3), embellished with a statue of Bishop Joh. Mich. Sailer (d. 1832), in bronze, by Widnmann, erected by Ludwig I. in 1868.

The old Benedictine Abbey of St. Emmeram (Pl. C, 3, 4), one of the oldest in Germany, was founded in the 7th cent., and suppressed in 1803. The Romanesque church, with two choirs and a crypt, dates from the 11th cent., and was restored early in last century in a degraded style. (The sacristan's house is to the right of the church, C, 152.)

The entrance is from the Emmerams-Platz, through a double door, above which are faded frescoes. Between the doors is a relief of Christ bearing the Cross (1511). On the wall to the right are blind arches resting upon columns; to the left in the garden is the isolated church-tower, adorned with statues (16th cent.). The porch adjoining the church-door contains an ancient stone seat, known as the Heinrichs Stuhl, because the Emp. Henry II, is supposed to have sat upon it. On the wall to the right is the tombstone of the historian Aventin (d. 1534). The principal altarpiece is a painting by Sandrart (1666), the martyrdom of St. Emmeran; in the pavement in front of the altar a slab bearing the imperial crown denotes the tombs of Emp. Arnulph (d. 899) and Emp. Lewis the Child (d. 941). The aisles contain some interesting ancient sculptures; in the left aisle: monuments of Empress Uta, wife of Arnulph (13th cent.); Count Warmund von Wasserburg (d. 1010); Dukes Arnulph (d. 937) and Henry (d. 995) of Bavaria; and St. Aurelia (d. 1027), daughter of Hugh Capet, erected in 1335. This aisle also contains the altar of the martyred Maximianus, with his relics; and a cabinet (opened by the sacristan) with relics of SS. Emmeram and Wolfgang, reliquaries, ecclesiastical antiquities, etc. In the right aisle: monuments of St. Wolfgang (d. 994; beneath an iron grating), Bishop Tuto, chancellor under Arnulph, and St. Emmeram; also the altar of St. Calcedonius with his relics. In the vaulted treasury are a handsome sarcophagus, hewn at Ratisbon in 1423 and containing the relics of St. Emmeram, and other curiosities. Below the W. choir is a crypt of the year 1052, restored in 1878.

The fine old Cloisters on the S. side of the church (13th and 14th cent.) are enclosed by the extensive abbey-buildings, which have been the residence of the Princes of Thurn and Taxis since 1812. The way to the cloisters (open daily, 11-12) is to the right of the church, past the Reitbahn, or riding-school (with sculptures by Schwanthaler); then through a portal to the left into the large court with the old Kaiserbrunnen (with figure said to represent Emp. Arnulph); and again to the left to a door with a glass roof, where we find the porter (fee). In the centre of the cloisters is the modern Chapel, adorned with stained glass; in the choir is a statue of Christ by Dannecker (p. 11); the crypt contains the family burial-vault. At the end of the E. wing of the cloisters is a fine iron gate, said to date from the 11th century.

The adjacent abbey-church of Obermünster (Pl. C, 3), an 11th cent. basilica resembling St. Emmeram's, contains some old frescoes and tombs. The convent is now an episcopal school for boys.—We may return hence to the cathedral vià the Neupfarr-Platz, to the N., in which is the Prot. Neupfarrkirche.

Outside the Petersthor (Pl. D, 4; now pulled down), in the Anlagen, or pleasure-grounds, laid out on the site of the old ramparts, is the Prediger-Säule, or 'preacher's column', with reliefs of the 13th or 14th cent. (restored in 1858). In the vicinity is a small circular temple, erected in 1808, with a bust of Kepler, the astronomer, who died here in 1630 whilst on a journey. The Anlagen contain several other monuments. The Royal Villa in the Gothic style, on an old bastion at the lower end of the town, near the Ostenthor (Pl. E, 2), commands an extensive view.

A stone bridge over the Danube, 380 yds. in length, built in the 12th cent., connects Ratisbon with Stadt am Hof, a suburb on the opposite bank, which was almost entirely burned down by the Austrians in 1809. Below Stadt am Hof the Regen empties its turbid water into the Danube.

Pleasant walk through Stadt am Hof to the Dreifaltigkeitsberg and the (3/4 hr.) Seidenplantage (Restaurant; fine view, best by evening light).

To the Walhalla, a most attractive excursion; there and back in about 3 hrs. (steam-tramway, steamboat, or carriage, see p. 119). The Walhalla-Bahn traverses Stadt am Hof, crosses the Regen, and intersects the railway (p. 134; passenger-station) at the station of Walhalla-Strasse. Thence it crosses the plain of the Danube, vià Schwabelweis and Tegernheim, to (63/4 M.) Donaustauf or Stauf (1068 ft.; Restaurant zur Walhalla, at the upper end). On a limestone rock above the long village rise the ruins of the castle of Stauf (1385 ft.), destroyed by the Swedes in 1634, with pleasure-grounds (view finer than from the Walhalla).

Two routes ascend from the upper end of Donaustauf to the (20-25 min.) Walhalla; one immediately to the left (at first a carriage-road, then ascending steps and by a footpath to the right, past the house of the custodian), approaching the Walhalla from the back, and preferable for the view suddenly disclosed. The other, a footpath, ascends direct to the grand flight of 250 steps by which the edifice is approached from the Danube. The sculptures in the S. tympanum are only seen to advantage from the upper part of the flight. The best general view is obtained from the opposite bark of the Panuble.—Travellers arriving by stamer from the opposite bank of the Danube. — Travellers arriving by steamer do not enter the village, but follow the first road to the right, and then either ascend to the left through the grounds to the route first described, or go on at the foot of the hill to the flight of steps.

The *Walhalla (i.e. 'Hall of the Chosen', the Paradise of the ancient Germanic tribes), a German 'Temple of Fame', stands very conspicuously on a hill planted with oaks and laid out with walks, 280 ft. above the Danube (1348 ft. above the sea-level). This magnificent edifice, founded by King Lewis I. in 1830, and designed by Klenze, was completed in 1842. Admission daily from April 1st to Sept. 1st, 8-12 and 1-7; in March and Sept. 8-12 and 1-6, in Oct. 8-12 and 1-5; other months 9-12 and 1-4 (free).

Oct. 8-12 and 1-5; other months 9-12 and 1-4 (free).

The EXTERIOR (246 ft. long, 115 ft. broad), surrounded by fifty-two fluted columns, a fine example of the purest Doric order, closely resembling the Parthenon at Athens, is massively constructed of unpolished grey marble (most of it quarried at the Untersberg; some of the blocks about fifteen tons in weight). The Pediments both in front and at the back contain groups in marble: S., towards the Danube, Germania, regaining her liberty after the battle of Leipsic; N. the 'Hermannschlacht', or Battle of Arminius, both by Schwanthaler (d. 1848). The roof is of iron, covered with plates of copper.

The INTERIOR, of the Ionic order, consists of a superb hall 180 ft. long, 50 ft. broad, and 56 ft. high, with richly decorated and gilded ceiling, and lighted from above. The pavement is of marble-mosaic. The lateral walls are divided into six sections by means of projecting buttresses, two on each side, and are lined with marble. The beams of the ceiling are supported side, and are lined with marble. The beams of the ceiling are supported by 14 painted Walkyries (warrior-virgins of the ancient German Paradise), by Schwanthaler. Around the entire hall runs a frieze, executed by Wagner, representing in 8 sections the history and life of the Germanic race down to the introduction of Christianity. Above the cornice are 64 marble tablets bearing the names of famous Germans of whom no portrait could be obtained. The busts are arranged chronologically (beginning on the left side by the entrance) in groups, separated by six admirable VICTORIES by Rauch (the finest of which is that in the middle of the left side). At the farther extremity is the 'opisthodomos', separated from the principal hall by two Ionic columns; in front of it is a seated marble statue of King Lewis I., by F. von Miller (1890). The general effect of the interior is grand and impressive, although the association of classical Greek architecture with an ancient barbarian Paradise and modern German celebrities may appear somewhat incongruous. — The *Busts, 101 in number, represent celebrated Germans who were deemed worthy by the illustrious founder to grace his temple of fame. Among them are the emperors Henry the Fowler, Fred. Barbarossa, and Rudolph of Hapsburg; also Gutenberg, Dürer, Luther, Wallenstein, Fred. the Great, Blücher, Schwarzenberg, and Radetzky; Lessing, Mozart, Beethoven, Kant, Schiller, Goethe, etc.

24. From Ratisbon to Donauworth (and Augsburg).

RAILWAY to $(18^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Kelheim, $1-1^{1}/2 \text{ hr.}$ (fares 2 M 30, 1 M 70, 1 M 5 pf.); to (46 M.) Ingoistadt, $2^{1}/2-3 \text{ hrs.}$ (fares 6 M, 4 M, 2 M 60 pf.); to $(78^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Donauwörth, 4-6 hrs. (fares 10 M 30, 6 M 90, 4 M 50 pf.); to $(87^{1}/2 \text{ M.})$ Augsburg, 5 hrs. (fares 11 M 30, 7 M 50, 4 M 80 pf.).

The line passes under the Nuremberg and Ratisbon railway at (2 M.) Prüfening (p. 119) and crosses the Danube, which is here flanked by the spurs of the Franconian Jura. 4 M. Sinzing, at the mouth of the Schwarze Laber (branch-line to Alling, with large paper-mills). Then on the left bank of the Danube; pretty scenery. Opposite (9 M.) Gundelshausen lies Oberndorf, where Count Palatine Otho of Wittelsbach, the murderer of the German Emperor Philip (p. 78), was overtaken and slain in 1208. Farther on is Abbach (*Curhaus), the birthplace of Emp. Henry the Saint (972), with sulphur-baths, a new church, and a ruined castle. We then cross the Danube to (12 M.) Abbach; the station is 2 M. from the village. The train skirts the Teufelsfelsen, where many Roman coins were found during the construction of the railway in 1873. The Befreiungshalle is visible to the left. On the Ringberg are well-defined traces of an extensive Roman camp. — $15\frac{1}{2}$ M. Saal.

TO KELHEIM (3 M.), branch-railway in 14 minutes. The terminus lies on the right bank of the Danube, which is crossed by a fine new bridge. On the left bank are the government-offices, in an old Schloss of the Dukes of Bavaria; in the garden are the remains of a Roman watch-tower.

Kelheim (1150 ft.; *Ehrenthaller, at the Donauthor; Richl's Inn, Haberl, Lang, restaurants with gardens and view; carr. with one horse to the Befreiungshalle and back to the station, 11/2 hr., 3 £0) is a busy little town (3400 inhab.) with partly preserved walls and gates, at the influx of the Attmüll, and through it of the Ludwigs-Canal (p. 75) into the Danube. The market is adorned with statues of Lewis I. and Maximilian II. by Halbig. The late-Gothic Church (1468), lately restored and adorned with polychrome painting, contains altars of white Kelheim limestone. The fine group (Coronation of the Virgin) on the high-altar is by Obermeyer; on the altar to the left is a Pieta by Veit Stoss, on that to the right a St. Anna by Knabl. The choir-frescoes are from drawings by Prof. Klein of Vienna.

The *Befreiungshalle ('Hall of Liberation'; 1480 ft.), on the Michaelsberg, to the W. of the town, a magnificent classical edifice, designed by Gärtner and Klenze, was founded by Lewis I. in 1842, and inaugurated on 18th Oct., 1863, the 50th anniversary of the Battle of Leipsic. A rotunda, 191 ft. in height, is borne by a substruction 23 ft. high, and is reached by a flight of 84 steps. On the exterior are 18 colossal female figures, emblematical of different German provinces; in front of, and below these, 18 candelabra; on the coping above the external arcade, 18 trophies. The interior, which is entirely lined with coloured marble, contains *34 Victories in Carrara marble by Schwanthaler; between these are 17 bronze shields made of the metal of captured French guns, bearing names of victories. Above the arcades are the names of 16 German generals on white marble tablets; higher up, the names of 18 captured fortresses. Below these is a gallery borne by 72 granite columns, 20 ft. in height, with bases and capitals of white marble. The richly-fretted dome, 70 ft. in height and 105 ft. in width, is lighted by a cupola 19 ft. in diameter. Opposite the portal is a staircase (opened by the custodian; fee) ascending to the inner gallery, which affords a good survey of the interior (fine echo). A narrow staircase leads thence to the outer gallery, where a view of the valleys of the Danube and Altmühl is enjoyed. - Admission daily 8-10 and 2-6 o'clock (in winter 10-12 and 2-4). The custodian lives in a house a short distance to the left.

Pleasant excursion from Kelheim up the Altmühl-Thal to (10½ M.) Riedenburg (carr., in 13½ hr., 6 M, with two horses 9 M). The road follows the left bank of the Altmühl, skirting a bare slope, with Neu-Kelheim and the extensive Kelheim Quarries, and passes Gronsdorf and (2½ M.) Oberau. To the right, halfway up the hill, is the Schullerloch, a large cavern affording a fine view of the valleys of the Altmühl and the Danube (Restaurant). [Pedestrians should follow the road to the Befreiungshalle on the right bank of the Altmühl, as far as the first kilomètre-stone, and take the path to the right, skirting the wood, to the Schottenhof, above which, at the Hesselberger in the Au, is a ferry to the Schullerloch. Or they may follow the right bank to Schellneck, Alt-Essing and Neu-Essing.] 4½ M. Neu-Essing (Graf's Brewery), commanded by the ruin of Randeck. 7½ M. Neu-Essing (Graf's Brewery), to the right, on a precipitous and isolated rock, the château of Prunn. To the left diverges a footpath to the Klamm, a mass of rock towering amid the woods on the hillside to the right, and affording a good survey of the Altmühl-Thal (direct and shady footpath hence to Riedenburg). Toly_2 M. Riedenburg (Post; Riemhofer) possesses three castles (Rosenburg, Rabenstein, and Tachenstein), situated on rocky spurs, which appear to close up the valley. To the left opens the pretty Schambach-Thal.

The Valley of the Danube between Kelheim and (3 M.) Weltenburg is very picturesque. The barren and rugged rocks, the gorges and summits of which are wooded, rise abruptly from the river to a height of 300-400 ft. Each of the more conspicuous rocks is named from some fanciful resemblance or from some legend, such as the Three Brothers, Maiden, Peter and Paul, Pulpit, Napoteon, etc. The Benedictine Abbey of Weltenburg, founded by Duke Thassilo of Bavaria in 775 and rebuilt in the 18th cent., lies at the foot of a strongly-fortified Roman station. The present church is a neat rococo structure. The best plan is to take the train to stat. Thaldorf, walk thence to the (3 M.) village and (1/2 M.) abbey of Weltenburg (*Restaurant), or direct to the latter (3 M.); then descend the river in a small boat (1-6 pers. to Traunthal 2, to Kelheim 3 M) to the monastery (*Klöster!') of Traunthal, romantically situated on the left bank (pleasant garden-restaurant), whence a walk of 20 min. through wood brings us to the Befreiungshalle. A good forest-path (red marks) leads in 1 hr. from the Befreiungshalle to the bank of the Danube opposite Weltenburg (ferry). Three so-called 'Roman Walls', probably of pre-Roman origin, cross the ridge between the valleys of the Danube and the Altmühl; one of them is upwards of 2 M. long.

The line quits the Danube and runs to the S.W. through a wooded and hilly district to the valley of the Hopfenbach. 20 M.

Thaldorf. Then through the N. part of the Holledau, a hop-growing district. — 25 M. Abensberg (1213 ft.; Kuchelbauer), a small town on the Abensfluss, with an old castle (now containing the local court of justice) and an interesting Carmelite church in the Gothic style, was the birthplace of the Bavarian historian Johann Thurmayer, surnamed Aventinus, to whom a monument has been erected in front of the Schloss. Napoleon defeated Archduke Charles here in 1809. To the S. are the pilgrimage-church of Allersdorf and the Romanesque abbey-church of Biburg (1125-50).

From Abensberg a road leads to the N.W. to (41/2 M.) Eining, on the Danube, near which are the interesting remains of the Roman frontierstation of Abusina, the chief Roman military post in Bavaria. [Eining is 6 M. from Neustadt (see below), from which it may be reached by a footpath viâ Gögging, a village with a strong sulphur spring and an old Romanesque church-portal.] The Romans recognised the importance of this spot as the junction of the military roads connecting the Danube territories with the Rhine and with Gaul, and as soon as they had conquered the district (B. C. 15) they established a station here, which they maintained, with three interruptions, down to the end of their sway (5th cent.). The remains, excavated since 1879, include a great part of the S. castrum, a bath, with a hypocaust in still usable condition under the floor, and the bath-with a hypocaust in suil usable condition under the noor, and the bath-keeper's house. A guide may be obtained at the parsonage, where some of the objects found here are preserved; but most of them are in the collection of the Historical Society at Landshut.

From Eining (Inn; better, Stipberger's Brewery, in Hienheim, opposite) we may ascend the Danube by boat to (5 M.) Weltenburg (1-6 pers. 5 M, each addit. pers. 60 pf.) and Kelheim. Haderfleck (Locus Hadrian), on the left bank, marks the end of the Limes Romanus (Teufelsmauer, Pfahlrain), a frontier-rampart with towers, constructed about 100 A.D. to protect the Roman Empire against the incursions of the Germans, and extending from the Danube, past Weissenburg am Sand (p. 131), to Wiesbaden, on the Rhine (comp. p. 27). — Pleasant walk from Hienheim across the Teufelsmauer, through the Hienheimer Forest, with its huge oaks, and past Schlott to the Klamm and (31/2 hrs.) Riedenburg or (3 hrs.) Neu-Essing in the Alt-mühl-Thal (p. 126).

About 8¹/₂ M. to the S.E. of Abensberg (diligence daily in 1³/₄ hr.) lies Rohr (Inn), with an interesting abbey-church in an elaborate baroque style.

Beyond (281/2 M.) Neustadt an der Donau (1165 ft.) the country becomes flatter. The train skirts the extensive forest of Dürnbuch. 331/2 M. Münchsmünster, on the Ilm, formerly a Benedictine abbey. 371/2 M. Vohburg (village on the Danube, 3 M. to the N.E.); 41 M.

Manching. - 46 M. Ingolstadt (p. 132).

FROM INGOLSTADT TO AUGSBURG, 41 M., railway in 2 hrs. The scenery is monotonous, the line running at first along the E. margin of the Donaumoos (see below). 3½ M. Zuchering; 15½ M. Schrobenhausen, a town on the Paar, with a late-Gothic brick church of the 15th cent.; 22 M. Radersdorf. Near (25½ M.) Aichach, to the N.E., is the ruined castle of Wittelsbach, the ancestral seat of the reigning house of Bavaria, destroyed in 1209, with an obelisk erected in 1832. 32 M. Dasing; 37 M. Friedberg, an ancient little town on the Ach, with a modern church, decorated with frescoes by F. Wagner: 38½ M. Hochzoll (p. 133). The train then crosses frescoes by F. Wagner; 381/2 M. Hochzoll (p. 133). The train then crosses the Lech and reaches Augsburg (p. 113).

The railway to Donauworth traverses the Donaumoos, an extensive marshy district, partly drained and rendered cultivable during the last century. 52 M. Weichering; 55 M. Rohrenfeld, with a royal stud.

58 M. Neuburg (1410 ft.; Post), a pleasant town with 7500 inhab., on the slope of a hill rising from the Danube. The older part of the large Schloss of the Dukes of Pfalz-Neuburg is now a barrack. The W. wing, in the Renaissance style, added by Elector Otho Henry in 1538, contains the district archives. Fine vaulted gateway and two rooms with rich timber ceilings. The Historical Society possesses four large pieces of tapestry of the 16th century. The Hofkirche, adjoining the château, contains a valuable collection of ecclesiastical vestments. Herr Grasegger has a collection of antiquities found in the duchy of Neuburg. The town-library and the old throne-room in the town-hall are also interesting.

The line now traverses a uninteresting district, running 1-3 M. from the right bank of the Danube. From (62 M.) Unterhausen Count Arco-Stepperg's château of Stepperg is seen in the distance to the right, on the wooded left bank of the river. Farther on is Bertholdsheim, the large Schloss of Count Dumoulin. 66 M. Burgheim; '71 M. Rain, where Tilly, at the age of 73, was mortally wounded in 1632 while defending the passage of the Lech against Gustaphus Adolphus. The line crosses the Lech to stat. Genderkingen, joins the Augsburg Railway, and crosses the Danube to—$78^{1}/_{2}$ M. Donauwörth (p. 112).

25. From Frankfort to Munich by Ansbach and Ingolstadt.

253 M. Railway in 10-131/2 hrs.; fares 31 M, 21 M 80 pf., 14 M, express 38 M, 26 M 80, 18 M 90 pf.

As far as Würzburg, see R. 14. The Ansbach line here turns to the S.; to the right the Marienberg. 83 M. Sanderau, on the S.E. side of the town. Near (85 M.) Heidingsfeld, once a fortified town, of which the church-tower alone is visible (interesting relief in the church by T. Riemenschneider: Mourning for Christ), we cross the Main. (The Heidelberg line diverges to the right, see p. 70.) — 89 M. Winterhausen; 91 M. Gossmannsdorf. — 94 M. Ochsenfurt (545 ft.; *Schnecke), with a Gothic church surmounted by a Romanesque tower; opposite, the late-Gothic chapel of St. Michael (1440), with a fine portal. The old fortifications, with their numerous towers, are well preserved. — At (97 M.) Marktbreit, with its old watchtowers, we quit the Main and approach the W. slopes of the Steiger Wald. 104 M. Herrnbergtheim; 1081/2 M. Uffenheim; 112 M. Ermetzhofen. — 1161/2 M. Steinach (*Goldenes Kreuz, unpretending).

Branch Railway from Steinach viâ Hartershofen in 40 min. to (7 M.) Rothenburg on the Tauber (1550 ft.; *Hirsch, Schmiedgasse, R. 2, D. 2. M. B. 60 pf., charming view from the windows overlooking the Taubergrund; Bär, R. 1. M; Lamm; beer at Dickhaut's, Hachtel's, and Beck's; wine at the Eisenhut), a charming mediæval town (7000 inhab.), with red-tiled, gabled houses and well-preserved fortifications. As in Nuremberg the churches are Gothic, the secular buildings Renaissance. Rothenburg is already spoken of as a town in a document of 942, and from 1274 to 1803 it was a free city of the Empire. In the 14th and 15th cent. it was an energetic member of the Franconian League, in 1525 it joined the insurgent peasantry, and in 1543 embraced the Reformation. During the Thirty Years' War the town was repeatedly besieged and taken.

A visit of 4-5 hrs. suffices for a visit to the chief points of interest. From the railway-station we walk to (5 min.) the Röder-Thor, the E. entrance of the town, and thence to (5 min.) the Market. In front of us is the broad Herrengasse; to the left diverges the Obere Schmiedgasse, containing the so-called Haus des Baumeisters (No. 343), of 1596, with its handsome facade adorned with Caryatides and its interesting court. At the beginning of the Herrengasse (see below), to the left, is the Fountain of St. George, erected in 1606, beyond which is the Gewerbehalle, with a small collection of antiquities (ring). To the right rises the handsome *Rathhaus, the older part of which is in the Gothic style, with a tower 230 ft. high, while the later is a beautiful Renaissance structure of 1578, with a projecting rustica portico and balcony (of 1681), an oriel, and an elaborate spiral staircase. The staircase in the interior of the older building ascends to a vestibule with a fine timber-roof supported by Ionic columns. Beyond this is the spacious Court Room (now 'Kaisersaal'), in which an annual festival commemorates the capture of the town by Tilly in 1631. (A picture by Schuch in the Council Room, on the upper floor of the new Rathhaus, refers to the same event.) In the cellars are torture-chambers and dungeons, where, among others, the burgomaster Toppler, accused of treason, perished in 1408. The court contains an antique Renaissance portal. The tower (193 steps) commands a splendid view of the town and the Tauber-Thal.

The neighbouring church of *St. James (Jakobskirche), with its two towers and a choir at each end, built in 1373-1471, is remarkable for its fine proportions and the purity of its style (restored in 1851). It contains three fine carved wooden altars: the *Altar of the Holy Blood, dating from 1478 (an early work of T. Riemenschneider); the Virgin's Altar, of 1495; and the *High Altar of 'the twelve messengers', with wings painted by Fritz Herlen (1466). The beautiful stained-glass windows of the choir date from the end of the 14th cent. and were restored in 1856. The sacristan lives opposite the E. choir (fee 50 pf.). The Toppler Chapel, to the S. of the church, contains the tomb of the above-mentioned burgomaster. Adjoining the W. choir is a handsome Renaissance house with an oriel, now the parsonage. In the street passing below the W. choir is the entrance to the Chapel of the Holy Blood, with old sculptures and paintings by Herlen, Wohlgemut, and others. The Gymnasium, in the Kirchplatz, was built in 1539-91.

From the passage under the W. choir of the Jakobskirche we proceed straight towards the N. to the Klingen-Thor and the small Gothic Church of St. Wolfgang, of 1473-83, the N. side of which forms part of the town-wall.

— A pleasant promenade outside the wall leads to the left to (6-8 min.) the gate of the grounds laid out on a hill once occupied by a Castle of the Hohenstaufen (fine view of the town and of the deep Tauber-Thal). Below it is the Topplerschlösschen, which once belonged to the unfortunate Burgomaster Toppler (see above). We now return through the Burgthor to the Herren-Strasse, which leads to the market (see above), and contains the early-Gothic Franciscan Church (keys kept by the sacristan) and several houses of patricians of Rothenburg, including the Standt'sche Haus (No. 16, on the left), with a curious old court. The house No. 48 also has a fine court.

The Schmiedgasse (see above) and its prolongation the Spitalgasse lead past the Leper Hospital (now a pawnbroker's), the Gothic Church of St. John (R. C.), with the Johanniterhof (now district offices), and the Spital (1570-76), with its quaint court, to the Spitalthor, a fortified gateway with a circular bastion (1542). — The following walk (ca. 1 hr.) affords charming views of the town. Turning to the right outside the gate, and after 200 paces following the narrow path which leads straight from the tower by the edge of the fields, we reach the Essighrug, a hill commanding a good view of the town from the S. side. We then descend into the Tauber-Thal, where we reach in succession the Widdbad (Hotel; garden-restaurant), with a cold sulphur-spring, the late-Gothic Cobelzeller Kirche (R. C.; shut), and the old bridge over the Tauber (1330), with its double row of arches (beyond the bridge two forest-inns). We continue to follow the Tauber-Thal to the Topplerschlösschen (see above) and the old village of Detwang (Inn, wine), with a very fine carved *Altar, and return to the Klingenthor by a bridge across the Tauber tinh, wine), with a very fine carved "Altar, and return to the Kingenthor by a bridge across the Tauber.

Diligence daily in 2½ hrs. from Rothenburg to (11 M.) Creglingen ("Lamm). The adjacent Hergottskapelle (¼ hr.) contains a celebrated carved "Altar (uncoloured) by Tilman Riemenschneider. (The old road to Creglingen commands, near Schwarzenbronn, a charming survey of Rothenburg.) From Creglingen diligence thrice daily in 2½ hrs. to (11 M.) Weikersheim (p. 26). — A diligence also runs from Rothenburg daily in 3 hrs. to (13 M.) Roth am See (p. 26), and in 3 hrs. viâ Schillingsfürzt (Bremer) to (12½ M.) Dombühl (p. 26). — Carriage from Rothenburg to (10 M.) Schrozberg (p. 26) in 2 hrs.

1181/4 M. Burgbernheim; 11/2 M. to the S.W. lies Wildbad (an unpretending little watering-place). At (124 M.) Oberdachstetten we enter the valley of the Franconian Rezat. The Petersberg (1660 ft.), visible to the left, may be ascended hence in 1-11/4 hr. (view).—128 M. Rosenbach; 131 M. Lehrberg.

136 M. Ansbach (1325 ft.; Stern, with restaurant and garden: Zirkel, unpretending; Joh. Wedel; Krone; Benkher's, S. Wedel's, and König's Wine Rooms), with 14,267 inhab. (2000 Rom. Cath.), on the Rezat, is the capital of Central Franconia. It is surrounded by park-like woods. The Schloss, built in the Italian Renaissance style in 1713-32 and once the seat of the Margraves of Brandenburg-Ansbach, is a veritable treasure-house of baroque and rococo art, both of which are seen at their best in the elegant equipment of the 22 state apartments. The picture-gallery is also interesting, especially that section of it which illustrates the history of the Hohenzollerns. In front of the Schloss stands Halbig's bronze statue of the poet Aug. von Platen (d. 1835). The house in which he was born, in the Platen-Strasse, is indicated by a tablet with an inscription, above which is an old coat-of-arms (1696), an eagle gazing at the sun, with the motto, 'Phoebo auspice surgit'. The Hofgarten near the Palace, a well-kept park with a double avenue of lime-trees, contains a pavilion with modern frescoes, an orangery (Restaurant, plain), a monument to the poet $U_z(d.1796)$, and another marking the spot where Caspar Hauser was assassinated, with the inscription: 'Hic occultus occulto occisus 14. Dec. 1833'. Caspar Hauser's tombstone in the churchyard is inscribed, 'Hic jacet Casparus Hauser aenigma sui temporis, ignota nativitas, occulta mors 1833.' It is believed that this ill-fated youth was a victim, throughout his life and in his death, to the unscrupulous ambition of some noble family to whose dignities he was the lawful heir.

The finest church is the Protestant*Gumbertuskirche, with three Gothic W. towers (1483-93 and 1597) and a late-Gothic choir (1523).

The choir, known as the 'Schwanritterkapelle', contains stone monuments of knights of the Order of the Swan, transferred in 1825 from a now partly walled-up chapel of St. George, which the Elector Albert Achilles meant to make the central point of the order in S. Germany. The chief of these is the High Altar, erected by Albert Achilles in 1485 and restored at the instance of Emp. Frederick III., with carvings and paintings of the school of Wohlgemut. On the walls are scutcheons of Knights of the Swan and the old banners used at the funerals of the Margraves. The stained glass dates from the 15-16th centuries,

On the N. side of the church is the Hofkanzlei, now law-courts, a handsome gabled edifice of 1563. - In the Obere Markt is the Protestant *St. Johanniskirche, a Gothic structure of the 15th cent., with two towers of unequal height. Below the choir is the burialvault of the Margraves, originally constructed in 1660. — Between the two churches is the old Landhaus (now a druggist's), a Renaissance edifice of 1531. Adjacent is a fountain with a statue of Margrave George the Pious (d. 1543), who introduced the Reformation into Franconia. - The collections of the Historical Society (in a wing of the château), the new Municipal Museum, and the china and glass collections of Herr Hirsch (on the Promenade) are all interesting. Near the station are the Slaughter House and a large factory of preserved food for the army. - Favourite resorts are Drechsel's Garten (reached in 20 min. from the Schloss by crossing the Schlossbrücke and ascending the Schlossgasse), with a fine view of the town and environs (café-restaurant), and the Tivoli Restaurant, with a garden. Near the Rezat is a large Bathing Establishment.

142 M. Winterschneidbach. —146 M. Triesdorf, a former château of the Margraves, with a fine park. About 3 M. to the N.E. is Eschenbach, birthplace of the poet Wolfram von Eschenbach (d. 1228), with a monument to him. —149½ M. Altenmuhr, on the Altmühl. —152½ M. Gunzenhausen, junction for Augsburg and Nuremberg (R. 22). The line crosses the Altmühl and follows its valley to Eichstätt. —158 M. Windsfeld; 162½ M. Berolzheim; 165 M. Wettelsheim. —167½ M. Treuchtlingen, junction of the line from Munich to Nuremberg, which runs hence vià Grönhard, Weissenburg am Sand, and Ellingen to Pleinfeld, and there joins the Augsburg and Nuremberg line (p. 111).

The Altmühl is crossed twice. — 171 M. Pappenheim (1330 ft.; *Eisenbahn-Hôtel; Deutsches Haus; Krone), charmingly situated, is commanded by the extensive ruins of a castle of the ancient counts of that name. The massive Roman Tower, 100 ft. in height, commands a beautiful view. The town contains two châteaux of Count Pappenheim, one of them a fine modern building by Klenze (1820).

Beyond a tunnel the line crosses and recrosses the Altmühl. To the S. of (175 M.) Solnhofen are extensive slate-quarries, once worked by the Romans, where upwards of 3000 workmen are employed. The slate, used for lithographing purposes, table-slabs, etc., is largely exported. Numerous fossils.

A long tunnel. Then (179 M.) Dollnstein, a small and old town, still surrounded by walls. Below it, on the left bank of the Altmühl, rises the conspicuous, serrated Burgstein. Farther on is the pretty village of Ober-Eichstätt. The line quits the valley of the Altmühl and reaches the (185¹/₂ M.) station of Eichstätt, situated in a cutting, whence a narrow-gauge branch-line runs in 25 min. to (4 M.) —

Eichstätt (1270 ft.; Schwarzer Adler; Schwarzer Bär), an old town with 7475 inhab., seat of an ancient episcopal see founded in 740 by St. Willibald, a companion of St. Boniface. In the Residenz-Platz are a 'Mariensäule' of 1777, 60 ft. high, with a gilded figure of the Virgin, and the handsome Law Courts, formerly the residence of the archbishops. The Cathedral, begun in 1042, with Romanesque towers and the choir of St. Willibald in the transition-style, Gothic nave and E. choir of 1365-96, has recently been tastefully painted. It contains the monument of St. Willibald with his statue, and tombstones of bishops. Good relief (1396) on the N. Portal (Death of Mary), and fine stained glass in the choir. Beautiful cloisters with Romanesque columns. The fountain in the market-place is adorned with an admirable bronze statue of St. Willibald (1695). The Walpurgiskirche, containing the tomb of St. Walpurgis, from which a 'miraculous oil' exudes, is visited by numerous pilgrims on 1st May (St. Walpurgis' Day). The barrel-vaulting of the Jesuits' Church (1640) is fine. — Above the town rises the dilapidated Willibaldsburg, the residence of the bishops down to 1730; the tower commands a striking view, best in the evening (apply to the castellan). The well is 295 ft. deep. On the Blumenberg, to the N.W., numerous rare fossils (pterodactyl, archæopterix) have been found.

The line traverses a hilly and wooded tract by means of deep cuttings. $188^{1}/_{2}$ M. Adelschlag; $1^{1}/_{2}$ hr. thence is Pfünz, above the Altmühl, with extensive remains of the Roman fort of Vetonianis, recently excavated. 193 M. Tauberfeld; 198 M. Gaimersheim.

200 M. Local Station of Ingolstadt (*Wittelsbacher Hof, R. 11/4- $2 \mathcal{M}$, B. 70 pf.; Adler; *Bär, moderate), with 17,600 inhab., a strongly fortified town on the Danube, once the seat of a famous university, founded in 1472 by Duke Lewis the Rich, and transferred to Landshut in 1800 and to Munich in 1826 (p. 151). At the end of the 16th cent. it was attended by 4000 students. The Jesuits' College, founded in 1555, was the first established in Germany. The town was besieged by Gustavus Adolphus in 1632, while his antagonist Tilly lay mortally wounded within its walls (see p. 128). The French General Moreau took the place in 1800 after a siege of three months, and dismantled the fortifications, but they have been reconstructed since 1827. On the right bank of the Danube are strong êt es-de-pont with round towers of solid masonry and the Redoubt Tilly. — The Gothic Frauenkirche of 1439, with two massive towers in front, contains the tomb of Dr. Eck (d. 1543), the opponent of Luther, and monuments to Tilly, who was buried at Alt-Oetting (p. 233), and the Bavarian General Mercy, who fell at Allersheim in 1645.

The line skirts the glacis, crosses the Danube (to the right is the tête-de-pont), and reaches the (2021/2 M.) Central Station of Ingolstadt (*Dintler's Inn, plain), 2 M. from the town, with which it is connected by tramway (20 pf.).

Restaurant; omn. from the station to the town, 1¹/₂ M., 20 pf.), with 18,870 inhab., a pleasant town with wide streets and gabled houses, lies picturesquely on the Isar, which forms an island within the town. The quarter on this island is called Zwischen den Brücken. The chief attractions are in the broad main street. named the 'Altstadt'. The three principal churches, St. Martin's (about 1392-1495), St. Jodocus (1338-68), and the Holy Ghost or Hospital Church (1407-61) are fine structures in brick, adorned with sculpturing in stone. The lofty tower of St. Martin's is 462 ft. in height. Among the numerous tombstones on the outer walls of this church is (on the S. side, protected by a railing) that of Stetthammer (Hans der Steinmetz, d. 1432), the builder of this church and the Hospital Church, with his bust and a half-length figure of the Saviour. The late-Gothic pulpit, of limestone, dates from 1422. Beautiful late-Gothic high-altar (1424), the back of which is also interesting. The lofty choir-windows contain modern stained glass, - The Post Office (formerly House of the Estates) is decorated with old frescoes of the sovereigns of Bavaria from Otho I. to Maximilian I. — The New Palace (1536-43), begun by German, and completed by Italian architects, exhibits features both of the German and Italian Renaissance. Its columned court and fine upper rooms, with beautiful friezes, are among the best Renaissance works in Germany. (Custodian in the portal, to the right.) Some of the rooms contain an instructive collection of industrial models, established by Dr. Gehring (Sun., 10-1; at other times a fee). — The Rathhaus, originally erected in 1446, has been entirely restored. New facade, 1860-61. The late-Gothic *Council Chamber (apply at the Registry Office on the first floor), with its fine timber ceiling and chimney-pieces, is adorned with a huge mural painting in tempera, by Seitz, Spiess, and other artists, of the marriage of George the Rich. In front of the Rathhaus stands a bronze Statue of Maximilian II., by Bernhard (1868). The university of Ingolstadt was transferred to Landshut in 1800, and thence to Munich in 1826. A statue of the founder, Duke Lewis the Rich (d. 1479), has been erected in front of the government-buildings. - In the suburb of the St. Nicola, to the N.W., is a War Monument for 1870-71.

*Burg Landshut or Trausnitz (1530 ft.), an old castle rising above the town, formerly the residence of the Dukes of Lower Bavaria, begun by Duke Ludwig of Kelheim in 1204, was frequently altered, and has suffered greatly from the ravages of time. The pleasantest approach to it is through the Hofgarten with its pretty promenades. The Chapel (1304-31), which lately Hofgarten with its pretty promenades. The Chapel (1304-31), which lately underwent thorough renovation, is the only part remaining of the original structure. The balustrades, decorated with stone figures, the large relief of the Annunciation, the mural paintings of the altar-recess, and the ciborium (1471) are worthy of notice. Some of the apartments are finely painted in the Renaissance style (1576-80), and others contain handsome wooden ceilings and panelling. The mural paintings on the 'Fools' Staircase', representing scenes from Italian comedies, deserve inspection. The upper floor has been sumptuously fitted up for the reception of the King of Bavaria (adm. on application to the Archivist, Dr. Jörg, in the castle). In the court is a well surmounted by a fine wrought-bron framework: the the court is a well, surmounted by a fine wrought-iron framework; the pails in bronze (executed, according to the inscription, in 1558) are now kept inside the castle. Conradin, the last of the Hohenstaufen, was born at the neighbouring castle of Wolfstein (now a ruin) in 1252 and spent a great part of his childhood at the Trausnitz. The best descent is afforded by the flight of steps leading to the Heighkeller (upper town). - Beyond the Trausnitz lies the village of Berg, separated from (11/4 M.) Landshut by the Hofgarten. - From the garden-restaurant on the (11/4 M.) Klausenberg,

A railway also runs from Landshut, viå (8 M.) Geisenhausen, (14 M.) Vilsbiurg, and (201/2 M.) Egglkofen, to (241/2 M.) Neumarkt an der Rott (p. 214).

The railway ascends the valley of the Isar. 2571/2 M. Gündlkofen; to the left, Schloss Kronwinkel. 259 M. Bruckberg, with a small château to the right of the line; then on the right Schloss Isareck. The Amper is crossed. 264 M. Moosburg, a very ancient town on the Isar; the Romanesque church contains a fine old carved altar. In clear weather the Alps soon become visible. 268 M. Langenbach.

2741/2 M. Freising (*Ettenhofer; Zur Eisenbahn, unpretending; omn. into the town 20 pf.), a town with 9485 inhab., on the Isar, and partly on a hill (Domberg), has been the seat of an episcopal see (now Munich-Freising) from the 8th cent. to the present day. Otho von Freising, the historian, grandson of Emp. Henry IV., was bishop here from 1137 to 1158 (statue in the Domhof). The Romanesque Cathedral (1161-1205), with its two towers and double aisles, was marred by internal alterations in the 17th century. Observe the late-Romanesque portal (partly disfigured) and the curious quadruple crypt, the vaulting of which rests on short round and polygonal columns, with rich capitals. In the raised vestibule, to the left on entering, are statuettes of Frederick Barbarossa and his wife Beatrix (?), of 1161. Gothic choir-stalls. The cloisters contain some fine tombstones. The Church of St. Benedict, connected with the cathedral by cloisters, contains a fine old and two modern stained-glass windows. The Clerical Seminary, opposite the cathedral, contains early German paintings, sculptures, etc. - To the W. lies (20 min.) the loftily-situated Weihenstephan, formerly an abbey, now an agricultural college and brewery.

Next stations Neufahrn, Lohhof, (288 M.) Schleissheim (p. 194). Feldmoching, (2931/2 M.) Schwimmschule, and (296 M.) Munich.

Munich (1703 ft.), the capital of Bavaria, with 350,600 inhab. (incl. 6100 Jews and a garrison of 9300 men), lies on the S. side of a sterile plain, 50 sq. M. in area, chiefly on the left bank of the Isar, which emerges from a narrow gorge (10 M. long) about $4^{1}/_{2}$ M. above the city. The lofty situation of the city and its proximity to the Alps render it liable to sudden changes of temperature, against which visitors should guard, especially towards evening. The high mountains, about 25 M. to the S. of the city, become very distinct after a thunder-storm or on the approach of bad weather.

History. Munich was founded by Henry the Lion, who constructed a bridge over the Isar, a custom-house, a mint, and a salt-depôt on the site of the present city in 1158. The land is said to have belonged to the monks of Schäftlarn or Tegernsee, whence the name of Forum ad Monachos, Muniha, or Munich. Under the Wittelsbach princes the town prospered. Otho the Illustrious (d. 1253) transferred his residence to Munich, and his son Lewis the Severe built the Alte Hof (p. 134). Emp. Lewis the Bavarian almost entirely re-erected the city, which was loyally attached to him, after a fire in 1327 (his tomb in the Frauenkirche, see p. 163). Duke Albert V. (1550-73) founded the Library and the Kunstkammer, to which the Antiquarium, cabinet of coins, and part of the National Museum owe their origin. Elector Maximilian I. (1597-1651) erected the Arsenal, the Old Palace, and the Mariensäule (p. 162). In 1631 Gustavus Adolphus pai | a lengthened visit to the city. Elector Maximilian III. Joseph founded the Academy (p. 190) in 1757, and his successor Charles Theodore of the Palatinate removed the old fortifications. King Maximilian I. Joseph (d. 1825) contributed materially to the improvement of the city by the dissolution of the religious houses and the erection of new buildings, but for its modern magnificence Munich is chiefly indebted to his son Lewis I. (d. 1868). That monarch, who even before his accession had purchased several valuable works of art (e.g. the Ægina Marbles, the so-called Ilioneus) and attracted Cornelius and other artists to Munich, raised the city during his reign of 23 years (ending in 1848) to the foremost rank as a school of German art. Klenze (d. 1864) was chiefly instrumental in carrying out the architectural plans of the monarch, and he was ably seconded by Gärtner, Ohlmüller, and Ziebland. The indefatigable Schwanthaler (d. 1848) provided the plastic embellishment, and Cornelius (d. 1867) and his pupils enlivened the walls with paintings of a monumental character. The harmony of the walls with paintings of a monumental character. The harmony of this period, however, was soon disturbed by a difference between Cornelius and Klenze, and when the king showed that his sympathies were with the latter, Cornelius removed to Berlin. As Kaulbach (d. 1874) also for the last ten years of his life worked chiefly at Berlin, and Schwind (d. 1871) at the Wartburg, the glory of Munich as an art-centre began to pale. The decline, however, was transient; for while Munich has lately produced nothing of the first rank in architecture or sculpture, it has maintained its position as a leading school of painting, though under completely altered conditions. The elder Munich artists were distinguished for their accuracy of drawing and composition, and prided themselves on for their accuracy of drawing and composition, and prided themselves on having revived the romantic style of art; the latest generation, under the lead of Karl Piloty (1826-1886), on the contrary, has fixed its attention chiefly on the study of colouring, and bestows the utmost care upon technical perfection of finish.

The MAX-JOSEPH-PLATZ (Pl. E, 4), the centre of the city and its traffic, situated between the old quarters and the new, is adorned with the *Monument of King Max Joseph (d. 1825), erected by the city on the 25th anniversary of that monarch's accession, modelled by Rauch of Berlin, and cast in bronze by Stiglmayer. The colossal statue in a sitting posture rests on a pedestal adorned with reliefs emblematical of Agriculture, Art, Constitution, and Religious Toleration.

The N. side of the Max-Joseph-Platz is bounded by the royal Palace (Pl. E, F, 4), which consists of three parts: on the S. side towards the Platz the Königsbau, N. towards the Hofgarten the Festsaalbau, and between these the Alte Residenz, or old palace, facing the Residenz-Str.

The Alte Residenz, built by Hans Reifenstuel in 1596-1619, under Elector Maximilian I., comprises four courts, Kaiserhof, Küchenhof, Brunnenhof, and Kapellenhof (i. e. courts of the emperor, kitchen, fountain, and chapel). The simple façade is embellished with two handsome bronze doors and a bronze statue of the Virgin by Hans Krumper. By the door to the right we enter the Kapellenhof. The passage thence to the Brunnenhof contains 'Duke Christopher's Stone (an inscription on the wall). A staircase to the left ascends to the Hercules Saloon, where visitors to the palace assemble at 11 o'clock sharp (comp. p. 143). To the right of the Kapellenhof is the Grottenhof, with a small garden and a fantastic shell-grotto; in the centre a bronze Perseus, after B. Cellini. From the S.E. corner a passage leads to a larger court, with fountainfigures of Neptune, etc., from which the Nibelungen Saloons in the Königsbau are entered (p. 147). The Brunnenhof, to the E. of the Kapellenhof, is embellished with a statue of Otho of Wittelsbach and other figures in bronze by P. Candid. The Allerheiligenkirche

(p. 148) adjoins this court on the E.; to the S. a passage leads to the Hof-Theater (p. 148).

The apartments of the Alte Residenz are sumptuously fitted up in 17th cent. style. Visitors are first conducted to the KAISERZIMMER or REICHEN ZIMMER, which include the Ante-Room, with a portrait of King Lewis II. by Piloty; the Audience Chamber, with twelve Roman emperors by an unknown Venetian painter; the Throne Room, occupied in 1809 by Napoleon I.; the Green Gallery, containing Italian and Dutch pictures of little value; the Bed Chamber, with a richly-gilded bed; the Mirror Cabinet, with valuable crystal;

Handsome portico of eight Corinthian columns. The pedimental frescoes designed by Schwanthaler (Pegasus and the Horæ, Apollo and the Muses) were replaced in 1894 by glass mosaics. The building is 145 ft. high, 188 ft. broad, and 332 ft. deep; the stage measures 95 ft. in breadth by 115 ft. in depth. The interior deserves a visit (which takes an hour; adm., see p. 142); fine view of the Alps from the roof. — Between the Hof-Theater and the Allerheiligenkirche is the Residenz-Theater, built in 1752-60 and restored in 1857, richly decorated in the roccos style (room for 800 spectators).

The *Allerheiligen-Hofkirche (All Saints' Church), or Court Chapel (adm., see p. 143; music, see p. 141), on the E. side of the palace, erected in 1837 by Klenze in the Byzantine-Romanesque style, is sumptuously fitted up. The arches rest on columns of variegated marble, the walls are covered with different coloured marbles; and the vaulting, window-arches, and choir are adorned with frescoes on a gold ground by Hess, Schraudolph, and Koch. The concealment of the windows causes the light to enter in a very effective manner.

At the back of the Alte Residenz, in the Marstall-Platz, are the Royal Coach Houses and Harness Rooms (Hofwagenburg; adm., see p. 142), containing an extensive collection of vehicles belonging to the rulers of Bavaria in the 17-19th centuries. Among the most noteworthy objects are the *State Coaches and Sleighs of Elector Max Emmanuel (1679), the Carriage of Elector Charles Albert (1726), and the *State Sledges and Carriages of King Lewis II.

Adjoining the Festsaalbau on the N. is the Hofgarten (Pl. E, F, 3, 4), or palace-garden, laid out in 1614. Originally a pleasant park, with fountains and a pond, it is now simply a square planted with trees, and bounded on two sides by open Arcades, which are adorned with faded frescoes of landscapes and historical subjects, painted in 1827-34.

By the entrances next to the Palace are three frescoes by Kaulbach, representing Bavaria and the rivers Danube, Rhine, Isar, and Main. The historical frescoes on the W. side, of events from the history of Bavaria, were executed by pupils of Cornelius (most of them restored); beyond them are masterly landscapes from Italy and Sicily by Karl Rottmann (d. 1850). Each scene has its name annexed. The distichs above the pictures are by King Lewis I. On the N. side, at the top, are thirty-nine small encaustic paintings from the Greek War of Independence, from sketches by P. Hess (p. 177). — In the seven niches at the N.E. end are the labours of Hercules in colossal wooden groups, executed by R. Boos (1730-1810) and restored in 1852. — In the middle of the Hofgarten is a fountaintemple with a good bronze figure of Bavaria (16th cent.).

The groundfloor of the N. wing contains the Museum of Plaster Casts of classic sculptures (adm., see p. 143), affording a good survey of the development of the plastic art from the 6th cent. before Christ down to the present day. Director, Prof. Furtwängler. Catalogue 30 pf. — The extensive Ethnographical Museum occupies seven rooms on the upper floor (adm., see p. 143; Conservator, Dr. Buchner; Catalogue 50 pf.). — Opposite, to the right of the exit, is the Art Union, or Kunstverein (Pl. F. 3; entrance in the Arcades; adm., see p. 142), containing paintings and sculptures by living artists, some of them the property of the society, others for sale. — The Barracks on the E. side of the Hofgarten are to be torn down.

From the just-mentioned exit a few steps bring us to the PRINZ-REGENTEN-STRASSE (Pl. F, G, H, 3, 4), which is now undergoing a thorough reconstruction. It begins opposite the Palace of Prince Charles (now the Austrian Embassy), skirts the left (S.) side of the English Garden (p. 193), passes (right) the Exhibition Building of the 'Secession' (p. 142), and leads straight to the Isar, which it crosses by the Luitpold-Brücke. On the farther bank, below the Luitpold Terrace (p.157), to which two roads ascend, are pleasuregrounds and a large fountain.

Most of the buildings in the handsome Ludwig-Strasse (Pl. F, E, 4-1; tramway-line 2, p. 140), originated by King Lewis I., 40 yds. in width, and 3/4 M. in length, are in various Renaissance forms, constructed of brick and stone skilfully combined.

The Feldherrnhalle (Pl. E, 4), or Hall of the Generals, at the S. end, a copy of Orcagna's Loggia dei Lanzi at Florence, erected in 1844 by Gärtner, contains the Bavarian Military Monument, by F. von Miller (unveiled in 1892), and statues of the Bavarian generals Tilly and Wrede, by Schwanthaler.

The Church of the Theatines (Pl. E. 4), erected by Barelli in 1662-75 in the debased Italian style, overladen with decoration, contains the Royal Vaults. Façade of 1767. Pictures in the interior (restored in 1856) by Tintoretto, Zanchi, Karl Loth, Cignani, and others. To the right is the mortuary chapel of King Maximilian II. (d. 1864) and Queen Marie (d. 1889). In the sacristy, on the left, an Entombment by H. Hess.

In the Odeons-Platz rises the equestrian Statue of Lewis I.

(d. 1868), by Widnmann, erected in 1862. — To the left is the Odeon (Pl. E, 3), erected in 1828 by Klenze, and destined for concerts and balls; one of the apartments is fitted up as an English Chapel (see p. 144). The ceiling of the concert-room is decorated with frescoes by W. von Kaulbach and others, the orchestra with busts of celebrated composers (partly concealed by the organ). — On the N. side of the square, on the left, stands the Palace of Prince Regent Luitpold, formerly that of the Duke of Leuchtenberg (Pl. E, 3), erected by Klenze (unoccupied). Opposite (Fürsten-Str. 1) is the Palace of Prince Ludwig Ferdinand.

At the entrance to the library are statues of Albert V., the founder, and Lewis I., the builder of the library, both by Schwanthaler. The library (Director, Dr. Laubmann), one of the most extensive in Europe, comprises upwards of 1,300,000 vols. and 30,000 MSS., and is especially valuable for its theological and biblical literature and German MSS. The most interesting rarities ('Cimelien', from the Greek κειμήλιον, a treasure) are exhibited in the Fürsten-Saal.

Over the Corinthian columns at the sides are figures of Victory; on the walls reliefs, representing warlike exploits (below) and the different provinces of the kingdom (above). The open arcade contains six paintings of horse-tamers on a red ground in the Pompeian style, by Hiltensperger. The original façade towards the Residenz-Str. is in the Italian palatial style (1740). — To the right a short street leads to the Alte Hof, the oldest palace of the Dukes of Bavaria, erected in 1253-56, and now occupied by public offices. The building was erected in 1858-66 by Riedel. On the central portion, 95 ft. in height, is enthroned a 'Bavaria' with the lion, in zinc. The façade is richly adorned with caryatides, statues, reliefs, and other enrichments. Director, Prof. Dr. W. N. von Riehl.

The Bavarian National Museum contains works of art of every kind, dating from the prehistoric Roman periods down to the present day, and representing every civilised country, but with special reference to Bavaria. The plans hung up at the entrance afford a general outline of the arrangement. The collections are divided into two principal sections: 1. General Collection ('Allgemeine Sammlung') of the products of human industry, from hoar antiquity to the present day; 2. Special Collections ('Fachsammlungen') illustrating special branches of art or industry, and too extensive to be embraced in the General Collection. The General Collection begins in the arcades and in the two prehistoric rooms on the E. side of the ground-floor, is continued throughout the whole of the rooms on the W. side, and ends with the modern rooms (16-19th cent.) on the second floor. The Special Collections begin in the third room on the E. side of the groundfloor and are continued in the thirty rooms on the first floor. These last are embellished with large Mural Paintings of the history of Bavaria. At the back of the building is a GARDEN, which contains monuments and gravestones extending from the Roman period to the 18th cent. (including *Group of Mars and Venus in bronze, by Hubert Gerhard (za. 1590), and the so-called 'Miltenberg Column'. — The Museum further includes an extensive Library of Technical Works and a copying-room, the use of which is granted to artists and students on application. At the end of the Platz rises the *Monument of King Maximilian II. (d. 1864), erected by his 'faithful people' in 1875. The colossal figure of the king in his coronation robes, 161/2 ft. high, stands upon a lofty granite pedestal. In his right hand he holds the roll of the constitution; his left rests on a sword. At the base of the pedestal sit allegorical figures of Peace, Enlightenment, Strength, and Justice: at the upper angles are four figures of children bearing the Bavarian coat-of-arms and laurel-wreaths. All the figures are in bronze, cast by Miller from models by Zumbusch.

The Thiersch-Str. and the Pfarr-Str. lead hence to the N. to the St. Anna-Platz, with the St. Annakirche (Pl. G, 4), a Romanesque edifice built in 1892-94 from the designs of Gabriel Seidl.

Just beyond the monument the Maximilians-Str. reaches the Isar. The handsome Steinsdorfer-Strasse (Pl. G, 5,6), a wide, new quay, ascends hence to the S.W., along the left bank, to the new Protestant Lukaskirche, in the transition style, and on to the Ludwigs-Brücke (p. 192). Opposite, in the river, are two islands united by the 'Muffatwehr'; the lower or Prater-Insel is prettily laid out and contains the Isarlust Restaurant (p. 138).

The Maximilian-Str. crosses the river and the Prater-Insel by the Maximilians-Brücke, 540ft. long, which was constructed by Zenetti in 1859-64 and has recently been embellished with a monument to Burgomaster von Ehrhardt (d. 1888). In the grounds below the bridge is a monument to M. von Schwind, the painter, with figures of Legend and Fantasy by Hähnel. On the right bank the street ascends the Gasteighöhe in two branches. On the slope, forming a suitable termination to the grand street, rises the - Maximilianeum (Pl. H, 5), founded by King Max II. for the higher instruction of students who have shown special aptitude for the civil service. The architect was Bürklein. Admission, see p. 143.

A broad circular approach ascends to the façade, which rises in two series of arches on a lofty terrace. The slightly curved central part of the structure is adjoined by open arcades on each side, flanked with corner-towers. Beautiful view of the river, the city, and the mountains. At the top of the handsome staircase are the sketches in oil for the paintings by K. von Piloty on the façade (now destroyed): in the middle, Emp. Lewis the Bavarian founding the monastery of Ettal (1830); to the right, Wolfram of Eschenbach at the 'Sängerkrieg' in the Wartburg; to the left. Duke Lewis the Rich founding the University of Insolstate. the left, Duke Lewis the Rich founding the University of Ingolstadt. -Three rooms on the upper floor contain thirty large oil-paintings, illustrative of momentous events in the world's history; adjoining these on the right and left are two saloons adorned with frescoes.

The 'loggie' and side-rooms contain busts and portraits of great men.

On both sides of the Maximilianeum lie the *Gasteig Promenades, laid out under King Max II. from the designs of Effner, and commanding beautiful views. They extend up the Isar ('Am Gasteig') to the Ludwigs-Brücke (p. 192), and down ('Maximilians-Anlagen') to Brunnthal and Bogenhausen (p. 193). In the Maximilians-Anlagen, opposite the Prinz-Regenten-Str. (p. 149), is the Luitpold Terrace (Pl. H, 4), constructed in 1894 and affording a fine view of the city. - To the E. of the Maximilianeum is the suburb of Haidhausen, with the Gothic Church of St. John (Pl. H. 6), erected in 1852-74; central tower, 286 ft. high. The interior, without aisles, has groined vaulting, marble altars, and stained-glass windows in the choir.

The handsome Brienner-Strasse, 3/4 M. long, leads to the W. from the Odeons-Platz to the Propylæa and the Glyptothek. The Wittelsbacher-Platz, on the right, is adorned with the equestrian *Statue of Elector Maximilian I. (Pl. E. 3; d. 1651), founder and chief of the Roman Catholic League, and victor at the Weisse Berg near Prague, designed by Thorwaldsen in 1839, and cast by Stiglmayer with the metal of captured Turkish cannon. - Count Arco-Zinneberg's Palace, Wittelsbacher-Platz 1, contains a rare and interesting *Collection of Antlers (adm., see p. 142).

At the E. end of the Maximilians-Platz (p. 164) is a Statue of Schiller by Widnmann (1863). To the right, farther on, is the red Wittelsbach Palace (Pl. E, 3), in the mediæval English pointed style, built in 1843-50 from plans by Gärtner, the residence of Lewis I. in 1848-68, now that of Prince Ludwig, the present heir to the throne, and Prince Arnulf. Part of it is shown on application to the castellan (to the right in the court). Fine court and staircase. In the Gabelsberger-Str., a little to the N.E., is the Protestant Church of St. Mark (Pl. E, 3), erected by Gottgetreu in the Gothic style in 1873-77.

In the Carolinen-Platz (Pl. D, 3) rises an Obelisk, 105 ft. in height, cast almost entirely of the metal of captured guns, 31 tons in weight, and erected by Lewis I. in 1833 to the memory of 30,000 Bavarians who had perished in the Russian war.

At No. 3, Carolinen-Platz, in the garden-building, to the right, is the Lotzbeck Collection of Sculptures and Paintings, transferred in 1890 from the Château of Weyhern to Munich (adm., see p. 143; catalogue 30 pf.).

Old Pinakothek ('Repository of Pictures', from the Greek; Pl. D, 2; adm., see p. 143; reached by tramway-lines 1 & 3, p. 140), erected in 1826-36 by Klenze in the Renaissance style. The building is 500 ft. long, 90 ft. wide, and 90 ft. high. On the S. side, on the attic story above, are twenty-four statues of celebrated painters from sketches by Schwanthaler. It contains upwards of 1400 pictures, arranged in periods and schools, in twelve saloons and twenty-three cabinets. Each picture is labelled. Catalogue 1½ M, or with 120 photographs 15 M (comp. Hirth and Muther's 'Cicerone', with 188 illustrations, and the section in Morelli's 'Italian Painters', devoted to the galleries of Munich and Dresden). The cabinets should be visited immediately after the rooms to which they belong, in order to preserve the historical sequence. Director, Prof. Dr. von Reber.

ORIGIN OF THE COLLECTION. This fine picture gallery has been formed by the union of three different collections. As early as the 16th and 17th centuries the Bavarian princes were noted for their love of art. Elector Maximilian I. in particular was an enthusiastic admirer of Dürer, and secured at Nuremberg several of that master's finest works. In 1805 this collection was enriched by the removal to Munich of the celebrated Düsseldorf Gallery, founded by the Electors of the Palatinate. This was done to save the collection from being carried off to Paris, and it was afterwards regarded as part of the inheritance of the Palatinate which fell to Bavaria. The numerous examples of Netherlandish masters of the 17th cent., including the fine Rubens collection, formed part of the Düsseldorf Gallery. The third constituent part of the Pinakothek is the Boisserée Collection, being works of the Lower Rhenish School rescued by the brothers Sulpice and Melchior Boisserée and their friend Bertram from churches and monasteries suppressed at Cologne in 1805-1810. The addition of this valuable collection to the Pinakothek in 1827 placed it in the foremost rank as a gallery for the study of northern art. Under King Lewis I. the gallery was further extended by the addition of the Wallerstein collection in 1828, and of several valuable works purchased at different times in Italy.

The pre-Raphaelite Italian schools are scantily represented in the Munich Gallery; probably the most important examples are the Madonna by Francesco Francia (Room VIII, No. 1039) and Perugino's Vision of St. Bernard (R. VIII, No. 1034). The finest of the works by Raphael is undoubtedly the Madonna of the Tempi family (Cab. XIX, 1050), painted in his Florentine period; the contemporary Madonna of the Canigiani family (R. VIII, 1049) has suffered greatly from cleaning, the angels at the top having entirely vanished. There exist several replicas of the Madonna della Tenda (Cab. XIX, 1051; Roman period) at Turin and elsewhere, but the Munich example is considered the best. The portrait of Bindo Altoviti (R. VIII, 1052), freely retouched, was formerly regarded as a portrait of Raphael himself. Not one of the five works ascribed to Correggio is indisputably authenticated. The best example of the Venetian school is the Christ crowned with thorns, by Titian (R. IX, 1114). Murillo's Beggar Boys (R. XI), perhaps the most popular work in the gallery, is sure of attention. Early Flemish painting is seen to the greatest advantage in Rogier van der Weyden's Triptych (R. II, 101-103) and St. Luke (R. II, 100), Memling's Seven Joys of Mary (Cab. III, 116), the winged altar-pieces and the triptych by Dierick Bouts (Cab. III, 107-111), and the Adoration of the Magi ascribed to Gerard David (R. II, 118). The Cologne works of the 15th and 16th centuries will chiefly attract the professional eye, while several works of the Swabian and Franconian schools are of general interest and high artistic importance. Prominent among these German masters stands Holbein the Elder, to whom the altar-piece with St. Sebastian (R. III, 209-211) is now rightly ascribed. Dürer's Four Apostles, or the 'Four Temperaments' (R. III, 247, 248), deserve the closest study, especially the magnificent St. Paul in the famous white robe, unrivalled in its plastic modelling. The Battle of Arbela (Cab. IV, 290) by Albrecht Altdorfer (ca. 1480-1538), remarkable for its almost fantastic excess of realism, the Finding of the Cross (R. III, 267) by the rare master Barthel Beham (d. 1540), and the Portrait (Cab. V, 286) by Hans Baldung Grien are also worthy of notice. Of the altarpiece formerly attributed to Grünewald (R. III, 281 et seq.) No. 281 alone is by this artist, while the wings are in the style of Cranach.

Next to Antwerp and Vienna, Munich best shows the versatility of Rubens. Among the eighty-nine pictures formerly catalogued here under his name are many school-pieces and mediocre works, but they also include several of his finest creations. The vast range of his genius may be estimated by glancing from the stupendous Last Judgment to the Lion Hunt, from the Battle of the Amazons to the Children with garlands of fruit, from the sketches for the Medici pictures in the Louvre to the Bacchanalian scenes. Rubens's best pupil, Van Dyck, is also well represented by several portraits (R. VII, 844, 845). The Descent from the Cross (Cab. VIII, 326) is the finest of the numerous examples of Rembrandt. The canvases of Adrian Brouwer (Cab. XVI, 879, 883, 885, 893), notable partly for their rarity, the genre-pieces of Terburg and Metsu, and the humorous subjects of Jan Steen also describe attention. The works of the Italian painters of the 17th cent. generally meet with scant notice, but the Ascensions of Guido Reni and Cignani, at least, do not merit this fate. The Mourning over the body of Christ, by N. Poussin (R. XII, 1321), is a work of great beauty.

We feel at once, in looking at this picture, the absence of linear perspective and atmosphere; yet the episodes are so complete in themselves, and so cleverly arranged and executed, that they produce a deep impression; and the colours are so bright, so clear, and so admirably contrasted, that we necessarily yield to a grateful sense of rest. — C. & C.

Holbein the Elder, Triptych: centre, Martyrdom of St. Sebastian; at the sides, SS. Barbara and Elizabeth.

This work may be styled the artist's master-piece, and far transcends any of his previous efforts. Without excessive or violent motion, the picture is full of dramatic power. The head of the saint is well individualised and expressive of a high degree of patient suffering, while the nude body shows careful observation of nature. See 'Holbein und seine Zeit', by Professor Alfred Woltmann.

175, 176. Zeithlom, SS. Margaret and Ursula; 225. H. Burgkmair, Esther before Ahasuerus; Holbein the Elder, 201. Purification in the Temple, 204. Nativity, 202. Annunciation, 203. Peter and John, 248. SS. Paul and Mark (completed in 1526).

The four Apostles are at the same time prototypes of the four 'Complexions', St. John representing the melancholic, St. Peter the phlegmatic, St. Paul the choleric, and St. Mark the sanguine temperament. The panel with SS. Paul and Mark is the finer of the two. St. Paul is one of the most majestic figures ever conceived by the master, and appears as if just on the point of battling for his faith with word or blow. A great deal more labour in the details has been bestowed upon St. Paul than upon the other figures, and it is also the best-preserved. The white mantle is a marvel of plastic painting, and is admirably shaded. — 'Dürer', by Prof. Moriz Thausing.

This remarkable series of scenes from the history of Christ (Nos. 326-331) was executed in 1633-39 for Prince Frederick Henry, Stadtholder of the Netherlands. The finest of the series is the Entombment, which is painted with a broad and vigorous touch, and is of ample, dry, and granulated impasto. The colouring in general is sombre, and in the background and the figures in the foreground there are shades of brown which recall the Spanish colourists. A powerful effect is produced by the group on which the high light falls, where the colours have been laid on with great freedom.— 'Rembrandt; sa Vie et ses Œuvres', by C. Vosmaer.

stopher. - 838. The Last Judgment (the small picture).

'Very happily and with a proper feeling of his own powers, Rubens has here given only a corner in the background to the Blessed, whose heavenly calm and ethereal existence he was incapable of expressing; and he has devoted the whole of the remaining space to the fall of the Damned, his true sphere... The whole produces an admirable effect by the broad manner in which the light is managed. The colouring is powerful, but not extravagant; the treatment particularly easy and clever'. — 'Life of Rubens', by Prof. Waagen.

758. Pieta. — S. wall: 743. Satyrs; *745. The chaste Susanna; 733. Conversion of Paul; *761. Landscape, with rainbow; 760. Browsing cattle; 732. Destruction of Sennacherib's army. — W. wall: *793. Portrait of a girl. — 742. Battle of the Amazons.

'The admirable effect of the whole is increased by a decided and masterly arrangement of the light; the colouring is forcible without being overcharged, and the execution of the principal parts must be called careful for Rubens. In the whole range of modern art there exists no other historical battle-piece worthy of being compared with Raphael's Battle of Constantine; and in fact it has the advantage over the latter in the well-planned concentration of interest, and in the contrast afforded by the male and female figures, which is admirably employed.'— Waagen.

The Bronze Foundry (Pl. B, 1; adm., see p. 142; tramway-line 3, p. 140), in the Erzgiesserei-Str., enjoys a high reputation. Founded in 1825 by Stiglmayer (d. 1844), it was afterwards managed by his nephew Ferd. von Miller, and now belongs to the sons of the latter. The Museum contains the original models of most of the statues cast here, including the head of the Germania on the Niederwald Monument. — A few paces to the N.W., in the Ferdinand-Miller-Platz (Pl. B, 1), is the new Church of St. Benno. in the Romanesque style.

Farther to the N.W., on the road to Dachau, $\frac{1}{2}$ M. beyond the terminus of tramway-line 3 in the Stiglmayer-Platz, is the Zeughaus or Royal Arsenal, with the Military Museum (arms, banners, uniforms, etc.; 15-19th cent.; adm., see p. 142; catalogue 80 pf.).

In front of the building are 22 cannons and 4 mortars, several of them with elaborate ornamentation. In the court are French field-pieces, naval guns, and mitrailleuses. — Room I. Head-pieces, helmets, and other objects from the time of Charles Theodore to the present day. The glasscases contain early implements for artillery and models. Models of muskets, presentation swords, uniforms of Bavarian rulers and generals. — Room V. Collection of the modern weapons of different countries, either in use or projected; collection of munitions of war, bullets, cartridges, and cannon-balls. Portfolios and albums with over 3000 portraits of distinguished military men, pictures of uniforms, etc. — On the staircase and throughout the different rooms are the original plaster models of statues of Bavarian rulers, executed in the reign of King Maximilian II.

Beyond the Arsenal lie the Military Hospital, the Maximilian Barracks, and the Artillery Work-Shops. — Other large military structures have recently been erected in the Marsfeld (Pl. A, 2, 3), to the W. of the Stiglmayer-Platz (see above). Among these are the buildings of the Corps of Cadets (façade 735 ft. long), in the Mars-Platz; the Military School, in the Blutenburger-Str.; and the Military Academy, in the Pappenheimer-Str., the last with a collection of weapons and models on the first floor.

The *Basilica of St. Boniface (Pl. C, 3; adm., see p. 143), an admirable imitation of an early-Christian Italian basilica of the 5th or 6th cent., designed by Ziebland, was completed in 1850. Nave 75 ft., four aisles 41 ft. in height. The sixty-six columns are monoliths of grey Tyrolese marble with bases and capitals of white marble. Open timber roof, richly gilded.

On the right of the entrance is a sarcophagus of gray marble, the burial-place of Lewis I. (d. 1868) and his queen Theresa (d. 1854). The choir, the side-allars, the spaces between the windows, and the walls of the nave are decorated with fine frescoes by H. von Hess and his pupils Schraudolph and Koch: scenes from the life of St. Boniface and Bavarian saints, Madonna enthroned, Stoning of St. Stephen, etc. Above the columns in the nave, between the arches, are thirty-four medallion-portraits of the popes from Julius III. to Gregory XVI. — Adjoining the choir of the church is a Benedictine monastery, with a fresco of the "Holy Eucharist, by H. von Hess, in the refectory.

The Botanic Garden (Pl. C, 3, 4; adm., see p. 142), opposite the Basilica, contains a large fresh-water aquarium (Victoria Regia, etc.), a palm-house, botanical museum, etc. — In the Sophien-Str. is the Crystal Palace (Pl. C, 4; 256 yds. long; central part 75 ft. high), erected in 1854, used for exhibitions and festivities. (Annual Echibition of Art, see p. 142.) — A little to the S. are the Courts of Law and the Karls-Platz (p. 190). To the E., at the corner of the Arco-Str. and the Barer-Str., is the bronze *Monument of F. X. Gabelsberger (d. 1849), inventor of a well-known system of stenography. by Eberle (1890). From this point we proceed to the E, to the —

MAXIMILIANS-PLATZ (Pl. D, 4), the pleasure-grounds of which were laid out by K. von Effner. In the middle stands the *Liebig Monument, by Wagmüller and Rümann, erected in 1883. The seated marble figure of the great chemist (1805-73) rests upon a pedestal of grey granite with laurel-wreaths and marble reliefs. Adjacent are a marble bench with a Bust of Effner (1886) and the Herma of a Satyr by Gasteiger (1894).

At the S.W. end of the grounds rises the handsome *Wittelsbach Fountain by Hildebrandt (1895), with groups emblematical of the destructive and fertilizing powers of water and masks symbolizing its different 'temperaments'. - To the W., opposite the fountain, is the Bernheimer Haus, a fine baroque edifice by Thiersch (1890). To the S., at the corner of the Pfandhaus-Str., is the Herzog-Max-Burg, built about 1580, now occupied by the military authorities and the commission for extinguishing the national debt.

To the E. of the Liebig Monument (Pranner-Str. 20) is the Landtagsgebäude (Pl. E. 4), or house of the Diet, remodelled in 1885 in the German Renaissance style. - In the Pfandhaus-Str. (see above; No. 7) is the Kunstgewerbehaus (Pl. D, 4; adm., see p. 142), built in 1877 in the Renaissance style, with a facade by Knab and Voit and a fine exhibition-hall. The handsome banquet-hall, designed by B. Gedon, is adorned with paintings by F. A. Kaullach.

The Pfandhaus-Strasse ends at the Promenade-Platz (Pl. D. E. 4). in which are five bronze statues. In the middle is Elector Max Emmanuel (1679-1726), conqueror of Belgrade, by Brugger (1861). To the right are Westenrieder (1748-1829), the historian, by Widnmann (1854), and Gluck (1714-87), the composer, by Brugger; to the left are Kreittmayr (1705-90), the statesman, by Schwanthaler (1845), and Orlando di Lasso (1520-94), the composer (properly Roland de Lattres, of the Netherlands), by Widnmann. - The Hartmann-Strasse leads to the S. from the Promenade-Platz to the Frauenkirche (p. 190). The Maffei-Str. leads to the E. to the busy Theatiner-Str., whence we may follow either the Perusa-Str. to the N.E. to the Max-Joseph-Platz (p. 145), or the Wein-Str. to the S. to the Marien-Platz.

The Marien-Platz (Pl. E, 5), the centre of old Munich, is adorned with a Column of the Madonna, erected in 1638 by Elector Maximilian I. from a design by Peter Candid, to commemorate the victory on the Weisse Berg near Prague. Enthroned on the column is the Virgin, the tutelary saint of Bavaria; four genii at the corners contend against a viper, a basilisk, a lion, and a dragon (plague, war, famine, and heresy).

The Old Rathhaus (Pl. E, 5), on the E. side of the Platz, dates from the 14th cent. and was restored in 1865. The tower, under which runs the road to the Thal (p. 165), is adorned with stereochromatic paintings by Seitz. The gables in front bear zinc statues of Henry the Lion and Lewis the Bavarian. The great hall, recently restored, contains old standards and ensigns of the Munich guilds.—On the N. side of the Platz is the *New Rathhaus (Pl. 85), a Gothic edifice by Hauberrisser (1867-74). The façade towards the Marien-Platz is 156 ft., that towards the Diener-Strasse 230 ft. long. The central part of the former, in sandstone, 57 ft. wide, has a balcony in three sections on the second story, terminating in a lofty gable, and embellished with statues of the four Civic Virtues by A. Hess.

Below the portal, to the left, are two tablets, with handsome bronze trophies, in memory of citizens who fell in the war of 1870-71. On the second floor are the Council Chambers, on the left that of the town-council, on the right that of the magistrates (adm., see p. 143). In the former, filling the whole wall, is a large allegorical painting of 'Munichia' by K. von Piloty, illustrating the history of Munich (explanation of the portraits on the table); also portraits of Lewis II. by F. Piloty and Prince Regent Luitpold by Kaulbach. The "Magistrates' Room is adorned with a mural painting by W. Lindenschmit (progress of Munich under Lewis I.) and admirable stained-glass windows by R. Seitz (nine departments of civic administration). Portraits of Prince Regent Luitpold by Holmberg and Lewis II. by Lenbach. Bust of Burgomaster von Ehrhardt (d. 1888), by F. von Miller. Splendid carved timber ceiling; fine mantel-piece and chandelier.

To the left of the portal is the Hauptwache or guard-house. In the sunk-floor (entrance in the Diener-Str.) is the Rathskeller (p. 138).

In front of the Rathhaus rises the *Fischbrunnen, in bronze, by Knoll (1865). The figures allude to an old Munich custom called the 'Metzgersprung' (p. 142).

A few yards to the S.E. of the Marien-Platz is the Church of St. Peter (Pl. E, 5), of 1170, the oldest in Munich, but repeatedly restored and modernized. To the original building belongs the Romanesque tower (p. 126; fine view from the gallery). Altarpieces by Sandrart, Loth, etc.; fine organ by Abt Vogler.

The Thal leads from the Marien-Platz to the S.E. to the Ludwigs-Brücke and the suburbs of Haidhausen and Au (pp. 157, 192), while the Kaufinger-Str. and Neuhauser-Str. lead to the N.W. to the Karlsthor and the Central Railway Station (tramway-line 5, p. 140). To the right is the Frauen-Platz, with the —

*Frauenkirche (Pl. E, 5), or Church of Our Lady, cathedral of the Archbishopric of Munich and Freising, a brick edifice (320 ft. long, 117 ft. broad; vaulting 108 ft. high) in the late-Gothic style, erected by Jörg Gangkofer in 1468-88 and restored in 1858-68. The two uncompleted towers, 318 ft. high, were covered at the beginning of the 16th cent. with clumsy helmet-shaped roofs (ascent, see p. 142). On the outside walls of the church are many ancient tombstones.

INTERIOR (adm., see p. 143; music, see p. 143). The nave and aisles are of equal height, borne by twenty-two slender octagonal pillars; rich groined vaulting. The windows, each 65 ft. high, are filled with fine stained glass, including the remains (sometimes wrongly arranged) of the old glazing of the 15-16th centuries. The high-altar-piece shows the Coronation of Mary, in carved wood, by Knabl, and paintings on the wings by Schwind. The archiepiscopal throne and pulpit, a modern continuation of the ancient choir-stalls, are by Knabl. Most of the modern side-altars are by Schwinger, the statues by L. Foltz. Above the choir-stalls are carved wooden figures of the 15th cent. (Apostles and Prophets). — The large Turkish flag on a pillar of the nave (1.) was captured by Elector Max Emmanuel at Belgrade in 1688. — At the W. end of the nave, under the organ-loft, is the "Monument of Emp. Lewis the Bavarian (d. 1347), erected in 1622 by Elector Maximilian I. (designed by P. Candid, cast by H. Krumper), a catafalque in dark marble, with figures and decorations in bronze; four knights at the corners guard the tomb; at the side are statues of the Wittelsbach princes Albert V. and William V.; an admirable brass of the 15th cent. is inserted in the pedestal, which is open at the sides. Behind this monument, opposite a relief-monument of Bishop Gebsattel (d. 1846) by Schwanthaler, is a spot from which none of the thirty windows of the church are visible except the great window behind the altar.

At the corner of the Neuhauser-Str. and the Ett-Str. rises the Church of St. Michael (Hofkirche; Pl. D, 5; adm., see p. 143), formerly a church of the Jesuits, erected in 1583-97 in the Roman baroque style, with grand barrel-vaulting. The front is adorned with a St. Michael in bronze, by Hub. Gerhard. The transept contains the *Monument of Eugène Beauharnais (d. 1824), Duke of Leuchtenberg, and once vice-king of Italy, by Thorwaldsen. In the royal burial-vault under the choir reposes Lewis II. (d. 1886). Church-music, see p. 141.

The old Jesuits College, adjoining St. Michael's, contains the Academy of Science (Pl. D, 5), with its valuable collections (adm., see p. 142).

The *Palaeontological Collection, under the direction of Prof. Dr. Zittel, is probably the most complete in Europe (nine rooms); the specimens from the animal kingdom are arranged zoologically, those of plants geologically. The Prehistoric Collection contains many objects of the stone period and interesting relics of lake-dwellings from the Starnberger-See and Robenbausen. The *Collection of Minerals also deserves inspection. The Zoological-Zootomical Collection includes animals both stuffed and preserved in spirits. The Collection of Physical and Optical Instruments is interesting, especially to the scientific visitor. Of ancient Greek coins alone the Cabinet of Coins contains 20,000.

The Academy also contains an Exhibition of Bavarian Exports (free).

The narrow Herzog-Max-Strasse, at the end of the Neuhauser-Strasse, leads to the right to the Synagogue (Pl. D, 4; adm., see p. 143), built in the Romanesque style by Alb. Schmidt, in 1884-87. — The Neuhauser-Str. ends in the Karlsthor (Pl. D, 5). Outside the gate is the Karls-Platz, on the right side of which is the Hôtel Bellevue (p. 137), embellished with frescoes by C. Schraudolph. Adjacent, to the N., at the corner of the Prielmaier-Str. and the Elisen-Str., are the new Courts of Justice (Pl. C, D, 4), by Thiersch. Nearly opposite, at the corner of the Maximilians-Platz, is a Statue of Goethe, by Widnmann (1869). — Botanic Garden, see p. 187.

From the Karls-Platz the broad Sonnen-Strasse, planted with trees, runs to the S. to the Sendlinger-Thor-Platz. At the beginning of it is the Protestant Church of St. Matthew (Pl. C, 5), an unattractive circular building (1827-32), open only on Sundays during service (at 8, 10, and 3). The ceiling is adorned with an Ascension by Hermann of Dresden. — To the E., Herzogspital-Str. 18, is the University Ophthalmic Institute.

The Schwanthaler Museum (Pl.C,5; adm., see p. 143), Schwanthaler-Str. 90, contains models of almost all the works of the talented and prolific sculptor Ludwig von Schwanthaler (d. 1848), bequeathed by him to the Academy of Art. Catalogue 30 pf.

In the Sonnen-Strasse are the new Volks-Theater (Pl. C, D, 5; p. 141; No. 5, to the left), the Reisingerianum (University Clinical Institute; No. 17, to the right), and the Frauenklinik or Gynaecological Institute (Pl. C, 6; No. 16).

In the Sendlinger-Thor-Platz (Pl. C, 6) are the old Sendlinger Thor (14th cent.) and a colossal bust of Alois Senefelder (d. 1834), the inventor of lithography, by Zumbusch (1877). — The busy Sendlinger-Strasse leads hence to the N., passing the St. Johanniskirche (Pl. D, 6; 1733-46), to the Marien-Platz (p. 188), while the Thalkirchner-Strasse (electric tramway, p. 140) runs to the S. to the Southern Cemetery (p. 192) and to the large municipal Slaughter House and Cattle Market (Pl. B, C, 8; adm., p. 143), erected by Zenetti in 1876-78. Beyond these are the South Railway Station (Pl. B, 9) and the Isar Railway Station (Pl. B, 10, 11; p. 194).

To the S.W. of the Sendlinger-Thor-Platz are the large General Hospital (1813) and the Institute of Clinical Medicine. In the grounds in front is a marble bust of T. N. von Nussbaum, the surgeon (1829-90). — Adjacent, in the Nussbaum-Str., are the new Clinical Institute of Surgery (Pl. C, 6) and the Pathological and Pharmacological Institutes. — To the N. (Schiller-Str. 25) is the Anatomical Institute, with important anatomical and pathological collections (adm., see p. 142). In the Findling-Str. (Nos. 12 & 34) are the Physiological and Hygienic Institutes.

The Findling-Str. ends at the THERESIENWIESE (Pl. A, 6, 7), the scene of the October Festival (p.142), which has recently been much diminished by the construction of new streets. On the N.E. side are the new Church of St. Paul (Pl. A, B, 5) and a Panorama (Pl. A, 5; p. 143).

The *Bavaria and Hall of Fame (Ruhmeshalle; Pl. A, 7) lie on the W. side of the Theresienwiese, 11/4 M. to the S.W. of the Karlsthor (tramway-line 2, p. 140; adm., see p. 142). The colossal statue of Bavaria, in bronze, designed by Schwanthaler, measures 62 ft. to the top of the wreath which the figure holds aloft. The ascent, by an iron spiral staircase of sixty steps, is most comfortably made early in the morning, before the metal has been heated by the sun. *View in clear weather through apertures in the head (room for 5 persons). — The Hall of Fame, a Doric colonnade with projecting wings, designed by Klenze, and completed in 1853, contains busts of eighty Bavarian notabilities, among them Francis von Sickingen, Jean Paul Richter, Schwanthaler, the philosopher Schelling, Klenze, Cornelius, etc. (custodian's fee for the statue and the hall, 40 pf.). Adjoining the Ruhmeshalle is a public Park.

Towards the E. from one marien-Platz (p. 188) we pass through an archway under the tower of the Old Rathhaus (p. 189), and enter the broad street called the Thal. On the right, at the beginning of it, rises the Church of the Holy Ghost, rebuilt in 1885-87, beyond which lies the Provision Market (Pl. E, 5, 6). Beyond the latter is the spacious Corn Hall (Schranne; Pl. D, E, 6), built in 1853. In the St-Jakobs-Platz (Pl. D, E, 6), between the Corn Hall and the Sendlinger-Str., is the Landwehr Arsenal, containing the Municipal Historical Museum and the Maillinger Art-Historical Collection, illustrative of the history of Munich (adm., see p. 143).

At the E. end of the Thal is the *Isarthor (Pl. F, 6), erected at the beginning of the 14th cent. and restored by Lewis I. in 1835. The pediment is adorned with a fresco by Neher, representing the Entry of Emp. Lewis the Bavarian after the Battle of Ampfing (1831; spoiled in 1881 by an attempt at restoration). In the Zweibrücken-Str., beyond the gate, on the right, are the Heavy Cavalry Barracks, on the bank of the Isar. Opposite is the new Steinsdorf-Strasse (see p. 156). The Ludwigs-Brücke (Pl. G, 6, 7), farther on, affords a good survey of the Maximilians-Brücke and the Maximilianeum. The bridge was remodelled in 1891-94 and furnished with allegorical figures of industry and trade (by Eberle), fishing (by Hahn), and art (by Kaufmann).

In the suburb of Au (Pl. F, G, 7, 8) are numerous beer-gardens (comp. p. 138). The *Mariahilfkirche (Pl. F, 8), or Auer-Kirche, was erected in 1830-39 by Ohlmüller and Ziebland in the earliest Gothic style. Tower 260 ft. high. *Stained glass designed by Schraudolph, Fischer, and others. — Farther to the S., in the suburb of Giesing, is the *Giesinger Kirche, a Gothic building erected by Dollmann in 1866-84, with a tower 315 ft. high and an elaborately decorated interior. A little to the E. is the new Eastern or Central Cemetery.

From the Auer Kirche we return into the town by the Reichenbach Bridge (Pl. E, 8; tramway-line 7, p. 140). In the Gärtner-Platz (Pl. E, 6, 7), with statues of Gärtner (d. 1847) and Klenze (d. 1864), the chief architects of modern Munich (see p. 145), is the Gärtner-Platz Theatre (p. 141). — With a visit to Giesing may be combined an excursion to the Isarauen (p. 193), or we may drive hence to the Southern Cemetery (p. 192; tramway-line 8, p. 140).

The *Southern Cemetery (Pl. C, D, 7, 8) of Munich, outside the Sendlinger-Thor (p. 191), contains the finest and most artistic tombstones in Germany.

Among the illustrious dead may be mentioned Fraunhofer, the astronomer (d. 1826; arcade, W. side), Senefelder, inventor of lithography (d. 1834; E. side, by the wall), Neumann, the historian (d. 1870; central walk), and P. von Hess, the painter (d. 1871; central walk).

On the S. side, from the arcades, we enter the New Cemetery (Pl. C, 8), inclosed with arcades in red brick. The first graves on the right and left are those of Ludwig von Schwanthaler (d. 1848) and Fr. von Gärtner (d. 1847), the two greatest contributors to the splendour of modern Munich. Many other eminent men are also interred here. The centre *Crucifix is by Halbig.

The Northern Cemetery, in the Arcis-Strasse (p. 180; Pl. D. 1), not far from the New Pinakothek, laid out by Zenetti in 1866-69, contains a monument erected by the city to the German soldiers who died of their wounds at Munich in 1870-71, and also a monument to French prisoners buried here during the same period. In the centre is another marble *Crucifix by Halbig.

Environs. The *English Garden (Pl. F. G. H. 1, 2, 3), a park of 600 acres, originally laid out by Count Rumford, with fine old trees, and watered by two arms of the Isar, affords delightful walks in summer. At the entrance between the Hofgarten and the Prinz-Regenten-Str. (p. 149) is a marble statue known as the 'Harmlos', from the first word of the inscription, by Xaver Schwanthaler (renewed in 1890). Farther on, by the Brunnhaus, is an artificial cascade. Then, on the right, the Dianabad. To the left, on a height, rises the Monopteros, a small temple designed by Klenze; then the Chinese Tower (café; music, see p. 125) and the little lake of Kleinhesselohe (restaurant), used for boating. The Milchhäusl and the Tivoli, farther on, are both cafés. At the N. end is the Aumeister, a forester's house with a restaurant.

To the E. of the park is the Max-Joseph-Brücke, leading across the Isar Canal and the Isar to Bogenhausen (Pl. I, 2; Inn), on the right bank of the Isar, near which is the Observatory (adm., see p. 143). From the Brunnthal, a health institute with a shady coffeegarden, to the right of the bridge, the charming Gasteig-Anlagen extend to the Ludwigs-Brücke (p. 192).

On the left bank of the Isar, above the Reichenbach bridge (Pl. E, 8; p. 192), begin the *Isarauen, through which a road leads, crossing the Uberfälle or weirs, to the right bank of the Isar (fine view of *Thalkirchen, see below). Then, to the right, we enter the Marienklause, ascend the steps, and follow the bank through fine wood to the (1½ hr.) Menterschwaige Nymphenburg, founded in 1663, and once a favourite château of Max Joseph I., 3 M. to the W. of Munich (cab, see p. 140; steam-tramway, see p. 140), has well-kept grounds, two fountains 100 ft. high, and fine hothouses (numerous Brazilian plants). In the central part of the château tickets are issued (9-11 and 1-5) for the Nymphenburg itself (uninteresting), and for the Pagodenburg, Amalienburg, and Badenburg (50 pf.; park free). In the nearer part of the park are the Magdalen Chapel, built to imitate a ruin, and the Pagodenburg, farther to the W., on a small pond. In the farther part of the park are the Amalienburg, a pretty Renaissance structure by Cuvillier (1737), the Badenburg (1718), on a large pond, and a circular Corinthian temple. — At the terminus of the tramway is the Volksgarten, with a restaurant, a small zoological garden, concerts, etc. Near the château, on the left, is the Restaurant zum Controlor. Restaurant; Kapuziner), a high-lying village with a fine view. — From (121/2 M.) Ebenhausen (Post) we may descend to (1/2 M.) the convent of Schäftlarn, with an interesting church (1733-64) and a frequented brewery. Tölz (p. 215).

Pasing, the first station on the Starnberg, Lindau, and Augsburg lines (see below and pp. 198, 134; 5 M., in about ½ hr.), is the starting-point for a visit to the churches of Pipping and Blutenburg, which possess considerable artistic interest. The church of Pipping, ½ M. to the N. of Pasing, was built in 1478-79. The interior has remained unchanged, and, with its old stained glass, altars, choir-stalls, and frescoes, affords a charming picture of a late-Gothic country-church of the 15th century. — A few hundred yards to the N. of this lies Blutenburg, now a school of English nuns. The church (fee 50 pf.), built in 1490, contains a high-altar and two side-altars of 1491, with paintings of the Munich school; fine wooden figures of the Apostles, the Virgin, and the Risen Christ, of the same period; and stained-glass windows of 1497.

Steamboat-tickets may be purchased at the railway-station in Munich as well as on board the steamers. A circular ticket entitles the holder to break the journey twice, but a fee of 60 pf. must be paid for each additional halt.

The train quits the Lindau line (p. 198) at (4½ M.) Pasing. 9 M. Planegg; 12 M. Gauting, with a sulphur-spring. Near (14½ M.) Mühlthal we have a glimpse of the pretty, wooded Würmthal to the left.

71/2 M. Starnberg (*Bayrischer Hof; *Bellevue; *Zum Deutschen Kaiser, all on the lake; *Zur Eisenbahn; *Pellet; Tutzinger Hof), a considerable place at the N. end of the lake, is generally crowded in summer. Swimming and other baths next the steamboat-quay. Rowing boat 80 pf. per hour.

The *Lake of Starnberg, or Würmsee (1920 ft.), 121/2 M. long and 2-3 M. in width, is enclosed by banks of moderate height, which are covered with villas and parks, especially at the N. end. The principal charm of the scenery is the view of the distant mountains in clear weather. The following are the conspicuous peaks, from E. to W.: Wendelstein, Brecherspitze, Kirchstein, Benediktenwand, Karwendel-Gebirge, Jochberg, Herzogstand, Heimgarten, Krottenkopf, Wetterstein range with the Zugspitze, and Ettaler Mandl.

STEAMBOAT JOURNEY. On the hill to the right, immediately beyond Starnberg, rises the château of Count Almeida. On the bank, farther on, are a number of other villas. Stat. Niederpöcking. Possenhofen (Inn) lies about 1/2 M. from the railway-station of that name (p. 196). Duke Carl Theodor of Bavaria has a château here. The garden, enclosed by a high wall, is not shown; but the park, about 2 M. in length, is open to the public. Pleasant walk through

Inn, 1/4 M. from the lake, with garden).

About 1/4 M. from the pier is Schloss Berg (adm. 50 pf.), a royal château with a large park, where King Lewis II. of Bavaria perished in the lake on June 13th, 1886. The château is plainly fitted up, and contains paintings and statuettes, for the most part of scenes and characters from Wagner's operas. — A road leads through the park to (1 M.) Leoni (see below), passing the spot where the bodies of King Lewis II. and Dr. von Gudden wages from Gindested by a stone column with a gence. were found (indicated by a stone column with a cross).

Farther on, opposite Possenhofen (boat in 1/4 hr., 1 M), lies the neat little village of Leoni (*Hôtel Leoni, pens. 5 M). On the hill

*Rottmannshöhe (2195 ft.; 20 min.). The path ascends opposite the landing-place, and at the top of the hill turns to the right to the Hotel, the roof of which commands a beautiful survey of the lake and Alps (fee 10 pf.). On a platform in front of the hotel-veranda stands a simple monument erected by the artists of Munich to Karl Rottmann (d. 1850), the famous landscape-painter.

On the W. bank a number of parks and gardens extend from Possenhofen to (21/4 M.) Garatshausen, with a château of Prince Thurn and Taxis. Next stat. Tutzing (*Hôtel am See, with a garden; *Simson's Bahnhôtel, at the rail, station, 1/2 M. from the lake, with *View from the terrace; Bierkeller, a restaurant with groups of fine trees. 1/4 M. to the S. of the station), with Hr. von Hallberger's château, the pleasant grounds of which are open from 12 to 3 p.m. Below the landing-stage are a bathing-place and swimming-baths. — The Johannesberg, 3/4 M. to the S. of the railway-station, commands a charming view (still finer from the *Ilkahöhe, near Oberzeismering, 1 hr.). The lake, which forms a bay here towards the W., called the Karpfenwinkel, has now attained its greatest width (3 M.).

Stat. Bernried (Altwirth; Neuwirth), with a château of Hr. von Wendland and a fine park, open to the public (good beer at the brewery). The banks become flatter, and the mountains more conspicuous. Stat. Seeshaupt (Post) lies at the S. end of the lake. The steamer now steers along the wooded E. bank, passing Ambach, Ammerland, with a château of Count Pocci, and Allmannshausen, to Leoni and Starnberg.

Passing Unter-Peissenberg (Post), the train stops at (381/2 M.) Peissenberg (1930 ft.), where the railway ends. About 1/4 M. from the station is Bad Sulz (2020 ft.; *Hotel, pens. 4 M), with mineral springs and shady walks.

The best Route to the Hone Peissenberg (mountain-railway projected), indicated by red and white marks, leads via Bad Sulz, the Sulzbach Waterfall, the Quellenhaus, and the Schöne Aussicht (to the top 11/4 hr.; donkeys at Bad Sulz). The descent (blue marks) may be made to the S.E., across the ridge (fine views) to the Weinbauer (Inn, good wine), and thence in windings to (1 hr.) the railway-station of Peissenberg.

The *Hohe Peissenberg (3190 ft.), the Rigi of Bavaria, affords a remarkably extensive panorama owing to its isolated position opposite the centre of the Bavarian Alps. On the summit are a pilgrimage-church, a school (with an observatory on the roof; adm.

The Ammersee (1750 ft.), 10 M. long and 33/4 M. broad, is inferior to the Starnberger See in landscape beauty. The banks are flat and wooded. It commands a view of the distant Alps to the S., while the Hohe Peissenberg rises in the foreground. A small steamboat plies on the lake (3-4 times a day between Diessen and Stegen in $1^{1/2}$ hr.; fares $1^{1/2}$ or $1 \mathcal{M}$).

From stat. Wilzhofen (see above) a diligence runs thrice daily in 2 hrs. vià Pähl, a pleasant village commanded by the Gothic *Hochschloss (fine view from the adjoining Sonnenhügel), and Fischen to (71/2 M.) Einodsbach (3745 ft.; Schraudolph's Inn), grandly situated at the mouth of the huge Bacher Tobel, near the foot of the Mädelegabel. — For details, mountain-ascents (Nebelhorn, Madelegabel, Hohe Licht, etc.) and the passes to Hinterstein, the Lech Valley, and the Bregenzer-Wald, see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

The train now turns to the W. into the valley of the Ach, reaches the village of $B\ddot{u}hl$, on the Alpsee (2355 ft.; 2 M. long), and runs through the pleasant Konstanzer-Thal, flanked with green hills, to (102 M.) Thalkirchdorf. It then ascends to (105 $^1/_2$ M.) Oberstaufen (2598 ft.; * $B\ddot{u}ttner$), the watershed between the Danube and the Rhine. At the end of a short tunnel, just before Oberstaufen is reached, and at several points beyond it, we obtain striking views of the deep Weissach-Thal, the wooded mountains of Bregenz, and the snow-clad peaks of Appenzell beyond. From Oberstaufen to the Lake of Constance the line descends 1280 ft.

Beyond (110 M.) Harbatzhofen the valley is crossed by the Rentershofener Damm, an embankment 577 yds. in length and 174 ft. in height. 114 M. Röthenbach (2319 ft.). Farther on we obtain another view of the Appenzell mountains. 123 M. Hergatz (1815 ft.; branch-line viâ Wangen to Kisslegg, p. 54); 128 M. Schlachters; 132 M. Oberreitnau. The line skirts the Hoierberg (p.201) and then turns to the S.E. Beautiful view of the Lake of Constance; on the left Bregenz, in the foreground Lindau, and beyond it the mountains of St. Gallen and Appenzell. An embankment 605 yds. long crosses an arm of the lake to the station of —

137 M. Lindau. — *Bayrischer Hof, on the lake, near the station, R., L., & A. 3-4, D. 3 M; *Krone, †Hôtel Reutemann, *Lindauer Hof, R. 1½-2½, D. 2½ M, Helvetia, R. 1¼-1½ M, all on the lake; Sonne, in the Reichsplatz; Pension Gärtchen auf der Mauer, on the mainland. — Beer at the Krone, and in the Seegarlen, next the Bayrischer Hof; Schützengarten, with view; adjacent, Rüpflin's wine-saloon; Rail. Restaurant. — Lake Baths on the N.W. side of the town (30 pf.). — English Church Service in summer. Lindau (1306 ft.; pop. 5400), formerly a free imperial town and fortress, and in the middle ages a busy trading place, lies on an island in the Lake of Constance, 240 yds. from the mainland, with which it is connected by the railway-embankment and a wooden bridge. It is now a favourite summer-resort and bathingplace. The Romans under Tiberius defeated the Celtic Vindelici in a naval battle on the lake, and founded on the island a fort, of which the ancient tower by the bridge (the so-called Heidenmauer) is a relic. On the quay is a Statue of King Max II. (d. 1864) in bronze, erected in 1856. At the end of the S. pier is a large lion in marble, and on the opposite pier a lighthouse. The harbour is adjoined to the S. by the Alte Schanz, which commands a *View of the Alps from the Scesaplana to the Sentis (mountain indicator). In the neighbouring Reichs-Platz is the Reichsbrunnen, erected in 1884 from a design by Thiersch and Rümann, with a bronze statue of 'Lindauia' and other allegorical figures. The handsome Rathhaus in the Renaissance style, erected in 1422-36, restored and adorned with frescoes in 1885-87, contains an interesting collection of antiquities (open 11-12, Sun. 2-5). Pleasant grounds by the Landthor, with a monument for 1870-71.

Excursions. Pleasant walk on the W. bank of the lake (crossing the railway-embankment, and turning to the left), to the (2 M.) charmingly situated Schachenbad (*Restaurant & Pension Freihof, 22-30 M per week), with mineral and lake-baths. Near it (1/4 M.) is the Lindenhof, or Villa Gruber, with a beautiful park, hot-houses, etc. (adm. Frid. free, on other days 1 M; closed on Sundays). Thence along the bank of the lake, by Tegelstein (to the right the finely situated Schloss Alwind) and Mitten, to (2 M.) Wasserburg (*Ilot.-Pens. Springer, with terrace), with a château and church, situated on a peninsula. Back by steamer. — Beautiful view from the (3/4 hr.) *Hoierberg (1496 ft.), reached either by the path parallel with the railway, or by the road from the Landthor through Aeschach (Schlätter) to the hamlet of Hoiren at the foot of the vine-clad hill. Two inns and a belvedere at the top. Return viâ Enzisweiler (*Schmid's Restaurant) and Schachen (Schlössle).

To Bregenz (the Gebhardsberg, Pfünder, etc.), see Baedeker's Eastern Alps. The Lake of Constance (1300 ft.) is about 40 M. in length, 71/2 M. in width, and at the deepest place (between Friedrichshafen and Utweil) 837 ft. in depth. Its principal feeder is the Rhine, the deposits of which have formed a broad delta at its influx between Bregenz and Rorschach. The river emerges from the lake at Constance. This vast sheet of water, with its picturesque and well-peopled banks, its green and wooded hills on the S. side, and the view it commands of the distant snow-mountains, presents a very striking scene to the traveller approaching the Alps for the first time.

The principal places on the lake are Friedrichshafen, Lindau, Bregenz, Rorschach, Romanshorn, Constance, Meersburg, Ueberlingen, and Ludwigshafen, between which steamboats ply at least once a day. On the more important routes, Lindau-Rorschach (1½hr.), Lindau-Romanshorn (1½hr.), Friedrichshafen-Rorschach (1½hr.), Friedrichshafen-Romanshorn (1 hr.), Friedrichshafen-Constance (1½hr.), there are 3-4 trips daily. The lake being neutral, passengers' luggage is liable to examination at the custom-house wherever they land; but those proceeding from one German port to another obtain exemption by procuring a ticket for their luggage on starting. The banks of the lake belong to five different states: Bavaria, Wurtemberg, Baden, Switzerland, and Austria. (See Baedeker's Switzerland, and comp. p. 57.)

From Pfronten-Halden (11/2 M. from Weissbach) we may ascend the Edelsberg (see above) in 3 hrs. From Pfronten-Meitlingen, 11/2 M. from Weissbach, a road, constructed by King Lewis II. along with an aqueduct 450 yds. long, ascends the *Falkenstein (4190 ft.), at the top of which, commanding a splendid view, is a ruined castle (restaurant). The descent may be made to (1 hr.) Schönbichl (see below). - A pleasant path leads on the right bank of the Ach from Pfronten-Dorf to the (1 hr.) Ulrichs-Brücke (p. 206).

23 M. Füssen. - The Railway Station (omn. of the Hohenschwangau Inns, see below; carr., p. 202) lies a short distance from the town, at the entrance to which we follow the main street, reaching the bridge over the Lech in 6-8 minutes. — Hotels. Post, Mohren, both in the main street, R. 1½ M; Neue Post; Krone; Löwe; Sonne, etc.

Füssen (2615 ft.), a small town (3000 inhab.) on the Lech, with a castle erected by the bishops of Augsburg in 1322, restored by King Max II., and the remains of its old walls, presents an attractive picture of a mediæval fortified town. Below the castle are the suppressed Benedictine abbey of St. Mang, founded in 629 (present building, 18th cent.), and the Church of St. Magnus, erected in 1701 on older foundations. The gate in the town-wall between the castle and the church commands a fine view. — About 1/2 M. to the W. is the small sulphur bath of Faulenbach.

On the right bank of the Lech, a few hundred paces above the bridge, a path (guide-post) with pilgrimage-stations ascends from the church to the Calvarienberg (3/4 hr.), surmounted by three crosses, and commanding a beautiful view: N. the valley of the Lech and Füssen, S.W. the Schwansee, Hohen-Schwangau, and Neu-Schwanstein. A footpath leads hence, skirting the Schwansee, direct to (1 hr.) Hohenschwangau.

The ROAD FROM FÜSSEN TO HOHENSCHWANGAU (3 M.) crosses the Lech, turns to the left, and ascends the right bank of the Lech, passing the Alterschroffen Inn. It then turns to the right, skirts the Schlossberg, and leads through the park to Hohenschwangau. -Pedestrians follow the road to Reutte (p. 206), to the right beyond the bridge, for 5 min., then ascend the path to the left on the slope of the Calvarienberg, which leads past the (7 min.) view-point known as the 'Kanzel', crosses a cart-track, and passes through wood to (25 min.) the saddle between the Calvarienberg and the Schwarzenberg. Here we reach the so-called Königliche Reitweg, which begins at the Schwarzbrücke (p. 206). We descend this path, with a view of Neu-Schwanstein and (farther on) of Hohenschwangau (to the right), and before reaching the Schwansee take the footpath to the right across the ridge, where the 'Alpenrosen-Weg' (see below) joins our route, to (1 hr.) the village of Hohenschwangau. - A longer route (2 hrs.) is offered by the Alpenrosen-Weg, which begins at the Weisshaus (p. 206) and winds along the slope of the Schwarzenberg, commanding beautiful views. This route may be joined from the Schwarzbrücke or from the saddle between the Calvarienberg and the Schwarzenberg (see above).

Schwegerle zur Alpenrose, beautifully situated on the Alpsee, R. from 3, B. 1 \mathcal{M} 20, pens. from 6 \mathcal{M} ; *Schwansee, 1/4 M. from the Alpsee, quieter, R., L., & B. 11/2-3, D. 3, pens. 6-8 \mathcal{M} (in May and June 5 \mathcal{M}); *LIESL INN, plainer. — All these have oranibuses at the station of Fussen (1 \mathcal{M}).

The castles of Hohenschwangau and Neu-Schwanstein are ope from May 1st to Oct. 15th, week-days 9-12 and 2-5, Sun. 10-12 and 2-5; closed on June 13th, the anniversary of King Lewis II.'s death.

Hohenschwangau (2735 ft.), a small village at the foot of a hill crowned by the castle of the same name, is a pleasant summer-resort with numerous attractive walks in the vicinity. It lies near the beautiful blue *Alpsee, which is girdled with fine woods, while the steep crags of the Pilgerschroffen rise above its S. end. Opposite the Alpenrose Hotel begins the 'Fürsten-Strasse' (open to pedestrians only), from which (3 min.) a road to the right to Schloss Hohenschwangau and (8 min.) the above-mentioned footpath to Füssen diverge. About 40 paces farther on a footpath leads to the left to the 'Pindar-Platz', a rocky projection with a fine view of the lake (p. 206). Well-made paths make the entire circuit of the lake (11/4 hr.). — The footpath to the old Schloss ascends opposite the Liesl Inn. Tickets (50 pf.) to the right of the vestibule.

*Schloss Hohenschwangau (2930 ft.), formerly called Schwanstein, originally belonged to the house of Guelph, but in 1191 came into the possession of the Hohenstaufen dukes of Swabia and in 1567 passed to the dukes of Bavaria. In the 17th and 18th cent, it was several times besieged and captured. It was destroyed by the Tyrolese in 1809, sold for a trifling sum in 1820, and in 1832 purchased by King Max II. of Bavaria (d. 1864), then crown-prince, who caused the ruin to be entirely re-constructed by Quaglio, Ohlmüller, and Ziebland, and decorated with frescoes from German legend and history by Schwind, Lindenschmit, Ruben, Monten, and other Munich artists. The castle commands charming views of the plain, the Alpsee, and Neu-Schwanstein. It was the favourite residence of King Max II. and Lewis II., the latter of whom spent his later years almost exclusively here. The little garden, to the left of the entrance to the castle, contains a Marble Bath, cut out of the rock, with two nymphs, by Schwanthaler, and an imitation of the Lion Fountain of the Alhambra, by the same artist.

Opposite the ascent to Hohenschwangau, near the Liesl Inn. begins the road to (35 min.) Neu-Schwanstein, from which (5 min.) the road to the Blöckenau (p. 205) diverges to the right; 6 min. farther on (opposite the footpath from the Hôtel Schwansee) a steep footpath ascends on the right to the Jugend; and 12 min. farther on a bridle-path diverges to the right, near a workmen's barrack on the left side of the road, to the Marienbrücke and the Jugend. The road next passes a restaurant (open in summer only) and in 8 min. reaches the castle of --

*Neu-Schwanstein (3300 ft.), begun by King Lewis II. in 1869 on the site of the old castle of Vorder-Hohenschwangau, and beautifully situated on a precipitous rock above the profound ravine of the Pöllat. The castle, built in the Romanesque style by Von Dollmann, Riedel, and Hofmann, is planned somewhat after the style and arrangement of the Wartburg, but on a much larger scale.

Through the Thorbau or Gatehouse on the N.E. (where tickets are obtained; 3M; adm., see p. 204) we enter the first court, in which to the right (N.W.) is the Palas or main building, to the left (S.E.) the Kemenate or women's apartments, and in the middle the Ritterbau. The visit takes 3/4-1 hr. The castle is splendidly fitted up, and its windows command beautiful views, especially of Hohenschwangau and the Alpsee to the S., and of the profound gorge of the Pöllat and its waterfall, spanned by the Marienbrücke, to the E.

The imposing Palas has four stories: the groundfloor contains the offices, the first floor is occupied by the attendants, the second is unfinished, and the royal apartments are on the third. Visitors ascend to the third floor by a staircase of 96 steps in the massive N. tower, 195 ft. high. The landing at the top of the staircase is adorned with frescoes by Hauschild, illustrating the legend of Sigurd. To the left we pass through the Adjutant's Room to the King's Study, with scenes from the story of Tannhäuser by Aigner; and thence through the Stalactite Grotto to the former Winter Garden, a balcony commanding a fine view of the plain. Next follow the Sitting Room, with pictures from the Lohengrin legend by Hauschild; the Dressing Room, with scenes from the lives of Walter von der Vogelweide and Hans Sachs by Ille; the Gothic Bedchamber, with illustra-tions of the story of Tristan and Isolde by Spiess; the Oratory, with scenes From the life of Lewis IX. by Hauschild (fine view of the valley of the Pöllat from the balcony). The Dining Hall is embellished with scenes from the Wartburg under the Landgrave Hermann, by F. Piloty. The ante-chamber leads back to the landing, whence we enter the (unfinished) Throne Room, fitted up in the Byzantine taste, with pictures by Hauschild, representing the relations of monarchy to religion. It has a mosaic floor and an open loggia. - Aigner has also adorned the landing at the top of the staircase on the fourth floor with a series of 12 pictures from the story of Gudrun. On this floor is the *Festsaal or Sangersaal (Minstrels' Hall), 90 ft. long, with pictures from Wolfram von Eschenbach's 'Parzival by Spiess, Munsch, and Piloty.

A footpath, leaving the road at the N. angle of the castle and run A footpath, leaving the road at the N. angle of the cashe and run ring under the N.W. façade, brings us to the S.W. side, near which the above-mentioned bridle-path ascends. [Before the latter is reached, a poor footpath descends to the left to the Gorge of the Pöllat, where we have a view of the castle and of the Pöllat Waterfall from below.] We ascend by the bridle-path and in 5 min. reach a point whence two footpaths diverge: one, to the right, leading down to the "Jugend, a clearing to the wood companding a view of Hohenschwangau and the Alpsee, like in the wood commanding a view of Hohenschwangau and the Alpsee, like that from Neu-Schwanstein (the path descends still farther to the road, see below); the other, to the left, ascends to the "Marienbrücke, a handsome iron bridge 138 ft. long, which boldly spans the rocky gorge of the Pöll t at a height of 295 ft. above the waterfall and affords the best view of the castle of Neu-Schwanstein. — Returning from the bridge, we take the path to the left, which brings us in 4 min. to the Blöckenau road, at which also the bridle-path ends (to Hohenschwangau by this road 1/2 hr.).

From Neu-Schwanstein a direct footpath leads to Linderhof (p. 212) in 6 hrs. (to the Ammerwald Inn, 31/z hrs.), through the Blückenau and across the Schützensteig or Jägersteig (4660 ft.; guide unnecessary).

To the Tegelberg Alp, 3 hrs., a pleasant excursion. We ascend the road to (3 M.) the Blöckenau (see above), diverging to the left at the 'Verbotener Weg' placard (permission obtained from the forester) and ascending in windings to the (2 hrs.) royal hunting-lodge on the Tegelberg Alp, which commands a beautiful view of mountain and plain. Hence to the top of the Tegelberg (Brandschrofen, 5925 ft.), marked by a cross, in 20-30 min. more (guide convenient for the inexperienced).

Other excursions (Säuling, Schlicke, etc.), see Baedeker's Eastern

PEDESTRIANS proceeding from Hohenschwangau to Reutte (8M.) need not return to Füssen, but may either follow the 'Fürsten-Strasse' (p. 204) high on the W. bank of the Alpsee, or the good path past the 'Pindar-Platz' (p. 201), to the end of the lake, and then return to the road. We pass the (13/4 M.) Austrian frontier-station and descend in windings, turning to the left at the (1/4 hr.) Schluxenwirth (good wine) and following the Pinswang road to (3 M.) Pflach (see below).

The Road from Füssen to (91/4 M.) Reutte leads up the right bank of the Lech to (7 min.) a narrow ravine (on the left bank a bust of King Max II.; on the right bank a war-monument). We then cross the (5 min.) Schwarzbrücke (p. 203) and reach the Austrian frontier at the (10 min.) Weisshaus (good wine). The main road then crosses the Lech by the (13/4 M.) Utrichs-Brücke, passes Musau and the Rossschläg Pass, and at Unterlötzen, shortly before reaching (5 M.) Pflach (2745 ft.; Schwan), recrosses to the right bank. Pedestrians will find it shorter and pleasanter to diverge to the left before reaching the Ulrichs-Brücke, and proceed by Pinswang and the Kniepass (3030 ft.), a rocky barrier narrowly confining the Lech, to (11/2 M.). Pflach. Beyond Pflach the Arch-Bach, issuing from the Plansee, is crossed (see below). Then (21/4 M.) — 32½ M. Reutte (2795 ft.; Post, R. 70 kr.-1 ft. 20 kr., D. 1 ft.; Hirsch; Krone; *Adler, plain; Glocke; Mohren, well spoken of), a small town in the bed of an ancient lake, intersected by the Lech, and surrounded by lofty mountains: N. the Säuling and Dürreberg, E. the Zwieselberg and Tauern, S. the Axljoch, Thaneller, and Schlossberg, S.W. the Schwarzhanskarkopf, W. the Gachtspitz, Gernspitz, and Gimpel.

At the church of Breitenwang, 1/2 M. to the E. of Reutte, is a monument to the Emp. Lothaire, who died here in 1137, on his return from Italy. The mortuary chapel contains a Dance of Death in relief. About 3/4 M. farther on, at the foot of the Tauern, is Bad Krekelmoos, with mineral springs.

To the 'Stuben Falls, a pleasant walk of 2-21/2 hrs., there and back. We follow the field-path, crossing the Arch above Mühl and recrossing to the left bank at the (1/2 hr.) paper-factory, and then follow the 'Hermannsteig' along the river (numerous rhododendrons) to the (1/2 hr.) *Lower Stwiben Fall, a cascade 100 ft. in height, finely framed with trees. A footpath (finger-post) ascends hence to the right to the road to Reutte, which is 3 M. distant. Those who are bound for the Plansee ascend the left bank of the Arch to the (1/4 hr.) smaller Upper Fall, and turning to the right regain the (4 min) road near a small chapel (p. 213), 10 min. from the Little Plansee.

From Reutte to Linderhof and Partenkirchen, see R. 33. Upper Lechthal, Pass Gacht, and viâ Tannheim to Immenstadt, see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.
From Reutte to Imst (35 M.), diligence twice daily in 10 hrs. The road passes the (2 M.) Ehrenberger Klause, a defile formerly defended by a castle (now in ruins), and leads viâ (3 M.) Heiterwang and (3 M.) Bichelbach to (5½ M.) Lermoos (3245 ft.; *Drei Mohren; *Post), a village situated in a wide green valley, from which on the E. rise the barren rocky walls of the imposing Wetterstein Chain, culminating in the Zugspitze (9725 ft.) to the N. (To Partenkirchen vià Griesen, see p. 210.) The road to Nassereit, the finest mountain-pass between Bavaria and Tyrol, should be traversed on foot (4 hrs.) or in an open carriage (from Lermoos to Nassereit 41/2, with two horses 71/2 fl.). Beyond (11/2 M.) Biberwier it ascends, passing the Weissensee (left) and the beautiful Blindsee (right), to the (5 M.) Fern Pass (3970 ft.; poor Inn), and descends in wide curves, which pedestrians may avoid by short-cuts. In the bottom of the valley we pass the picturesque castle of Fernstein, on the right; at its base is the Fernstein Inn, containing two rococo rooms fitted up by King Lewis II. (adm. 1 M). To the left, the ruins of the Sigmundsburg rise from the small, wood-girt Fernstein Lake, the outlet of which we cross by a stone bridge. At (51/4 M.) Nassereit (2765 ft.; "Post) the road divides, the right branch leading through the Gurgler-Thal to (91/2 M.) Imst, while the left branch (preferable) crosses the saddle of Obsteig to the E. and leads via Ober-Mieming (2840 ft.; *Post) to (133/4 M.) Telfs. For details, see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

Handsome modern Gothic church (1865-71); new Protestant church, near the station. A visit may be paid to the school of carving and design, on the way to Garmisch. Good photographs sold by Johannes.

Garmisch (2290 ft.), a thriving village 1 M. to the W. of Partenkirchen, with picturesque old houses, the seat of the district-court, is another favourite resort. On the E. side of the village is the Wittelsbach Park, with a bust of Prince-Regent Luitpold.

CARRIAGES are to be obtained at both Garmisch and Partenkirchen and at the railway-station. One-horse carr. to the Badersee 6, two-horse 10 M, two-horse carr. to Walchensee (33/4 hrs.) 20, Ober-Ammergau 20, Lermoos 20, Reutte 30, Imst via Lermoos 55 M. (The driver expects a fee of 10 pf. for each mark of the fare.)

Faukenschlucht. Bevond Partenkirchen a path ascends to the E. to the ravine, and then leads on its right side to the (20 min.) waterfall of the Faukenbach. Through the Faukenschlucht to the (3/4 hr.) Lukas Terrasse (fine view of the villages and mountains) and thence back in 1/2 hr. viâ the Schalmei-Schlucht.

The *Riesserbauer (25% ft.) is a good point of view, 1/2 hr. from Garmisch. From the post-office we cross the meadows towards the S.W., in the direction of the Riesserkopf (3690 ft.), a wooded height immediately below the tion of the Riesserkopf (3690 It.), a wooded height immediately below the Alpspitze. The charming little *Riesser-See (boating; baths) lies in a hollow behind the *Inn (also Pension), in the direction of the mountain.

*Partnachklamm and *Vorder-Graseck (1½ hr.; guide unnecessary). After following the Kainzenbad road (p. 210) to the S. of Partenkirchen (see below) for about 60 paces, we turn to the right at a finger-post, and in ½ hr. reach the first bridge, at the mouth of the Partnach Valley. (From the station of Garmisch-Partenkirchen a good, and in part shady footpath, turning to the left at the Hôtel Bauer, leads along the bank of the Partnach, joining the route from Partenkirchen about 10 min. before the above-mentioned bridge is reached.) Beyond the bridge a finger-post indicates our path to the left ('nach Graseck'); after 1/4 hr. we cross the stream by a second bridge, beyond which the road to Graseck ascends abruptly to the left, while the path to the 'Klamm', or gorge, leads to the right; 6 min., third bridge. The (10 min.) fourth (iron) bridge (Klammbrücke), 50 ft. long and 220 ft. above the Partnach, is the finest point. Beyond the bridge the path ascends in 10 min. to the forester's house of Vorder-Graseck (2920 ft.; *Restaurant), where a fine view is enjoyed. — A narrow path (Triftweg), constructed for the use of the 'lumberers' and diverging to the left before the third bridge, leads along the bottom of the gorge, close to the water, revealing the grandeur of the ravine to great advantage. It is provided at places with wire-ropes and is quite safe for those reasonably free from giddiness. The best plan to see the ravine is to follow the upper path to Graseck, descend thence into the Partnach valley, and return by the path at the bottom of the gorge (in all 3 hrs. from Partenkirchen). — FROM GRASECK TO MITTENWALD VIÂ ELMAU, 31/2-5 hrs., a much better route for pedestrians than the high-road (p. 210). From the forester's house we ascend the pastures for a short distance, and then turn to the right. After 20 min. we go straight on (not to the right to Mittel-Graseck) to (10 min.) Hinter-Graseck; 3/4 hr., bridge over the Ferchenbach; then for 1/4 hr. straight on through the wood, and down to (7 min.) Elmau (3345 ft.; Inn). From this point a road ascends slowly, at first through wood but afterwards shadeless, to (4½ M.) the Ferchen-See, and then descends, past the Lauter-See, to (3 M.) Mittenwald (p. 210). — From Elman to the Schachen (3½ hrs.), see p. 210.

The *Eckbauer (4062 ft.). We may either follow a steep marked path from the Kainzenbad in 11/2-2 hrs., or take another steep path (also marked, usually shady in the afternoon) from Graseck (see above), which turns to the left at a (1/4 hr.) finger-post, ascends the grassy slopes in windings, passes through wood, and reaches the Eckbauer in $\frac{3}{4}$ hr. (Inn., with 6 rooms). The top of the hill, 2 min. beyond the house, commands an admirable panorama of the mountains: Karwendelgebirge, Wettersteinwand, Dreithorspitze with the Schachenalp and Frauenalple, Alpspitze, Zugspitze, Kramer, and Krottenkopf; below lies the deep, wooded valley of the Ferchenbach.

Schlattan and Gschwandner Bauer (21/4 hrs.). From Partenkirchen we ascend to the right through the Bremstall-Wald (finger-post) to (13/4 hr.) the Schlattan Restaurant, and thence via Höffe to the (1/2 hr.) Gschwandner Bauer (3345 ft.; *Inn, rustic), which affords a fine view of the Wetterstein and Karwendel ranges. We may return by the Mittenwald road (shady in the evening).

*Badersee (2720 ft.; 41/2 M. from Garmisch; omnibus twice daily from Partenkirchen in 1½ hr., starting at 7.30 a.m. and 2 p.m., returning at noon and 6 p.m.; fare 1 M, return 1 M 80 pf.). The road diverges to the left from that to Lermoos, a few hundred yards beyond the (21/2 M.) Schmelz (Inn), and leads viâ Unter-Grainau (Inn) to the small, emerald-green lake, 1 M. round and 60 ft. deep. The "Hôtel-Pension Schäfter (pens. 61/2 M), on its bank, is pleasant for a prolonged stay. - Road hence to the (3 M.)

Eibsee (see below).

The *Eibsee (3145 ft.), 7 M. from Garmisch, is reached by the road via Unter-Grainau (omnibus from the Post at Partenkirchen twice daily in 21/2 hrs., returning in 2 hrs.; fare each way 11/2 M); or, from Garmisch, by the path to the left at the W. end of the village. which leads across py the path to the left at the W. end of the village. Which leads across meadows to (1½ hr.) Ober-Grainau (2480 ft.; Wackerl's Inn), and thence to (1½ hr.) the lake. The Eibsee, 3 M. long, 2 M. wide, and 90 ft. deep, has seven small islands and is enclosed by dark, wooded hills, above which tower the enormous rocky walls of the Zugspitze (*Terne's Inn, with veranda, boats, and baths, R. 1½-2, pens. 5-6 £ . Travellers are rowed (50 pf. each) to the Ludwigs-Insel in the middle of the lake, where the echoes are awakened by a shot (50 pf.). The huge Zugspitze is seen to great advantage from the lake, but on summer afternoons is usually shrouded in clouds.

The *Krottenkopf (6880 ft.; 5 hrs.; guide 41/2, if a night is spent, 7 M). 14

A marked bridle-path leads from Partenkirchen via St. Anton, passing the parsonage, to the (2 hrs.) Esterberg-See (generally dry in summer) and the (10 min.) Esterberg-Bauer (1335 ft.; poor inn). Bridle-path thence, steep and stony at places, through the hollow between the Bischof and the Krottenkopf to the (21/4 hrs.) Krottenkopf Club-Hut (6450 ft.; Inn in summer), on the saddle between the Krottenkopf and the Oberrisskopf, and to (25 min.)

the top (pavilion; fine "View).

*Königshaus am Schachen (6125 ft.; 51/2-6 hrs.; guide, 41/2 M, unnecessary). We follow the Triftweg (p. 209) through the Partnachklamm in 11/4 hr. to the bridge over the Ferchenbach, the left bank of which we skirt to (3/4 hr.) the Steitenfälle (sometimes dry). The path then ascends rapidly to the right through the Wettersteinwald to a small shrine, turns to the left, and crosses a clearing after a few minutes, from which a broad path through the wood leads past the Wetterstein-Alp (4820 ft.; rimts.), to the (3 hrs.) Schachen-Alp, with the small Schachen-See, and (3/4 hr.) the Königshaus, built by King Lewis II. and containing a sumptuous room in the Oriental style (adm. 1 M; Restaurant, with 14 beds). The Belvedere, a few hundred paces to the W., on the brink of the abyss, commands a magnificant Numer of the Pointal below the With the Point to ficent view of the Reinthal below us, with the Plattach-Ferner, Schnee-fernerkopf, and Wetterspitzen, the Hochblassen to the right, and (to the S.) the Dreithorspitze and Wetterstein. To the N. stretches the vast Bavarian plain. - From Elmau (p. 209) a good bridle-path (driving practicable, but not agreeable; carr. and pair for 2 pers. 15, for 3 pers. 18 4) ascends to the Schachen-Alp in 31/2 hrs.

LONGER EXCURSIONS (Höllenthal-Klamm, Rainthal and Blaue Gumpen, Alpspitze, Zugspitze, etc.), see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

To Lermoos (p. 206), 18 M., by a good road through the wooded Loisach-Thal (omn. daily in 33/4 hrs.; carr. 10-12 M). At (10 M.) the frontier-inn at Griesen (p. 212) we turn to the left (to the right the road to the Plansee, p. 212), cross the Austrian frontier, and proceed viâ the (3½ M.) old Ehrwalder Schanze (2950 ft.; Neuner's Inn) to (4¼ M.) Lermoos (p. 206). — A shorter, but unattractive path leads from the Eibsee over the Thörlen (5230 ft.) to Ehrwald and (31/2 hrs.) Lermoos.

The road to Mittenwald (diligences, etc., see p. 207) begins to ascend at once. To the right in the valley, 1 M. from Partenkirchen, lies the Kainzen-Bad (*Inn, pens. 6 M), with a spring containing iodine, natron, and sulphur, used as a remedy for gout and cutaneous diseases. On the top of the hill, the road traverses undulating pastures; on the right rises the Wetterstein, and in front are the bold peaks of the Karwendel range. 31/2 M. Kaltenbrunn; 2 M. Gerold (on the left the small Wagenbrech-See); 11/2 M. Klais.

To the left, a road diverges here to the (1½ M.) Barmsee (3070 ft.), a pretty little lake embosomed in wood (fine view from the */nn). The lake affords boating and bathing, and there are pleasant walks on its banks. Remains of lake-dwellings have been discovered here.

beuern and Walchensee (p. 214). Then (4 M.) -

10 M. Mittenwald (3020 ft.; Post, with clever animal-paintings by Paul Meyerheim in the veranda; Zum Karwendel; Zum Wetterstein. plain; Pen ion Villa Neuner), the last Bavarian village (1750 inhab.), overshadowed by the precipitous Karwendel-Gebirge (7825 ft.). The manufacture of violins and guitars, which are chiefly exported to England and America, forms the main occupation of the inhabitants. A bronze statue of Michael Klotz (d.1743), who introduced the violin-industry, has been erected in front of the church.

EXCURSIONS. To the *Lauter-See (3365 ft.), 3/4 hr., and the Ferchen-See (3400 ft.), 1/2 hr. farther up (see p. 209); to the *Hohe Kranzberg (4525 ft.), 1/2 hr. (splendid view); to the *Leutasch-Klamm, near the Scharnitz road (see below; 1/2 hr. there and back); Barmsee (p. 210), 1/4 hr.; Leutasch Valley, Vereins-Alpe, Karwendel-Spitze, etc., see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

FROM MITTENWALD TO ZIEL, 16 M., diligence daily in 3½ hrs. (carriage with one horse 17, with two horses 22 M). The road crosses the Isar (before the bridge, to the right, the path to the Leutasch-Klamm, see above) and traverses the level bottom of the valley as far as the (3 M.) Desite of Scharnitz, the boundary between Bavaria and Tyrol, formerly protected by a strong fortress which was completely destroyed by the French in 1805. Beyond the adjacent village of Scharnitz (3160 ft.; Adler) the road quits the Isar and ascends to the left to (9½ M.) Seefeld (3860 ft.; *Post), a summer-resort beautifully situated on the watershed between the Isar and Inn. It then leads past the small Wildsee to (12½ M.) Reith, beyond which it descends vià Leilen in wide curves, affording magnificent views of the Inn valley and the Tyrolese Alps, to (16 M.) Ziri (see Baedeker's Eastern Alps).

33. From Munich to Ober-Ammergau and viâ Linderhof to Reutte-Hohenschwangau.

Comp. Map, p. 202.

(on foot 4 hrs.). — Omnibus from Oberau viâ Linderhof to Hohenschwangau daily in 121/2 hrs., starting at 7.30 a.m.; returning from Hohenschwangau at 1 p.m. (night spent at Linderhof) and reaching Oberau at 2 30 p.m.; fare 7 M. — Carriage from Oberau to Ober-Ammergau with one horse 10, with two horses 15 M; to Linderhof 18 and 30, to Reutte 30 and 40, to Füssen-Hohenschwangau 36 and 50 M. — RAILWAY CIRCULAR TICKETS may be obtained from Munich to Oberau and from Füssen back to Munich vià Oberdorf (2nd cl. 12 M, 3rd cl. 7 M 50 pf.).

From Munich to (57 M.) Oberau, see p. 207. The road to Ober-Ammergau leads to the W., passing the Untermberg Inn (1/2 M. from the station), crosses the Giessenbach, and ascends, at first in a wide sweep to the right, along the N. side of a wooded gorge. At the bottom of the valley runs the steep old road, which is shorter for walkers. The upper end of the gorge is closed by the Ettaler Berg. which the new road skirts, while the old read climbs over it. 3 M. Ettal (2880 ft.; Landes, moderate), a convent founded by Emp. Lewis the Bavarian in 1330, dissolved in 1803, rebuilt after a fire in 1844, and now the property of Count Pappenheim. The church, with a massive dome, was built in the Gothic style by Emp. Lewis, but was remodelled in the baroque style in the 18th cent.; it contains frescoes by Knoller and a famous organ. On the N. side is a brewery of local repute. The village lies at the base of the Ettaler Mandt (5385 ft.), a rocky peak, the ascent of which is difficult ($2^{1/2}$ -3 hrs., with guide).

About $^{3}/_{4}$ M. farther on the road forks, the left branch leading direct to $(4^{1}/_{2}$ M.) Linderhof, the right to $(2^{1}/_{4}$ M.) Ober-Ammergau (2760 ft.; *Alte Post or Schwabenwirth; Wittelsbacher Hof; Stern, and others), celebrated for the passion plays performed here every ten jears (1890, 1900, etc.) Wood and ivory carving is the chief occupation of the inhabitants. — About 1/4 hr. to the W., on the Osterbühl, at the base of the Kofel (3545 ft.), stands the *Crucifixion, a colossal group in Kelheim sandstone, executed by Halbig, and presented by King Lewis II. in 1875.

From Ober-Ammergau a road runs to the N., through the monotonous and at places marshy Ammer-Thal, viâ (3 M.) Unter-Ammergau (2655 ft.; Schuhwirth; Rabe) and Wurmesau, to (4½ M.) Saulgrub. Thence either to the N. viâ Rottenbuch to (15 M.) Peissenberg (p. 197), or to the E. viâ Kohlgrub (p. 207) to (10 M.) Murnau (p. 207).

The ROAD FROM OBER-AMMERGAU TO (9 M.) LINDERHOF diverges to the right at the S. end of the village from the road to Ettal (p. 211), and unites 2½4 M. farther on with the direct Oberau and Ettal road (p. 211). 2½4 M. Graswang (2885 ft.: Inn), a village with the Bavarian custom-house, beyond which we ascend through the pleasant Graswang-Thal, or upper valley of the Ammer; to the left opens the wide Elmauer Gries, above which peeps the Zugspitze. Just beyond the (3¾4 M.) forester's house of Linder (rfmts. and beds) we cross the Ammer to the right to (½ M.) the royal *Schloss Linderhof (3080 ft.), erected and splendidly decorated in the rococo style by King Lewis II. in 1870-78 (adm. from May 1st to Oct. 15th daily, 9-5; fee 3 M, including grotto and kiosque; closed on June 13th). To the left of the entrance are the office and the *Schloss Restaurant, with 50 beds (2-3 M).

The Vestibule of the château (adm. in parties of at least 12 pers.) contains an equestrian statue of Louis XIV., after Bosio. On the First Floor is a series of finely fitted up rooms with paintings of French celebrities and events in the time of Louis XIV. and Louis XV.— The extensive Gardens are embellished with fountains, statuary, etc., and contain the Monopteros, a small temple with a figure of Venus (good view), and the Blue Grotto, with a subterranean lake, which can be illuminated with electric light. Near the grotto is the Moorish Kiosque, richly gilded and decorated, with stalactite vaulting, enamelled peacocks, etc. Behind the palace are the Cascades, where the fountains play at noon and at 6 p.m.— A visit to the palace and gardens, including the grotto and the kiosque, takes about 2 hrs.

We continue to ascend the finely-wooded Ammerthal to the $(4^{1}/_{2} \text{ M.})$ Grenz-Brücke, or frontier bridge, about $^{1}/_{2} \text{ M.}$ to the left of which (guide-post) is the Hunding-Hütte (3600 ft.), a blockhouse in the old German style (comp. Wagner's opera of the 'Walkyrie'; adm. daily 9-12 and 2-6, 50 pf.; rfmts.; adjacent a hermit's hut). We then skirt the N. base of the Geyerkopf (7095 ft.), traversing the thickly wooded Ammerwald-Thal, and reach (3 M.) the Ammerwald Inn (3575 ft.; rustic), whence the 'Schützensteig' leads to the right to (4 hrs.) Hohenschwangau (p. 205). About 3 M. farther on the road emerges from the wood and reaches the Great Plansee (3190 ft.), a fine sheet of water, $2^{3}/_{4}$ M. long by $1/_{4}$ - $1/_{2}$ M. broad and 250 ft. deep, enclosed by wooded mountains. On its bank is the Austrian Custom-House, near which is a monument to King Max II. of Bavaria (Forelle, boats for hire, lake-baths; Alpenrose).

FROM THE PLANSEE TO PARTENKIRCHEN (15 M.) a narrow r. ad descends the wooded Naiderach-That to the (5½ M.) Austrian and Bavarian customhouse of Griesen (Inn), where it joins the road from Lermoos to Partenkirchen through the Loisach-That (n. 210).

The road to Reutte, shadeless in the morning, skirts the N. bank of the Plansee, passing the Kaiserbrunnen. At the $(3^1/2 \text{ M.})$ W. end of the lake, in the Gschwänd, is the *Seespitz Inn (R. from 60 kr.). Farther on we pass the Little Plansee, cross the Arch, which flows out of it, and reach (1 M.) a chapel, near a good spring.

A footpath descends hence to the right, through wood, to the Upper and (20 min.) *Lower Stuiben Fall, whence we may either ascend to the left to (10 min.) the road, or follow the Hermannsteig along the Arch to Milhl and (1 hr.) Reutte (comp. p. 206).

The road crosses the Rossrücken, affording a fine view of the Lechthal, with the Glimmspitze and Hochvogel in the background. We then descend the slope of the Tauern (6044 ft.), where the path from the lower Stuiben Fall (see above) joins the road at a stone with an inscription. The road afterwards proceeds past the small bath of Krekelmoos and via Breitenwang to (41/2 M.) Reutte (see p. 206). From Reutte to Füssen and Hohenschwangau, see R. 31.

34. From Munich to Mittenwald viâ Benediktbeuern. Kochelsee and Walchensee.

From Munich to (25 M.) Tutzing, see p. 196. — $28^{1}/_{2}$ M. Bern-ried; $31^{1}/_{2}$ M. Seeshaupt (p. 196), both $3/_{4}$ M. from the railway. Farther on, the country is uninteresting. On the right lies the little Ostersee. — $35^{1}/_{2}$ M. Staltach. — $38^{1}/_{2}$ M. Penzberg (1980 ft.; Bernrieder Hof; Zur Eisenbahn), the terminus of the railway.

The road to Kochel crosses the Loisach and traverses a flat district to $(4^{1}/_{2} M.)$ Bichl (*Löwe; Grüner Hut), where it joins the road from Heilbrunn (p. 216). Then (3/4 M.)

 $43^{1}/_{2}$ M. Benediktbeuern (2025 ft.; Post; *Zur Benediktenwand), with a once wealthy and celebrated monastery, founded in 740, and consecrated by St. Boniface, now containing a home for veteran soldiers and a stud. To the E. rises the Benediktenwand (5910 ft.; fatiguing ascent of $4^{1}/_{2}$ -5 hrs., with guide), to the S. the Jochberg, Herzogstand, and Heimgarten.

Beyond Benediktbeuern the road skirts the E. side of an extensive marsh, and leads vià Ried and Besenbach along the Rohrsee (N. end of the Kochelsee) to (48 M.) Kochel (Abenthum, moderate), which is separated by a hill from (3/4 M.) the lake (*Bad Kochel, with a chalybeate spring and grounds on the lake, R. 11/2 M; Pens. Natalie, also on the lake). The Kochelsee (1970 ft.), 33/4 M. long and 21/2 M. broad, is fed by the Loisach, and is bounded on the S. by the Jochberg, Herzogstand, and Heimgarten. The pavilion near Bad Kochel affords a good view.

On the opposite bank of the lake lies Schlehdorf (Inn zum Herzogenstand), 3½ hrs. from stat. Murnau (p. 207) and 3 hrs. from stat. Penzberg (omnibuses from both stations). The *Herzogstand (see below) may be ascended hence in 4 hrs. by an attractive route. We follow the marked ascended hence in 4 hrs. by an attractive route. We follow the marked path along the lake for 1/1, hr., then ascend (guide-post) viâ the Jochplatte to the (1 hr.) Unterawer Alp (about 2850 ft.), whence the Pionter-Weg, constructed in 1892 by the 1st Battalion of Pioneers, gradually ascends through wood, crossing several streams, and commanding beautiful views of the Kochelsee and the plain. At (11/4 hr.) the Schlehdorfer Alpl we join the bridle-path ascending from Urfeld; thence to the top, see below. — From Schlehdorf ferry in 1/2 hr., passing the Nose, which rises perpendicularly from the lake, to the Müller am Joch (Inn.), at the foot of the Kesselberg. Footpath thence to the (20 min.) Kesselberg Inn. berg. Footpath thence to the (20 min.) Kesselberg Inn.

About 1 M. beyond Kochel, at the *Kneipp-Bad Kochelsee, the new road approaches the lake, and skirts it, passing the Inn zum Grauen Bären, to the (20 min.) Kesselberg Inn (ferry to Bad Kochel 80 pf.; good echo on the lake). It then ascends in easy windings to the pass of the Kesselberg (2825 ft.). To the right of the road are the pretty falls of the Kesselbach, along which a path cutting off an angle of the road ascends. From the culminating point, where the bridle-path to the Herzogstand diverges to the right (see below), we obtain a view of the Karwendel and Wetterstein ranges in the distance, and, below us, of the beautiful, deep-blue *Walchensee (2635 ft.), 41/4 M. long and 3 M. broad, surrounded by forests and mountains. At the N. end are the houses of (11/2 hr.) Urfeld (Zum Jäger am See, R. $1^{1/2}$ M; Inn at the fisherman's).

The "Herzogstand (5695 ft.), a remarkably fine point of view, is ascended hence in 21/2-3 hrs. (guide unnecessary). A bridle-path (see above) diverges to the left (W.) from the road coming from the Kesselberg, about 8 min. to the left (W.) from the road coming from the Resselberg, about 8 min. From Urfeld (or a steep path leading from Urfeld direct to this bridle-track in 1/4 hr. may be taken). On the saddle, 1/2 hr. below the top, are the Herzogstand-Häuser (5100 ft.), belonging to the German Alpine Club (Inn with 50 beds at 21/2 M). On the summit is a closed pavilion, and a little lower is an open hut. Admirable view of the mountains as far as the Oezthal glaciers, and of the plain with its numerous lakes. — A narrow arête, protected by a wire-rope, but advisable for experts only, connects the Herzogstand with the (1 hr.) Heimgarten (5870 ft.), to the W. — From the Herzogstand-Hauser a narrow path to the right, affording at first a fine view of the Walchensee, and then leading through wood, descends to the hamlet of Walchensee in 1½ hr.

40 M. Rosenheim (1470 ft.; *Bayrischer Hof; *König Otto; Alte Post; *Deutsches Haus, R. 11/2-2 M; Zum Wendelstein, Thaller, both near the station and moderate; Rail. Restaurant), the junction of the Innsbruck, Holzkirchen, and Mühldorf lines, a town of 10,000 inhab., with salt-works, lies at the influx of the Mangfall into the Inn. The salt-water is conveyed hither from Reichenhall, upwards of 50 M. distant. About 3/4 M. from the station are the *Kaiserbad, with a large park, the *Marienbad, and the Dianabad, all with salt and other baths. Pretty view of the Innthal and the Alps from the (1/2 hr.) Schlossberg (Restaurant), on the right bank of the Inn.

The train crosses the Inn, passes (44 M.) Stephanskirchen, the Simmsee (33/4 M. long), and (50 M.) Endorf (Post; Wieser), and runs to the S. through a hilly district to (56 M.) Prien (1745 ft.; *Zur Kampenwand, near the station and also a halting-place on the Chiemsee line, with view, R. 2 M; Hôtel Chiemsee, at the station; Kronprinz; Bayrischer Hof; Railway Restaurant), a favourite summer-resort, in the smiling Prienthal.

From Prien a Steam Tramway runs in 8 min. to (1 M.) Stock (Hôtel Dampfschiff, with lake-baths), the landing-place of the steamer on the Chiemsee, which plies nine times daily in 1/4 hr. to the Herreninsel and six times daily in 1/2 hr. to the Fraueninsel (return-ticket to the Herreninsel, 2nd class in the steam-tramway, 1st class on the steamer 1 # 80 pf.; to the Fraueninsel 2 # 60 pf.; rowing-boat there and back 1 #, with a stay of some time 1½ M). — The Chiemsee (1700 ft.), Si 2 M. long and 6½ M. broad, contains three islands: the large Herreninsel, with a monastery (now the old castle) and the new palace; the Fraueninsel, with a nunnery (now a girls' school) and an interesting church; and the Krautinsel ('vegetable island'), formerly a kitchen-garden for the monks and nuns. The Fraueninsel (20 acres in area) is also the site of a fishing-village and an *Inn, a favourite resort of artists, as an album kept in the house will testify. On the extensive Herreninsel (9 M. in circumference) rises the large *Schloss Herrenchiemsee, built in the style of Louis XIV. by King Lewis II. after the model of Versailles, but not completed (adm. daily from 1st May to 15th Oct., 9-5; fee 3 M, Sun. and holidays 1½ M; closed on 13th June). A few min. walk from the pier, where tickets for the palace are obtained (to the right), is the Hôlel-Restaurant Artmann, with a veranda and garden. Thence we proceed through the grounds of the Old Castle and then through wood we proceed through the grounds of the Oia Vastle and then through wood to (10 min.) the New Palace, built on three sides of a square (open on the E.), adjoined on the N. by a wing (unfinished) 480 ft. long. In front of the W. facade are ornamental Water-Works (without water at present), with the basins of Fortune, Fame, Latona, etc. The pillared Vestibule, adorned with an enamelled group of peacocks, opens on a Court, paved with black and white marble, on the right side of which is the magnificent "Staircase, richly adorned with imitation marble and painting. On ficent *Matricase, richly addrined with initiation matrice and painting. On the first floor, turning to the right, we enter successively the Sale des Gardes du Roi (blue and gold), the Première Antichambre (lilac), the Salon de l'Oeil de Boeuf (green; with an equestrian statue of Louis XIV., by Perron), and the magnificent *Chambre de Parade. This last apartment, an imitation of Louis XIV.'s Bed Chamber at Versailles, adorned in purple and gold, with a lavishly gilded bed, is said to have cost alone over 125,000l. Of the remaining rooms the chief are the *Galerie des Glaces or Spiegelyallerie, 245 ft. long and illuminated with 35 lustres and 2500 candles, the Salon de la Guerre and the Salon de la Paix, opening on the right and left of the Galerie, the royal Bed Chamber and Study, the Dining Room (with the table descending and ascending through the floor), the Small Gallery, the Oval Saloon, and the Bath Room. In all the rooms are costly furniture, clocks, etc. — The woods clothing the S. part of the island afford pleasant promenades. The long chain of the Bavarian and Salzburg Alps forms the S. background of the landscape.

From Seebruck (Inn), at the N. end of the lake (steamer from Stock to Seebruck and Chieming in summer twice daily, except Frid.), a road leads to (3 M.) Seeon, an old monastery on an island in the small Seeoner See. About 41/2 M. to the E. is the railway-station of Stein an der Traun (p. 224).

A Branch Railway runs from Prien to the S. through the richly wooded Prienthal, in 32 min., past the station of Umratshausen, to the charmingly situated village of (6 M.) Niederaschau (2020 ft.: Rest and other inns), another summer-resort. Reichenhall (1555 ft.), a favourite watering-place on the Saale or Saalach (3800 inhab.), is picturesquely bounded on three sides by an amphitheatre of mountains, the Untersberg (6480 ft.), Lattengebirge (5700 ft.), Reitalpgebirge (6460 ft.), Müllnerhorn (4500 ft.). Ristfeichtkogl (5315 ft.), Sonntagshorn (6430 ft.), and Hochstauffen (5815 ft.). This is the central point of union of the four principal Bavarian salt-works, which are connected by conduits of an aggregate length of 50 M. The large Salinengebäude, or salt-work buildings, in the market-place, contain the offices on the right, and four Sudhäuser

The sources of the saline springs of Reichenhall, fifteen in number, are about 50 ft. below the surface of the soil, and are reached by a flight of 72 steps. Five of them are so strongly impregnated (Edelquelle, 25½ per cent) that they are at once conducted to the Gradirhaus (see below), and also supply the fountain in the Gradir-Park. The fresh-water springs are conveyed to the Saalach by means of a shaft 1½ M. in length and 8 ft. in height. The pump-house contains the two huge wheels by which the pumps are worked. On the second floor is a chapel in the Byzantine style, with stained-glass windows. In the court are two fresh-water fountains adorned with statues of SS. Virgilius and Rupert.

The Church, in the Romanesque style, is adorned with small frescoes by Schwind. A new Protestant Church adjoins the Cur-Garten. Above the town rises the old castle of Gruttenstein (1680 ft.).

Reichenhall is resorted to by patients suffering from general debility, chronic rheumatism, pulmonary affections, asthma, etc., who find relief in the mild and highly ozonized air, as well as from the salt-baths, saline and pine-needle inhalation, etc. The chief rallying-point of visitors is the Cur-Garten, beside the Gradirhaus (behind the Hôtel Burkert), with a covered promenade, a café, etc., where a band plays from 6.30 to 8 a.m. and from 5 to 7 p.m. (on Tues. and Frid. afternoons at Bad Kirchberg, see below). The Cur-Anlagen contain the Soolsprudel, a salt-water fountain 20 ft. in height. The Graditwerk (evaporating-house), 180 yds. long, is exclusively devoted to the purposes of the inhalation cure.

Near the station of Reichenhall-Kirchberg (p. 227), a handsome new bridge crosses the Saalach to the *Kirchberg Bath-House, with salt and mineral baths and whey-cure (board 5 M per day; R. 10-36 M per week, L. & A. extra).

Environs. One of the chief attractions of Reichenhall for invalids consists in the numerous shady woodland walks in the immediate neighbourhood of the town, some level and some gently ascending, e.g. in the Nonner Wald, Forstplantage, Kirchholz, etc. These are all marked by guide-boards and distance-posts. — On the Salzburg road, 1/2 M. to the N.E. of boards and distance-posts. — On the Saizburg road, 72 M. to the A.B. of the Curhaus, lies St. Zeno (Hofwirth; Schwabenbräu), once an Augustine monastery, of very ancient origin, but suppressed in 1803, and fitted up in 1853 as a nunnery and school. — The Königsweg, a winding path among the fine pines of the Kirchholz, begins behind the monastery and ascends gradually to (1/2 hr.) the Klosterhof (1770 ft.; Café). Hence across the hill to Gross-Gmain, 20 minutes.

To Gross-Gmain, a pleasant walk of 40 minutes. The route (footpath past Staimer's cafe, or road past the Villas Hessing and Langenfeld) crosses the hill, turns to the left by an old lime-tree, and descends gradually. Fine view of the Untersberg and Lattengebirge all the way. The pleasant little village (1710 ft.; Untersberg; Kaiser Karl) lies on the right bank of the Weissbach, just beyond the Austrian frontier. The picturesque ruined castle of Plain (popularly called Salzbüchsel; with belvedere) lies 11/2 M. to the E., at the base of the Untersberg.

To the W. of the Gradir Park, beyond the (1/2 M.) Nonner Steg (bridge across the Saalach), extends the Nonner Wald, which is intersected by numerous paths. The most frequented leads straight on (where it forks, we pass through the fence to the right) to (3/4 M.) Non (1590 ft.; Fuchsbauer's Restaurant), a village at the foot of the Hochstauffen, with an old church containing a Gothic *Altar of the 15th century. — The *Padinger Alpe (2170 ft.; cafe) may be reached from Non in 50 min.; splendid view of the Reichenhall valley. — Other pleasant promenades: to the Molkenbauer (30 min.), Alpgarten (1/2 hr.), Listsee (1 hr.), etc.; see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

Among the nearer mountain-excursions, the ascent of the "Zwiesel (5850 ft.), the W. and highest peak of the Staufengebirge, is particularly recommended (4 hrs.; guide unnecessary). Road to the (3 M.) farm of Langacker (rimts.), at the foot of the mountain; bridle-path thence, for the most part through beautiful beech and pine woods, to the (2 hrs.) Zwiesel-Alp (4790 ft.; Inu) and the (1 hr.) summit, which commands a magnificent mountain-panorama.—The ascent of the Hochstaufen (5815 ft.), the E. peak of the Stauffengebirge, is laborious (2½ hrs. from the Zwiesel-Alp: the ascent from Editor on the N side is preferable one p. 2006.

Alp; the ascent from Piding, on the N. side, is preferable, see p. 224).

To the Mauthhäusl, 2½ hrs., a very attractive excursion (carr. with one horse 6, carr. and pair 10½ M; omnibus daily in summer at 2.30 p.m. from the Hôtel Achselmannstein, returning at 6 p.m., returnfare 1½ M). The road leads to the W., passing Bad Kirchberg (p. 225), and ascends a wooded ravine. About 2½ M. from Reichenhall, on two rocky eminences, are the Chapel of St. Pancras (1800 ft.) and the ruin of Karlstein, two good points of view. About 3/4 M. farther on we reach the pretty Thumsee (1730 ft.), 1/2 M. long and 1/4 M. broad (Restaurant on the opposite bank). The road ascends from the W. end of the lake through the picturesque Nesselgraben to the (11/2 M.) pump-house of Obernesselgraben, at the summit of the pass (2120 ft.), and 1/4 M. farther on divides. The left branch descends to Schnaizlreut and Lofer (see below); while the right branch, known as the Neuweg, maintains its high level above the valley of the Weissbach (opposite rises the huge Ristfeichtkogel, 5315 ft.; to the S.E. the Watzmann), and reaches the (1/2 hr.) *Mauthhausl (20:5 ft.; Inn), in a most picturesque situation above the profound gorge of the Weissbach. A path leads down to the Gorges of the Weissbach and the Schrainbach Fail in the ravine beneath. — Beyond the Mauthhäusl the road goes on, past Weissbach and Inzell. to Traunslein (p. 223).

FROM REICHENHALL TO LOPER, 171/2 M., diligence twice daily in 41/2 hrs.; carr. with one horse 17, with two horses 27 M. From (5 M.) Obernesselgraben (see above) the road descends abruptly to (2 M.) Schnaiztreut (1610 ft.; Inn), a hamlet in the Saalach valley, beyond which it crosses the Bodenbühl to (21/4 M.) Unken (1810 ft.; *Post; Lamm), a favourite health-resort. About 2 M. to the S. are the small baths of Oberrain (Inn). A visit should be paid to the imposing gorge of the *Schwarzberg-Klamm, 21/2 hrs. to the W., and to the Staubfall (3 hrs.). The *Sonntagshorn (6436 ft.), easily ascended in 41/2 hrs. (guide not indispensable), commands a magnificent view. — From Unken the road traverses the Kniepass to (6 M.) Lofer (2096 ft.; *Post; *Bräu; *Schweizer), a straggling village, much visited as a summer-resort, and beautifully situated between the Loferer Steinberge to the W. and the Reitalp-Gebirge to the E. Pleasant excursions to the Loferer Hochthal, the Loferer Alpe, etc. About 6 M. to the S., on the Oberweissbach road, is the interesting *Vorderkaser-Klamm. For details, see English Church Service in summer.

Berchtesgaden (1885 ft.), a small Bavarian town with 2300 inhab.. was down to 1803 the seat of an independent provostry, or ecclesiastical principality, the dominions of which were so mountainous and so limited in extent (165 sq. M.), that it was jestingly said to be as high as it was broad (interesting relief-map in the above-mentioned reading-room). One-sixth part only was cultivated, the remainder consisting of rock, forest, and water. The handsome old abbey is now a royal château. The Abbey Church possesses Romanesque cloisters, carved stalls, marble tombs of the Abbots of Berchtesgaden, and an interesting crypt. The Luitpold Park, in front of the royal villa to the S. of the town, was embellished in 1893 with a bronze *Statue of Prince Luitpold, regent of Bavaria, by F. von Miller. This point commands a fine view: to the left the Schwarzort, Hohe Göll, and Hochbrett, in the background the Stuhlgebirge and Schönfeldspitze, to the right the Kleine and Grosse Watzmann. In the valley, on the Ache, are situated extensive Salt Works and the Station of the Reichenhall Railway (p. 227). Berchtesgaden is a very favourite summer-resort, and the environs afford an almost inexhaustible variety of beautiful walks and excursions.

Walks (comp. the guide-book issued by the local Alpine Club). About $\frac{3}{4}$ M. to the E., on the Salzburg road, is the Salt Mine, a visit to which requires about 1 hr. Ticket for the regular trips at 11 a.m. and 5 p.m., $\frac{11}{2}$ M each; at other hours, from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m., admission for one person $\frac{3}{2}$ M, for each additional person $\frac{1}{2}$ M. Visitors of each sex are provided with appropriate miners' costumes and with lanterns. sex are provided with appropriate miners' costumes and with lanterns. The mine is entered on foot, numerous flights of steps ascended, and an occasional descent accomplished by means of wooden slides inclined at an angle of 45° or more. The 'Salz-See', illuminated somewhat feebly by miners' lamps, is traversed in a boat. The party then passes through several other chambers and galleries, the most interesting of which is the huge Kaiser-Franz chamber, now deserted, and reaches the tramway by which the mine is quitted.

The *Lockstein (2235 ft.; 1/2 hr.) commands an admirable view of the valley of Berchtesgaden, particularly by evening-light. We turn to the right by the abbey-church and ascend the Doctorberg by the old Reichenhall road; at the hospital we turn to the right, again keeping to the right where the path divides, and proceeding through the wood to the restaurant. - A few hundred paces before the hospital, a charming path to the left skirts the precipitous Kälberstein (see below) by the 'Scolenleitung', or salt-water conduit, to the (1 4 hr.) Calvarienberg (fine view), and proceeds thence, passing above the royal villa, to the new Reichenhall road. - Another pleasant excursion may be made by following the old Reichenhall road past the hospital (see above) as far as the (1/2 hr.) Rosthäusl (2185 ft.), and then proceeding to the right through the Restauld to (1/4 br.) the Aschauer Weiher (2135 ft.), with swimming and other baths (1/4 M. to the N.E. the *Restaurant Dietfeldkaser, picturesquely situated). — A pleasant return-route from the Rosthäusl to Berchtesgaden is offered by the Königsweg, extending for 11/2 M. along the wooded slopes of the Kälberstein, and joining the old Reichenhall road at the hospital (see above). — A very pleasant walk may be taken to Bischofswiesen (p. 227) by following the old Reichenhall road to the (3 M.) Neuwirth (3/4 M. farther on, near the station, the Brennerbascht Inn), returning by the new Reichenhall road. A fine return-route is also afforded by the beautiful Maximilians-Reitweg, which is reached through meadows (marked path) in about 10 min. from the railway-station of Bischofswiesen. This bridle-path traverses the Rostwald, on the slope of the Untersberg, and ends at the Dietfeldkaser near the Aschauer Weiher (see above). - Another excursion leads to the (1 hr.) Bockl Weiher in the Strub (1985 ft.; Restaurant; baths), via the new Reichenhall road as far as Reitofen, then to the left via Urbanlehen to the Bischofswieser Ache, the right bank of which we ascend (from the pond to the Neuwirth, 25 min.).

The Schlösslbichl (1/2 hr.; 2075 ft.), an inn with a pretty view, at the mouth of the Gerner-Thal, is reached from Nonnthal by the Hilgerberg; in the vicinity are the Etzerschlösst, a villa belonging to Prince Urusoff, and the Etzer-Mühle, with a waterfall. A new road leads hence to (20 min.) the village of Gern (2390 ft.; Inn), with the pilgrimage-church of Maria-Gern (good ceiling-paintings and old votive tablets). A new path (red marks) ascends to the right between the school and the inn to the (23 min.)

*Marxen-Höhe (2566 ft.), affording a splendid view.

Schönau is a scattered village on the plateau between the Königsseer Ache and the Ramsauer Ache (pensions, see p. 227). A picturesque walk leads from the station past the château of Lustheim, to the (1 hr.) Vienna Cafe-Garden at the Pens. Gregory and (1/4 M.) the Kohlhiest (Cafe), returning by the Unterstein road (1/4 hr.) passing the Sulzberglehen, or vià Ilsank (p. 231; 2 hrs.). Charming views of the Hohe Göll, Brett, Kahlersberg, etc.

The Upper Salzberg (to Vordereck or Pens. Moritz, 11/2 hr.; omn. from the station to Pens. Moritz daily at 3.30 p.m., 3 M, carr. and pair 11 M 70 pf.) may be reached by crossing the Ache at the rifle-range, and proceeding by a road, shaded the greater part of the way, past (11/4 hr.) the Pension Steiner. Beyond this point the road divides, the left branch leading to (1/4 hr.) the forester's lodge at Vordereck (3180 ft.; Café; adjoining the *Pension Villa Regina), the right to (1/4 hr.) the Pension & Restaurant Moritz (3135 ft.), in a sheltered situation (pens. 8 M). The pensions on the Upper Salzberg (besides those already mentioned: Bergler; Hölzl; Kurz, etc.) are steadily growing in reputation as health-resorts.

The *Almbach-Klamm, a picturesque gorge through which the Almbach descends in cascades from the Untersberg, is an interesting object for an excursion (1½ hr.; carr. to the hotel in 3/4 hr.). We follow the Salzburg road to (31/4 M.) the *Almbach-Klamm Hotel, turn to the left to (5 min.) a bridge over the Ache, descend the left bank for 5 min., and near the Almbach-Mühle ascend on the left side of the gorge, which has recently been made accessible by a well-constructed path ('Pionierweg') as far as the (3/4 hr.) Theresienklause (2338 ft.). The finest point is the Gumpe, a rocky basin with a cascade 33 ft. high falling into a dark-green pool, about 8 min. from the entrance of the gorge.

*Vorderbrand (11/2-2 hrs.; carr. and pair there and back 13 M 70 pf.; donkey with attendant 10 M). At the (1/4 hr.) Wemholz, on the old KönigsSee road, we diverge to the left to (11/2 hr.) Vorderbrand (3485 ft.; *Inn). Thence in 20 min. to the Vordere and Hintere Brandkopf (3795 ft.), which afford magnificent views.

*Scharitzkehl-Alp (3360 ft.; 11/2-2 hrs.; guide, unnecessary, 3, donkey and attendant 10 M). From the rifle-range we ascend the Herzogberg to the right, passing the Kalte Keller (a deep rocky cleft), or diverge to the left from the Königs-See road opposite the station, and pass the Waldhäusl. Both routes unite near the Schiedlehen. The Alp (rfmts.) lies in an extensive meadow, surrounded by trees, between the Göhlstein and the Dürreckkopf. About 3/4 hr. farther up is the Endsthal. a desolate valley at the W. base of the Hohe Göll, containing rocky debris and patches of snow. From the Scharitzkehl-Alp to Vorderbrand 3/4 hr., to Vordereck 11/2 hr. (p. 229).

Mountain ascents (Knäufelspitze, Todte Mann, Jenner, Brett, Göhlstei Hohe Göll, etc.), see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

The gem of this district is the clear, dark-green Königs-See (1975 ft.), or Lake of St. Bartholomew, 6 M. long and 11/4 M. broad, the most beautiful lake in Germany, vying in grandeur with those of Switzerland and Italy. Some of the surrounding mountains, which rise almost perpendicularly from the water, are 6500 ft. in height above the lake. The new road, opened in 1894, crosses the Ache near the station by an iron bridge, and gradually ascends along the right bank of the stream to (11/4 hr.) the village of Königssee (Zum Königssee, Schiffmeister, both on the lake), on the bank of the lake, with a small bath-house.

The 'Schiffmeister' Moderegger presides over the rowing-boats and their crews, and regulates their trips. The fares are paid to him on returning; the rowers usually receive a small gratuity. The latter are sometimes stalwart peasant-girls. the sinews of whose arms might well be coveted by heroes of the Isis or the Cam. From the middle of June to 1st Oct. there are four regular trips daily round the lake, starting at 8.30 a.m., 11.30 are four regular trips daily round the lake, starting at 8.30 a.m., 11.30 a.m., 1.30 p.m., and 2.30 p.m., and occupying about $4^{3}/_{4}$ hrs., including $^{3}/_{4}$ hr. at the Sallet-Alp and 1 hr. at St. Bartholomä (fare for each pers. $1^{1}/_{2}$ M). Small boat (2 pers.), with one rower, to St. Bartholomä 3 M: with two rowers (1-4 pers.) to St. Bartholomä $4^{1}/_{2}$, to the Sallet-Alp $6^{1}/_{2}$ M; with three rowers (7 pers.) $7^{1}/_{2}$ and 11 M; for parties of 10 or upwards 1 M and $1^{1}/_{2}$ M each. The best plan is to row direct to the Sallet-Alp ($1^{1}/_{2}$ hr.), and call at St. Bartholomä in returning. The most favourable light is in the action of the sallet has a starting at the sallet has a sallet light is in the early morning or late in the afternoon.

LAKE VOYAGE. To the left, on a promontory, is the Villa Beust; in the lake lies the islet of Christlieger, with a statue of St. John Nepomuk. The boat passes the Falkenstein, a rock with a cross commemorating the wreck of a boat with a party of pilgrims about 150 years ago. The lake now becomes visible in its entire extent; in the background rise the Sagereckwand, the Grünsee-Tauern, and the Funtensee-Tauern, and adjoining them on the right the Schönfeldspitze (8700 ft.). On the E. bank the Königsbach falls over a red cliff (about 2525 ft.) into the lake. A little farther on, at the deepest part of the lake (616 ft.), a long, reverberating echo is awakened by a pistol fired in the direction of the W. cliffs (Brentenwand). In the vicinity, on the E. bank, not far from the Kessel Fall, is a cavern on a level with the water, called the Kuchler Loch, from which a streamlet enters the lake. The boat touches at the Kessel, a wooded promontory on the E. bank, whence a good path, leading through the Kesselgraben, ascends to the (10 min.) pretty waterfall of the Kesselbach (bridle-path to the Gotzen-Alp, see below).

The boat now proceeds to the S.W. to St. Bartholomä, a green promontory, with a chapel and a former royal hunting château. At the restaurant kept by the forester good salmon-trout (Salmo salvelinus, Ger. Saibling) may be obtained (dear). In the cellar is a large tank for keeping the fish.

On the S.W. bank of the lake the Schrainbach is precipitated into it from a rocky gorge. The Sallet-Alp, a poor pasture \(^{1}/_{2}\) M. in breadth and strewn with moss-grown rocks, with a villa of the Duke of Meiningen, separates the Königs-See from the beautiful *Obersee (2000 ft.), a lake 1 M. long, enclosed on three sides by lofty precipices of limestone. To the left rises the sheer Kaunerwand; beyond it tower the Teufelshörner (7855 ft.), from which a brook descends over the Röthswand in several arms from a height of 1800 ft. On the E. bank is the Fischunkel-Alp, to which a narrow path (not recommended) leads on the S. bank in \(^{1}/_{0}\) hr.

mended) leads on the S. bank in 1/2 hr.

From the Kessel (p. 230) a good path in long windings ascends to the (31/2-4 hrs.; guide, unnecessary, 5 M) *Gotzen-Alp (5530 ft.), opposite St. Bartholomä (rustic quarters, with 5 beds, in the Springel-Kaser). Magnificent view of the Uebergossene Alm, Steinerne Meer, Watzmann, Hohe Göll, Untersberg, etc. The view towards the N. is imperfect until we reach the (1/4 hr.) Feuerpulfen (5640 ft.) on the N.W. margin of the Alp. Somewhat beyond that point, from the brink of the rock lower down, the lake and St. Bartholomä are visible 3300 ft. below us. Descent to the (2 hrs.) Kessel. where a boat (previously ordered) should be in waiting. To the Ramsau a road leads direct from the Königs-See viâ Schönau (p. 229) to (41/2 M.) Ilsank (see below).

From Berchtesgaden to Reichenhall (12 M.), railway viâ Hallthurm in 11/4 hr.; see p. 227. A far preferable route, however, is the Road by the Ramsau and the Schwarzbachwacht (20 M.; omn. daily to the Hintersee, see p. 228). The road passes the Luitpold Park and beyond the Theresien-Allée joins the new Reichenhall road. After 3/4 M. (direction-post) it descends to the left, crossing the (1/3 M.) Gmundbrücke over the Bischofswieser Ache. At (21/4 M.) Usank (1910 ft.; Inn, pens. 4-5 M) a brook descending about 400 ft. works a pump by which the salt-water from the mines is forced up to the Söldenköpft, 1200 ft. higher, and over the Schwarzbachwacht to Reichenhall, a distance of 20 M.

A flight of steps ascends thence to the Söldenköpfl (3110 ft.; simple refreshments in the pump-house) whence a good path with fine views leads along the brine conduit to the (11/4 hr.) Zipfelhäusl (rfmts.) and the (13/4 hr.) Schwarzbachw: cht (p. 232).

The fine new road now runs along the left bank of the foaming Ache; to the left a grand view of the Watzmann; before us rises the broad Steinberg. The *Ramsau is remarkably picturesque owing to the contrast of the luxuriant vegetation of the valley with the imposing and picturesquely-shaped grey mountains.—On the left $(1^{1}/_{2}M)$. a finger-post indicates the path to the 'Jagdschloss Wimbach'.

A path crossing the bridge (2050 ft.; "Restaurant) to the left, and ascending to the right by the 'Trinkhalle', leads to the (1/4 hr.) "Wimbach-

its rocky ravine, into which the sun shines about noon.

The ascent of the "Watzmann (6-7 hrs.; guide 10 M, to the middle peak 12 M; to the Watzmann-Haus, 6 M), is not difficult for experts. We ascend from (1½ hr.) Ilsank by Schappach (rfmts.) to the (2½ hrs.) Mitterkaser-Alpe (4570 ft.) and the (1½ hr.) Watzmann-Haus on the Falz-köpft (6330 ft.; "Inn in summer). Thence we ascend the arcte to the E. of the Watzmann-Grube and over the Watzmann-Anger to the (2-2½ hrs.) Watzmann-Hocheck (5700 ft.). on which are a trigon metrical bench-mark and two crosses. The "View embraces the Gross-Glockner, Gross-Vendiger, Krimmler Tauern, the vast Bavarian plain, the entire Salzkammergut and district of Berchtesgaden, with the Wimbach-Thal below, and the Köniya-See and Obersee to the S. Königs-See and Obersee to the S.

On the road, 1/2 M. above the finger-post (see p. 231), is the *Inn zur Wimbachklamm (pens. 4-5 M), and a little beyond it the *Inn zum Hochkalter. Then (3/4 M.) Ramsau (2190 ft.; Oberwirth, well spoken of). About 3/4 M. farther on the road divides, the branch to the Hintersee and the Hirschbichel (see below) leading to the left. The ROAD TO REICHENHALL ascends straight on (right), past the small Taubensee (2845 ft.) and through beautiful pine-woods, to the (2¹/₄ M.) Schwarzbachwacht (2910 ft.), a pump-house on the summit of the pass, beyond which the Brine Conduit (p. 231) runs parallel with the road (1/4 M. farther on is the small Inn zur Schwarzbachwacht). The road then descends into the deep wooded valley between the Reiter-Alpe on the left and the Lattengebirge on the right, and (3 M.) crosses the Schwarzbach. At the (1 M.) Jettenberg pump-house (1795 ft.; rfmts.), at the end of the valley, another bridge crosses the Schwarzbach, which forms a fine cascade (Staubfall) here and falls into the Saalach immediately below. The road skirts the right bank of the Saalach, passing opposite Fronau, to (41/2 M.) Reichenhall (p. 224).

The OBER-WEISSBACH ROAD crosses the Ache and again forks. The new road leads to the left, partly through wood, with fine views of the Reiter-Alpe, etc., and skirting the S.E. bank of the Hintersee, to the (1 hr.) Auzinger Inn (see below), where it rejoins the old road. The latter, to the right at the fork, recrosses the Ache, and ascends to the $(1\frac{1}{2} \text{ M.})$ Hintersee (2580 ft.), the W. bank of which it follows. Not far from the N.W. end of the lake, near the small St. Antoni Chapel, is the Wartstein Inn (pens. 4-5 M), affording a picturesque view of the Hochkalter with the Blaueis, the Hohe Göll, etc. About 3/4 M. farther on, 1/4 M. from the upper end of the lake, are the forester's house of Hintersee (2605 ft.) and the Bavarian custom-house. Opposite is *Auzinger's Inn.

EXCURSIONS from the Hintersee (Blaueis, Edelweisslahnerkopf, Stadel-horn, Hochkalter, etc.), see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

Those who desire to proceed to Reichenhall from the Hintersee take the road to the left at the N. end of the lake, skirting the W. side of the Wartstein (ascended in 25 min.; pretty view), turn to the left again 10 min. farther on, and in 1/2 hr. reach the Reichenhall road below the Taubensee (see above).

The beautiful valley between the Hochkalter (left) and the Reiter-Alpe (Grundübelhörner, Mühlsturzhorn; right) is now ascended to the (6 M.) Hirschbichel (3780 ft.; Inn), with the Austrian customhouse of Mooswacht.

The *Kammerlinghorn (8045 ft.), ascended from the Hirschbichel in 31/2-4 hrs. (somewhat fatiguing; guide, desirable, 5 M, from Ramsau 11 M), is an admirable point of view (Steinerne Meer, Tauern, etc.).

The road ascends a few hundred paces farther to its highest point (3870 ft.), and then descends into the Saalach-Thal (the marked footpath saves 1/4 hr.). Before us rise the imposing Leogang Steinberge. About 21/4 M. from the Hirschbichel, near a saw-mill, a finger-post indicates the way to the *Seisenberg-Klamm, a profound and very picturesque gorge, hollowed out by the action of the Weissbach, which dashes over huge blocks of rock below. At the (25 min.) Binder-Mühle, at the lower end of the ravine, we reach the Saalach-Thal; a road leads hence to (1/2 M.) Ober-Weissbach (2150 ft.; *Auvogl, near the church), where we rejoin the road from the Hirschbichel (to the left). The *Inn zur Frohnwies lies 1/2 M. to the S.

The road to Saalfelden (one-horse carr. from Frohnwies 4, twohorse 6-7 fl.; omnibus twice daily in summer, 1 fl.) traverses a defile (Hohlwege), 6 M. long, on the right bank of the Saelach. Near the deserted mill of Diesbach, the stream of that name forms a pretty waterfall (8 min. to the left of the road). The valley then expands, and the Tauern chain is seen towards the S.

91/2 M. Saalfelden, on the Salzburg and Tyrol Railway, see Baedeker's Eastern Alps.

The Burgstail (3210 ft.), the W. peak, commands a fine survey of the valley of the Regen, and of a great part of Bohemia and the Upper Palatinate. Amongst the woods on the W. spur lies the ruin of Lichteneck (2433 ft.). From the Burgstall to Kötzting, see p. 235. — We may penetrate farther into the Bavarian Forest by descending from the Eckstein on the S.E. side to the (25 min.) Diensthütte (refreshments). whence we may either descend to (3/4 hr.) Hohenwarth (p. 235), or follow the top of the hill to the (3/4 hr.) belvedere on the Hohenstein (path marked in red), and go thence viā Kager to (11/2 hr.) the high-road, which leads to (41/2 M.) Lam (p. 247).

100 M. Furth (1345 ft.; *Post; Zum Hohenbogen, at the station; Waschinger; breweries of Utz and Altmann; Rail. Restaurant), a small town with an ancient tower and a ruined castle, the junction of the Bohemian W. Railway (luggage examined).

In the Chambthal, about 1/2 M. to the E., lies the Wutzmühle (*Hôtel-Pension). Fine points of view are the Aepflet-Kuppe, 25 min. from Furth, and the Voitenberg (led. 35 min. farther on (nath. marked in white) and the Voitenberg-Oed, 35 min. farther on (path marked in white).

25¹/₂ M. Straubing (1090 ft.; Schwarzer Adler; Post, R. 1¹/₄- $2 \mathcal{M}$, B. 60 pf., D. $2 \mathcal{M}$; Kraus), a very ancient town (pop. 13.850) on the Danube, lies in an extensive and fertile plain, the granary of Bavaria. The late-Gothic church of *St. James (1429-1512) contains paintings attributed to Wohlgemut, a fine altar with statues of the year 1500, and good stained glass (1442 and 1503). The Romanesque church of St. Peter, in the cemetery on the lofty bank of the Danube, passes for the oldest building in the town and is supposed to occupy the site of the Roman Serviodurum. The Gothic Gymnasialkirche (of 1430), formerly the church of the Carmelites. contains the fine monument of Duke Albert II. (d. 1397). The Schloss (now barracks) was once occupied by Duke Albert III. with his wife Agnes Bernauer (p. 114), the beautiful daughter of a barber of Augsburg. Her father-in-law Duke Ernest, exasperated by his son's mésalliance, cruelly and unjustly caused her to be condemned to death and thrown into the Danube from the bridge (1435). Her remains were interred in the churchyard of St. Peter, as recorded by an inscription on a marble slab in the Agnes Bernauer Chapel (of 1436). The square Stadt-Thurm (223 ft.), with its five turrets, was erected by Duke Lewis I, in 1208.

30 M. Amselfing; 331/2 M. Strasskirchen, 4 M. to the S.W. of which are the mineral-baths of Münchshöfen; 37 M. Stephansposching. On the left the Natternberg (1260 ft.), with a ruined castle and a modern château. — 41 M. Plattling (1040 ft.), where the line crosses the Isar, near its confluence with the Danube, junction for Mühldorf and Eisenstein. (Excursion in the Bavarian Forest, see p. 245.)

461/2 M. Langenisarhofen; 50 M. Osterhofen; 54 M. Girching; 561/2 M. Pleinting. The line nears the Danube, and follows it to Passau. On the opposite bank rises the well-preserved ruin of Hiltgersberg.

- 60 M. Vilshofen (1007 ft.; Ochs; Bayrischer Hof), the Roman Villa Quintanica, at the confluence of the Vils and Danube, has a Gothic church of 1376. — 64 M. Sandbach. On a rock to the left, farther on, we observe a recumbent lion, erected to the memory of Maximilian I., the projector of the high-road, which between this point and Passau is in many places hewn through the rock.
- 69 M. Schalding; 71 M. Heining. The towers of Passau, the fortress of Oberhaus, and the charming environs of the town now come into view. Luggage is examined at the station.
- 74 M. Passau. Hotels. *BAYRISCHER HOF (Pl. a; C, 3), R., L., & A. 74 M. B, 3), Ludwigs-Platz; Stockbauer-Garten (Pl. E, 2, 3), with view of the Danube; Krembauer, at Anger (Pl. C, 2; p. 239); Peschlkeller (Pl. A, 3), near the station, with terrace towards the Danube; Stockbauerkeller (Pl. B, 4), Schmeroldkeller, Hellkeller (Pl. A, 4), beyond the drill-ground; Innstadt Brewery (Pl. E, 4). — Post & Telegraph Offices, at the rail. station (Pl. A, 3) and in the old Canonical Court in the Domplatz (Pl. C, 3; p. 238). — Baths in the Danube, left bank; also in the 11z, (Pl. C, 3; p. 238). - Baths in the Danube, left bank; also in the Ilz. right bank, warmer.

Passau (960 ft.), the Castra Batava of the Romans, the capital of an episcopal see from 739 to 1803, with 16,600 inhab., lies on a rocky tongue of land formed by the confluence of the Inn (319 yds. in breadth) with the Danube (only 264 yds. wide). Numerous houses, chiefly of the 17th and 18th cent., on the banks of the rivers, especially on the Inn, give the town an imposing appearance. The peculiar and picturesque situation of the town at the confluence of the Danube, Inn, and Ilz, and the variety of views commanded by the neighbouring heights, will amply repay a short visit to Passau, one of the most beautiful places on the Danube.

From the station (Pl. A, 3) the Bahnhof-Str. leads to the E. to the Ludwigs-Platz (Pl. B, 3), and thence, somewhat to the left, to he Neum arkt or Ludwig-Str., which, with its E. continuation the Rindermarkt, is the busiest part of the town. To the right, at the corner of the Heilige-Geist-Str., is the Votivkirche in the Romanesque style, erected in 1564 and remodelled in 1864. On the façade are statues of Christ and the Apostles. The interior, which has no aisles, is tastefully decorated. Above the high-altar is a group of the Coronation of the Virgin by Knabl. — Adjacent, on the right, is the Heilige Geistspital, with a church and the tavern mentioned at p. 237.

Farther on, on the left side of the Rindermarkt, is the St. Johannes-Spitalkirche (Pl. C, 2), with numerous wood-carvings, ancient and modern, ranged along the walls, and tombstones in red marble. To the right, higher up, is the Parish Church of St. Paul (Pl. C, 2), built in 1678 and skilfully painted in the interior in 1851.

Passing through the Paulusbogen adjoining the church, we ascend to the right through the Postgasse to the Parade-Platz or Domplatz (Pl. C, D, 3). On the E. side, on a height overlooking the town, rises the CATHEDRAL OF ST. STEPHEN, founded perhaps as early as the 5th cent., restored in the Gothic style in the 15th cent., and rebuilt in a florid rococo style by C. Lorago after a fire in 1662 (nave completed in 1684, towers in 1695). This is one of the finest German churches of the 17th century. The outside of the choir. transept, and dome date from the 15th cent. restoration, but the interior has been modernized. The fine organ, by Hechenberger (1889), is the largest in Bavaria. On the N. side is the Domhof, with interesting restored chapels; on the wall of the cathedral here are numerous old gravestones. The chapel of the Holy Trinity (1572), with a large modern carved altar and the names of all the bishops of Passau, contains the monument of the founder, Prince-Bishop Trenbach (d. 1598). The Heinrichs-Kapelle, with modern stained-glass windows and gilded carving, dates from 1710. The Via Dolorosa or Kreuzweg Chapel (1414) has four slender octagonal pillars, and old tombstones of red marble on the walls. The adjacent Mt. of Olives or Oelberg Chapel, founded in 1288, contains a marble tomb of Count Heinrich III., erected in 1360.

The Parade-Platz in front of the cathedral is adorned with a Statue of Maximilian I. in bronze. Opposite to it, on the W. side, is the Post Office, formerly the Canons' Residence, historically interesting as the place where the Treaty of Passau (1552), establishing religious toleration, was concluded between Emp. Charles V. and Elector Maurice of Saxony. See the inscriptions above and adjoining the entrance. The present building dates from 1724.

The choir of the cathedral adjoins the Residenz-Platz (Pl. D, 3), in which rise the Old Bishop's Palace (now containing the Amtsgericht and the Landgericht) and the New Bishop's Palace (1771), both with rich rococo portals.

A street descends hence to the right to the Inn Bridge (see p. 239). To the left the Schrottgasse leads to the pier of the Danube steamers, passing the Rathhaus (Pl. E, 3), rebuilt after a fire in 1662, and considerably enlarged and provided with a tower in 1888-93. The walls and ceiling of the Council Chambers are embellished with paintings from the history of Passau, by F. Wagner. Below is the tastefully decorated Rathhauskeller (p. 237). Going farther E., we then follow the Braugasse to the right to the Church of the Holy Cross (Pl. E, 3), belonging to the dissolved nunnery of Niedernburg, a Romanesque basilica of the beginning of the 13th cent., with low vaulting, lately restored. It is now a school kept by English nuns. The Maria-Parz Chapel on the S. side contains the tomb of the Abbess Gisela, Queen of Hungary, and sister of Emp. Henry II. (shown on application).

The Braugasse leads on to the promontory at the E. end of the town, with a few relics of the old castle of Ort, where we obtain a fine view of the broad expanse formed by the confluence of the rivers, whose different-coloured waters seem to strive for the mastery.

An iron bridge crosses the Inn to the Innstadt (Pl. C-E, 4), the ancient Bojodurum, rebuilt since its destruction by fire in the war of 1809. The church of St. Severinus (Pl. C, 4), who was a missionary here in the 5th cent., dates from the Romanesque period but was remodelled in the Gothic style in 1476. The Parish Church of St. Gertraud (Pl. D. 4) was restored in 1888. Following the Mariahilfgasse from the bridge and then ascending to the right, outside the town-gate, by the road leading to the Waldschloss (see below), we reach (1/4 hr.) the pilgrimage-church of *Mariahilf (1256 ft.; Pl. E. 4). Both on the way to the church and above it we obtain charming surveys of the town, the confluence of the Inn and Danube, and the fortress of Oberhaus. The church, with its richly gilt altar, attracts numerous worshippers. The court contains tasteful modern Stations of the Cross, with coloured reliefs. From the vestibule of the church, garnished with votive tablets, a flight of 164 steps descends to Innstadt. — In Austrian territory, 1/2 M. from Mariahilf, is the Waldschloss, a restaurant prettily situated on the margin of a wood.

The Town Park (Pl. A, 2), on the slopes of the left bank of the Danube, 1/2 M. to the W. of the Maximilians-Brücke (see below), affords a number of shady wood-walks. A little higher up is the Plantage (beer-saloon), whence roads and paths lead back to the Danube viâ the episcopal château of Freudenhain (Pl. A, 1; 1790-92), now a school.

The fortress of *Oberhaus (1378 ft.; Pl. E, 2), built by Bishop Ulric II. in 1219, crowns the precipitous, wooded height of the Georgsberg, on the left bank of the Danube, opposite Passau. It is connected by a rampart and walls with the old fortress of Niederhaus (Pl. F, 2), on the tongue between the Ilz and the Danube. The road leaves the town at the upper end, crosses the Danube by the Maximilians-Brücke, 240 yds. long, and descends on the left bank through the small suburb of Anger, and through a tunnel in the rock, to the Ilz. The shortest route for pedestrians is by the new Chain Bridge at the lower end of the town (3 pf.). On the left, beyond the tunnel, is the Gothic Salvator-Kirche (Pl. E, 2), a curious three-storied edifice, with groined vaulting and a series of chapels, erected in 1479-84 on the site of a synagogue and restored in 1861. Modern carved altar, gilded and painted, with good imitations of Adam Krafft's Stations of the Cross at Nuremberg (p. 103).

From the Ilz Bridge (see below) the road ascends to the left to the lower gate of the fortress in 1/4 hr. The *Belvedere on the Katz battery (adm. 50 pf., on Sun. 20 pf.; adjacent the Lusenhütte Restaurant) affords a beautiful survey (best in the evening) of the town, of the valleys of the Ilz, the Danube, and the Inn, and of the hills of the Bohemian and Bavarian Forests (see the excellent indicator). A red flag on the fortress indicates that the weather is clear enough for a view of the Berchtesgaden and Salzburg Alps to the S. The tower contains a small collection of objects from the Bavarian Forest. The well which supplies the fortress is 426 ft. deep, and extends down to the level of the Danube. In the middle ages the Oberhaus, now a state-prison, frequently afforded the bishops a refuge from civic broils. In 1809 it was occupied by the French, and the Austrians prepared to besiege it; but they abandoned their intention after their defeat at Ratisbon (p. 119).

Those whose time is limited may take the footpath from Oberhaus to the right, by a small house before the old powder-magazine is reached, and descend direct to the IIz and Danube, or they may follow the telegraph-posts to the left and then descend the steps to the bridge over the Danube. But the traveller who has 2 hrs. to spare should follow the top of the hill from the upper gate of the fortress, passing the old powder-magazine, to (25 min.) Ries (*Inn), and descend thence to (!/4 hr.) *Hals (960 ft.; Hydropathic Establishments), a village charmingly situated in the valley of the Ilz, and commanded by the ruined castle of the same name. There is an old pillory by a corner-house in the market-place. Above the village (finger-post), by the Hofbauer, we cross the IIz (3pf.), and descend the promenade on the left bank to the (!/4 hr.) Durchbruch, a tunnel, 143 yds. on the wooded hill above the tunnel is the ruined castle of Reschenstein. In clefts of the rocks here is found a beautiful luminous moss. A footway, protected by a balustrade, leads through the tunnel. At the farther end there is a long barrier to intercept the floating timber as it descends from the Bavarian Forest (p. 245). A foot-bridge crosses from the upper end of the tunnel to the Trifthäuschen (rfmts.) on the right bank. We return through the Durchbruch, follow the left bank for 8 min., and cross to the steam saw-mill; then follow the right bank to the (!/4 hr.) bridge of Hals. We return by the road on the right bank of the IIz to (1!/2 M.) the suspension-bridge of Passau (see above).

At the mouth of the Ilz (see above), an important channel for the timber-traffic, a bridge crosses to the Ilzstadt (Pl. E, 1, 2), at the base of the Nonnberg, inhabited by boatmen and raftsmen. Above it rises the (20 min.) *Klosterberg, or Nonnengütl (Pl. E, 2; visitors generally admitted), a charming point of view, which affords the best survey of the union of the light-gray Inn, the yellowish-green Danube, and the inky Ilz. After having received the waters of the Inn, the Danube becomes a noble stream.

The belvedere on the *Schardenberg (1785 ft.) is another of the numerous fine points near Passau. We cross the bridge over the Inn, and ascend the Linz road to (3 M.) Gattern, 1½ M. beyond which a road, slightly descending to the right from the high-road, leads to the tower (adm. 10 pf.) in a few minutes. Restaurant adjacent. A most extensive view is here enjoyed of the Bavarian Mts. and the Alps of the Salzkammergut and Styria, with a picturesque foreground. We may now descend in 3/4 hr. to Wernstein (p. 242).

From Passau to Neumarkt (Rott-That Railway), see p. 244.

From Passau a pleasant excursion may be taken to the S.E. part of the Bavarian Forest (comp. p. 245).

From Passau to Freyung, 30 M., railway in 3 hrs. The train crosses the Danube above Passau, ascends through wood to (6 M.) Tiefenbach (1207 ft.), and then winds down to the pretty valley of the It. Stations. Fischhaus; Kalteneck; 15½M. Fürsteneck (1397 ft.), a prettily situated château, now an inn. We then follow the valley of the Osterbach. 19½M. Röhmbach (1692 ft.; "Pfreimter); 24 M. Waldkirchen ("Post; Abel; Meindl); 27 M. Karlsbach. — 30 M. Freyung (2170 ft.; "Pröbstl; Post), a busy little town. About ¼ hr. to the N., on a rock towering above the brawling Sausbach, is the imposing château of Wolfstein, now occupied by the district-authorities; and ½ hr. to the S.W. rises the Geiersberg (2592 ft.), a splendid point of view. From Freyung we may proceed to the N., viâ the Bierhütte and Haslach, to (2 hrs.) Hohenau (2638 ft.; "Moosbauer). Or we may choose the longer but pleasanter route, which descends by the church of Freyung, crosses the Sausbach, and descends on the right bank, through the "Buchberger Leite, a romantic rocky gorge, to (4½M.) the mill of Buchberg; we then ascend to the right by Saulohrn and Haslach to (1½ hr.) Hohenau. From Hohenau roads lead to the S.W. to (4½M.) Grafenau (p. 246), and to the N.W. to (6 M.) St. Oswald (p. 247; route to the Rachelsee and over the Rachel to Klingenbrunn, 5 hrs., see p. 247). Ascent of the Lusen (p. 247) direct, viâ the Schönauer Glashütte, 3½ hrs. (guide 3 M); descent by Waldhäuser to St. Oswald, 2½ hrs. (comp. p. 247).

EXCURSION TO THE DREISESSELSTEIN, very attractive (2 days; diligence from Passau to Breitenberg daily in 5½ hrs.; from Waldkirchen in 3 hrs.). We cross the Itz and descend by the Danube to the (3 M.) Kernmühle. Here we ascend to the left to (1 hr.) the baths of Kellberg (1443 ft.; *Pension, moderate; omnibus to and from Passau on Wed. and Sat.), prettily situated on the hill and commanding a charming view. Thence to the N.W., through the finely situated little town of Tyracu (1560 ft.; Zum Edelfurters, Enginger). ner; Enzinger), and by the old road to (21/2 hrs.) Hauzenberg (1800 ft.; Post; J. Stemplinger; A. Stemplinger), near which rises the Staffelberg (2600 ft.), with a belyedere-tower. The road then leads via Freudensee, with its ruin and small lake, Passreut, and Krinning, to (21/2 hrs.) Sonnen (2676 ft.; *Post; Metzger), a high and prettily situated village, and thence (picturesque) to (13/4 hr.) Breitenberg (see below). Or we may go from the Kernmühle (see above) along the bank of the Danube to Erlau and (21/2 hrs.) Obernzell (see p. 242); then ascend the valley to the left to (3 M.) Griesbach (1828 ft.; *Oetzinger), where the road forks. The branch to the left leads to Hauzenberg (see above). We take the branch to the right, by (1 hr.) Wildenranna and (11/4 hr.) Wegscheid (2360 ft.; Fenzl; Haydn), a small town with linen factories, to (3 hrs.) Breitenberg (2316 ft.; *Post, with fine view from the veranda). The road now descends towards the N. to (3/4 hr.) Klafferstrass, and ascends slightly to (3/4 hr.) Lackenhäuser (2668 ft.; Rosenberger). A good path ascends thence in 11/2 hr. to the top of the Dreisesselstein (4300 ft.; inn). The summit consists of huge piled-up blocks of granite; admirable view of the Bohemian Forest and the Alps. Still finer from the Hohenstein (4365 ft.), 1/4 M. distant. From the Dreisesselstein a path on the crest of the hill leads past the Dreisekmarkstein (4330 ft.), where the boundaries of Bavaria, Bohemia, and Austria meet, to (11/4-11/2 hr.) the Blockenstein (4523 ft.), mirrored in the dark waters of the solitary, forest-girt Blöckenstein-See (evening light best). On the bank of the lake is a monument to Adalbert Stifter (d. 1868), who has celebrated this spot in his poems. Back to Lackenhäuser in 2 hrs. — From the Dreisesselstein to Hirschbergen and Salznau (Budweiss), see Baedeker's Austria. A visit to the Bohemian Forest on the Kubani is best accomplished by taking the diligence (once daily in 3 hrs.) from Freyung (see p. 241) to (12 M.) Kuschwarda (2735 ft.; *Reif; Paullik), a village and summerresort prettily situated at the foot of the Schlössberg. Hence we proceed to the (1½ hr.) glass-works of Eleonorenhain (*Tourists' Inn), whence a visit to the highly interesting primæval forest on the S. slope of the Kubani (4468 ft.) may be made in 3 hrs. (there and back). — From Kuschwarda vià Böhmisch-Röhren and Neuthal to the Dreisesselstein (p. 241), 5 hrs.; guide advisable. — A very attractive trip crosses the Lusen to St. Oswald in 7 hrs. (guide). The route leads viâ the (2 hrs.) Alm (3743 ft.; rfmts.), with a splendid view, to (11/4 hr.) Mauth (*Strunz), and then follows a marked path viâ the Tummelplatz (rfmts.) to the (2 hrs.) Lusen-Spitze (p. 247); descent to St. Oswald (p. 247), 11/2 hr.

The RAILWAY to Linz passes through a long tunnel, crosses the Inn, and ascends on the right bank of the river. 80 M. Wernstein, with an old château, on a height opposite. —83 M. Schärding (*Hôt. Altmann; Rail. Restaurant), an ancient town with 3600 inhab., picturesquely situated on the Inn, junction of the Salzkammergut Railway (see Baedeker's Austria). Near it is the village of Brunnenthal, with a chalybeate spring. - The line now ascends the Pramthal. 89 M. Taufkirchen; 92 M. Andorf; 98 M. Riedau; 106 M. Neumarkt (*Reiss), junction of the Simbach-Munich line (R. 40); 113 M. Grieskirchen. We now descend (to the right a view of the Alps with the Traunstein) by Wallern to (1241/2 M.) Wels, a station on the Linz and Salzburg railway. Thence to (140 M.) Linz, see Baedeker's Austria.

STEAMBOAT JOURNEY. The steamer, far preferable to the railway, generally leaves Passau at 3 p.m., and reaches Linz in 4 hrs. Luggage examined before embarkation (comp. p. 236).

The scenery of the Danube is grander, but less smiling than that of the Rhine, while the finest points are often rather far apart. The mountains are higher, and the banks are generally fringed with forest, or clothed with luxuriant pasture; but the population is poor and sparse, and there is an almost total absence of the busy traffic which characterises the sister-river.

A beautiful retrospect of the town and environs is enjoyed immediately after starting. Below Passau the right bank belongs to Austria, and the left bank as far as Engelhartszell to Bavaria.

L. Erlau.

R. Schloss Krempelstein, on an abrupt cliff.
L. (3.30 p.m.) Obernzell or Hafnerzell (964 ft.; *Post; Saxinger), the last Bavarian village, with large quarries of graphite and manufactories of lead-pencils and fire-proof crucibles. Excursion to the Bavarian Forest, see p. 241.

R. Viechtenstein, an old Schloss on the hill, formerly the property of the bishops of Passau and now of Count Pachta. Farther on, below Grünau, the Jochenstein, jutting far into the river on the left, was the ancient boundary between Bavaria and Austria. The present boundary is a wooded ravine on the left bank, a little lower down.

R. (4 p.m.) Engelhartszell (*Post), prettily situated, with the Austrian custom-house (p. 236). Near it is Engelszell, once a Cistercian monastery, now owned by Count Pachta.

L. Ranariedl, an ancient mountain-castle, still inhabited; at the foot of the hill is the village of Niederranna.

- R. (4.18 p.m.) Wesenufer or Wesenurfahr, an old town, with a large wine cellar hewn in the rock, formerly owned by the cathedral chapter of Passau.
 - L. Marsbach, with the ancient tower of a mediæval castle.

R. Waldkirchen, a ruin on a pine-clad rock.

L. Hayenbach, or the Kirschbaumer Schloss, destroyed by Emp. Maximilian I., is seen a second time after a bend in the river.

The channel of the river now contracts to nearly half its former width, and is confined between precipitous wooded hills, 600-1000 ft. in height. This is one of the grandest parts of the river. At—

L. Obermichl, a pleasant village, the Kleine Michl descends from a wooded ravine into the Danube.

L. Neuhaus, a handsome château on a lofty wooded height, the property of Herr von Plank. The Danube suddenly emerges on a broad plain shortly before we reach -

R. (5.30 p.m.) Aschach (Sonne; Adler), a small town extending picturesquely along the bank, with the château and park of Count Harrach. The Pöstlingberg with its church, near Linz, comes into view; in clear weather the Styrian and Austrian Alps form the background towards the S.; and to the right rises the Traunstein. The view is soon concealed by the numerous islands, overgrown with underwood, between which the river flows.— From this point to Linz, and beyond it, the valley was the scene of many a sanguinary encounter during the revolt of the peasantry of Upper Austria. In 1626 Aschach was the headquarters of the insurgents, where, as well as at Neuhaus, they had barricaded the Danube with chains to prevent the Bavarians from assisting Count Herberstein, the Austrian governor, who was shut up at Linz.

[RAILWAY TO WELS, 171/2 M., in 11/2 hr., via Efferding, Breitenaich, and

Haiding. Wels, see Baedeker's Handbook to Austria.]

Perched on the hills to the right are the ruined castles of Stauf and Schaumburg. The latter was once the ancestral seat of a powerful family which held sway over the whole valley between Passau and Linz, but became extinct in 1559.

L. Landshag, with a small château of Count Harrach.

R. Brandstatt is the station for Efferding (rail. stat., see above), one of the most ancient places in Upper Austria, mentioned in the Nibelungen-Lied (21st Adventure) as the place where Kriemhild passed the night on her journey to the land of the Huns. The village is said formerly to have lain on the Danube, but the tower only is now visible. To the left in the distance rises the Pöstlingberg.

L. Ottensheim, with its white walls, is conspicuous (rail. stat., see p. 251). Château of Count Coudenhove.

R. Wilhering, a Cistercian abbey (1146), with a pleasant garden.

L. Schloss Buchenau. Then the Postlingberg, crowned with its church and fortifications.

R. The Calvarienterg, with the Jägermayr rising above it. The steamer passes under the handsome new bridge and reaches —

R. (7 p.m.) Linz (see Baedeker's Austria).

43. From Rosenheim to Eisenstein by Mühldorf and Plattling. The Bavarian Forest.

133 M. RAILWAY in 83/4 hrs. (fares 17 M 20, 11 M 40, 7 M 40 pf.).

Rosenheim, see p. 222. Soon after starting, the train diverges to the right from the Munich railway and runs to the N., across the plain of the Inn. $5^{1}/_{2}$ M. Schechen; 10 M. Rott, with an old Benedictine abbey on a hill to the left. The line crosses the valley of the Attel on a lofty embankment, passing on the right the ancient provostry of Attel, and at (16 M.) Wasserburg reaches the top of a lofty plateau on the left bank of the Inn. The town of Wasserburg (1640 ft.; Hôtel Schliessleder; 3700 inhab.), a summer-resort, lies 3 M. to the right, on a peninsula formed by the Inn, and is not visible from the railway.

The train passes the Soyer See, or Kitzsee, and (19 M.) Soyen, and skirts the steep slopes of the Nasenbach. Reaching the lofty left bank of the Inn, we now cross the river, flanked here with wooded heights, at Königswarth, by means of a viaduct 330 yds. long and 161 ft. high. We next descend on the right bank to (25 M.) Gars, opposite which lie the village and monastery of that name. Lower down, on the left bank, is the extensive monastery of Au. Beyond (28½ M.) Jettenbach, with a château of Count Törring, the river is again crossed. On the wooded table-land lies the station of (32 M.) Kraiburg (a village on the right bank of the Inn, 3 M. to the E.). The train quits the forest, passes the church and lunatic asylum of Ecksberg on the right, and near (38½ M.) Mühldorf (p. 233) reaches the Munich railway.

The train runs to the N. (to the right the railway to Simbach, p. 233), and crosses the Isen. Beyond (43 M.) Rohrbach it crosses the watershed between the Inn and the Rott. — 48 M. Neumarkt an der Rott (1470 ft.), with two late-Gothic churches.

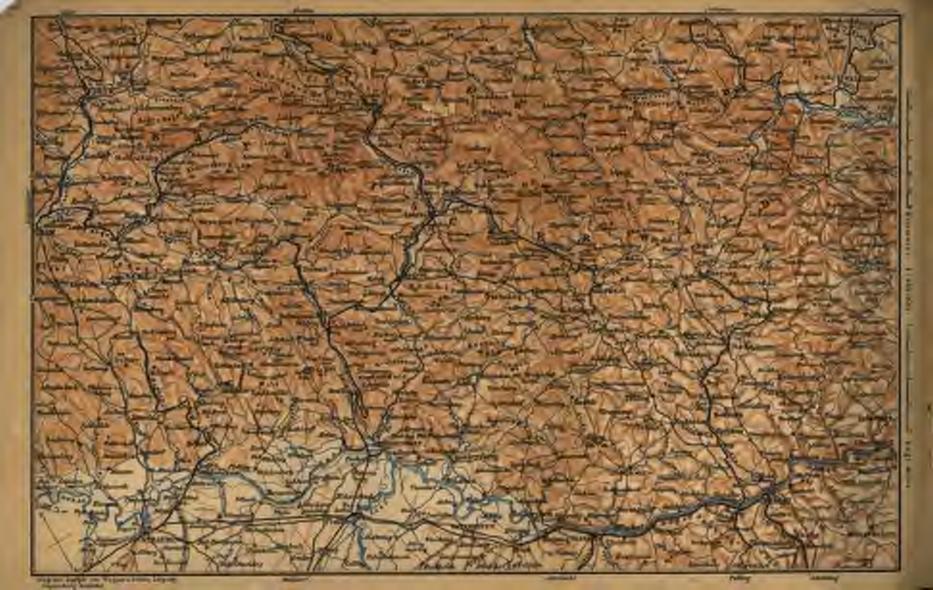

FROM NEUMARKT TO PASSAU, 61 M. (branch-railway, 5-51/2 hrs.). The line skirts the left bank of the Rott. Stations Hörbering, Massing, Dietfurt, (121/2 M.) Eggenfelden. Beyond (22 M.) Pfarrkirchen (1250 ft.) the train crosses the Rott. Stations Anzenkirchen, Birnbach, Karpfham. Then (39 M.) Pocking, in the broad valley of the Inn. Next stations Ruhstorf, Sulzbach am Inn, Engertsham, Höhenstadt (with sulphur-baths), Fürstenzell, Neustift.—61 M. Passau, see p. 237.

From Neumarkt to Landshut, see p. 136.

Leaving the Rott-Thal 2 M. below Neumarkt, the train runs to the N. through a hilly district to $(54^1/2 \text{ M.})$ Gangkofen, on the Bina, crosses at (58 M.) Trembach the watershed between the Rott and the Vils, and descends to the Vilsthal. — 63 M. Frontenhausen; the village, with an interesting late-Gothic church, lies $1^1/2$ M. to the W. We cross the Vils, ascend the opposite bank, cross the profound Seegraben by a lofty viaduct, and reach the watershed between the Vils and the Isar. $67^1/2$ M. Griesbach; $72^1/2$ M. Mamming, where the Isar is crossed; 75 M. Pilsting, junction for Landshut (p. 136). Then $(77^1/2 \text{ M.})$ Landau; the town, with 3200 inhab., lies 1 M. to the S., on the right bank of the Isar. — To Landshut (and Munich), see p. 136.

Below Landau the train enters the broad plain of the Danube. Fine glimpse of the nearer hills of the Bavarian Forest, with the distant Arber (p. 247). — 82 M. Wallersdorf; 85¹/₂M. Otzing; 89 M. Plattling, where we cross the Ratisbon and Passau railway (p. 237).

Beyond Plattling the line nears the Danube, passing the isolated Natternberg with its ruin on the left, and crosses the river by an iron bridge, 410 yds. long. — 94 M. Deggendorf (1090 ft.: *Drei skirts of the town is the District Lunatic Asylum.

The Geiersberg (1243 ft.), 1/2 hr. to the N., with a pilgrimage-church, commands a fine view of the valley of the Danube; that from the Kanzel (2378 ft.), reached by a marked path in 11/2 hr., is more extensive.—Pleasant excursion from Deggendorf by the old post-road, through the valley of the Höllenbach, to the (9 M.) beautifully-situated Rusel (2595 ft.; *Inn.), formerly a monastery. Thence on foot through the wood to the (1/2 hr.) *Hausstein (3007 ft.), which commands a magnificent view of the plain of the Danube and the distant Alps (Watzmann, Steinerne Meer, Dachstein, etc.).— The road leads from the Rusel through the valley of the Ohebach, past the castle of Au, destroyed last century, to (9 M.) Regen (see below).

To the W. of Deggendorf (2¹/₂ M.; narrow-gauge railway in ¹/₄ hr.) lies Metten (1043 ft.; Post), a Benedictine abbey with a celebrated school, founded by Charlemagne in 792. *Schloss Egg (1243 ft.), seat of Count Hohenthal, ³/₄ M. to the N., has been restored in the mediæval style by Volz.

The railway from Deggendorf to Eisenstein, traversing the Bavarian Forest, has had many engineering difficulties to encounter.

The Bavarian Forest is the S. W. portion of the extensive Bohemian Forest Mountains, and includes the highest peaks in the range (the Arber 4780 ft., the Rachel 4763 ft.). Nearly one-half of this mountain-region, which is upwards of 1800 sq. M. in area, and lies between the Danube and the Bohemian frontier, extending from Cham and Furth on the N. to below Passau towards the S., is covered with pine and beech-forest, much of which, especially in the less frequented parts (e.g. the Rachel and Falkenstein), is still in a primæval condition. At Hals (p. 240), Zwiesel (p. 246), and other places there are traces of glacier-action and moraines, indicating that the mountains were once covered with ice. The beautiful dark forest-tarns also owe their origin to ancient glaciers. The timber-trade and cattle-breeding are the chief resources of the natives, but glass and linen are also manufactured. Snuff, to which they are much addicted, is carried about in little glass bottles made in the district. The paths are good; the inns, though unpretentious, are generally clean and cheap.

The line ascends the W. slopes of the Kollbach-Thal, crosses the valley by an embankment, turns to the S., and reaches (1001/2 M.) Ulrichsberg (1319 ft.), 1/2 hr. above which is the Ulrichsberg (1750 ft.; Inn), with a pilgrimage-church and a fine view. The train then skirts the Kühberg (to the right a magnificent view of the plain of the Danube, bounded by the Salzburg Alps), passes through a curved tunnel, 530 yds. in length, and ascends the Graftinger-Thal in long windings. Then through another tunnel, 630 yds. long, to (109 M.) Gotteszell (1805 ft.; Bräuhaus, 1/4 hr. from the station), in the Teisnach-Thal, with a Cistercian abbey, rebuilt since a fire in 1830.

Interesting excursion (3 hrs.; road) from Gotteszell by Tafertsried, Achslach, and the forester's house of Oedwies (good quarters) to the Hirschenstein (3662 ft.), with an extensive view. To the E. of this point is the (½ hr.) Rauhe Kolm or Klauenstein (3420 ft.), with a fine view to the S. To the N.W. are the Glashüttenriegel and the Predigistuhl (3556 ft.); in a pretty valley at the foot of the latter lies the village of Engelmar (2637 ft.; Echinger).

FROM GOTTESZELL TO VIEOHTACH, 15½ M., narrow-gauge railway in 1¼ hr. The line runs through the Teisnach-Thal. 2½ M. Ruhmannsfelden (Post), a large and prettily situated village; 4½ M. Petersdorf; 6 M. Teis-nach (Ettl), at the confluence of the Teisnach with the Schwarze Regen (hence to Bodenmais 11/2 hr.). The train now follows the valley of the latter stream, passing Böbrach, Gumpenried, and (11 M.) Schönau. — 151/2 M. Viechtach (1323 ft.; *Neue Post; Obermaier), a pleasant little town, the seat of the district authorities. To the S. rise the highest summits of the Pfahl (see below). An attractive excursion (from Schönau 1/2 hr., from Viechtach via Blossersberg and Bärndorf 1½ hr.) may be made to the ruin of Neu-Nussberg (2276 ft.), the tower of which commands a fine view (Inn). To the S. we may go to (1¼ hr.) Kollnburg (Brewery), with a picturesque ruined castle, now used as a church; and thence we may proceed through fine woods, passing Markbuchen on the Predigtstuhl (p. 245), to (2½ hrs.) the forester's house of Oedwies and the Hirschenstein (p. 245). — A pleasant road leads to the N.W. from Viechtach to Pirka, Lammerbach, Wettzell (Inn), and (9 M.) Kötzting (p. 235).

1131/2 M. Triefenried (2120 ft.). The line skirts the forestclad hills of the Teufelstisch (see below), crosses the Ohebach by means of a lofty viaduct, and descends on the left bank of the Schwarze Regen to (1181/2 M.) stat. Regen (1770 ft.), opposite the small town of that name (Post; Oswald; pop. 2200). Diligence daily in 21/4 hrs. to Bodenmais, see p. 247.

To the S.E. (3/4 hr.) rises Weissenstein am Pfahl (2474 ft.), a ruined castle on a jagged quartz rock, with a restored tower commanding a fine view (custodian to the left of the entrance). — The Pfahi is a broad seam of quartz and hornblende running from S.E. to N.W. for a distance of 60 M; it may be conveniently examined in the railway-cutting near the bridge over the Ohe.

From the pleasantly situated village of Bischofsmais (2182 ft.; Eder's Brauhaus), 4½ M. to the S. of Regen, attractive excursions may be made to (3/4 hr.) Ober-Breitenau (3490 ft.), the (3/4 hr.) Teufelstisch (2960 ft.), and other points. From Bischofsmais to the Rusel (p. 245) 1½ hr., to Deggendorf

(p. 244) 4 hrs.

The train crosses the Regen, recrosses it near Schweinhütt by means of a bridge with a span of 236 ft., and regains the right bank at the Poschinger Saw Mill near Zwiesel.

125 M. Zwiesel (2135 ft.; Post, well spoken of; Deutscher Rhein, R. 1-11/2 M; Bayrischer Wald), a pleasant little town with 3500 inhab., in a broad basin at the confluence of the Kleine and Grosse Regen, is a good starting-point for excursions in the Bavarian Forest. but lacks shade and is at a considerable distance from the woods. Near it are the glass-works of Theresienthal, Ludwigsthal, Ober-Zwieselau, Ober-Frauenau, and Buchenau, and numerous saw-mills.

The Zwieselberg (2250 ft.), a hill strewn with blocks of granite, 1/2 hr.

to the S., affords a good survey of the environs.

FROM ZWIESEL TO GRAFENAU, 191/2 M., narrow-gauge railway in 2 hrs. The line sweeps round the town. 31/2 M. Zwieselau; 51/2 M. Frauenau, the station for Unter-Frauenau (two inns) and for Ober-Frauenau (2358 ft.; 1 M. to the N.E.), the latter with the imposing château of Herr von Poschinger. - Farther on we ascend rapidly through the narrow wooded valley to (10 M.) Klingenbrunn, the station of which lies 3 M. to the N.W. of the village (2693 ft.; Stangt). The Ludwigsstein (2900 ft.), \(^{1}/_{4}\) hr. to the W. of the village, is a good point of view. Ascent of the Rachel from the station, see below. — The train next descends to (12 M.) Spiegelau (Inn, poor; ascent of the Rachel, see p. 247) and then runs high on the left side of the narrow gorge of the brawling Grosse Ohe to (15 M.) Grosses (1401/₄) M.) Armschlag and $(19^{1/2} \text{ M.})$ Grafenau (2004 ft.; Meindl; Dresely's Brewery; Stangl). The line is to be continued from this point to (5 M.) Hohenau (p. 241) and (5 M.) Freyung (p. 241). Near Grafenau are the Bürnsteinerleite, the narrow wooded ravine of the Kleine Ohe, and the ruin of Bärnstein (garden-restaurant). Roads lead from Grafenau to (31/2 M.) St. Oswald (see below) on the N., and to Tittling and (26 M.) Passau on the S.

The *Rachel (4770 ft.) is best ascended either from Klingenbrunn (p. 246; path marked with blue; 2½ hrs.) or from Spiegelau (along the Schwarzach; 3 hrs.). The barren summit (refuge-hut; no rfmts.), strewn with blocks of granite, commands a splendid view of the Bohemian Forest and the plain of the Danube, extending in clear weather to the distant Alps. On the S.E. side lies the dark forest-girt *Rachelsee, 1250 ft. below. It may be reached from the top in 3/4 hr. (path indicated by blue marks); and we may then, passing the forester's hut (rimts.), go by Guglod and Siebenellen to (3 hrs.) St. Oswald (see below). Or from the Rachel we may follow the frontier-line to the E. (black marks; but as this route is monotonous, it is better to follow the white marks, running on the hillside above the lake and past the chapel, and to descend to the right through the wood and cross the Zwölferlinie, about 5 hrs. in all) to the (41/2 hrs.) Lusen (4494 ft.), the granite-strewn summit of which also commands a superb view. Descent by the Waldhäuser (3028 ft.; Inn) to (2 hrs.) St. Oswald (2695 ft.; *Schreiner's Bräuhaus), once a monastery, beautifully situated ('View from the gloriette'), whence we may proceed by Reichenberg to (1 hr.) Spiegelau (p. 246). — The little town of Grafenau (p. 246) lies about 41/2 M. to the S.W. of St. Oswald.

A good road leads to the N.W. from Zwiesel to Klautzenbach and (21/4 M.) Rabenstein (2248 ft.; "Villa Rabenstein, D. 11/4, pens. 3-4 M., prettily situated), and thence through splendid timber, past a quarry with a small subterranean lake (beautiful rose-coloured quartz) and vià Schöneben to (8 M.) Bodenmais (2220 ft.; "Post; Dresely's Bräuhaus, with rooms), pleasantly situated on a hill. (A pleasanter but longer route leads from Rabenstein to Bodenmais vià the Hühnerkobel, 3110 ft., a hill affording a splendid view of the Arber, Zwiesel, and Rachel.) Opposite Bodenmais rises the red Silberberg, composed of a kind of slag, with its indented peak called the Bischofshaube ('mitre'; 3136 ft.). Vitriol and red polishing powder are made from the ore obtained here. Rare minerals are also found (good collection at the overseer's house). Diligence to Regen, see p. 246.

The *Arber (4780 ft.), the 'King of the Forest', is easily ascended from Bodenmais in 21/2-3 hrs. (guide, unnecessary, 4 M; to the Arber and Sommerau 6 M). The path leads through the Riesloch, a pretty ravine with small waterfalls. (Attractive digression of 1/2 hr. from the upper end of this gorge to the Rechensidenfelsen, with pretty views of the valley and of Bodenmais.) On the bare rock-strewn summit of the Arber stand a chapel and the Arber-Schutzhaus (Inn, 13 mattresses in 3 rooms, 1 M, clean). A peregrination of the summit-plateau takes about 3/4 hr. Superb view of a great part of Bohemia to the E., the Fichtelgebirge to the W., and in clear weather the Alps to the S. On the E. side, far below, lies the sombre Grosse Arbersee (3064 ft.; rfmts., dear), surrounded with wood. Descent to the frontier-station Eisenstein (see p. 248) either past the lake and through the Seebachwald and Bayrisch-Eisenstein in 2 hrs., or by the ruined Oberthurnhof (good water), the Brennex-Sattel, and Bayrisch-Eisenstein in 3 hrs.

The excursion to the Arber may be agreeably extended thus. From the (8/4 hr.) Oberthurnhof (see above) we cross the Brennes-Sattel (where the path from Eisenstein comes in on the right) to (11/4 hr.) Sommerau (2200 ft.; Brewery) on the Weisse Regen, and thence go to the right (poor path) to (1/2 hr.) Lohberg (2125 ft.; "Kellermayer), a village with a richly decorated Romanesque church, a good centre for excursions (over the Scheiben-Sattel to Eisenstein, 3 hrs., see p. 248). From Lohberg a road (one-horse carr. to Lam 4 M. incl. fee) leads along the base of the Osser (see below) to (81/2 M.) Lam (1896 ft.; Post, poor), a large village prettily situated on the Weisse Regen, the valley of which ('Lamer Winkel') seems to be closed by the Hohe Bogen (p. 236); thence on foot (with guide) across the Scharreben (3470 ft.), through beautiful woods, back to (41/2 hrs.) Bodenmais. — Railway from Lam to Kötzting and Cham (21/4 hrs.), see p. 235 places, ascends in 2 hrs. to the saddle between the Little or Bavarian Osser (4075 ft.) on the left, and the Great or Bohemian Osser (4210 ft.) on the right. The top of either is reached in 10 minutes. The Great Osser (strewn with granite-blocks; open refuge-hut) commands a fine view of the Arber chain; the Little Osser, a good view of the Lam, etc. From the saddle we next follow the bridle-path (direction-boards) to the E. to the (1/2 hr.) Gütelplatz (3120 ft.), whither also a route leads direct in 11/2 hr. from Lohberg, diverging from the Osser route to the right (guide-post 'Zum Schwarzen See'), and crossing the Sesselplatz (3696 ft.). Then through wood (below, to the left, the glass-work Müllerhütte) either direct to the Seewand (see below) or (better) to the (11/2 hr.) Schwarze See (3310 ft.; also called Bistritzer or Böhmische See), 90 acres in area, in a grand solitude. The open pavilion (no rfmts.) on the lake belongs to Prince Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, who also caused the bridle-path from the Osser to be constructed. From the end of the lake we ascend to the right and follow a path soon diverging to the right to the Seewand (4406 ft.; view limited; more extensive from the Zvergeck, 10 min. to the N.W.), whence we descend through the Pichelbach-Thal to (11/4 hr.) Eisenstein. Or we may turn to the left at the end of the Schwarze See, cross the watershed between the Elbe and the Danube, and skirt the (1 hr.) gloomy Teufels-See or Girglsee (3380 ft.); then, passing Stiegelruck and Berghaus, we descend lastly to Markt Eisenstein or to the glass-works of Elisenthal (Hotel, with baths) and the (11/4 hr.) railway-station of Eisenstein. Or, thirdly, from the end of the lake, we may go to the left to the (1/2 hr.) Seeförster (Inn, high charges), and then cross the Spitzberg-Sattel (3300 ft.; Hot.-Pens. Rixi, Pens. Prokop, both Bohemian; fine view) to the (1½ hr.) station of Spitzberg (see below), ¼ hr. by train from Eisenstein.]

Above Zwiesel the train again crosses the Regen, and then the Kolbersbach by a lofty viaduct. 128 M. Ludwigsthal (2163 ft.), with glass-works. The line ascends the left bank of the Regen, running parallel with the road to Bohemia and passing many glass and smelting houses, and reaches the Bavarian and Bohemian frontier-station (133 M.) Eisenstein (2365 ft.; *Rail. Restaurant, R. 1 fl.), where we have a fine view of the Arber to the W. (see above).

To the W. lies the village of (\(^1/2\) M.\) Bayrisch-Eisenstein (2398 ft.; Bräuhaus, with garden, but no beds; *Oberst, rustic). To the N., beyond Elisenthal (see above), is the Bohemian Markt-Eisenstein (2540 ft.; Osser, with garden; Posl; Arber; Böhmervald), prettily situated at the confluence of the Regen and the Eisenbach, with a fine view of the Arber. It is a station on the railway to Pilsen and is frequented as a summer-resort, affording opportunity for many agreeable excursions. — To the (\(^1/2\) hr.\) Grosse Tanne (a fir 6½ ft. in diameter), with descent to the (\(^1/2\) hr.\) rail. station. — To the (\(^1/4\) hr.\) Zwieseler Waldhaus (2283 ft.; *Inn; to Zwiesel 2 hrs.\), and thence either to (\(^1/2\) hr.\) the summit of the Grosse Falkenstein (\(^43\)16 ft.\), or through fine wood viā the Hochberg to the (\(^1/2\) hr.\) frontier rail. station, or to (\(^1/4\) hr.\) Ludwigsthal (see above). — To the (\(^1/2\) hr.\) Bodenmais or (\(^1/2\) hr.\) Arber, with descent to (\(^1/2\) hr.\) Bodenmais or (\(^1/2\) hr.\) bodenmais or (\(^21\) hr.\) see above); or we may ascend the Osser (\(^1/2\) hr.; see above; from Hammern-Eisenstrass. — Ascent of the Seewand (\(^21/2\) hrs.\), see above; over the Scheühen to (\(^3\) hrs.\) Lobberg (p. 247).
